Moldboard Plows have never been used on the 240-acre farm operated by Jack Carlson, a cooperator in the Beltrami county soil conservation district. Since he first came to the farm in 1941, Carlson has done all tillage work with either a field cultivator or a disc. Morris Blackburn, U. S. soil conservationist, reports that Carlson's fields have topsoil layers 9 inches deep. The soil has unusually good structure for forest soils. It has "come alive" as a result of putting all crop residues back into the soil.

Eroded, Hilly land have been turned into productive farm fields on the 480-acre farm of the Grothe Brothers, Benson, Minn., who were recently named "Conservation Farmers of the Year" in Swift county. Agricultural agent J. L. Edman reports that the Grothe Brothers contoured much of the land, increased grass and legumes, improved their crop rotation and planted trees on untillable hillsides. Result: less erosion, increased grain and forage yields. They also established a wildlife area, including a slough, which is ideal for upland game birds and ducks.

Topsoil and Rainfall need to be kept on the hillsides to get high corn yields. That statement comes from Walter Nelson, cooperator with the Kandiyohi county soil conservation district. He saves soil and moisture with contour strips. He topped the Minnesota X-Tra Corn Contest in 1954 with a yield of 179.5 bushels.

Tony Dorn Leads Trap Club in Markmanship

Erling Torgerson, secretary-treasurer of the Thief River trap club, and the league statistician, acting in preparation for the annual banquet and dinner to be held on Thursday, April 17th, has compiled the season averages of the shooters who participated in the league matches last season.

Tony Dorn, captain of the Pharmacy team, won the high-average honors with a mark of 22.8. Tony competed in all ten of the matches that the Pharmacy team had on its schedule. An indication of Dorn's continued improvement as a trap shooter is given by the comparison of his averages for the past three years. In 1954, Tony had a 17.9 average; in 1955, he shot at an 18.0 and in 1956, he marked up a 22.1.

As runner-up to Dorn was Warren's Gordon Olen who, in competing with the Oen's Appliance team, busted the clays at a 22.4 clip in eight league shoots.

In team averages, and only including shooters who participated in five or more of their team's matches, the high-scoring Wilson Bros., with a 105.9 total, or an average of 21.2, won first place. The Wilson Bros. "top five" compiled the following averages: Stan Wilson, 21.0; Sandy Wilson, 21.7; Roy Peterson, 21.6; Al Tonder, 19.9; and El Schantzen, 21.0.

The roll-call of the Thief River Trap shoot league's high-average shooters, participating in four or more league matches, is as follows:

Letter Carriers to Meet April 26

Arrange Annual Spring Meeting at Beltrami

Odin S. Langen, state representative from Kittson County, will speak on "Effects of the Highway Users Amendment on Rural Areas," at the spring meeting of the Ninth District Rural Letter Carriers association to be held at Beltrami on Saturday evening, April 26.

A large attendance is anticipated to honor State President Helmer Nornes, of Beltrami, who is completing his 2nd year as president of the Association and also completing his 7th year on the state board. Other state officers expected to attend are Gordon Blume, Verndale, Vice Pres., and Harley Karvonen, Sec.

Ninth district officers include: Ray E. Garden, Gary, president; Leon Bischel, Thief River Falls, vice pres., and Reynold Erickson, Fertile, sec.-treas.

The meeting will get under way with a banquet served at 6 p.m. in the Trinity Lutheran church and will be followed by business sessions of the carrier's group and ladies auxiliary in the Beltrami school.

Movie on Fishing Viewed by Lions

Members of the Lions club at their luncheon meeting Wednesday viewed a motion picture showing the catching of fish off the Florida coast for the Marineland aquarium in that state. Raymond Johnson presented the film, with Ivan Bundy operating the projector.

Water Sports Club to Meet Tuesday

To Plan for Boat Dock at Local Boy Scout Park

Plans for building a boat dock at Boy Scout park will be discussed at the regular meeting of the Thief River Water Sports club to be held Tuesday, April 8, at 8 p. m. in the Armory.

Other items on the program include discussion of a water safety program for the local rivers. A film on water safety will also be shown. The meeting will conclude with the serving of lunch.

Any persons desiring to become members of the club are invited to attend the meeting, said M. A. Magnuson, secretary.

Spring Chicken Is Plentiful in April

Other Foods Also Are in Good Supply This Month

When you plan April menus, you'll be wise to include foods in plentiful supply during the month, particularly if you must keep an eye on the budget, according to Mrs. Eleanor Loomis, extension consumer marketing agent at the University of Minnesota.

Broilers and fryers and dried prunes are at the top of the U.S Department of Agriculture's list of plentiful foods for April.

Because broilers and fryers are in heavy supply the country over and reasonably priced, spring chicken deserves a place of honor on the family platter during April. Though frying is the most common way of cooking these young, tender birds, many homemakers are going in for easy oven barbecues for variety, Mrs. Lommis says.

California has produced large crops of prunes the past two summers, with the result that this fruit is in record supply. Modern dried prunes are tender enough to eat raw Mrs. Loomis points out, but raw or cooked, they make a nutritious snack.

Canned pears will also be abundant this month. Supplies are even larger than they were a year ago.

Two favorite vegetables—canned and frozen green peas and sweet corn—continue to be plentiful and good buys. Watch for weekend specials on these vegetables at your local markets.

Plenty of honey is available this month for sweetening pancakes, waffles and French toast and for use in baking cakes and cookies.

Generous supplies of milk and dairy products are assured for April as milk production rises seasonally.

Peanut butter is another welcome plentiful for April.

Winners Listed in Cookie Event

Blooming Prairie Woman Awarded Championship

A Blooming Prairie homemaker, Mrs. S. C. Blockhus, is Minnesota's champion butter cookie baker for 1958.

Judges today announced that Mrs. Blockhus' "White Rolled Cookies" were tops in a field of more than 800 entries in the sixth annual Butter Cookie Contest sponsored by the Minnesota Dairy Industry Committee and the Minnesota Creamery Operators' and Managers' association.

Runner-up was Mrs. C. C. Bate, 1212 Raymond Avenue, St. Paul, with "Butter Oatmeal Cookies." Third place was won by Mrs. Elvin Holmberg, Pennock, Minnesota, with "Finska Kakor," Finnish butter cookies.

Mrs. Olive Lindstrom, 6701 Chicago Avenue, Minneapolis, won the special Princess Kay of the Milky Way Cookies Award, and Mrs. A. E. Johnson, Route 2, Dassel, Minnesota won the Creamery Operators' and Managers' association first prize. Second prize went to Mrs. Joe Steinke, 201 East St. Mary's Street, Sleepy Eye, Minnesota.

Mrs. Blockhus' recipe includes one cup sugar, one cup butter, 2 eggs, 3 tbsp. sour milk or cream, 1 tsp. soda, 3 cups flour, ½ tsp. salt, 1 tsp vanilla or any flavoring. Cream shortening and sugar, add beaten eggs. Mix soda in milk and add, then flour and flavoring. Roll and bake.

S3c RICHARD SEVERSON IN AIRBORNE MANEUVER

Specialist Third Class Richard E. Severson, son of Mr and Mrs. Elmer Severson, Thief River Falls, is scheduled to participate in "Exercise Eagle Wing", a 101st Airborne Division maneuver at Fort Campbell, Ky., April 16-30.

The maneuver, which will involve more than 15,000 paratroopers, is designed to test the effectiveness of the division under simulated combat conditions.

Severson, a chaplain's assistant in Headquarters Company of the division's 187th Infantry, entered the Army in September 1955.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Like Old Home Week

We were fortunate enough to be in attendance at the Winnipeg Arena on Tuesday night when the Winnipeg Maroons, by defeating the Red Deer, Alberta, Club, 9 to 2, closed out their quarter-finals Allen Cup senior hockey series.

The Maroons, winning the best-of-five series by a three games to one margin, will now enter the Western Canada finals. The best-of-seven series, against the Kelowna Packers, will be played in British Columbia, and the Maroons left Winnipeg on Saturday for the series which will commence on April 7th, tonight.

It was like "old home week" to see the Maroons perform, for the team, coached by Bill Robinson, had such familiar names on the club roster as Bill Juzda, Gordy Simpson, Murray Balagus, Chuck Lumsden, Sheldon Bloomer, Tom Rockey, Lou Joyal, Fred Dunsmore, and Murray Couch. These players, at one time or other, played with teams in the Northwest hockey league as "imports".

Juzda, Balagus, Bloomer, Lumsden, and Marshall played with the local Thieves some years ago. Juzda, who maintains that this is his last season as an active player, forwarded greetings to his many fans down here. Bill reported that he is in excellent physical shape, being trimmed down to a slim 215 pounds. We can assure Bill's fans, though, that at 215 pounds Juzda doesn't appear haggard or anemic.

It was interesting, too, to watch the players of the younger, and lighter, Red Deer, Alberta, team, for in their lineup was none other than North Dakota's former All-American hockey star, Bill Reichart. Reichart, before going on to college fame for the Sioux, played with the Crookston Pirates of the States-Dominion league. In Tuesday night's tilt, Reichart didn't show to advantage against the more experienced Maroons. Only two or three times was Cowboy Bill able to get off his spectacular "slap shot", and Sugar Jim Henry, in the nets for the Maroons, handled the chances with ease.

Incidentally, it is worth the trip to Winnipeg to see and examine the new Arena for the facilities that are provided are strictly "big league".

We Have Been Informed

Last week we had an item to the effect that Joey Poole would be lost to the baseball Thieves this season, explaining that the popular redhead would be working in Grand Forks, and perhaps playing ball with Bob May's club.

This week we have been informed by Wayne Paul Gothe that Joey, although he will be employed in Grand Forks, will be able to play Sunday ball with the Thieves. That information must be classified as good news for the local fans.

Now that the Bemidji Chiefs have entered the Northern Minny league, the Thieves are in need of all the basball strength that can be mustered. With Wayne Gothe returning to town, and being employed here, the local club should be able to field a versatile and capable infield, having such infield candidates as Glenn Carlson, Frank Gunderson, Poole, Gothe, and perhaps Curly Gasperlin. They would provide "good field, good hit", but we are somewhat skeptical about their "good speed".

Memo

Local sports fans should make a note to set aside the evening of Wednesday, April 23rd, for that's the night when the annual athletic banquet will be held.

The banquet, which has been an annual event for the past ten years or so, will be held this year at the St. Bernard's church parlors. Bob May, the North Dakota Sioux hockey coach, will be the featured speaker.

Query

We can understand how our Canadian friends can term "French fried potatoes" as "chips". That figures. But we are surely puzzled as to how they can label ground-meat patties as "nips". Nips and chips to a Canadian, and on a Canadian menu, means hamburger and french fries.

Opera Coming to Mill City in May

Metropolitan Opera to Stage 4 Operas May 16-18

Dimitri Mitropoulos will conduct two operas this season when the Metropolitan Opera arrives in May for its annual spring season performances in Northrop Memorial Auditorium, Minneapolis. The return of the former conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra was announced today as the mail order sale of opera tickets was opened by James S. Lombard and Boris Sokoloff, co-managers.

Mitropoulos will conduct "Eugene Onegin" May 16, and "Madama Butterfly" May 17, the two new productions of the Metropolitan to be featured on this year's Upper Midwest visit.

The new production of Puccini's "Madam Butterfly" has been designed and staged by a trio of outstanding Japanese artists especially brought to the United States for this work. Their highly acclaimed production replaces the traditional designed by Joseph Urban used at the "Met" since 1922.

In addition to "Onegin" and "Butterfly," Upper Midwest opera-lovers will see and hear Richard Strauss' "Der Rosenkavalier," Saturday afternoon, May 17 and "Samson et Dalila" by Camille Saint-Saens Sunday afternoon, May 18.

The season is again sponsored by the University of Minnesota, the Minnesota Orchestral Association, and an Upper Midwest Committee of Opera Sponsors and Guarantors.

Over-the-counter sale of tickets will not start until May 5. In view of the unprecedented demand for tickets and the rapid sell-out last season, patrons are urged to place their orders by mail as early as possible. Ticket orders should be sent to the opera ticket office, 106 Northrop Memorial Auditorium, Minneapolis 14.

On April 4, 1776, the U. S. Navy made its first capture of an enemy ship when the USS Columbus captured the British tender Hawk, while returning from a raid on New Providence, in the Bahamas.

Farmers' Income Is Down, Survey Shows

For the first time a representative sample of farmers in the state is being used as the basis for a description of Minnesota agriculture and a detailed comparison between what farmers and nonfarmers earn. It is based on income tax returns filed with Minnesota's department of taxation in 1954 and 1955.

The average net money income of farm families from all sources is less than one-half the $1,300 a year the average nonfarmer earns in Minnesota, according to the tax figures studied.

The analysis is being made by Governor Freeman's study commission on agriculture, headed by Dr. Willard W. Cochrane of the University of Minnesota's department of agricultural economics.

The preliminary findings of the Governor's study commission reveal that:

1. The average real income of all persons in Minnesota increased steadily and continuously from 1939 through 1956. Per-capita net income, however, is still lower than for the nation.

2. Farm income in Minnesota increased rapidly from 1939 to 1948, and was approaching the level of nonfarm income until 1948. After 1951, however, farm income declined steadily, while nonfarm income continued to increase.

On the basis of the 1955 state income tax analysis, the average returns in Minnesota were as follows:

Minnesota farmers had an average income of $2,040 a year.

The average nonfarm income was $4,300. Within this category, property owners averaged $4,700; small business operators averaged $5,280, and salary and wage-earners averaged $4,150 a year.

This use of the state income tax data is believed to be the first time that such valuable information has been made available for research purposes. The farm analysis is based on a sample of 2,100 tax returns from the office of Joseph M. Robertson, commissioner of taxation.

Care was taken in making these selections to preserve complete anonymity. To make certain no individual's personal return would be traceable, the tax commissioner's office eliminated any evidence that would make the data identifiable with any individual's return.

LOL Market Day Drew Big Crowd

The local Land O' Lakes plant was crowded with patrons and visitors last Thursday on the occasion of its annual market day, Stuart McLeod, manager, stated today. He added that 3,500 plates of pancakes were served, in addition to 15 gallons of ice cream and 30 gallons of coffee.

61 Floats to Enter State Centennial Parade in St. Paul

67 Musical Groups and 100 Other Units to Share in 'Parade of Century'

Sixty-one floats have been accepted for entry in the Minnesota Centennial "Parade of the Century" in St. Paul May 10.

Ray P. Speer, parade director, said the floats will be supplemented by 67 musical units and 100 or more "historic and specialty" units and delegations from other nations.

Speer said float entries from 33 counties outside Hennepin and Ramsey counties including Polk and Becker in this area; six from cities outside Minneapolis-St. Paul, including Detroit Lakes, and 15 from the Twin Cities have been accepted along with seven from special groups.

The Centennial parade will start at 2 p.m., Saturday, May 10, four blocks north of University Avenue and will proceed on Snelling Avenue to the state fairgrounds. The entire state fair grandstand, including bleachers, has been reserved at $1.25 per seat.

County Centennial committees and other organizations outside the Twin Cities have first chance to buy blocs of grandstand seats through Field Schlick Ticket Office, St. Paul, in advance of public sale which opens April 14.

No ticket orders will be handled through the State Centennial offices.

FEDERAL RESERVE HAS MANY DUTIES

Federal Reserve Bank in Minneapolis, recently more than doubled in operating space, hung up several imposing volume records in 1957. For instance, they counted 148,681,011 coins worth $15,652,000, and wrapped 124 million of them to a value of more than $10 million. They counted 78,564,154 pieces of currency worth nearly $471 million, and retired nearly $37 million worth as unfit for circulation. They handled more than 102 million checks with a face value of more than $32 billion. They clipped 368,691 coupons from securities held for member banks, and paid on nearly 300,00 government coupons. All with 7 fewer employees than in 1956, when the Federal Reserve personal was up to 687; last year it was 680.

N.W. School Starts Building Projects

The general contractor moved on the Northwest School of Agriculture, Crookston, campus on Monday, March 31, to begin work on the rehabilitation of the Robertson Hall dormitory and, also, on the new classroom building.

The Robertson Hall dormitory will be completely rehabilitated with a new concrete floor slab poured on the first floor together with new stairways, completely new bathrooms, and each room will be reworked to include built-in wardrobes and study desks. New windows and window casings will be provided, all of the plaster will be knocked off and replastered, and the counselor's apartment area will be completely redone. This adds up to practically a new dormitory building.

The new classroom building is planned to replace the old Hill building and will be located between Selvig Hall and the existing Hill building. The new building will contain seven classrooms, three generous laboratory spaces, storage space, and office space for the teaching staff as well as for the experiment station agronomist and for the experiment station horticulturist.

According to Superintendent Youngquist, Robertson Hall will be ready for occupancy by October 1, 1958 and the new classroom building will go into commission sometime during the year of 1959.

A new $12,009 seed storage building has been built from funds provided by the 1957 Legislature. Plans for the new hog house are about complete and construction will get under way within a couple of months. The plans for rehabilitating certain staff houses and for the building of the beef pole barn and the turkey pole barn as well as the horticultural tool house are in the process of being prepared.

This adds up to considerable building activity at the Northwest School and Experiment Station for the next fourteen to eighteen months.

Farm Fires Cost $1,500,000 in '57

10 State Farm Residents Lost Lives During Year

More than a million and a half dollars' worth of Minnesota farm property went up in flames in 1957, according to Glenn Prickett, extension farm safety specialist at the University of Minnesota.

Ten people died as a result of farm fires during the year.

Prickett bases this information on recent reports from the state fire marshal's office and from the Minnesota department of health.

There were 128 barns, 95 homes, 24 poultry houses and 13 granaries reported damaged or destroyed in 1957. Other major fires in the report included 9 machine shops and sheds, 7 garages and 43 miscellaneous machinery and crops fires.

The three most common causes of these fires, in order of importance, were: defective and misused electrical equipment; defective, overheated and exploding heating units; sparks from chimneys, motors and welders.

Other causes of farm fires reported were rubbish fires, lightning, careless smoking and match handling, spontaneou combustion and defective chimneys.

Farm fire losses accounted for about 10 percent of the property loss from all fires in Minnesota during 1957, the fire marshal's report shows.

Forestry Unit Backs Fish Spearing Drive

The statewide "crackdown" on illegal fish spearing ordered last week by game and fish director James W. Kimball, received a big boost today. Forestry Director E. L. Lawson announced, "that forestry personnel stationed around the state were joining the game wardens and their deputies in an all out fight to stop illegal spearing".

"Plans have been worked out for a cooperative campaign against spearing", explained Lawson, "involving the use of our men wherever there is a need for them. Staffs from both divisions have been working out the details of a statewide plan that will permit 150 forestry personnel to carry on law enforcement activities during the fish runs".

"Director Kimball and I are in full agreement on this", said Lawson, "and we in forestry are happy to lend assistance wherever we can".

Lack of rain, coupled with little or no run-off, has posed serious problems for both divisions. The woods and fields are tinder dry and a constant alert for serious fires must be maintained. This requires forestry personnel to be on their toes round the clock ready to cope with any emergency.

On the other hand, lack of water will drastically reduce spawning opportunities for northern pike. It is important that such spawning as does occur should not be interfered with by poachers. Spearers who take pike this spring will be robbing sportsmen of future angling enjoyment.

Meanwhile, as foresters around the state stepped into the drive against spearing, Chief Warden Francis Johnson announced that his force of 145 men, augmented by division deputies had begun their long vigils at spawning sites. Patrol planes search the more remote and harder to reach areas, reporting suspicious activities to ground forces by radio.

Cattle Feeder Day at N.W. School Set

Annual Event Slated at Crookston Friday, Apr. 18

Cattle Feeders Day will be held at the Northwest School and Experiment Station, Crookston, on Friday, April 18, beginning at 1:30 p.m. in the livestock pavilion of the new animal products building. All beef cattle feeders are invited to attend.

R. E. Jacobs from the University of Minnesota agricultural extension staff, Dr. A. L. Harvey of the University of Minnesota animal husbandry department, and Carl Ash, county agricultural agent from West Polk County will speak at the afternoon program.

The results of the 1956-57 cattle feeding trials at the experiment station will be presented by D. Reimer, who has just completed running 32 head of feeders through a very successful feeding year.

After the afternoon's program has been completed, a tour of the feed lots will be conducted by the experiment station personnel.

Daylight Saving Ends September 2

Freeman Denies Request for Extension of Time

Gov. Freeman Wednesday sidetracked a request by the Minneapolis city council to lengthen daylight saving time in Minnesota another month.

Replying to a request that fast time be extended to October, Freeman said his decision to run it from April 27 to Sept. 2 is final.

Freeman said he is sure the council will be "sympathetic to the many country children who, with longer extension of daylight saving time into fall, would be forced to get up in the dark and wait, with some hazard, for school buses before sun up."

He added the Minneapolis council undoubtedly shared his view that "it is seldom good judgement to force upon Minnesota citizens something they find extremely disagreeable.

"If the people of our metropolitan areas should force upon rural Minnesota a maximum daylight saving period regardless of the strong feeling of our rural friends, it will in my judgment seriously undermine any chance to continue daylight saving time after this year."

The 1957 legislature authorized daylight saving time for a two-year period. It will be up to the 1959 legislature to extend it.

Retain Income Tax Records, District Director Advises

Tells Taxpayers They Should Keep Records for at Least 3 Years

A reminder to federal income taxpayers to retain their copies of returns filed during the current tax season was issued today by District Director A. R. Knox of the St. Paul office of the internal revenue service. Records of income and expense used in preparation of the return also should be kept, he said.

"Tax forms and records must be preserved for at least three years from the deadline date, April 15, in case any question concerning a return should arise," Mr. Knox said.

Beyond this requirement, however, taxpayers should find that retention of their copies of returns should help them in filing next year, especially if there is little or no change in their financial status. In addition, the Revenue Service suggests that records of 1958 expenditures—cancelled checks, receipts, notations of contributions, sales taxes and other levies, interest payments and other deductible items—be retained with the return copy for ready reference in computing 1958 Federal and state returns.

Knox pointed out that district and local offices of the internal revenue service are glad to provide information throughout the year, preferably by telephone but on a visit to an office if required.

"All we ask is that the taxpayer have the facts and figures relating to his problem correctly in mind," Mr. Knox stated.

Editorials . . .

"We live confusedly and from hand to mouth. Conscience is the straight line, life is the whirlwind which creates over man's head either black chaos or blue sky. Fate does not practice the art of gradations. Her wheel turns sometimes so fast that we can scarcely distinguish the interval between one revolution and another, or the link between yesterday and today."

A Sound Approach

Charles Hill, Dean of the Junior college at Rochester, Minnesota, pointed the way to a sound development of a system of higher education for our public schools in an appearance before the legislative commission on higher education last week. The University, he thought, should be developed as a professional and graduate school, and the first two years of public school higher education should be provided at junior colleges to be established where needed.

Dean Hill proposed 15 districts thruout the state, and eight or ten of these, he suggested, should be in the Twin Cities area. He justified such a distribution by the statement that the Twin Cities, with one-third of the state's population, provide two-thirds of the students attending the University. He objected to making the University larger than it is now and said, "If the legislature is willing to appropriate 100 to 110 million dollars for a lower level college for the University across the river, it ought to be willing to provide 50 to 75 million dollars for capital outlay for 10 to 15 additional regional junior colleges."

As suggested by Dean Hill the expansion program should come gradually, building up for a peak need by the year 1970. And by moving slowly it is likely that the number of costly mistakes would be reduced and that we would get more value for the dollars we would spend.

For being an educator the Rochester dean displayed a remarkably keen grasp of a practical problem.

Stupid Publicity

A Friday press release from Cape Canaveral, Florida, reveals that "a swept-wing Snark, most accurate and far-ranging U. S. missile weapon was fired, probably to a target 5,000 miles away."

The report then went on to boast that the Snark could get through any known defense system and that:

"It is capable of flying from free world bases to targets anywhere in Russia."

This appeals to us as being unpardonably stupid and short-sighted publicity. Just why it had to refer specifically to Russian targets is difficult for us to understand.

We know that kind of publicity is used by the Russians thruout Eurasia and Africa to prove that we intend to impose our will upon the people of the world by military might. They do not have to garble a report of that kind to serve their purpose. Our own military high command is doing an excellent job through its publicity releases of giving aid and comfort to the enemy.

Is it the desire of our high command to deliberately involve us in a war? Some of these press releases give us that impression.

New, Better Roads

Marshall county is getting ready to release a half a million dollar highway building program in which is including 48½ miles of bituminous surfacing, the first hard-top roads to be built by the county according to the Warren Sheaf. Ten of the hard-surfaced miles will extend eastward from Middle River, a big addition to the miles of good roads serving this area.

Under the new program of distributing a substantial portion of state revenue back to local units of government the progress in developing a network of hard-surfaced roads thruout the rural areas of the state should be greatly accelerated.

As a result of such a development of a primary system of rural roads there will be changes in the traffic patterns. The better roads will attract more traffic; feeder roads will become more important and parallel roads will be used less. Over a period of years, as some roads become relatively more important and others become relatively less important; for some there no longer will be sufficient need to justify their continuance.

The law providing for the distribution of highway fund monies could be improved by providing incentives for local units of government to abandon road mileage for which there no longer is a need.

Billboard Control

Congress passed a bill last week to encourage state control of billboards along the new federal interstate highway system. We are satisfied that the moderate provisions of this measure are in the public interest and will be accepted by most of the states as a reasonable approach to a difficult problem.

Newspapers generally have been reluctant about criticizing the abuses of roadside advertising because it is competitive and the criticism might be construed as a selfish point of view. Most of the advocates and users of billboard advertising however will admit that while there is a place for it, there also are places where it should not be permitted.

The federal act recognizes this fact, and in establishing controls the states should also keep this in mind. When the state does act on this question, consideration of the need for controls should not be limited to the new interstate system. The problem is general and to whatever extent the state is able to enforce reasonable controls they should be applied to all highways.

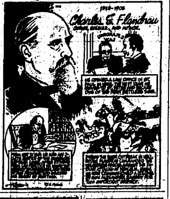
MAKERS OF MINNESOTA



REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

Minnesota may soon become a leader in making the fullest possible use of modern scientific and technological developments in the operation of our state government. In the past few years we have converted many old fashioned methods to more modern, machine operations. Now we have taken the first step toward putting all appropriate operations under one of the most advanced of the new "mechanical brains".

Careful Study

Last week I received the report of what has been called the "Feasibility Study", which was authorized by the last session of the Minnesota Legislature. This project was undertaken to study the feasibility, or practicability, of installing an electronic computer to handle as many of the state procedures as possible, where greater efficiency and economy would result. The study was made by expert management consultants, in cooperation with state officials and department heads.

Substantial Savings

The report considered what operations could profitably be handled by such an electronic computer as soon as it was installed. It concluded that eight major functions could be converted immediately, and that later other functions could be converted. The eight that would be initially converted represent about 80 percent of the state's load in processing information. Immediate savings on these eight functions would amount to about $600,000 per year!

Better Service

Among those that could be handled by the computer immediately are income tax collection and the collection and refunding of gasoline taxes. General state accounting and highway cost accounting would be included. The state payroll would be handled, and motor vehicle registration carried out by the computer. It would also gather and report welfare statistics, and make highway engineering computations.

Many of these operations now are carried out in part by machines, but on computor equipment it could be done at greater speed, with fewer errors, and much more economically. Thus service to the people could be carried out much more promptly and efficiently.

Fewer Employees

In these eight functions alone, the installation of a computer center would enable us to save by eliminating 274 full-time and 196 seasonal positions. It would not, however, be necessary to lay-off state employees, however, because most of the positions that would be eliminated are those in which there is now rapid turnover, and they involve positions that are now difficult to fill because of the lack of qualified applicants.

Probable savings have been carefully calculated, and would amount to about $600,000 per year. In less than a year these savings would more than pay for the initial cost of installing the computer program, estimated at about $400,000. And as more processes would be added to the work of the computor, more and more savings would result.

Legislative Action

The Legislature would have to act at its next session to put this program into effect, and I will certainly recommend such action. The business of the State of Minnesota is so large and so important that every possible step to operate that business more economically and more efficiently should be taken.

"I REMEMBER"
BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Mrs. M. S. Sweet, Onawa, Iowa: I remember Mother telling of her childhood life in Western Kansas in the 1880's. They lived in a dug-out between Herndon and Oberlin, Kansas. She had three miles to walk to school, and cut across the prairie on foot. She told of several occasions when a pack of coyotes followed her, staying quite a distance behind. If she ran, they would also run, but luckily, they always stayed about the same distance from her.

Their drinking water came from a dug well; and she told of getting typhoid fever and losing all of her blond hair. When it came back, it was a medium brown. She told of another instance of not being able to straighten her leg for a long time and getting around only by resting her knee on a chair seat, then pushing the chair in front of her. It sounds like the polio of today, and was probably caused by their living conditions.

She also told of the fierce prairie fires that raged out of control in the tall native grass. The women would also have to go out and help fight the fires. She told of her parents locking her in the dug-out while they fought the fires. She was safer there, because the fire would go right over her head and leave her unharmed.

While my mother is not alive to tell her own story, I thought I would send it in. We are so smug today in our everyday living that we often forget just what our ancestors had to go through to make this country a wonderful place for us to live in.

THIS WEEK
—In Washington
With Clinton Davidson

Every national depression or recession we have had has been preceded by a farm slump, and every sharp decline in farm income has been followed by a business decline and increased unemployment.

That is the way it happened in the 1920s, again in the 1930s, and in the late 1940s, to mention only the most recent. In Washington this week you can find many people who think it is happening again in the 1950s.

There are others who think this has been a pure coincidence; that there is not necessarily any connection; that it just happened that way. They scoff at arguments that depressions are "farm led and farm fed."

This is the sixth year of a farm price and income decline that began in 1952. Three years ago a farmer from Missouri, only recently elected to Congress, stood up on the floor of the House and made a speech.

The other day that farmer, Rep. George Christopher, reminded his colleagues of that speech. "I said at that time," he recalled, "that you could start a depression on the American farm but you could not keep it there; that it would break out and go to town; then it would go on to the cities.

"The only charge brought against the farmer is that perhaps he is doing his job 2 or 3 per cent too well. They say we are producing a surplus.

"Every big-city Congressman who comes to the floor of this House should get down on his knees every night before he goes to bed and thank God and the American farmer that we do produce a surplus.

"It guarantees that even though his folks in the city may get out of a job and have to live in breadlines and soup kitchens again, which God forbid, there will be bread in the breadlines and the soup in the soup kitchens will not be too thin.

"Now I come to another question. If we have done our job well and delivered to society and our Government what we owe to society and our Government, what does our Government and society owe to us?

"They owe us equality of purchasing power. It is not right that industry and labor and the professions should give a dollar's worth of goods and services and receive a dollar while we give a dollar's worth of food and fiber and receive only 80 cents.

"The farmer does not ask for a subsidy, he does not ask for a gift, he does not ask for Government coddling. All the farmer asks for—and all he has ever asked for—is that when he delivers a dollar's worth of food and fiber to the market they pay him a dollar for it and not 80 cents.

"Producing the food and fiber we need is the farmer's job. The American farmer is the most efficient in the world. In the past 10 years factory production per man-hour worked has increased 28.6 per cent, but farm production per man-hour has increased 83.8 per cent.

"This country produces $50 billion worth of raw materials each year. Of that amount about $20 billion comprises ores, coal, oil and gas, fish and forestry products, and $30 billion of it is in agricultural products.

"So, among other things, the American farmer produces $3 out of every $5 worth of raw materials produced in the United States—some job for 12 per cent of the population, I'd say."

British Columbia's lumber exports dropped to 845,789,790 feet in 1956, from 1,018,894,698 in 1955.

New rules

Increased blast furnace operating costs and availability of high grade iron ores from many sources have forced steel mills to set up new standards for "acceptable" iron ore. Most of Minnesota's remaining ores cannot meet those standards without costly treatment to improve them. Such improvement demands constant research . . . huge investments in plants. We need a business climate that will encourage this industry if Minnesota is to continue shipping iron ore that meets the new standards.

Only research and investment can keep Minnesota's iron ore future bright!

A TALE OF OLD SHOES
By Alice Wernheer

"HEELS, please," the lady said, putting a pair of worn brown shoes on the counter.

"Leather?" asked Fred.

"Leather," answered the lady.

Fred nodded, took the shoes and returned to his workbench.

For a heart throb or two, he sat still and looked out of the window. School was over, boys and girls filled the square, walking and running, swinging their cases with books.

Fred sat on his workbench, pressing the pair of old brown shoes against his heart, on the spot, where the pain was and the longing.

He looked at the last girl, who came running out of the building across the square, a dancing red dot against the gray of the houses and the blue of the sky. The skirt of the poppy red dress swirled around her brown knees, the pony-tail bounced like a wild little horse's mane.

"Will the shoes be ready soon?" the lady asked. She sat in the booth and wriggled her stockinged toes.

"No time at all," Fred replied.

Shoes—shoes—shoes—downtrodden, wornout shoes, begging for help. A hospital for ailing shoes, Fred thought. Not that he disliked shoes. He understood that his father wanted him to help with the business, because times were hard and he could not afford hired help. What else could he do than take Fred out of school and put him into the world of heels and soles, leather and rubber?

Personalities

No, he did not mind the shoes, Fred mused, one could come to like shoes and understand them if one lived with them eight hours a day. There were shoes that looked like gentlemen and ladies, slightly impoverished, perhaps, but still of a nobility. Others looked like tramps, shamelessly displaying their defects, a devil-may-care grin in the wrinkles of their never-polished leather. Some looked like dancehall-dandies, their heels all worn down from bee-pop and rock n'roll. I wonder, Fred thought, who is going to take Carol to the high school dance next Saturday—last year, it was I.

School days, school dreams, school love, Fred told himself. He lived in the somber and responsible world of shoes now, and could not be bothered with a poppy red dress over sunburned knees and a provocative pony tail.

"Here are your shoes," Fred said to the lady. "As good as new."

"Thank you," the lady said pleased "you are a very efficient young man."

Fred returned to his bench. "Let's start with the dancehall dandy shoes," the thought "may belong to some kid from high school—maybe the guy, who is going to take Carol."

There was the throbbing again, on the left side of his chest, just where the heart is beating.

"Hi, Fred," a voice said from the door.

"Carol," stammered Fred.

"Here are my slippers," Carol said, "the ones I wore at the last dance. Mom said, they are like new yet—only the heels are all crooked, because we danced the whole night through—remember, Fred?"

"Yes," Fred said, "I remember."

"You can fix them, though, can't you, Fred? We want to dance all night through again, don't we, Fred?"

"We—" Fred stammered, "you mean, you are not going with one of the boys from school?"

"Oh, the school boys—" Carol said disdainfully and wrinkled her little nose. "I would like to go with a business man like you, Fred. Will you take me?"

"Of course," Fred said and hoped the shoes would muffle the loud beating of his heart, "of course I'll take you, Carol. I am not at all hardboiled businessman yet."

ONLY A PAPER PROMISE
By Gil Uhrig

IT WAS Ma who saw it in the paper first. "August!" she howled, "Bertha's engaged."

"Who's she engaged to?" I asked, lazy like, thinkin' it was one of Ma's jokes.

"So you don't believe me." She handed me the paper and almost poked a hole through it, pointin' out the item on the society page—with Bertha's picture too.

"Bertha Sondheim," it read, "announces her engagement to the well known polo player and Wall Street tycoon, Watson Kilo Cycles."

I walked out of my tinkering shop and I walked straight down Church Street right past the office of the Weekly Call. I had a notion to go in and see exactly what was what about this piece in their paper but I rememberd that Ollie Moore was away on his vacation.

Maybe it was the real thing. That's what I had to find out. My Bertha always was a scatterbrain, always makin' up silly daydreams.

When I got to the grocery store where I expected to find her behind the counter—this was usually the time she sent her folks upstairs to eat—I had a story of my own all figured out.

"What's matter, Augie?" she asked me, innocent like.

"What goes on around here?" I asked. "Just when I was ready to elope with you and take you to South America with me!"

"Elope? South America?" I had her stopped for a minute there.

"Sure. I've had a very good offer to be the head electrician for a new development, a power development in fact, not far from Caracas."

"Gee!" she said.

"I hope you and Mr. Cycles are very happy."

"Yeah," she said, not looking straight at me. "I hope so too. Where's Caracas, Augie?"

"It's the capital of Venezuela, the fastest growing country in the whole Southern Hemisphere. We could have fun there, but—well, you'll be busy buying your trousseau and everything. Besides I gotta get home and pack. So long, Bertha. It's been nice." I started for the door.

"Augie," she called after me. "Wait. Are you really goin' to South America?"

"Sure. First thing Monday morning."

She bit her lower lip. "Wanta—want a take someone along?"

"Meanin' who?"

"Meanin' me."

"I can't, you're gittin' married."

She laughed nervously. "Augie, there isn't any Watson Kilo Cycles. Couldn't you tell that was a phony name? Everybody's been kiddin' me about it. That's what Dad calls you—when you're not around — because you're so all wrapped up in electricity. You think more about electricity than you do about me. And Mr. Moore was away and Clara thought up the idea to make you come to your senses. She'll probably lose her job but she's gonna get married herself and she wants me to get married too—to you. That's why we tried to jolt you into it—sort of. But now oh dear maybe my folks wouldn't let me marry you and go to South America, not by Monday anyway."

"That's all right Bertha—honey," I said. "Maybe I can postpone my trip. In fact I'm pretty sure I can postpone it—for a long time—if you'll marry me."

"Will I?" She was in my arms and I heard wedding bells.

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

On Children's Gifts

There is an important difference between the attitude of trying to find and develop our gifted children and of trying to help each one of our children to find and develop his gifts. On the theme "All Children Have Gifts," the Association for Childhood Education International recently published a bulletin maintaining that the job of the school in a democracy is to help all children find and develop their gifts—gifts which differ in degree and kind, but present in every child.

The point is made also that even when expediency forces our nation to keep ahead in science, continued survival may now depend more upon social than scientific achievement. Also, for every person who discovers and invents there will be needed many with varied skills to convert the inventor's ideas into production and use.

Unfortunately, the behavioral sciences, singly or collectively, have not as yet written a curriculum or prescription which will serve all types of "giftedness" equally well. No modern course of study would serve equally well a child Einstein, if sitting near him in the same classroom happened to be a child Marian Anderson, a child Jonas Salk, a child Carl Sandburg, a child Abraham Lincoln, and a child Frank Lloyd Wright.

What a classroom that would be! What a challenge for its teacher, and what a conglomeration of decisions its teacher would have to make as to what are "minimum essentials." What lively P.T.A. meetings their parents could have debating "What I want for my child." What exciting "sharing periods"; what a library corner; what soul- and budget-searching to decide on "proper teaching materials!"

The modern school's answer to its dilemma — until someone comes up with something demonstrably better—is to teach according to its beliefs: children have the same basic needs; individual differences are even greater among the "gifted", offer a broad range of materials and experience; use the best teachers obtainable; know that children absorb according to their abilities and needs; guarantee that "all children have gifts."

HS COMPETITION LETS UP IN JULY

With the overshadowing basketball tournament out of the way, Minnesota high schools next turn their attention to drama; the statewide drama festival is scheduled at the University April 12; speech festival at Hamline, St. Paul, April 18. Golf meet is June 2; tennis June 2-3; state track meet June 3; baseball tournament June 18-20. Opening date for football practice this fall is August 18, and the first inter-school game may be scheduled September 2-6. November 10 is the opening date for winter sports practice, and the first interschool basketball game may be scheduled November 21.

NEWS

AIR zoning, in addition to land zoning, may be essential for American cities of the future.

This is the conclusion of Dr. Francois N. Frenkell, of the Applied Physics Laboratory of Johns Hopkins University, in a report published by the Smithsonian Institution.

Air pollution from factory smokestacks, automobile exhausts, smoke from bonfires and chimneys, and various other sources Dr. Frenkell points out, each year is causing deaths of a large but undetermined number of persons. Statistics are difficult to compile. It is estimated, however, that at least 4,000 died in London during the intense "smog" of the winter of 1952. This smog contained large concentrations of poisonous sulfur dioxide which probably was responsible, directly or indirectly, for most of the fatalities. This particular case was closely associated with peculiar local meteorological conditions and perhaps never will be duplicated.

There can be little question, however, that the air pollution problem for large cities is becoming more serious year by year. Much can be done to modify conditions. Many large industries in many places have largely eliminated the danger from their smokestacks, but only by quite expensive methods which probably would be beyond the means of individuals.

The only ultimate answer, Dr. Frenkell believes, is "air zoning" applied to both city extensions and clearance projects. Land zoning now is an established practice to prevent deterioration of residential neighborhoods, the growth of slums, etc.

Zoning air above communities, however, would be a much more difficult problem, involving knowledge of the possible sources of pollution, local geographic and weather conditions, chemical changes of pollutants in the atmosphere, necessity for applying purification methods, and several other factors.

More and more, the automobile exhaust is looming as a major offender. Most of the concentration takes place at points where there are necessary stops and many cars pour out their fumes simultaneously. One phase of air zoning may be to rearrange traffic patterns to eliminate as many such points as possible. It would be necessary, in planning for future expansion, to give careful consideration to location and limits of all industrial areas.

"Urban areas," states Dr. Frenkell, "must . . . face the problem of reducing the degree of contamination without at the same time seriously affecting many of those human activities that are responsible for the contamination and which, as much as the clean air, are necessary to the population."

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Grown-up "Kid Stuff"

The kids around here are sure pulling a lot of weight with local businessmen these days.

For instance, Monk McCarthy has collected and patched old inner tubes all winter. He'll pass them out for the swimming hole season—with this stenciled on: "Courtesy of McCarthy Auto Service."

And Mr. Tory, over at the bank, has put in three new shiny high chairs—for visiting mothers to park their kids in. There's a sign over the chairs: "Save now for a happy future."

From where I sit, I like the way people take to new ideas to promote their business. It shows that they are open-minded. We all could stand a little more of it in our personal lives too. For example, you may prefer tea or buttermilk to my choice of a glass of beer. But if we're "open-minded" we accept the other fellow's choice.

Cooperative businesses benefit you in more ways than you think!

Most of us think of cooperatives as creameries, grain elevators, filling stations and other businesses serving the farmer.

But many other types of businesses, some of which do not serve the farmer at all, are built on the cooperative idea. Many of the nation's prominent savings banks, mutual insurance companies, and savings and loan associations . . . whose business volume runs into billions of dollars each year . . . operate on many of the same basic principles that govern farmer cooperatives.

The success of these respected institutions is more evidence that the cooperative idea can serve millions of people . . . not only farmers . . . faithfully and well.

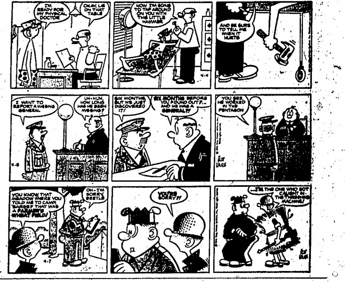
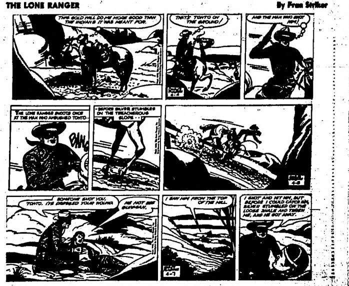
BEETLE BAILEY
By Mort Walker



I'M READY FOR MY PHYSICAL, DOCTOR
OKAY, LIE ON THAT TABLE
NOW I'M GOING TO TAP AROUND ON YOU WITH THIS LITTLE HAMMER
AND BE SURE TO TELL ME WHEN IT HURTS
I WANT TO REPORT A MISSING GENERAL
UH-HUH, HOW LONG HAS HE BEEN MISSING?
SIX MONTHS, BUT WE JUST DISCOVERED IT!
SIX MONTHS BEFORE YOU FOUND OUT?... AND HE WAS A GENERAL?!
YOU SEE, HE WORKED IN THE PENTAGON
YOU KNOW THAT MEADOW WHERE YOU TOLD ME TO CAMP, SARGE? THAT WAS A FARMER'S WHEAT FIELD!
OH—I'M SORRY, BEETLE
YOU'RE SORRY?!
...I'M THE ONE WHO GOT CAUGHT IN THE THRESHING MACHINE!

THE LONE RANGER
By Fran Striker



THIS GOLD WILL DO ME MORE GOOD THAN THE INDIANS IT WAS MEANT FOR.
THAT'S TONTO ON THE GROUND!
AND THE MAN WHO SHOT HIM!
THE LONE RANGER SHOOTS ONCE AT THE MAN WHO AMBUSHED TONTO...
BANG
...BEFORE SILVER STUMBLES ON THE TREACHEROUS SLOPE...
SOMEONE SHOT YOU, TONTO. I'VE DRESSED YOUR WOUND.
ME NOT SEE GUNMAN.
I SAW HIM FROM THE TOP OF THE HILL.
I SHOT AND HIT HIM, BUT BEFORE I COULD CATCH HIM, SILVER STUMBLED ON THE LOOSE SHALE AND THREW ME, AND HE GOT AWAY.

ONE fishing season, coming up: check your gear, buy some new lures, sharpen your hooks . . . brush up on your boating rules if you are not a shore-side fisherman.

The increased popularity of the sport of fishing, combined with the availability of good fishing water in man-made impoundments have made the small boat a necessity for anglers in many parts of the country.

Here are some tips for boat fishermen:

Know your boat's capacity—never overload it under any situation.

Always wear a life-jacket. If the water will float your boat, it's deep enough to be dangerous.

Never stand up in a small boat. If it is necessary to move while boat is afloat, keep low, use the gunwhales to make your movement steady.

Observe the rules of boating courtesies . . . and the rights of other boaters.

ODDS N' ENDS . . . Heard it said that the black bass seldom gets more than a few hundred yards from his birthplace? Don't you believe it. In Maryland, such a bass was tagged and released. More than a year later the bass was brought to net by a fisherman . . . some seven miles from the point where it was released . . . Do snakes have keen vision? Just how good a snake's vision may be is open to question. Snakes are probably near-sighted, having excellent vision at close range, poor vision of distant objects. Rattlesnakes and copperheads, known as pit vipers, have highly sensitive pits on each side of their faces. These pits detect sound of certain frequencies and the snakes can strike with amazing accuracy, even in total darkness.

A HIKE in the cost of duck stamps to acquire needed money for refuge acquisition has been proposed by Daniel H. Janzen, director of the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife.

The proposal, which has the approval of the Bureau of Budget, would add one dollar to the cost of the stamps, bringing them to $3. Nearly all of the proceeds from the sale of the stamps would be earmarked for an accelerated waterfowl refuge purchase program. Only deduction that would be made is the Post Office charges for printing and distributing the stamps, estimated at $144,000 annually. The new fee would make about $6,000,000 available for land purchase, four times the amount budgeted for the coming fiscal year.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service believes an additional 4 million acres of wetlands is needed to round out the Federal waterfowl holdings at 7½ million acres, the minimum necessary to assure the preservation of ducks and geese. Under the proposed new program, it would still take an estimated 25 years to achieve the 7 million acre goal.

The game warden, like the Mountie, usually gets his man. In California, Warden Floyd Loots found parts of a 20-year old newspaper stuck to a discarded deer hide. Stamped on the bloodstained scrap was a post office box address.

Warden Loots traced down the subscriber, who was not the man. Loots then checked on the occupants of the house where the subscriber had lived in 1937. One of them admitted illegally taking two female deer . . . was fined $200 and jailed in lieu of payment.

GEM COLLECTORS PLAN FREE SHOW

The rockhounds are rampant again. Finding, polishing, proudly displaying countless common as well as extremely exotic gems and minerals, they're getting ready to let the public in on some of their beauty secrets. The Minnesota Mineral Club is organizing a Gem and Mineral Show for Sunday, April 20, in the Garden Court area of Southdale, Edina-Minneapolis spectacular shopping center. Imposing collections of stones and minerals will be shown in their natural state, as well as thousands of gems cut by the exhibitors from semi-precious chalcedony, quartz, agate, and other rare and unusual materials. This colorful exhibition will be open to the public free from 1:00 to 9:00 p.m. Sunday April 20, at Southdale. Exhibits may be entered or inquiries made of W. H. de Neul, 6600 Cornelia Drive, Minneapolis 24.

Unemployment Tax Increase Expected

Minnesota paid out more than 17 million dollars in unemployment benefits during the first three months of the year, a preliminary estimate by the state employment security department disclosed Wednesday.

The figure, which sets a record for quarterly benefit payments, is higher than six-month totals for the last three years and more than full-year totals before 1955.

As a result, the state's unemployment reserve fund dropped to $102,400,000—some 10 million dollars lower than it was when the year began.

Employer tax payments, which are based on current payrolls, apparently dropped below 1956 totals, reflecting lower employment throughout the state. This forced an even greater drain on the reserve fund.

As a result, the fund will plunge far below its 100-million-dollar safety mark during the next three months—a situation which automatically will increase employer tax payments.

Under the law, an increase in minimum employer taxes from one-tenth to three-tenths of 1 per cent of taxable payroll becomes effective when the reserve fund is less than 100 million dollars.

Benefit payments during March totaled $6,400,000, according to preliminary figures. They were $5,600,000 during February and $5,200,000 during January.

State Dentists Convention Opens Apr. 14 in St. Paul

Leading dental scientists and clinicians from all parts of the country will participate in the 75th annual Minnesota State Dental association's convention scheduled for April 14, 15 and 16 in St. Paul, association officials announced.

Out-of-town guests clinicians from New York, Virginia, Colorado, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Nebraska, Wisconsin, North and South Dakota and Iowa will provide table clinics for attending dentists Tuesday afternoon, April 15.

Officials also announced the theme "Diamond Jubilee" has been selected for this year's convention and will be used in displays and throughout social functions including the planned "Diamond Jubilee" banquet and ball, April 14, in the Saint Paul hotel.

Co. Board Sees Hope for More Highway Funds

More Money Would Be Supplied by Bill Pending in Congress

In a letter late last week from the state highway department, the Pennington county board was notified of the possibility of this county being benefited by emergency highway legislation now pending in Congress.

The bills, which have been approved by the highway committees of both the House and Senate, provide that the federal government would supply 70 per cent of funds for state and secondary highway projects, and would permit local units to borrow up to two-thirds of their share of the cost, the loans to be repayable out of future federal aid secondary fund allotments.

The bills also stipulate that the projects would have to be under contract by December 1, 1958, and completed with one year. The measures are now awaiting action in the House and Senate.

At its April session Tuesday, the board was advised by County Engineer Joseph Seidel that, in the event the money becomes available, he has a number of projects that would be ready for letting before the deadline. Included were 23 miles of blacktopping, six miles of grading, and new bridges at St. Hilaire and Highlanding.

The board adopted a resolution designating the state highway department as its agent in negotiating contracts, in the event the funds become available.

The board opened four bids on a new panel truck for the county highway department, with the present truck as a trade-in, and accepted the low bid of the Forkenbrock Motor Co. for a Dodge truck at a net price of $1,425.

Also considered were three bids on a bituminous heater and circulator for use in handling road surfacing material. The board accepted the bid of Wm. H. Ziegler Co. in the amount of $5,050. While this was about $275 more than the lowest bid received, the board felt the Ziegler equipment was more suited to their needs.

Stephen Girl to Serve as Acting Home Agent Here

Miss Wanda Warnes to Fill County Post Until September 15th

Miss Wanda Warnes, a native of Stephen, Minn., has been engaged as acting home extension agent in Pennington county, it was announced this week by C. W. Rodekuhr, county auditor. She will assume her duties here shortly.

Miss Warnes was hired to fill the vacancy left by Margery Olson, until mid-September, when she will return to Waseca, Minn. to resume her duties as a teacher in the agricultural school there, Rodekuhr said.

Miss Warnes was introduced to the county extension committee at a meeting here Monday evening. Also present at the meeting were Robert M. Douglas, supervisor of county agents; and Miss Margaret Jacobson, supervisor of home extension agents in Minnesota.

Also approved at the meeting was a work program drawn up by County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk and the state officials. The program was adopted for the years 1958 and 1959.

Andrew Anderson to Install Elks Officers Tonight

Continuing a long-standing custom, Andrew Anderson, oldest past exalted ruler of the local Elks lodge, will serve as installing officer this evening when newly elected officers are inducted. Other past exalted rulers will fill the various chairs. Dr. Edward Gilbert will be installed as head of the lodge, succeeding R. J. Dryden. Dinner will be served at 6:30 preceding the ceremony.

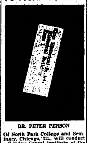
To Hold Institute



DR. PETER PERSON

Of North Park College and Seminary, Chicago, Ill., will conduct a Sunday School institute at the Mission Covenant church in Thief River Falls, beginning on Sunday morning, April 13, and continuing each evening at 8:00 P.M. from Sunday through Friday, April 18. Dr. Person has been the head of the Bible institute department at North Park College for many years.

The public is invited to attend the sessions, which will deal with the topic, "Understanding Your Pupils."

Five Minnesota counties had no traffic fatalities during 1957. The five counties are Lake of the Woods, Pope, Sibley, Wadena and Watonwan.

According to the records of the Minnesota department of highways there has not been a traffic death in Lake of the Woods County since 1954. The other four counties all had traffic fatalities during 1956.

Highway Department records show that during 1957 Pennington county had a total of 183 traffic accidents in which 2 persons were killed and another 62 injured. Marshall county recorded 123 accidents and four deaths, and Red Lake 54 accidents and one death.

In the entire state during 1957 there were 57,670 accidents in which 685 persons were killed and another 23,634 injured. Eleven percent of these accidents occurred on rural county and township roads. Accidents on these roads accounted for 13 percent of the injuries and 20 percent of the traffic deaths in 1957. Although there is more than twice as much vehicular traffic on the city streets and highways as on the rural county and township roads, only 27 percent of the fatal accidents occur in the urban areas.

The rural state trunk highways carry between 40 and 50 percent of the vehicle mileage in the state but only 16 percent of the total number of accidents in Minnesota take place on these highways. However, 47 percent of the fatal accidents occur on the rural trunk highways.

The safety division of the Highway Department has suggested that the high number of fatalities resulting from the relatively small number of accidents on the rural roads and highways can be attributed in part to speed. Vehicle speeds are higher on these roads and consequently the severity of a crash when an accident occurs is higher.

Mother-Daughter Banquet of Girl Scouts Draws 300

Minneapolis Woman is Guest Speaker Tuesday Night at St. Bernard's

The annual Girl Scout mother-daughter banquet held Tuesday evening in St. Bernard's church basement was attended by over 30 scouts and mothers from the 33 girl scout troops in the city.

Mrs. Byron Downes, Minneapolis, a scout leader for many years, was the featured speaker, and spoke on the inspiration, fun and comradeship that can be shared between mothers and daughters in scouting.

Girl scout music pupils of Mrs. Max Jensen and Sister Placid entertained with selections before the banquet got under way. Sharon Hendrickson acted as toastmaster and Susan Forkenbrock directed the group singing.

In her welcome to the mothers, Ruby Waale said that although there is only one day each year set aside to honor mothers, they are loved and appreciated every day. Mrs. Tom Waale responded for the mothers.

After thanking Mrs. Downes for her address Mrs. Robert Thorkelson introduced Mrs. L. G. Hetland, local scout president who presented small gifts of appreciation to leaders of the 33 local troops. The program was closed by the entire assembly singing "The Golden Sun."

Mrs. Downes, the honored guest at the banquet also conducted an area training session on the senior scout program Wednesday afternoon. There was a good attendance at the program.

GOP Convention Slated on Monday

Pennington Republicans Meet in Auditorium at 8

The Pennington county Republican convention will be held in the municipal Auditorium next Monday evening, April 14, at 8 o'clock, Harry E. Simons, county chairman, stated today.

In addition to electing a county committee to serve during the next two years, the convention will name delegates and alternates to the district convention and to the state convention to be held in St. Paul June 6 and 7.

Simons invited the attendance at the county meeting of all voters who support the principles of the Republican party.

Overnight Parking Restrictions in Effect April 14th

Local motorists were given notice this week by Police Chief Elton Cummings that beginning Monday, April 14, the overnight parking ordinances will be enforced in the downtown area.

Signs on streets are posted concerning nights they will be cleaned by the city street department, Cummings said. Any cars found parked on streets due to be cleaned any given night will be hauled away to the city pound and owners will have to pay towing and other charges.

Streets running east and west are cleaned Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, while north-south streets are cleaned Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Parking on these streets is prohibited from 1 a.m. to 6 a.m. on nights they are cleaned.

Cummings asked that car owners cooperate with the street department in the matter.

Deadline Near for Soil Bank Applications

Due Before April 15; Re-seal Loans on 1956 Crops Is Extended

Patrick Culkins, manager of the Pennington County ASC office, remined Pennington county farmers today that the final date for signing requests for federal cost-share for agricultural conservation practices is April 18, in this county. Anyone wishing to participate in this program should call at the office before that date.

April 15 is the final date on which the ASC office can accept applications for Soil Bank Conservation Reserve program. Any eligible land owner or operator who intends to put all or part of his farm into Conservation Reserve in 1958 and has not yet signed an application must do so before April 15th.

The ASC office has been notified that the extension of reseal loans on 1956-crop oats and barley period are 12 cents a bushel for oats and 16 cents a bushel for barley. Quality and storage requirements are the same as the original loans. Anyone interested in extending their 1956 oats or barley loans for another years should contact their county ASC office.

Auto to Be Given Away Ths Year at Pennington Fair

Preliminary plans to award a 1958 automobile at the Pennington county fair were completed Tuesday evening at a joint meeting of the Pennington county fair board and the merchants committee of the Chamber of Commerce. The dinner meeting was held in the Rex cafe Terrace room.

J. M. Roche, secretary of the fair board, announced that the Marlo Productions had been secured to provide the grandstand entertainment for the fair July 21-24.

After lively discussion both groups went on record as objecting to margarine advertising carried in this city. A motion was adopted to send a letter stating their objections to this type of advertising in a dairy community.

Kriel Named Head of Eagles Aerie

A. B. Kriel was named to succeed Eugene Prestgaard as worthy president of the Thief River Falls Eagles aerie in its annual election Tuesday evening.

Other officers elected include Harry Hendrickson, vice president; Harold M. Johnson, secretary; Frank Sweet, treasurer; Ray C. Olson, chaplain; L. J. Clemenson, inside guard; Elmer Zachaf, outside guard; Art Dahl, trustee for three years; and Harold Anderson, H. O. Ness and Del Seefeldt, trustees for one year.

Re-elected to Safety Council Posts Monday

The Pennington County Safety Council held its annual meeting at the Rex Cafe Monday night and in the election held during the meeting the 1957 officers were retained to serve in their same capacities in 1958.

Mrs. Swan Englund of Grygla Dies of Burns Wednesday

Fataly Burned While Starting Fire in Stove Early Tuesday Morning

Mrs. Swen Englund, resident of the Grygla area, died Wednesday morning in Northwestern Hospital, where she had been taken for treatment after having been severely burned in a fire at her home early Tuesday morning.

She was reported to have been starting a fire in the kitchen range, using kerosene, when an explosion took place, igniting her clothing. Alone in the house at the time, she was found lying in the yard by a son, with most of her garments burned off.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed this morning. The Gulbranson Mortuary is in charge. A complete obituary will be published in a later edition of the Times.

George Mostue, local florist, Wednesday was the first local resident of the season to bring a dandelion blossom into the Times office. George insisted, too, that the flower came out of his lawn and not from the hothouse.

Andrew Skaar Named Chairman of County SCS District Board

Andrew Skaar, Norden township farmer, was named chairman of the Pennington county soil conservation district board at its reorganization meeting Monday evening. He succeeds Alfred Longren, who has served during the past five years.

Other officers elected include Oscar Houske of Wyandotte township, vice chairman; Edgar Naplin, Polk Centre, secretary; Silas Hanson, Silverton, treasurer; and Harold South, Goodridge, recorder.

Otto Rupprecht, Marshall county farmer, presented a petition calling for a survey by Army engineers of the Thief River watershed. Edgar Naplin, board secretary, said that a resolution to that effect had been adopted by the board and was being sent to Washington officials.

Andrew Skaar stated that the board had also voted to send a resolution to George Selke, commissioner of conservation, asking that the game and fish division establish a program of food and cover development for sharptail grouse in Northwestern Minnesota. He added that grouse are native game birds which should be encouraged.

Next Week Will Be Clean-up Week in Thief River Falls

Appearing elsewhere in this issue of the Times is an official notice published by Dr. H. Paul Wendt, city health officer, on instructions from Mayor O. D. Beich, calling on local citizens to join in the observance of Clean-up Week in Thief River Falls April 14 to 19. Property owners are instructed to eliminate all unsanitary and rodent-breeding situations on their premises, and are also encouraged to make their yards as attractive as possible.

Fire Protection Assn. Formed at Goodridge Monday

Nearly 100 Present at Meeting Vote to Create Rural Fire Fighting Unit

At a meeting in Goodridge Monday evening, April 7th attended by nearly 100 rural residents representing nine townships in eastern Pennington and Marshall counties, it was unanimously decided to form a rural fire protection association.

K. A. Hintz of the Hintz Fire Equipment Co., Fargo N. Dak., spoke on the proper equipment for rural areas. Roy Wiseth discussed the need for better fire protection.

Ernest Swanson was elected chairman; Kermit Maldment, vice chairman; and Robert Parnow, secretary-treasurer. The township committee members appointed at a prior meeting will be retained to work with the elected officers in drawing up resolutions and making future plans to be presented at a meeting in the near future.

This evening, April 10th at 5:00 p.m. a recommended rural fire truck will be in Goodridge for inspection, and a demonstration of firefighting will be held in the evening if weather permits.

Boy Scout Troop 60 to Stage Bean Feed Next Monday

Boy scout troop 60 will hold a "Bean Supper" Monday, April 14 starting at 5 p.m. and serving until 7 in the Trinity church basement, said Al Christofferson, scoutmaster.

Proceeds of the feed will be used to help members of the troop attend summer camp at Camp Wauhanaquat on White Earth lake.

The menu will include home-baked beans, salad, rolls, coffee and ice cream.

Tickets may be purchased from any troop member or may be obtained at the dinner.

New Group Formed to Seek Development of T. R. Watershed

An association to promote the development of the Thief River watershed was organized at a meeting of representative residents and land owners of the area held at the Otto Rupprecht home northeast of Thief River Falls Wednesday night. Julian Bodahl was elected president, James Roche secretary, and Lesart Stock, treasurer. Vice presidents named are Nilo Rantanen, Otto Rupprecht, Julius Fainan, Adolph Steinhauer and Norman Anderson.

Eight directors were elected, Neil Morrissey and Arthur Peterson from the Gatzke area; Oliver Howland and Arthur Norby from Grygla; Donald Larson and Arthur Moe from the area below the outlet of Mud Lake, and James Philipp and Axel Sund from the area drained by ditches No. 18, 20 and 200. Four additional directors were provided for to be named by the district director of the federal Fish and Wildlife service, the state conservation department, the city council of Thief River Falls and the Chamber of Commerce of Thief River Falls.

A constitution patterned after the one adopted for the Red Lake River Development Association more than 20 years ago was offered and explained by W. E. Dahlquist, and, with minor changes, was adopted. A resolution offered by Dahlquist, requesting the Red Lake River Drainage and Conservancy District board to adopt the Thief River watershed project as a part of its program was approved.

Many of those present had circulated petitions asking for a survey of the watershed and its needs. The names on these lists will be combined into one document and copies will be presented to U. S. Senators Edward Thye and Hubert Humphrey and Congresswoman Coya Knutson.

State Senator Don Sinclair of Stephen spoke briefly on watershed problems. He will meet

Cancer Drive Opens Monday in Community

No Solicitation in Business District Planned This Year

The Cancer Crusade drive for funds will start Monday, April 14, and continue throughout the week, according to Mrs. Olaf Dahlen, Crusade chairman of the Pennington county Cancer committee.

The city campaign, as well as the rural drive, will be conducted by volunteer women of each neighborhood under the supervision of Mrs. Dahlen. She explained that the drive will be conducted in the residential areas only, with no plans made for solicitations in the business district.

Contributions may be given to the committee workers in each area or may be mailed to Mrs. Dahlen, 113 No. Arnold Avenue, Thief River Falls.

It is hoped that the fund quota of $1,750 for Pennington county will be reached during the first week of the drive, said Mrs. Dahlen.

Funds raised in the local campaign contribute to the support of the American Cancer society, which last year allocated more than $11,000,000 for cancer research. Grants involved 1,000 top-flight scientists in 187 institutions and laboratories in 38 states. This brings the total allocated by the Society for research since 1945 to about $88,380,000. Contributions to the 1958 Cancer Crusade will assure continuance of this broad national research program.

S. Austin Again to Head Pennington Co. Safety Council

Quentin Jones Heads Committee to Study Boat Handling Course

The election of officers for the coming year was the main topic on the agenda of the annual meeting of the Pennington County Safety Council held Monday evening at the Rex Cafe. President Stephen Austin presided.

In the elections Austin was re-elected to serve another year as president, while Sheriff Charles Richards and Charles W. Rodekuhr were reelected for an additional term as vice-president and secretary, respectively.

Other business matters were discussed, chief among them a proposal by Quentin Jones that a boat handling course be held on the river this summer.

The course, as proposed by Jones, would be similiar to school driver education courses, with local marine dealers furnishing equipment for the course. It woul also be along the lines of Red Cross boat handling courses.

Jones was appointed to select a committee to help him in the attempt to put such a program into effect in the city.

Mayor O. D. Beich announced that a new type stop sign has been ordered for intersections near schools. These would be hinged so that during non-school hours the signs could be folded and motorists would not be required to stop at such intersections.

Two driving safety films were also shown by Austin before the meeting was adjoruned.

Candidates Named for Lions Offices

At the Lions club luncheon meeting Wednesday noon, Wendell Olson, chairman of the nominating committee, submitted a slate of candidates for club officers to be filled in the annual election early in May, the list being headed by John Peterson, nominee for president.

Dr. M. D. Starekow, in behalf of the club, wished the best of luck to Elmer Bratsch, a member for ten years, who is leaving the city this week-end to take over the management of a bank in Golden Valley, Minnesota.

Bratsch responded briefly, expressing the pleasure he had derived from his local associations.

Marlene Bring Wed March 29 to H. Rutherford

Miss Marlene Donna Bring of East Grand Forks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gust Bring of Strandquist, and Howard T. Rutherford of Euclid were united in marriage, Saturday, March 29, in Our Savior's Lutheran church in East Grand Forks.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony was Rev A. L. Stenberg while Mrs. Stenberg assisted at the organ. Harvey T. Christianson sang "Because", and "O Perfect Love", during the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of lace with repeated appliques through out the bodice and bouffant tulle skirt. It was fashioned with a sabrina neckline and long tapered sleeves. Her veil fell from a jeweled tiara and she carried a cascade bouquet of roses.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was Mrs. Glenn E. Hoff of East Grand Forks, friend of the couple. She wore a lavendar gown styled with a deep purple bodice and net over taffeta skirt. Her bouquet was made of yellow daisies. Little Nancy Kay Knutson of Fisher, niece of the groom, was flower girl.

Donald Rutherford of Euclid, cousin of the groom, served as bestman while Derril Bring of East Grand Forks and Clayton Knutson of Fisher were ushers.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Bring chose a navy blue dress, with matching accessories. Mrs. Rutherford also wore navy blue with similar accessories. Their corsages were of pink tea roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors for 200 guests. Mrs. George Sholy of Nekoma, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Andrew Aschilmon of East Grand Forks, aunt of the groom, cut the wedding cake. Mrs. Ragna Anderson of Argyle and Mrs. William Rutherford of Euclid poured while Mrs. Carl Taugen of Oslo was at the guest book. Deluris Belton of Grand Forks, Mrs. Lyle Telgen of Oslo and Mrs. Carroll Tinpes of Oslo were in charge of the gift table. Waitresses were Mrs. Lyle Hoff, Adeline Mattison, and Janet Cumming of East Grand Forks and Mrs. Peter Wasylow of Grand Forks.

The bride is a graduate of Newfolden high school and Anker's Business college in Grand Forks. She is presently employed as secretary to the West Polk county agent. The groom is a graduate of Fisher high school and is engaged in farming. The Rutherfords are now making their home at 301 First Street North, East Grand Forks.

3 Confess Slugging, Robbing Bemidij Man

Beltrami County Sheriff John Cahill said Monday three men jailed in Bemidji have admitted robbing a bartender who was slugged and kicked unconscious in the back room of a tavern.

Arrested Sunday were Harold Smith, 20, Bena, Minn.; his brother, Frank, 23, Onigum, Minn., and Lyman C. Roberts, 23, Ponsford. Cahill said robbery charges were being prepared.

Recovering in a Bemidji hospital was Herbert Carroll, 50, who told officers that three men tied his hands behind his back with a belt early Sunday, struck him in the face and then kicked him in the head with their boots until he lost consciousness.

Shortly before the trio had taken about $130 from the cash register of Mac's Shack, a combination restaurant and tavern where Carroll works.

Carroll told the sheriff that one of his attackers said, "We're not going to leave you to testify against us."

The Smiths, both on probation for previous offenses, were arrested by a justice of the peace at Lake George 20 miles south of Bemidji after their descriptions had been supplied by Bemidji authorities. Roberts was picked up at the home of a relative in Bemidji.

Cahill said most of the money was recovered.

The sheriff said he received this account from Carroll:

Three men who had been drinking at the tavern accosted him as he was about to close up. Threatening to kill him if he didn't comply, they forced him to open the cash register. Then they took him into the furance room, bound him and slugged and kicked him. He regained consciousness after they left and went to a theater to summon help.

A chance word one of the trio dropped enabled Carroll to supply officers with the name of one of the men's relative. This led to the arrests.

Sen. Humphrey's Newsletter

Good Record

Congress reached its annual Easter recess with a good record of accomplishment, after an exceptionally busy three months. Under Democratic leadership an effective program has been created to meet the most serious problem confronting us—a problem that involves people, and one which required immediate response. The deepening economic recession has already put 5,200,000 men and women out of work; something had to be done. The Senate developed and enacted a program of action—not hasty, not panicky, not ill-conceived—but a program of effective action.

What We've Done

Within the space of a few weeks, the Senate has taken these constructive steps:

First. Approved—by a vote of 93 to 1—a resolution directing the President and the Administration to accelerate civil public works.

Second. Approved—by a vote of 76 to 1—a resolution directing the Defense Department and Administration to accelerate military public works.

Third. Approved—by a vote of 86 to 0—a bill to stimulate the housing industry and create a potential of an additional 600,000 to 800,000 jobs.

Fourth. Approved—by a vote of 84 to 4—a bill to accelerate the highway program and create a potential of some 320,000 jobs.

Fifth. Approved—by a vote of 52 to 11—a conference report on the omnibus flood control bill, including many major Minnesota projects. Nationwide, the bill should create a potential of nearly 400,000 jobs.

Sixth. Approved—by a vote of 50 to 43—my farm resolution designed to maintain farm income and farm purchasing power.

Initiative Taken

It is a solid and substantial record, and the substantial leadership has successfully taken the initiative and secured action while the White House and the Administration was still dragging its feet. Unfortunately, two key efforts to curb the recession were actually blocked by White House action. The President vetoed our farm bill, despite urgent appeals from all segments of our economy that he was risking further economic decline. Congress will attempt to override the veto when it reconvenes, but it requires two-thirds of both Houses. Next, on "slowdown" orders from the White House, Republicans in the Senate blocked action before the recess on the community public works bill under which long-term federal credit would be made available to cities for construction projects.

More To Be Done

When Congress reconvenes April 14, the Democratic leadership will again press for action on the community financing program, as well as on an expanded airport construction program, a stepped-up reclamation program, and a broadened conservation program. We also intend to push for action on our proposal to establish a Youth Conservation Corps, and the measure we are co-sponsoring to expand and extend unemployment insurance benefits. Depending on what happens on the vote to override the farm veto, further work will also be done on farm legislation of both an emergency and longer-range nature. Careful consideration will also be given tax adjustments on the basis of trends in our economic condition by the end of April. Congress is acting in keeping with its finest traditions in responding responsibily and effectively to the needs of our time. All of us are determined to take effective steps to help our fellow Americans in their hour of need.

Wilson were reappointed to the county extension committee. An appropriation of $100 was voted to the local VFW post to finance the annual Memorial Day observance in this city, and $25 was voted to the Goodridge school district for the same purpose. The sum of $100 also was granted to the Pennington county safety council to aid in financing its traffic safety program.

Area H.S. Juniors Tour County Courthouse

Under a program sponsored by the American Legion and its auxiliary, 26 high school juniors from Lincoln and Goodridge high schools took Wednesday morning off from regular school classes for a tour of the courthouse to learn the functions of county government.

The program, called Boys and Girls County is similiar to the Legion's Boys' State and the auxiliary's Girls' State programs and a boy and girl from the group which took the courthouse tour have been selected to go to Boys' and Girls' States later this year.

Ellsworth Jorgenson, commander of the Pennington-Red Lake bi-county Legion council said the local post hopes to make the courthouse tour an annual affair under the new program.

Shown here is County Auditor Charles W. Rodekuhr explaining the functions of district court as the students in the courtroom listen raptly. Representing the Legion on the tour was Norman Arveson, Americanism chairman of the local post, while Supt. David Brown represented Goodridge high school.

Glen Bjerk, assistant to County Engineer Seidel, tendered his resignation, effective in May, to accept a position with a Fargo road contracting firm.

John Funnesdahl Rites to Be Apr. 12

Community Leader Dies Tuesday at the Age of 71

Funeral services for John A. Funnesdahl, 71, native of Pennington county and a community leader, who passed away Tuesday, April 8, will be held Saturday, April 12 at 2 p.m. at the Zion Lutheran church. Officiating will be Rev. Walter M. Pedersen. Interment will be in the Norden cemetery. The body will lie in state at the Gulbranson Chapel from Thursday evening to Saturday at 11 a.m. and at the church from 1 p.m. to time of services.

Mr. Funnesdahl was born on his father's homestead in Norden township on July 2, 1886 and has since resided there. He was married to Miss Borgot Iverson June 8, 1940 at Thief River Falls.

He served as clerk of Norden township and also served on the school and TRF creamery boards. He helped organize and served as president for many years of the Consumer's Co-op association, and was past treasurer and trustee of Zion Lutheran church.

Surviving are his wife, Borgot, a sister Mary of rural Thief River Falls and eight cousins.

James A. Burrell Services Held Tuesday, April 8

Funeral services were held Tuesday, April 8th at the Green Funeral Home, for James Alexander Burrell, long-time resident of Thief River Falls, who died Friday, April 4th at Northwestern Hospital. Conducting the services was the Young Pine Lodge No. 221, Independent Order of Odd Fellows. Interment was made in the Greenwood cemetery.

Mr. Burrell was born, February 14, 1885 at Shakopee, where he attended school and grew to manhood. In 1912 he came to Thief River Falls and made his home here since. On February 26, 1914 he was united in marriage to Fannie Dostal at Thief River Falls.

He had been an employee of the Northern Pacific and Soo Line Railroad for many years and at one time was employed at Popplers. He was a long time member of the Odd Fellows Young Pine Lodge No. 221 of Thief River Falls.

Surviving are his wife, Fannie, sons, Melford and Harold, both of the city, three sisters, Mrs. Harry Kinghorn of the city, Mrs. Rebecca Hanson of Savage and Mrs. Ole Bohme of Shakopee, also four grandchildren. He was preceded in death by his parents, one son, Earl, one brother and three sisters.

Mercury Hits 62 Here Wednesday

Cloudy Skies Forecast for This Area Friday

The weatherman painted a very pretty picture for Thief River Falls and area today but considerable cloudiness is forecast for tonight and Friday.

High temperature for the week so far was 62 registered here Wednesday, while this morning's 33 took low honors. No moisture was recorded since Monday.

The KTRF forecast: generally fair today, considerable cloudiness tonight and Friday, little temperature change. Winds will be southeasterly, 10-20 m.p.h.

The high predicted for today will be in the fifties and the low tonight will be near 33.

OUT-PERFORMS

Them All in Growers' Own Weight and Compare Tests

Don't miss out on corn income you could just as well be collecting. Make certain you plant every acre of your corn ground to the highest-producing hybrids you can get. How do you tell which are the highest producing? Thousands of profit-minded corn growers now choose their hybrids this proven way:

THEY WEIGH AND COMPARE

In their own fields, with the hybrids side by side. Picked with their own pickers. Weighed on the scales of their choice. They figure their own results. These corn growers report Funk's G-Hybrids out-perform the best of all comers, by averages of from 5 to 15 bushels an acre. Time after time. Field after field. Year after year.

FIGURE IT OUT. Yield averages like that can easily give you an extra wagonload for each bushel of Funk's-G you plant. A load of corn you wouldn't have had, had you chosen any other hybrid seed. Make certain you get these extra bushels. This spring plant your entire corn acreage to Funk's-G-Hybrids.

Burke, who was elected an interim director at the March meeting, was named acting president and Olaf Dahlen was appointed director and acting treasurer until a new board of directors is elected at the annual meeting.

Red Cross Drive Is Short of Goal

Only $1,500 Collected as Campaign Nears End

Contributions turned in on the Pennington county Red Cross drive to date have climbed past the $1500 mark, according to L. J. Gustafson, drive chairman.

Gustafson said the drive is an estimated 75 per cent complete. Wendel Olson, business section drive head said his part of the campaign is about 90 per cent complete and should be finished very soon. Some calls remain to be made on the east side, also, Gustafson stated.

Included in the $1500 or more turned in to date is a good percentage of the rural drive contributions. St. Hilaire village has turned in proceeds of the drive there but so far Goodridge village has not reported.

Gustafson said it is hoped the drive can be finished in the county by this week-end, or by next week at the latest. It has been under way nearly a month, he said, which is considered sufficient time to wind it up. He urged workers to complete their calls and callbacks and report in as quickly as possible.

Many Forfeit Bonds in Municipal Court

A fairly quiet session of municipal court was held Monday before Judge H. O. Chommie, as a large percentage of persons arrested for various offenses chose to forfeit bonds rather than face the court.

Teddy Rosebear, Ponemah, charged by Game Warden Carl Sundstrom with possession of one walleye over the legal limit, forfeited $30 bond.

Two arrests were made by the highway patrol with both violators forfeiting bond. They were Virgil D. R. Gunnarson, Pontiac, Mich., speeding, $15 bond forfeited, and Eldon L. Hanson, Minneapolis, also charged with speeding, $17 bond forfeited.

Kendal L. Kulseth, city, arrested by city police for careless driving, also forfeited $30 bond.

City police also arrested five persons who appeared in court. G. W. Bredeson, city, pleaded guilty to careless driving, and was fined $10 plus $3.50 costs.

Kenneth Schultz, St. Paul, charged with careless driving, pleaded guilty and was fined $10.

Donald M. Thompson, city, same charge was fined $20 plus $3.50 costs on plea of guilty.

Robert Wood, Two Harbors, Minn., pleaded guilty to running a stop sign and was fined $10 plus $3.50.

Donald T. Olson, city, paid a $10 fine plus $3.50 costs after pleading guilty to a speeding charge.

Only 6 Lettermen on Lincoln Track Team This Spring

Sioux Indoor Relays at Grand Forks April 18th First Meet on Schedule

Only six lettermen—captain Larry Krohn, Jim Bennes, Dick Bjerken, Larry Gausen, Darby Nelson, and Lynn Nicholson—are returning from last season's sixteen-lettermen Prowler track squad for this season's campaign.

Coach Quentin Jones, taking advantage of the ideal weather conditions, has been sending his short-handed squad through outdoor drills in preparation for the track season, which is slated to open Friday, April 18th, with the Sioux Indoor Relays at Grand Forks.

According to present plans, coach Jones will rely on Krohn for the mile event, Bennes for the 100-yard dash and the mile relay, Bjerken for the mile relay, Nelson for the mile relay, Nicholson for the low hurdles and mile relay, and Gausen for the shot put and discus. Burton Ramstad in the mile run, and Neil Lofberg in the half-mile run, are other potential Prowler point-winners.

The schedule:

April 18th, Sioux Indoor Relays at Grand Forks.
April 26th, Sioux Outdoor Relays at Grand Forks.
May 3rd, Dragon Relays at Moorhead.
May 9th, Beaver Relays at Bemidji.
May 16th, 31st District Tournament at Grand Forks.
May 23rd, Region Eight Tournament at Bemidji.

Rev. J. H. Turner Holding Services In Auditorium

Rev. J. H. Turner, pastor of the Seventh Day Adventist church, stated today that interest in the spring evangelistic crusade which opened Sunday in the municipal Auditorium, is growing steadily. Services are scheduled each evening, starting with a Bible film in color at 7:45, and including special musical selections and a chalk talk. Free books will be awarded at Sunday night's meeting.

Marked Improvement

That the local trapshooting program, as conducted by the Thief River Trap Shoot organization at its layout north of town, is having a beneficial effect on the marksmanship of the local nimrods is evident by a study of the statistics released by Erling Torgerson, club secretary.

The program, with its regularly scheduled league shoots, has been in operation for four years, and almost without fail, the shooters participating have been able to improve their gun-handling technique and their pigeon-busting skill.

For instance, to carry through the averages of several representative shooters, Tony Dorn, of the Pharmacy team, the league's "high gun", has improved his shooting to this extent: in 1954, he posted a 17.9 average in 1955 he boosted that mark by a bird, to 18.8. In 1956 he shot at a 22.1 clip; and last season he had a 22.8 average. Roy Peterson, a member of the high-scoring Wilson Bros. squad, had a lowly 14.4 average in 1954; in 1955 he raised that average to 19.2; in 1956 his average was 20.6; and last season he scored a fine 21.6 average. Russ Embury had a 16.0 average in 1954, an 18.3 in 1955, a 20.5 in 1956, and another 20.5 in 1957.

Dr. Paul Wendt, perhaps, has made the greatest gain as trapshooter, lifting his average from a 13.5 in 1954 to a 20.3 mark in 1957.

And these instances are the rule rather than the exception, so you hunters who wish to sharpen your reflexes, and your marksmanship, why not take advantage of the facilities that are available at the club grounds. The members will make you most welcome.

First Call: Baseball

Frank Gunderman, the Thieves baseball manager, announced that an informal practice drill has been scheduled for the Fair Grounds diamond on Sunday afternoon.

Weather permitting, and field conditions playable, the get-together of the Thieves baseball candidates will be at 2:00 p.m. Frank extended an invitation to all prospective team members to be in attendance at this session.

And No Wonder

That Canada's representative in the recent world hockey tournament at Oslo, the Whitby Dunlops team, was successful in winning the championship is not very surprising or a thing of wonder. Hockey in Canada is a business as well as a sport, and the Canadians take great pride in the hockey players they produce.

That the Canadians have a tremendous advantage over the Americans in the development of hockey players is evident by watching the junior hockey program up there. On Saturday night, along Prowler squad members Dale Wennberg and Arlan Hjelle, we watched the first game of the best-of-seven Memorial cup semi-finals between the Regina Pats and the St. Boniface Canadians. The game, which was very well played, found the smooth skating Pats, after sixty minutes of top flight hockey, scoring a 7 to 5 victory over the Canadians.

But to give you an indication of the intense hockey program that the Canadian juniors must undergo, we'll report that the Regina Pats, playing in the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey league, participated in fifty-one games this season. This is in addition to the playoff games.

In addition to the fifty-one games on the junior league schedule, the Pats, like every team in the Saskatchewan league, practiced about three hours every day. And those hours of practice were in evidence on Saturday night by the drive and spirit that the Pats exhibited.

During this fifty-one game schedule, the Pats' center, Gordy Berenson, and right-wing, Bill Hicke, scored a total of 100 goals. Watching the red-headed Berenson, who is only seventeen years old and eligible for a couple more years of junior play, and Hicke, an expert stickhandler and a fast and elusive skater, it was understandable that this duo totaled 100 goals.

Incidentally, both of these cubs, the Regina Pats and the St. Boniface Canadiens, belong to the Montreal Canadians, hockey organization. Wouldn't be surprising to see Berenson and Hicke in the "big league" in three or four years.

Crookston's Mixed Doubles

A mixed doubles bowling tournament is being held at the Recreation alleys in Crookston on Saturday and Sunday evening, April 12th and 13th. The tournament will be a four games with handicap affair, and the entry fee will be $2.50. According to Ray Gorder, the tournament manager, the prize money will be paid out on a one-out-of-four basis.

Local bowlers who have entered the tournament are Freddy Jensen, Don Haugen, Bess Lang and Alma Johnk. Pairings will be made on a "draw out of a hat", so parnerships will not be known until bowling time.

If other local keglers wish to enter the tournament, they should contact Bess Lang.

McIntosh Man Is Victim of Suicide

Perdin Erickson, Age 56, Dies of Gunshot Wound

Perdin Erickson, 56, died early Monday of a self-inflicted gunshot wound at his farm home north of McIntosh.

The death was ruled a suicide following investigation by Polk County Sheriff Carl Knutson and Dr. H. E. Nelson, Polk county coroner.

Born and raised in Northwood, N. D., Erickson lived there until 1951 when he purchased the farm four and a half miles north of McIntosh.

He had been in ill health for sometime, it was reported.

He is survived by his wife; a son, Paul, 17; two brothers, Elmer, Hatton; and Elton, Northwood; and three sisters, Mrs. Adolph Thingelstad, Mrs. Noel Thingelstad and Mrs. Olaus Dokken, all of Northwood.

Buffalo Dinner Is Planned by State History Society

Centennial Year Event Thursday, May 1, Set for University Campus

A successful buffalo hunt is reported by the Minnesota Historical Society, and according to Russell W. Fridley, director, an ample supply of choice buffalo meat is on hand for the society's May 1 Statehood Centennial annual meeting dinner. In planning its meeting this year, the society, to salute the Minnesota Centennial, decided to stage an authentic pioneer meal, serving a menu typical of one hundred years ago.

Oddly enough the Society's 1958 buffalo hunt ended right in the Twin Cities, where a local market, getting its buffalo meat from the Custer National Park in South Dakota, supplied the society for its pioneer dinner.

The 109th annual meeting of the historical society, featuring the early Minnesota meal, will be held at Coffman Memorial Union at the University of Minnesota. The program includes an address by Dr. George A. Selke, commissioner of conservation, whose topic will be "Beginning the Second Century." A county historical society institute and the annual meeting of the society's women's organization round out the May 1 affair.

Water Sports Club Plans Boat Dock

Urges Acquiring Tract Across River from Park

Members of the Thief River Falls Water Sports club, with president Ivan Bundy presiding, held a meeting at the National Guard Armory on Friday night for the purpose of discussing proposals for the 1958 boating season.

The group adopted a resolution favoring the acquisition by the city of that portion of the Squaw Point area located south of Highway No. 1 and adjacent to the river, across from Tindolph park.

A committee was appointed—Stan Gibson chairman, Jarvis Prichard, and Gary Forsberg — to draw up plans for a boat dock to be constructed along the east side of the river just off the Third Street bridge. Lawrence Bjorkman, a member of the city park board, was in attendance, and he entered into the discussion with regard to the boat dock problem.

Quentin Jones, a member of the safety committee, discussed with the club members the introduction of a program of youth training in watercraft safety.

The club also voted to continue the "river clean-up campaign" that was introduced last spring.

The next meeting of the club will be held on Tuesday evening, May 13th, with the American Legion club rooms being tentatively designated as the meeting place.

Highway Department to Honor Workers for Safe Driving Record

The Minnesota highway department will honor its safe drivers, 2,432 of them, in a series of annual safety meetings to be held in the various maintenance district headquarters throughout the state beginning April 15 at Mankato.

National Safety council "Safe Driver" awards for continued operation of motor vehicles without accidents will be presented to 1,083 highway maintenance men in recognition to those whose duties require them to drive motorized equipment or other vehicles for more than 50 per cent of their working time. Of these, 93 men have had perfect records for 27 years of state employment.

Three maintenance district headquarters will be honored with bronze plaques for having had no on-the-job traffic accidents charged against their employes during 1957. They are districts six, seven and 10, with headquarters at Detroit Lakes, St. Cloud, and Willmar, respectively.

The maintenance division safety contest included 1,354 employes who reported but 37 traffic accidents during 1957.

Among the construction districts, Bemidji, Brainerd, Detroit Lakes and Mankato all posted perfect no-accident records for 1957 to tie for first place in their motor-vehicle safety contest. The 851 construction field employes were charged with but 10 traffic accidents during 1957.

In the industrial safety contest for on-the-job no-traffic accidents, the Crookston maintenance shop won the state-wide event. One injury during 1957 resulted in four days of time lost out of 172,186 man-hours worked in the district. Maintenance employes worked 3,712,709 man hours during 1957 with a total of 86 disabling personal injuries.

State-wide awards will be presented at the various meetings by Harry A. Sieben, director of the Highway Safety division; while G. A. Meskal, maintenance engineer, will present individual awards. Robert E. Green of the Mutual Service Insurance companies, which carries state coverage, will discuss employe driving safety; while highway department employe safety field men, C. A. Ross and C. H. Getchell, will conduct a safety quiz on department safety rules.

Sen. Thye Greets Aquatennial Queen

Queen of the Minneapolis Aquatennial Pat Wilson is greeted by Senator Edward J. Thye on her recent visit to the nation's capital. Miss Wilson, a native of Granite Falls, Minnesota, toured the East and visited Florida in the interests of the famed Aquatennial. She will reign over the August festivities when a new Queen of the Lakes is to be chosen. Senator Thye served as guide for the Minnesota delegation and arranged for Queen Pat to present Vice President Richard Nixon wiht an invitation to the Minneapolis event during the Centennial Year. Nixon was also made an honorary skipper of the Aquatennial.

WILDLIFE in Minnesota
by JIM KIMBALL

Last time we talked about how game and fish funds are spent and we pointed out that unless some change is made, there could be a drastic cut in the money available for, and the services performed by, the Division of Game and Fish in the next biennium.

Now, I think it is only fair that you should have a picture of the game and fish transfers—what they are for and the amount of each. Please keep in mind that certain transfers are necessary and just, and if you believe some of the transfers are excessive, it isn't anybody's fault. These transfers have been going on for many years, but now we have reached the point where the large game and fish surplus which built up during the war is at the point of exhaustion. The appropriation to the division of game and fish for this year, excluding revolving funds was $3,255,601. This may well be time to take a fresh look at the transfers which are listed below:

Conservation Administration
Conservation Administration	$272,000.00
Division of Forestry	50,000.00
Division of Waters	199,000.00
Wolf, Fox, Bobcat and Lynx Bounty	145,000.00
Game Wardens Retirement	35,000.00
Dept. of Administration (5%)	170,000.00
Dept. of Health, Water Pollution	55,000.00
	$926,000.00

Now, a few words about each of these transfers. The $272,000 for conservation administration is a service charge within the department of conservation for time-keeping, bookkeeping, cost accounting, handling of licenses, etc. I am pleased to report that Commissioner Selke is directing a careful review of the services, programs, incomes and cost within the Conservation Department. If this cost is found to be out of balance, I am sure we can depend upon an adjustment.

Fifty thousand dollars each year goes to the division of forestry to be used in forest fire control. Forests are important to wildlife. Forests are also important to all the people of Minnesota. Should those who hunt and fish have a special tax for forest fire protection, or not? Take your choice.

About the same thing can be said for game and fish funds paid to the division of waters. Certainly this division carries on functions which are highly important, both to the game and fish division and our wildlife resource. Whether or not the charge should be almost $200,000, which is over 60% of the entire budget for that division, might well be looked into. Here again, we can be sure that this is being studied by the Commissioner.

The transfer for bounty payments on predatory animals is listed as $145,000. This is usually over-spent and deficiency appropriations can be expected to bring it up to about $170,000. I think we could make much better use of this large slice of the pie. You may disagree, but please don't until you have the facts. Many of these facts will soon be published in a booklet entitled: Predators in Minnesota—their Role and Control. Drop us a line if you want a copy.

The game warden retirement fund is supported by 1% of license revenue, which amounts to approximately $35,000 a year. This is the law and I haven't heard anyone objecting to it.

Since 1939, 5% of game and fish revenue has gone to the Department of Administration for facilities and services provided. When this law was passed 19 years ago, this 5% amounted to $38,000. Now, because more licenses are sold at higher prices, the figure is $170,000 a year. The division of game and fish must have these services and must pay for them. It is only a question of how much should be paid.

Forty-four percent ($55,715) of the water pollution control work done by the department of health is paid for from game and fish funds. Certainly it is important to protect our fish from polluted waters, but there is the point of view that neither the fish nor the fishermen do the polluting so possibly the wrong people are paying too much of the control costs.

I hope you realize that it is truly a privilege for a public servant to be in a position to lay this information before the people of the state and discuss it freely. Of course, these are public records, but believe me, not all game and fish directors in this country have such complete freedom to discuss facts and finances with the people that is permitted her in Minnesota. May it always be thus.

Be on Lookout for Bright Red Ducks

If you see a bright red duck this spring, the Florida game and fish commission would like to hear about it.

Personnel of the Florida commission have been engaged in banding and dyeing ducks at Titusville, on the central east coast of the state.

Only scaup, however, have been dyed a bright red.

They are most anxious to receive information on all observations of these birds and would like to know the location, date, number and color of any sight records of recoveries.

This information may be sent to the Minnesota game and fish division, State Office Building, St. Paul 1, who will forward it on to Florida.

"The man who does not work for the love of work, but only for money is not likely to make money nor to find much fun in life."

—Charles M. Schwab

Our Depreciating Dollar

At his press conference last week President Eisenhower indicated that he is taking a calmer view of the recession. For a while he was contributing a little too much to the general hysteria by going along with all the crazy ideas, advocating the use of public money to spend ourselves into prosperity. He leaned a little toward tax reduction at a time when existing taxes were not producing enough revenue to make both ends meet.

The present loose thinking about the need for public spending as a means of maintaining a high level of prosperity probably is based on the popular delusion that it was a big public works program that pulled us out of the big depression. There is room for reasonable doubt as to whether the attempts at pump priming prior to mad-man Hitler's campaign to conquer the world were helpful or harmful to the recovery process. At any rate our country's financial statement tells us that we have not yet recovered from the recovery.

The administration's more moderate attitude, observers tell us, is based on a realization that our greatest danger still is inflation. We have approached the point where the depreciated value of our dollar is a cause for serious concern. For those of us who are getting along to the time when we hope to be able to survive in retirement on our savings, it is encouraging to know that inflation is still recognized by responsible people as the most serious threat.

The Price Support Veto

Now that President Eisenhower has vetoed the bill that would have frozen farm price supports for a period of one year, we may settle back and observe the consequences. He defends his position by declaring it to be in the best interests of agriculture from the long range standpoint. In this he has the support of some farm groups and most economists. Advocates of the "freeze" on the other hand have strong support among farmers themselves and some of the farm organizations that speak for them. Farm-state members of Congress were almost solidly against the lowering of supports.

If past experience is used as a guide to what we may expect in the future the prospect is not too discouraging. A few years ago, we recall, the administration on several occasions did not go along with the demands of some powerful farm leaders who thought the government should bolster the market for such commodities, for instance, as eggs and pork and beef. Sokesmen for the organized beef and hog producers asked the government not to meddle with the market, expressing confidence that it would be in the best interests of established producers to permit the necessary adjustments to come in a normal way.

Time has proven this to be the wise course. Had the government established a price base for eggs and beef and pork we now would be building bigger and better warehouses to handle the surpluses, and the producers proably would be getting instructions from government agencies on production limitations. We think it is well that Ezra Benson had the courage to say "no" at that time and there is the possibility that time may prove him to be right in his present unpopular position.

Thinking in terms of the dairy industry, which means so much to our area, the lowering of price supports will have one good effect if it results in greater interest among leaders of the industry in the development of a self-help plan. We think it is fair to state that the dairy industry has itself to thank for most of its difficulties; that much of the assistance that has been given to the industry in various ways has actually been detrimental to the best interests of the producers because it has delayed self-help.

The greatest contribution the government could make to the industry in the encouragement of a sound production and marketing program probably would be to withdraw all supports and remove all barriers to the sale of dairy products, providing adequate protection to the consumer by enforcing uniform standards of sanitation and quality throut the country.

Uniform standards of quality, free markets and a good production and marketing program controlled by the industry itself, would, we believe, give to the dairy producers the fair return for their products that they certainly deserve.

A Buyers' Strike?

During the first two months of 1958 users of installment credit in this country reduced their indebtedness by $800 million. During that period there were substantial increases in savings in various forms and purchases of life insurance were at an all-time high. Folks are spending less and saving more.

We can see nothing particularly alarming about such a trend. The money that is salted away as savings today will be available for spending tomorrow.

There is no panic in the country; no fear of bank failures. Business volume is off a little from last year's peak but in terms of averages we still are in a period of prosperity with employment up close to the record high. A few industries that have priced themselves out of the market are having a little difficulty, but maybe a buyers' strike now and then serves a useful purpose.

Each year we make a pie-counter bet that the ice will be out of the river by the 10th of April. Most of the time, it seems, we buy the coffee and doughnut. Today is April 10 and now we can't remember who the stupid fellow is who thought the ice would still be with us. Anybody have a guilty conscience?

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

Several big corporations say that they won't make this spring's college graduates the same high salary offers they have in the past few years. How humiliating for the young man to have to start out on less money than his father is making.

Some men shop for their wives; others just take who-ever happens along.

We've made great medical progress in the last generation. What used to be merely an itch is now an allergy.

Looking Backward

1898—SIXTY YEARS AGO

P. Engebrand, for ten years town clerk in Rocksbury, is reported to be considering filing for the office of County Commissioner on the Populist ticket. —A group of local men and women were dumped into the river when the four-horse stage in which they were riding on the river ice broke thru. All were rescued however.—Chas. Robbecke Jr. is recovering from a recent illness.—Dan Patterson of St. Hilaire cried an auction sale in Rocksbury.

1928—THIRTY YEARS AGO

The county board decided to motorize the road patrol system, starting first on the Elwell road east of Goodridge.—Izak Helseth, former local manager of the Minneapolis Bridge Co., was in this city to dispose of some of the company's property.—H. A. Pratt was reelected president of the Rotary club.—Julien Provencher heads a group of local men who will open a milk pasteurizing plant at LaBree av. and Second st.—The Spaulding farm of Warren auctioned 68 purebred Holstein cattle at the state fair grounds for an average of $388.00 each.

1937—TWENTY YEARS AGO

On the occasion of his retirement as secretary of the Civic and Commerce assn. after ten years service Paul A. Lundgren was presented with an outboard motor. L. W. Rullen succeeded him in office.—John J. Weeks, pioneer local resident, died April 2 at the age of 75.—The post-office at Erie, established in 1904, was discontinued April 1, and will be served by a mail route out of Goodridge.

1947—TEN YEARS AGO

Millard Dailey of Red Lake Falls was elected president of the Red Lake Electric Co-op, succeeding V. E. Copp of TRF, who was named vice president.—Service on the Wheat Line has been reduced to a tri-weekly basis due to the current coal strike.—A total of $3,582 was collected in the Pennington Co. Red Cross drive, more than $1,000 above the quota.—Paul A. Lundgren was named chairman of a committee to arrange for a festival in July to celebrate the start of the Red Lake river channel improvement project.—Mrs. E. B. Benson was installed as worthy matron of the local Eastern Star chapter.

A good thing to remember when sitting down to the table is that weight rhymes with ate.—Wall Street Journal.

The U.S. has 14,175 banks, the top 300 of which accounted for $120 billion in deposits at the end of 1956, 55% of the total.

SENATOR THYE Reports TO YOU

from the UNITED STATES SENATE

Northwest Airlines

The decision last week by the Civil Aeronautics Board to grant Northwest Airlines authority to fly a Chicago-Miami route with intermediate stops is exceedingly important. It will open an entire new avenue of traffic for Northwest and will do much to strengthen its position as a major air carrier. This decision is also important from the standpoint of business and economic growth in the Midwest. It affords Minnesota an excellent opportunity to promote its own tourist trade with Floridians and citizens of other southern states. This new link to the South also contributes much to the status of the Twin Cities as a major commercial air center.

Oil Import Quotas

In a letter addressed to President Eisenhower on March 28, I have urged careful reconsideration of the present policy of placing quotas on the import of crude oil into the United States. I am particularly concerned on two points: 1. The import of Canadian crude into this country, and, 2. The position of the small refineries in our present economy. The small refiners of Minnesota and the Upper Midwest are dependent to a great extent on the import of Canadian oil. To place a quota on Canadian imports works a hardship on these refiners and also works against our excellent relations with Canada.

Natural Gas

Hundreds of communities in Minnesota and surrounding states have waited patiently for the extension of natural gas to serve industry, municipalities and homeowners. The Federal Power Commission has been considering the now famous "Minnesota case" for some time. Recently, companies involved in the Minnesota case filed applications to serve the vast Chicago-Gary area. I have requested assurance from the Federal Power Commission that Minnesota and its citizens will not be adversely affected by any other proceedings. I would not approve a diversion of gas intended by any other proceedings. I would not approve a diversion of gas intended for Minnesota into any other areas and will work against any such plans.

Attack on Recession

The attack on the recession continues to roll on in Washington. The Administration and the Congress already have shown that steps will be taken to provide for the release of funds already appropriated. These funds would be used for public work projects, the passage of housing and highway bills, stepped-up defense buying and numerous other measures. The big question now is: Will there be a tax cut before Congress adjourns? The sentiment for such a cut is growing here in Capitol Hill. The question now is when and what type of reduction? The final decision will be made after the Easter recess. I have already sponsored tax relief measures for small business firms and am studying further tax cut moves.

This week (April 7-10) will mark the 10th Anniversary of the World Health Organization (W.H.O.), a specialized agency of the United Nations. Beginning May 26th, the 11th Annual Assembly of WHO will be held in Minneapolis—the first time the Assembly has ever met in the United States. I was very honored to learn last week that my name has been put before Vice President Nixon to be a Congressional Advisor to this world-wide Assembly. I will look forward to representing Congress in Minneapolis. The fact that our Minnesota has been chosen above all others is a genuine tribute to the Minnesota WHO and Centennial Committee under the chairmanship of a medical trailblazer—Dr. Charles W. Mayo—and to the reputation our State holds as a leader in medical research and development.

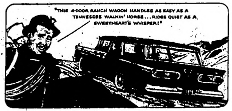
Tennessee Ernie Ford tells you why
"FORD STATION WAGON LIVIN' IS THE LIFE!"

You can have Thunderbird V-8 GO, up to 300 mighty horsepower, in any Ford wagon you choose. Or select the thrifty Mileage Maker Six.

Or make yours the 2-door Ranch Wagon. With all of its advanced styling it's still the lowest-priced* wagon you'll find in the low-price three.

To make an impressive arrival, choose the Del Rio Ranch Wagon. This 2-door wagon has a high-style air that will gather envious glances wherever you drive.



"THIS 4-DOOR RANCH WAGON HANDLES AS EASY AS A TENNESSEE WALKIN' HORSE . . . RIDES QUIET AS A SWEETHEART'S WHISPER!"

"ROOM FOR TEN LITTLE INDIANS OR NINE BIG CHIEFS IN THE COUNTRY SEDAN!"

Nine fit fine into this handsome 4-door wagon. And its equally big brother, the Country Squire, features mahogany-like side paneling . . . a Ford styling exclusive!

There's nearly nine feet of level floor space in the 6-passenger Country Sedan. And its wrap-around liftgate operates with one hand!

Ford sets the pace in wagon styling . . . outsells its nearest competitor nearly 50%. And Ford wagons are the lowest priced* of the low-price three.

BARBECUED CHICKEN DINNER. Broil frozen chicken parts, basting generously with a tangy barbecue sauce. Glaze canned onions, season up frozen peas. This party dish calls for Coca-Cola—the drink so well loved it is enjoyed over 58 million times each day.

DEVILLED CRAB MEAT. Combine canned crabmeat with soft bread crumbs, dry mustard. Season, moisten with milk—sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs, bake. Serve with ice-cold Coca-Cola—the drink with such universal acceptance it is acclaimed in over 100 countries.

With COKE and these quick-fix foods you're ready to give a Party from your Pantry!

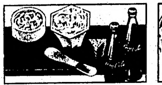
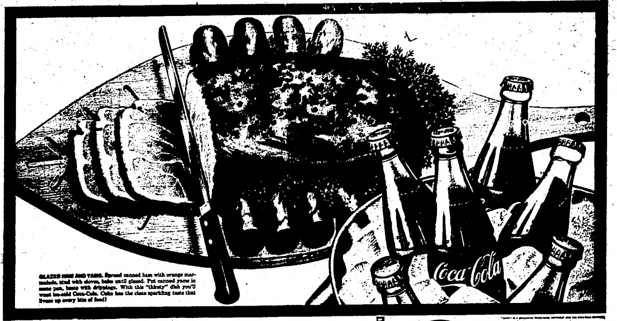
See the display at your grocer's now

A well-stocked pantry is a good wife's pride and joy. From it she can produce a family meal . . . a company dish . . . a midnight treat. It saves time and worry—and for the "working gal" is an absolute must! So, tomorrow, why don't you stock up on these "come-in-handy" foods. You'll find all kinds of interesting foods at your grocer's from which you can whip up impromptu meals. Pile your shopping basket high, and lay in plenty of Coke—your best friend on so many occasions. Coke will welcome guests . . . brighten meals . . . brighten you when you want refreshment.



CHEESE SPREADS. Any spread tastes better with Coke. Try American with chopped anchovies; Roquefort with onion. With a variety of spreads, crackers and Coke on hand—you're all set for a tasty treat. So good in taste—in such good taste—Coca-Cola is a grace note in good living.

FRUIT SALAD LUNCHEON. Chill canned fruits. For a "dressy dressing" stir whipped evaporated milk into mayonnaise, add diced maraschino cherries and slivered almonds. Serve hot muffins and ice-cold Coca-Cola. You show your own good taste in serving Coke—favorite of the world.



GLAZED HAM AND YAMS. Spread canned ham with orange marmalade, stud with cloves, bake until glazed. Put canned yams in same pan, baste with drippings. With this "thirsty" dish you'll want ice-cold Coca-Cola. Coke has the clean sparkling taste that livens up every bite of food!

WE CALLED YOU BEFORE THIS COMMITTEE TO GET YOUR VIEWS ON OUR DEFENSE SETUP, GENERAL.
WELL, THE SETUP IS GOOD IN SOME RESPECTS AND BAD IN OTHERS.
ARE YOU GETTING ENOUGH MONEY TO PUSH YOUR PROGRAM THROUGH?
I THINK YOU HAVE TO LOOK AT THE PROS AND CONS.
WOULD YOU LIKE MORE COOPERATION BETWEEN THE ARMED SERVICES?
I GUESS THERE ARE ADVANTAGES AND DISADVANTAGES.
LET'S TAKE A BREAK... COFFEE, GENERAL?
WELL, YES AND NO.
THESE ANT COLONIES ARE SO INTERESTING...
THEY'RE VERY CIVILIZED!
LOOK AT THEM MARCHING ALONG! I WONDER WHAT THEY'RE DOING?
WHAT'S THAT LONG WHITE THING THEY'RE RAISING?

Historic Old Mill in State Park Restored

Restoration of the historic flour mill in Old Mill State Park, situated in almost the exact center of Marshall county, is about complete, Ernest Jewell, Old Mill Park superintendent, announced today.

Sustained effort of the Marshall county historical society and many interested civic leaders has made the restoration possible. According to U. W. Hella, director, division of parks, plans for the restoration were inaugurated as early as 1937 when the site was acquired by the state for use as a park.

In 1881 Lars Larson migrated from Sweden to Marshall county taking land in Foldahl Township. In 1888 he built a water-powered grist mill using native stone for the buhrstones. This mill was washed away by high water some time during the early 90's. Later it was rebuilt using wind for power which method did not prove successful. Steam power was resorted to about 1896 when a second-hand portable Case steam engine was purchased.

The mill stones, imported from France, and used in a mill in Grand Forks, North Dakota were converted for use in a roller mill and then hauled by ox team to the present site. The mill was operated until acquired by the state in 1937.

In 1952 a fund of $1,200.00 was raised by popular subscription in Marshall county to restore the building.

During the past winter the machinery was installed and about 3,000 lbs. of flour was ground. According to Ernest Jewell the mill will be used for custom grinding of grain but will not be used to grind flour for resale.

A dedication of the restored mill at Old Mill State Park is planned for Sunday, June 1. The Marshall county historical society has extended invitations to Governor Freeman and other state officials to take part in the ceremonies. The mill will grind flour during the entire day for the benefit of the public.

Russell Fridley, director of the Minnesota Historical Society praised the efforts of the Marshall county committee and said "This is one of the finest jobs of historical restoration which has been called to my attention."

Dental Assistant Group to Convene

To Hold 1958 Convention in St. Paul April 14 to 16

The Minnesota Dental Assistants association will hold its annual state convention in conjunction with the 75th Jubilee Minnesota Dental association meeting April 14 through 16 in St. Paul.

Miss Patricia Fitzgerald, Minneapolis, president, will preside over the pre-convention board meeting on Sunday afternoon and the business session on Monday.

Program chairman, Miss Rosemary Borgert, St. Cloud, announced the following speakers Tuesday morning: Dr. A. E. Kopp, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, will be the key-noter with his lecture on "The Training and Integration of Office Auxiliary Personnel", Dr. Allen Bard, Minneapolis, will give a talk on "Psychological Importance of Dental Ethetics", and Mr. Hamilton Ross, Minneapolis, speaks about health and accident insurance.

Tuesday afternoon will feature the clinic program with Mrs. Robert Komarek, St. Paul, as chairman.

The annual banquet on Tuesday evening, will be held in the main banquet room, Lowry Hotel, St. Paul.

To Honor Teen-age Code Communities

Governor to Give Awards at Conference Apr. 28-29

Governor Orville L. Freeman will present certificates of award to organizations and communities throughout the state who sponsored teen-age codes. The awards will be made at the Governor's conference on children and youth April 28th and 29th in the Leamington Hotel, Minneapolis. The Governor in accepting the report of an Awards Committee headed by Willard E. Hanson of the state department of education stated:

"Local teen-age code discussions have developed clear rules and understanding relating to teen-age conduct, and since the Minnesota code was originated at the 1956 Governor's conference every state in the nation has written for copies and advice on how a code could be adopted. This important contribution to youth in Minnesota as well as the nation must be recognized".

Judge Theodore B. Knudson, chairman, Governor's advisory council on children and youth, stated the awards will be based on the part parents and youth played in planning and adopting a code, methods used in making youth and the community aware of the code, how effective it has been in setting standards for teen-age conduct and the plan for periodic evaluation of the code.

Award application blanks were mailed this week to all communities in the state. Additional blanks may be secured from the Governor's Advisory Council on Children and Youth, 129 State Office Building, St. Paul 1, Minn.

VA Gives Policy on Hospitalization

Says Non-service Cases Must Give Proof of Need

Veterans are responsible for the accuracy of statements on which they are hospitalized by Veterans Administration for nonservice - connected disabilities, the agency said today.

W. B. Carroll, manager of the Fargo Veterans Administration center, said wartime veterans without service-connected disabilities may be admitted for nonservice-connected conditions when beds are available, provided they state under oath they are not able to pay for the needed care.

He said along with the oath the veteran is required to file a statement of his financial assets and liabilities.

Before hospital admission, the veteran is given an opportunity to review this statement and compare his ability to pay with an estimate of the amount the needed care would cost in private hospitals, Mr. Carroll said.

Emergency patients, however, may be admitted immediately on arrival at the hospital and may complete the financial statement and oath later when their condition permits, he said.

Mr. Carroll said VA hospital managers have been instructed to report to VA Central Office in Washington, D. C., any cases that may occur in which the statement of inability to defray expenses of hospitalization clearly appears incorrect.

Federal laws provide both criminal and civil penalties for making false statements in connection with claims for VA benefits, Mr. Carroll said.

Final Rites Held Friday for Rasmi Nelson

A large crowd of relatives and friends from Karlstad, Strandquist, Greenbush and Grafton, N. Dak. areas gathered last Friday in the Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Newfolden to pay their last respects to Mr. Rasmi Nelson of Newfolden who was laid to rest in the Oak Grove cemetery.

Mr. Nelson was born June 27, 1872 in Langland, Denmark and passed away at the hospital in Karlstad April 1, 1958 after a series of strokes and amputation of his leg.

Julius Hoseth and Rev. Thorwald Myhrer, all of Newfolden officiated at the service.

Rev. Julius Hoseth, Mr. Albert Gudim and Mr. Harvey Dyrud, also accompanied by Mr. Gudim sang a couple of duets and a solo.

The honorary pallbearers were postal employees with whom he had shared so many responsibilities for 26 years before retiring from active service at Strandquist. Those were the days he had to use horses in bad roads, lots of snow and bad weather. They were namely: Ingvald Rokke, John Dyrud, Hjalmer Haugen, Clarence Cook, Ed Stennes and Emil Dyrud. The active pallbearers were Basil Elseth, Lester Elseth and Junior Elseth, George Monroe, James Monroe and Douglas Thun.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hanson spent Easter Sunday with Mrs. Rasmi Nelson at Newfolden.

The antenna at the home of Ed Stennes blew down Saturday and Mrs. Mabel Olson had a chimney fire.

One Washington minister, discussing the film, The Ten Commandments, counseled his congregation: "Now that you've seen the movie, read the book." —Quote.

Youth—BY THE DRAWERFUL

In a nation as big as ours there is always a tendency to overlook the individual and to think only of groups. Youth gets the brunt of this generalizing.

About three percent of our boys and girls are delinquent. But some folks would have us believe that every child is a potential delinquent.

Time we realized that children aren't chicks! They don't grow up by the drawerful to have the same characteristics and habits.

Children respond to love, parental example, religious guidance. They possess an ever-increasing aptitude for responsibility, trust, and faith.

Most of our boys and girls will grow up to assume their rightful place in an orderly, Christian society. Some will populate our jails. But the destiny of the individual youth is not a matter of chance and percentage . . .

It is determined primarily by the conscientiousness of loving parents, and by the persistency with which his natural religious interests are cultivated.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

PLYMOUTH... TODAY'S BEST BUY... TOMORROW'S BEST TRADE

You get more for your money in a new Plymouth! Regardless of model or price, you get a full 118-inch wheelbase . . . a revolutionary new suspension system — Torsion-Aire — that gives you the world's most level ride . . . Total-Contact Brakes that stop you faster, smoother, with 30% less lining wear . . . modern Silver Dart styling that will still be beautiful years from now . . . plus dozens more. Remember: the other two low-price cars charge from $125 to $140 extra for their top rides, and don't offer Plymouth's other great features at any price! Plymouth is today's best buy!

When trade-in time comes, Plymouth will still be the only 1958 car in the low-price "3" with Torsion-Aire Ride, Total-Contact Brakes and all those other features that put it so far out in front. Naturally, it will bring you a higher price than less modern cars! That's why we say the new Plymouth is tomorrow's best trade! See your Plymouth dealer and make the best deal of your life!

Clean-up Week Starts Today in T. R. Falls

Mayor Belch Appeals to Householders to Improve Premises

Local householders are expected to be busy with brooms, rakes, shovels and paint brushes this week, following the issuance by Mayor O. D. Belch of a proclamation calling for the observance of the period from April 14 to 19 as Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up Week in Thief River Falls.

The proclamation was reinforced Thursday by the official Clean-up order published in the Times by Dr. H. Paul Wendt, city health officer, who will make his annual sanitary inspection at the close of the period.

Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up is not just a one-week program but a guide for better civic living, according to Mayor Belch.

"The future of our city is dependent on the traits shown during our clean-up campaign, namely, cooperation, progressiveness, and energetic interest," he declared. "Through demonstration of these qualities in the next few weeks, we should set a pattern for the rest of the year.

"The results we accomplish and the habits of cleanliness and beauty which we acquire will persuade tourists to stop over in our city, will create an environment which will attract new industry and citizens. New industry means many new jobs, with special opportunities for our youth.

"Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up is, in reality, a key to health, beauty, safety, fire prevention, new business, industry, and good citizenship."

Mrs. L. Ecklund to Go to Laywomen's Session in Capital

Will Serve as Delegate from Retreat League of Crookston Diocese

Mrs. Lawrence Ecklund of this city leaves today for Washington, D. C., where she will attend the legislative council of the National Laywomen's Retreat Movement, April 18-20. She will represent the Retreat League of the Crookston diocese as its official delegate.

Other delegates from Minnesota include Miss Inez Quinn, Mrs. Edna Reimer, and Miss Helen Carroll, all of Minneapolis.

Purpose of the local and national organizations is to promote closed retreats for all laywomen. Mrs. Ecklund explained that a closed retreat is a period of 48 hours or more of unbroken residence at a retreat house while following spiritual exercises under the direction of a retreat master.

Mrs. Ecklund is a charter member of the Diocesan League and captained one of the two retreats held at Mount Saint Benedict last summer.

The Retreat League of the Crookston Diocese is arranging for two summer retreats at Mount Saint Benedict, Crookston June 6 to 8, and August 15-17.

Daily Review Published as Reservation Opened

Receipt of an unusual item for the collection of the Pennington County Historical society was announced late last week by Judge Herman A. Kjos, president.

It gives definite proof that a daily newspaper was published in Thief River Falls more than 50 years ago. At least one issue was printed, for the item referred to is a well-preserved copy of Volume I No. 1 of the Daily Review, published [illegible] 20, 1904, the day of the Red Lake Indian reservation lands were opened to settlement.

The relic was found in a house in Kratka township, formerly the home of Mrs. Oline Gunderson, mother of Mrs. Kjos.

Mother Rescues 4 Children from E.G. Forks Blaze

Mrs. Kenneth Olson Pushes Youngsters to Safety Thru Window

A mother pushed her four children through a small window and then squeezed through it herself Friday to escape a fire which destroyed a home just outside East Grand Forks.

Mrs. Keneth Olson suffered a slashed arm when she pushed the children, three still in their night clothes, out the small ground-floor window. Her husband had gone into the city to buy baby food when the fire broke out about 8 a.m.

The four children—Bonnie Kay, 6; Wayne, 4; Gail Ann, 2, and Edward, 6 months—all escaped injury.

The fire broke out in the kitchen and was discovered by the oldest girl. Mrs. Olson pushed three of the children through a bedroom window to safety, then went upstairs to get the four-year-old boy, who still was sleeping.

"On the way down I didn't think we'd get out," she said later. "There was too much smoke to see the way. Somehow I got to the window and pushed Wayne out and crawled out myself."

Beer Stolen from Truck Saturday

Five Juveniles in Court on Charges of Smoking

A beer truck driver, Dennis Sullivan, city, reported 11 twelve-packs of strong beer stolen from his truck about 9:30 a.m. Saturday while he was parked behind the local liquor dispensary, police said today.

No trace was found of the culprits, who probably downed the evidence over the week-end.

Also reported Saturday was a court session before Judge H. O. Chommie, in which four juvenile boys and a girl were charged with smoking in public. Upon pleading guilty the boys were sentenced to spend Saturday and Sunday in the city jail, sentence suspended. The girl was to spend the same time confined at her home but sentence was suspended in her case also.

Only one accident was reported, despite unusually nice April weather which brought out swarms of motorists. About $45 damage resulted about 9 a.m. Sunday when the car driven east on James st. by Mrs. A. C. Seitz, city, was struck on the right front fender by a car driven by Curtis J. Lemky, city, who was driving north on Kendell av. S. Damages were estimated at $35 to the Seitz car and $10 to the Lemky car. Neither driver was tagged.

Drs. W. P. Kaisler and R. M. Helm will leave Tuesday to attend the golden anniversary convention of the Minnesota Chiropractic association, in St. Paul April 17, 18 and 19. Over 500 delegates are expected to attend the meeting which will feature clinics dealing with the science, philosophy and practice of chiropractic.

In preparation for the annual election of officers of the Junior Chamber of Commerce to be conducted Thursday evening, April 17, in the Legion club rooms, a slate of candidates was placed in nomination at a meeting last Thursday.

The nominating committee submitted the name of Glenn Peterson for the office of president to succeed N. H. Kortuem. Other nominees include Stan Gibson and Bruce Hall respectively for first and second vice president; John Elsbrener, secretary; Peter Jepsen, treasurer; and Kortuem, state director.

Proposed by the committee for the three posts as director to be filled were Ralph Foster, Milo Gulbranson, Bob Gramstad, Gary Forsberg and Kermit Eastman, while nominated from the floor were Chuck Meister, Kermit Kemnitz and Lew Johnson.

Following a discussion, the chapter voted in favor of organizing a Centennial Whisker club, which will start functioning on May 1. Dr. George Martin was named chairman of a committee charged with working out details of the contest.

Series of Auto Thefts Reported

Cars Taken at Thorhult and in Thief River Falls

City police reported today that Donald F. Wentzel, 227 Merriam av. N. had reported his 1956 Ford 2-door sedan, lic. No. 9G-6314, white over red two-tone finish, stolen sometime during the early morning of April 12 or the evening of the 11th.

The car was parked in front of the Wentzel residence when taken, Wentzel said. Police found a 1953 Mercury, dark green in color, which had been stolen from the Vernon Holthusen farm near Thorhult, near the Wentzel residence. The car was found about 10 minutes after a highway patrol alert had been sounded.

Holthusen came after his car the same day and he reported that a 1953 Plymouth had been abandoned at the highways 1 and 89 intersection about 14 miles from his farm. This car had been stolen at Loman, according to highway patrol reports.

The Holthusen car had hit a sign east of the Eighth st. bridge before being abandoned near the Wentzel residence, police stated. At present nothing has been heard concerning the Wentzel car.

The keys had been left in both the Holthusen and Wentzel cars, police said.

Warden Warns vs. Starting Fires

Says Burning Permit Must First Be Obtained

Game Warden Carl Sundstrom this week repeated his earlier warning that fields and woods in Pennington county and surrounding area are tinder-dry and that anyone burning fields or brushland without a burning permit from a fire warden or township representative will be subject to prosecution.

Sundstrom noted that one man died while fighting an illegally set fire last week and thousands of acres of brushland and timber were destroyed in another illegal fire. Both fires were in the northeast part of the state and in the case of the latter fire which did so much damage, a farmer is being prosecuted for setting the fire.

Some fires were observed burning northeast of Thief River Falls over the weekend and Sundstrom warned that, unless burning permits are secured, those who disregard his warning will face prosecution.

59-Hi Theatre Is Open for Season

The 59-Hi outdoor movie theatre a short distance east of this city on Highway 59 opened Saturday for the spring and summer season. Rock Hudson in "Battle Hymn" is the attraction this evening.

Community Chest Unit to Elect Tuesday

All Donors Invited to Attend and Share in Annual Meeting

The Pennington County Community Chest organization will hold its annual meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday, April 15, in the basement meeting room at the Pennington county court house in Thief River Falls, it was announced by David M. Brown of Goodridge, president.

The board of directors will review the results of the last fund raising campaign which was completed recently.

Four new members will be elected to the board to replace those whose terms of office are ending this year. The four outgoing directors are, Charles Emanuel, Harry Oen, Rev. Eldor Person and David Brown, President.

One new member also will be elected to the board to replace Orrin Hall, who has resigned.

All persons, organizations and agencies contributing to the Pennington County Community Chest during its fiscal year are members of the organization and are invited to attend the meeting.

Newfolden School Top Seniors Are Announced Today

Lavonne Davis Is Named Valedictorian; Newell Ueland Is Salutatorian

Valedictorian of the Newfolden senior class of 1958 is Lavonne Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Davis of Holt, it was announced today by Charles C. Fisher, principal. Lavonne has earned an average of 94.42, or better than A- average for grades nine through twelve. In addition to her academic work, she has participated in journalism and dramatics. She is hoping to attend college next fall and is planning to become a science or mathematics teacher.

Salutatorian is Newell Ueland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ueland of Newfolden. Newell has earned an average of 93.56, or almost an A- average, for grades nine through twelve. In addition to his class work, he has been active in Student Council, dramatics, vocal music and sports. He has not yet decided upon a vocation, but hopes to continue his education next year.

Other senior honor students are Ardelle Hjelle, Barbara Cook, Darlyne Hallick, Barbara Johnson, Patricia Anderson, Wilma Gutterud, Cleo Thode, Merle Larson, Mavis Langlie and Jed Garthune.

Over 75 Licenses Purchased by Dog Owners to Friday

Local owners of dogs have been coming into police headquarters at a steady pace recently to procure their licenses for 1958, a total of more than 75 having been issued up to Friday. The city ordinance governing the subject provides that licenses must be bought before April 30. The fee is $2 for males and spayed females and $6 for other females.

County Flier Builds His Own Sport Plane

Shown here is Dale Stark, a stock farmer about 12 miles west of Thief River Falls, who is building the plane, of which the airframe is shown behind him, from approved plans. When completed, the plane will provide Stark with fast, safe transportation at only a fraction of what a commercially-built plane with similar performance would cost. Although the public generally speaking, is unaware of it, this is what the average light airplane looks like when "caught with its fabric down."

Student Council of Lincoln Guests of Bemidji School

Members of the Lincoln high school student council, accompanied by F. Miles Nelson, principal, were guests of the Bemidji high school council last Thursday.

The visit, in exchange for one made by the Bemidji group to the local school in March, was designed to promote good relations between the two schools.

The students attended classes at Bemidji high school, and also took advantage of the opportunity to inspect the facilities of the Bemidji state college.

Community Club at Goodridge to Meet Wednesday

The Goodridge Community club will meet at the school Wednesday evening, April 16, it was announced by David M. Brown, program chairman. He stated that a group from Highlanding will present a play, and Oscar Breiland will present an adult agricultural program. Roland Samber will supply musical selections.

Fate of Northwest Concert Assn. to Be Decided on Tuesday

The future course of the Northwest Concert association will be determined at a meeting of the board of directors in the Community Methodist church Tuesday evening, April 15, at 8 o'clock, Curtis T. Harris, president, announced today.

In a letter sent to board members Thursday, Harris stated that altho letters were sent to all members of the association preceding the recent final concert of the current season, season ticket sales for a concert series next year totaled only $251.

He added that, at a minimum, it will cost well in excess of $1,000 to stage four concerts next year, in addition to which a deficit remains from the current season's operations.

If the association is to continue, said Harris, it will be necessary to make arrangements for talent by May 1, and if it is to fold it will require action by the board of directors.

3 Centers Named for County Play & Music Contests Next Week

Three county centers will be used for the Pennington county 4-H play and music contests to be held the week of April 21, according to county agent Paul Steinmaschuk.

The first contest will be held at Thief River Falls in the Washington school gym starting at 8:00 p.m. on Monday, April 21. The four clubs presenting plays will be Smiley, Mavie, Steiner and Silverton. The clubs to present musical numbers are City View, Double N, and the four clubs which will give plays.

Two other contests will be held on Tuesday, April 22. They will be at St. Hilaire and Goodridge. Both will start at 8:00 p.m. and will be given in the school gyms. The clubs competing at St. Hilaire will be Sanders, Wyanriver, Rocksbury and St. Hilaire. All will present plays and music numbers. The clubs entered at Goodridge are Deer Park, Star, Kratka and Highlanding. Each club will present a play and music number.

The winning play at Thief River Falls, Goodridge and St. Hilaire as well as the two top musical numbers from this city and the top one at Goodridge and St. Hilaire will be given at the county finals to be held Thursday, April 24, in the Lincoln high school auditorium, at 8:00.

The public is invited to attend all the contests. The winning entries from the county will compete at a sub-district contest at Red Lake Falls on May 14.

Association for the Retarded to Elect Thursday

The Northwestern Minnesota Association for Retarded Children will hold its annual business meeting and election of officers Thursday evening, April 17, in the Woman's club room in the basement of the Auditorium. All members are urged to attend, officers stated.

400 Centennial Buttons Sold

About 25 Jaycee salesmen met with a good response last Tuesday and Wednesday evenings when they sold 400 statehood centennial buttons, mostly on the east side of the river. Glen Peterson, committee chairman, stated that the campaign would be continued on the west side next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Separate drives also are being conducted in the Goodridge and St. Hilaire communities.

DFL Convention Slated for Court House Saturday

To Name County Officers and Pick Delegates to State, District Parleys

Pennington county DFL convention will be held Saturday, April 19, at 8 p.m. in the assembly room in the Court house.

Official action of the convention will be voted upon by delegates who were elected at precinct and township caucuses last week, but the meeting will be open to all who wish to attend. Doughnuts and coffee will be served by the ladies.

Business to come before the convention will be to elect officers, endorse candidates, propose suggestions for party platform and select delegates to district and state conventions.

The Ninth district convention will be held at Crookston May 4 and the state convention at Rochester May 23, 24 and 25.

Pennington GOP Convenes Tonight

Chairman Simons Invites All Members to Attend

The Pennington county Republican convention will be held in the municipal Auditorium this evening, April 14, at 8 o'clock, Harry E. Simmons, county chairman, stated today.

In addition to electing a county committee to serve during the next two years, the convention will name delegates and alternates to the district convention and to the state convention to be held in St. Paul June 6 and 7.

Simons invited the attendance at the county meeting of all voters who support the principles of the Republican party.

Details Planned for Old Mill Dedication

Arrangements are shaping up for the dedication of the restored old mill at Old Mill State park Sunday, June 1. George Selke, commissioner of conservation, will be the afternoon's main speaker with other people from the state park department also scheduled.

A big feature of the afternoon will be the actual operation of the restored old mill, a project sparked by Park Superintendent Ernie Jewell. Initial sale of the Marshall County Centennial committee's souvenir flour sacks containing flour ground between the old mill's stones will be made during dedication day.

Among suggestions made at a recent planning meeting for the program were that some old time fiddle music be played. Any and all old time fiddlers are urged to contact one of the committee members.

Another suggestion made was to recall some of the early picnics at the Old Mill picnic grounds long before it became a state park. Anyone who has any such recollections is also urged to contact a committee member so that these remembrances can be related during the program.

The committee planning the program includes: Andrew Strandquist of Warren, Rep. Richard Fitzsimmons of Argyle, Mrs. H. C. Haugen of Newfolden and Park Superintendent Jewell.

Captains Are Selected for Cancer Drive

County Volunteer Chairman Selects Ten Assistants

The 1958 cancer crusade fund drive which is getting underway today, April 14, was reported as all organized and ready to go by Mrs. Ormond Johnson, county volunteer chairman.

The city of Thief River Falls is organized with ten team captains under the direction of Mrs. Olaf Dahlen. Captains are Mrs. George Martin, Mrs. Delwin Schob, Mrs. Clarence Stromberg, Mrs. Victor Kvikstad, Mrs. Joe Norquist, Mrs. Norris Melander, Mrs. Charles Samuelson, and Mrs. Bruce Hall. Each of these captains will work with a team of ten other women and will canvass the residential areas of the city during the coming week.

Business areas will not be canvassed according to Mrs. Johnson.

Teams throughout Pennington county are organizing to conduct the campaign in their respective areas. Mrs. Rudy Kusmak is in charge of the drive for the town of Goodridge and Mayor Cy Shantzen will supervise the drive in St. Hilaire. Each of the 19 other townships that the participating have a local chairman in charge of that township. Early activities in two townships have actually spearheaded the campaign this year, with Melvin Grinde of Silverton township being the first to report their work completed and funds turned in even before the main drive had begun.

Mrs. Johnson praised these early workers and expressed the hope that all others would make an effort to finish up the drive in the scheduled one-week period beginning today.

Goodridge School Plans Pre-school Roundup Friday

Children to Be Brought Into TRF for Physical Exams Following Tuesday

A pre-school roundup for next year's first grade pupils in the Goodridge public school will be held at the school Friday, April 18, Orville Jensen, grade principal, stated this week.

The roundup will get underway at 11:30 with parents meeting in the first grade room and the children in the principal's office, and will close following a noon lunch early in the afternoon when the parents will complete their children's health records under the direction of members of the Goodridge PTA.

Jensen stated that appointments have been made with Thief River Falls physicians to give the children physical examinations on Tuesday, April 22. School buses with the PTA sponsors will transport the group to and from this city.

Clifford Zaffke Resigns Bank Post

To Become Cashier of Crookston Bank May 1

Clifford Zaffke, for the past two years cashier of the Northern State bank, announced today that he is resigning his position effective May 1 to accept a similar post with the Polk County State bank at Crookston.

His family will remain here until the end of the school term.

Zaffke has served as board member and treasurer of the Chamber of Commerce, secretary of Rotary club, treasurer of the Pennington County Sportsmen's club and as a trustee of Trinity church.

George W. Werstlein, executive vice president of the Northern State bank, announced that a successor to Zaffke will be named shortly.

Mrs. Clarence Bottem motored to Detroit Lakes Monday to visit with friends and relatives. She was accompanied home by Everett Stevens, who is spending sometime at her home.

Shootin' the Breeze

BY Mack Draper

The small green sprouts are appearing through cracks in the ground now. Before long these sprouts will widen into spear-shaped leaves, a long stem will materialize from the center of the plant and soon homes all over the city will be proudly wearing borders of tulips in all colors of the rainbow.

I don't know of anything that gives a woman more happiness than success with her tulips. Success with her African violets perhaps—but these can't compete with success in raising the rainbow-hued blossoms from Holland!

About the same time another spiked leaf will be making an appearance through turf in lawns all over the city and countryside. Unlike the tulips however, no tender, loving care will be wasted on these plants.

Quick Henry—the 2-4-D! Gotta kill these dandelions!

One thing I noticed is somewhat unusual this spring. Unless friend wife has already been out in the yard to clear 'em off, there were no beer cans or similar debris thrown our way by passing motorists last winter.

The improvement is noticeable—keep it up, folks! By the way, this is fix-up-clean-up-paint-up-light-up week in Thief River Falls. How's your improvement project coming along?

The power of positive thinking is amazing—but it still can't make an intellectual out of a moron.

The 15th wedding anniversary the Missus and I celebrated Saturday was a most unusual affair. Unusual, that is, because in 14 other celebrations we didn't have to hire a baby-sitter. It's a wonderful difference though!

Something else, also unwelcome as far as the ladies are concerned, will soon be seen sprouting on male chins in the next few weeks. In honor (?) of the Centennial the local Jaycees are promoting the growth of beards in the city. Throw away those razors boys—the kangaroo court, we hear, is going to levy some heavy fines or other punishment on the smooth-shaven men in town.

This will help solve the daily dilemma of a great many males, including yours truly. Until late next summer many of the boys won't have to look in the mirror every morning and ask themselves, "Can I get by without a shave today?"

The answer, for a change, is "Yes"—provided you can put up with the ire of the little woman.

We hear the automobile makers are promising better gas mileage will be a feature of cars to be produced in the near future. Too bad they can't build some better mileage into some of the drivers, too. Many a driver who cusses his car for using too much "go juice" has only his own lead foot to blame.

Something must be wrong. Are your young people becoming soft and decadent? So far not one person has called to announce he was the first water skier on the river this spring.

Or has common sense prevailed? SO LONG!

Local Woodwork Firm Gets 3 Jobs

Gets Contracts at Frazee, Crookston, Grand Forks

A local woodworking firm has been awarded three contracts in connection with large building projects at Frazee, Crookston and Grand Forks, N. D., the firm's president announced last week.

Howard Hoel, Northern Woodwork official here, said the contracts totalling $42,324 were let to his concern recently and that all three will be completed before summer's end.

The largest contract involved doors, counters, shelving, wall paneling and other work on the ultra-modern new Frazee high school, which is scheduled for completion Sept. 1. The amount of the Northern Woodwork contract is $27,920, Hoel said.

On a new building at the Crookston Experiment Station the local firm was awarded a contract in the amount of $13,158 for exterior windows, doors, chalkboard facing, benches, cabinets and wardrobes, Hoel stated.

The smallest contract was for $1240 for exterior windows, doors, frames and moldings in the medical research laboratory at North Dakota University, Grand Forks.

Hardware Clinic Here Wednesday Draws 40 Dealers

Forty hardware dealers and employes from stores in this area affiliated with Our Own Hardware organization attended a spring sales clinic in the Legion club rooms last Wednesday evening. 'This Is Your Life' Offered Tonight by Washington PTA

Unit to Conduct Annual Fund-raising Program in School Gymnasium

Superb acting and a factual historical review will highlight tonight's performance by the male members of the Washington PTA unit. This special TV production is a closed circuit broadcast of station W.A.S.H. according to Lester Vigness, in charge of arrangements. The program will be "piped" directly to the Washington school gymnasium and the PTA has exclusive rights to all royalties.

A charge of 25 cents has been placed on all tickets (box seats included) and local citizens are warned that only several thousand seats are available. Paul Furuseth Edwards will present historical films in a special interview with a present-day citizen of Thief River Falls. As the history of this person is unfolded, viewers will see the history of this progressive community.

The names of the persons to be interviewed and the subject of the "This Is Your Life" program cannot be revealed at this time because in the tradition of Paul Edwards, the interview will come as a complete surprise to most of the cast.

Members of the Washington PTA invite the public to attend the program which is given as the annual fund raising project of the PTA unit.

Lew Conlon Visits Area Past Weekend

Attends Creamery Council Session in Middle River

Lew Conlon, manager of the Minnesota dairy industry committee with headquarters in Minneapolis, late last week spent several days in this locality in the interests of the American Dairy association.

Thursday evening he attended a meeting in Middle River of the Creamery Council, which includes creameries north from Plummer to the Canadian border. He discussed the ADA program and ninth annual Northwest Dairy Day to be held in Thief River Falls early in June.

He attended the annual meeting of the Badger creamery Friday, and of the Greenbush creamery Saturday. He also conferred in Thief River Falls with Stuart McLeod, president of the Northwest Dairy Improvement association, sponsor of Dairy Day.

STEINER . .

4-H Meeting April 18

The Steiner 4-H Club will hold its regular monthly meeting Friday evening April 18, with special business being safety and clothing. Included in the program will be a demonstration by Richard Jorde and a project talk by Carol Jaenette. An officer of the Highway Patrol will be present to speak and show a film on safety, beginning at 9:00 o'clock so it will be necessary to start the meeting promptly at 8:30. A group of girls will sing the numbers with which they will participate in the County Music Contest. The better grooming contestants for the county grooming contest will be picked at this meeting. Serving on the program committee are Shirley Fuller, Dorothy Johnson and Delmer Rodahl, and on the recreation committee are JoAnn Vatnaas, Kenneth Larson and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Larson. The B. J. Vatnaas and Arthur Larson families will serve lunch.

Custer Moe and Elno Johnson returned home Wednesday after visiting at Bradley, South Dakota with relatives and friends since Saturday.

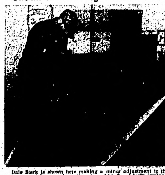
Dale Stark Building Airplane in Home Shop

Checks Plane Wing Construction



Dale Stark is shown here making a minor adjustment to the aileron control framework on the wing of his home-built airplane. He started construction on the plane in late January and is ready to submit his handiwork to a CAA inspector now that the plane is ready for covering. He hopes to have it ready to fly within the next few months. It will cruise about 140 m.p.h. when completed.

One of the most ambitious projects ever attempted in a home workshop in the northwest Minnesota area is taking shape about 12 miles west of this city, where a young stock farmer, Dale Stark, is building an airplane.

Crazy? Not at all! Currently, building airplanes in home workshops is the rage in all parts of the U. S. Members of the flying fraternity, fed up with high prices on the part of commercially-built light airplanes, have taken advantage of a section of Civil Air Regulations which permits restricted licensing of amateur-built airplanes to assemble some racy, but safe, designs which usually outperform the commercial jobs at only a fraction of the cost.

Stark raises feeder cattle on his farm, which leaves him much time for working on such projects in the winter. Having heard of the Experimental Aircraft Assn. headquartered in Hales Corners, Wis., he subscribed to the association's magazine, the Experimenter (recently changed to Sport Flying) and became so enthusiastic he ordered a set of plans last fall and got his project under way in January.

The design Stark decided to build is a small, low-wing, single-seat monoplane. However, he wanted a plane that would carry at least one person besides himself so proceeded to modify the design by widening the fuselage 12 in. making it a total of 30 inches wide, plenty of room for two small to medium sized people.

Odly enough, the family name of one of the plane's designees is also Stark, the other man being a Mr. Salvay. Both are aeronautical engineers with North American Aviation Co. in California. The prototype plane from their plans was built 12 years ago and has since logged over 1000 hours in the air without mishap, which pretty well proves the design's stability and dependability.

The "Stark" under construction by Dale Stark is of conventional construction. That is to say, it has a welded steel tube fuselage and a wood and metal wing, all of which have a fabric covering when completed. The plane has no external bracing.

Stark is doing a very neat job on his project. He is doing all the work himself, even to making the steel fittings for controls and bracing, although he had some help from local metal working concerns on the last two items. Each wing rib is in itself a small truss and each was made painstakingly, one at a time, so that every one is identical in strength and outline—a most important item in an airplane wing. The ribs are what give the wing of an airplane its airfoil shape—and the efficiency of an airplane depends largely on the airfoil alone. The engine merely provides motivation!

"The wood used in the wings is a very select grade of Sitka spruce. There cannot be the tiniest knot or crookedness of grain—these reduce strength. the spars must be machined perfectly true, and every wing and control fitting must be located so it doesn't rub against another fitting, causing wear.

From the nose back to where the wing joins the fuselage the fuselage is light Alclad aluminum. The leading edge (front part) of the wing is also Alclad back to the front spar, as are the trailing edges of the wing and other control surfaces.

For an engine Stark chose a 90 h. p. Continental from Elwood Ehrenstrom, mechanic at the Thief River Falls Airport. With this power the sleek little plane will have a top speed of over 150 m.p.h. and cruising speed around 140. The plane will have a relatively low power loading (weight/horsepower ratio) and since it was designed to allow the run-of-the-mill private pilot to fly it with relative ease and safety, it also has a fairly low wing loading (Weight/wing-area ratio.)

At present Stark has done about all he can do until Arnold Reed, CAA safety inspector, from Fargo, N. D. goes over the plane to see if Stark has complied with all civil air regulations in building the frame.

After this rigid examination is passed he can then cover the plane and, once it is completed, must submit it again to Reed for rigid inspection. After that he can fly it within a 25-mile radius of the local airport. If, after 50 hours, it has not shown any unusual quirks or dangerous flight characteristics it can be licensed for private use, indefinitely, by the CAA. It cannot be flown for hire—in carrying passengers—in the "Sport" or "experimental" category under which it will be licensed.

Nor does Stark care. He doesn't fly for hire anyway, being interested in owning a fast plane purely for personal use. He also owns a Piper Cub which is hangared on his farm and is flown from his airstrip there.

The building of aircraft by amateurs was spurred after WW 2 by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. which, for several years, sponsored midget air races. A veteran combat pilot and now a pilot in the Wisconsin National Guard, Paul Poberezny, and several of his pilot friends, organized the Experimental Aircraft Assn. about eight years ago and it has caught on all over the U. S. since, with chapters in major cities all over the country.

There was a similar movement in home-building airplanes after Lindbergh's epic flight across the Atlantic, and continuing until the mid-1930's. However, many of the planes built in those days were designed by persons incompetent to do this touchy job and this inclination to instability, along with the lack of suitable engines, resulted in several deaths and in turn the CAA came out with such strict regulations that home-built planes almost disappeared from the scene entirely. However, the CAA regulations have been eased in later years.

Stark's plane-building project has aroused considerable interest among flying circles in Thief River Falls and the surrounding area, and you can be assured that he'll have a big audience if word gets around the day he test-flies his little sporister!

Joseph Donarski Succumbs; Rites Set For Thursday

Funeral services for Joseph Donarski will be conducted Thursday, April 17, at 9:30 a. m. in the Assumption Catholic church at Florian with Father Paul Ischler celebrating the requiem mass. Mr. Donarski passed away April 12 at the Warren hospital at the age of 67 years.

Joseph Donarski was born January 12, 1891 in Kittson county and moved with his parents to Marshall county settling in Wright township where he attended school and grew to manhood.

On June 9, 1919, he was united in marriage to Agnes Adamski at the Assumption church in Florian. Mr. and Mrs. Donarski have resided in Wright township where they operated a farm since their marriage.

Survivors include his wife, Agnes; four sons, Raymond and Conrad, both of Argyle, Stanley of this city and Bernard of Knoxville, Tennessee; four daughters, Mrs. John Morkassel (Teresa) of this city, Mrs. August Borowicz (Mary) of Argyle, Miss Loretta Donarski of East Grand Forks, and Mrs. Palmer Storeby (Katherine) of St. Paul. He is also survived by 17 grandchildren, four brothers and seven sisters. He was preceded in death by his parents, one brother and one sister.

The body will repose at the family home in Wright township from 7:00 p. m. on Tuesday evening until time of services Thursday. The Rosary will be recited at 8:00 p. m. Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. Funeral arrangements are by the Collins Funeral Home in Middle River.

Rites for Rasmi Nelson Conducted at Newfolden

Funeral services for Rasmi Nelson were conducted Friday, April 4 at the Bethlehem Lutheran church of Newfolden with Rev. Gordon Bernhson, Rev. Julius Ruseth and Rev. Thorvald Myhrer officiating. Interment was made in the church cemetery. Mr. Nelson passed away April 1 at the Karlstad Hospital at the age of 85 years.

Mr. Nelson was born June 27, 1872 in Langland, Denmark and at the age of 16 years came with his mother to the United States. They settled in North Dakota where he grew to manhood.

In 1895 he was united in marriage to Emma Blom in Warren, and settled in Lincoln township where they made their home for several years. He served as rural mail carrier for 26 years in the Strandquist community.

Survivors include his wife Emma; two sons, Alvin of Newfolden and Rev. Merrill Nelson of Whittier, Calif.; four daughters, Mrs. Karl Myhrer (Florence); Mrs. Ben Elseth (Minnie) of Newfolden; Mrs. William Hanson (Anne) and Mrs. Ella Thun of Strandquist. He is also survived by 16 grandchildren and 26 great grandchildren; one brother, Hans Nelson of Karlstad; two sisters, Mrs. Claudia Hogan of Greenbush and Mrs. Marie Otto of Devils Lake. He was preceded in death by one son.

Last Rites To Be Held Thursday for Hjalmer Bakken

Funeral services for Hjalmer Bakken will be conducted Thursday, April 17 at 2:00 p.m. in the Mission Covenant church with Rev. E. E. Longager officiating. Mr. Bakken passed away Saturday, April 12.

The body will be reposing at the Gulbranson Funeral Home from Tuesday evening until time of services Thursday. A complete obituary will appear in the next issue of the Times.

Mother of Local Woman Succumbs in North Dakota

Funeral services were held Monday in the Turtle Mountain Lutheran church near Carbury, N. D., for Mrs. Karen Dalen, 95, longtime resident of that community, who died Wednesday in a Bottineau hospital.

Mrs. Dalen was born March 30, 1863, in Norway, and came to the United States in 1893. She was married to Sivert Dalen on April 15, 1894, in Bottineau, and they homesteaded in the Carbury community. Mr. Dalen died in 1940.

Survivors are two daughters, Mrs. Matt (Clara) Guttu of Thief River Falls; Mrs. L. F. (Anna) Nelson of Bottineau; four sons, Julius of Bottineau, Gust of Chehalis, Wash., Sigurd of Alhambra, Calif., and Jacob of Los Angeles, Calif.

Secretary Dulles to Speak at Statehood Centennial May 11th

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles will be main speaker May 11 at Minnesota's Centennial statehood day ceremonies in Minneapolis.

His appearance at the event, which will climax a week of Centennial festivities, was announced Saturday by Sen. Thye who personally invited Dulles.

A state department spokesman said Dulles will fly to Minneapolis directly from Paris after a round of European foreign policy conferences.

President Eisenhower, invited earlier by the Centennial commission, will be unable to attend, according to the White House.

The Statehood day program will begin at 2 p. m. in University of Minnesota's Memorial stadium, with representatives of 21 nations participating.

Among these will be Sweden's Prince Bertil, Norway's Princess Astrid, the prime ministers and ambassadors of Norway, Denmark, Finland and Iceland.

Minneapolis Symphony orchestra will perform on a a stage to be erected on the 25 yard line of the stadium football field. The stage will face the bowl end with reserved free seats for 32,000 persons.

Tickets may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Minnesota Statehood Centennial commission, 1058 University avenue, St. Paul 1. Requests must be limited to six tickets.

To Draw Schedule for North Minny Loop Friday Night

Bob Carlson, president of the Northern Minny Baseball league, appointed a three-man schedule-making committee—V. G. (Mugs) Whaley of Fosston, Morris Nornes of McIntosh, and Helmer Homme of Winger—and this committee will, at a league meeting to be held at McIntosh on Friday night, present the 1958 schedule for adoption. According to present plans, the league will begin play on Sunday, May 11th.

If weather and playing conditions prevent the opening of the league schedule on May 11th, these games will be considered as postponed games and be made up as week-day games.

Curtail Foreign Workers in State

Order Issued Recently by Secretary of Labor

Minnesota workers are to be given first call on all employment opportunities that become available this summer and fall. There will be no importation of foreign workers until domestic workers first have had an opportunity to obtain Minnesota jobs.

Secretary James B. Mitchell of the Department of Labor has stated that his Department will not approve requests for foreign labor until and unless domestic workers have had an opportunity to first accept such available job openings. This decision is one of the steps that the State and Federal Governments are taking to ease unemployment in this area.

Commissioner Starkey has sent all employers in the State, who heretofore have been interested in the utilization of foreign labor, a copy of a statement by Secretary Mitchell.

All offices of the Minnesota state employment service have been advised of these decisions by Commissioner Starkey and Secretary Mitchell and steps are to be taken to emphasize the recruitment of domestic workers to fill agricultural jobs that heretofore have held by foreign labor.

AGAIN CHAMP . . . Sugar Ray Robinson, 37, became world middleweight champ for fifth time, regaining title from Carmen Basilio, 30, in Chicago Stadium before 17,976 fans. Both judges voted for Ray, but referee favored Carmen. Each fighter earned $250,000.

This An' That

The University of Kentucky proved in the N.C.A.A. tournament that the secret of winning basketball games is "five men, playing together." The team, nation champion the it is, is not rated on par with some of Kentucky's great teams of the past. Teamwork and the desire to win is credited with bringing the Blue Grass team its fourth N.C.A.A. championship . . . The National Basketball Coaches Association wants the N.C.A.A. to investigate transfer students. The coaches think the N.C.A.A. should put in a rule which would make it necessary for flunked-out players who transfer to sit out two years of basketball competition before resuming play . . . Johnny Lattner, All-American halfback at Notre Dame in 1952 and 1953 will coach football next season at St. Joseph's High in Kenosha, Wisconsin. The new school, with a planned enrollment of 1,500 will field its first team next fall . . . Baseball: heaviest player on major league rosters is Don Newcombe, 240. Lightest is another Dodger, Rodney Miller, 144. Enos Slaughter, 44-years-old, is oldest in majors.

A Strong-armed Staff

With Loren (Sid) Vraa securing a job here on the summer recreation program, and veteran Gene Leslie having returned from a stint in the Army, and youthful Bobby Hallameck completing his freshman year at Minnesota, the baseball Thieves should have available the finest righthanded staff that a local club has had in years.

The three hurlers are primarily fast-ball pitchers, but they also possess an assortment of stuff that serves to keep the opposing batsmen "off balance" and "out of time". Hallameck, who finished his high school career here last season, and whose pitching was a factor in the Prowlers continuing streak as district baseball champions, has many of the mannerisms of the Milwaukee Braves' Lew Burdette. And Bob's as successful as Lew, too.

But these three boys—Sid and Gene and Bob—have additional value to the local club for they are capable all-round ballplayers. They undoubtedly will be used for infield or outfield duty when they aren't fulfilling their pitching assignments.

An Interesting Schedule

Ralph Skay, Prowler athletic director and coach of the high school baseball team, released the 1958 baseball schedule this week. And an interesting slate it is, too.

The Prowlers, the winners of five consecutive 31st district baseball championships, will open the schedule on Friday, April 25th, when they meet coach Curly Gasperlin's Goodridge Huskies in a 2:00 p.m. game at Goodridge.

The schedule, which contains sixteen games, will be concluded on Thursday night, May 29th, with the Bagley Flyers meeting the Prowlers under the lights on the Fair Grounds diamond.

Then comes tournament time, and this year the 31st district and eighth region tournaments will be played here. The district tourney is billed for June 2nd, 4th, and 5th; and the regional tournament will be played on June 10th and 11th.

We're Not So Sure

We've received assurances from the Bridgeman's, the Bjorkman's, and the Len's softball teams that these teams—and they are the league's top ranked clubs—will not "load up" their rosters this season. That's what the managers say, but we have our doubts.

Wayne Paul Goethe had barely crossed the city limits boundary the other day when he ran into a "road block" set up by Bob Carlson, and before he proceeded into town he, Wayne Paul, had to sign a softball contract.

We do hope, though, for the sake of softball interest and the enjoyment of the fans, that the team managers arrive at a "gentlemen's agreement" to prevent the league from becoming lop-sided in player talent.

The T&S Implement team, and they played a creditable game last season, has withdrawn from this season's play, finding it impossible to sign up enough players to field a team.

Couldn't Have been Closer

The Tuesday night Business league entered the final week of competition, last Tuesday night, with four teams—Elks Club, V.F.W., Inga's and Viking Tavern — in contention for the championship. The Elks and Vets were deadlocked for the lead with 50 wins and 31 losses, while Inga's and the Vikings were one game off the pace with 49 wins and 32 losses.

In the opening shift on Tuesday night, the Elks, rolling games 751-848-815, took a pair of games from Inga's, who bowled games of 804-829-781. The Viking Tavern, making a strong bid for the title, chalked up games of 857-763-822, winning a pair of games from Sandvig's Grocery. Sandvig's won the second of the series by a mere four pins, having a 767 to the Vikings 763.

In the late shift, the V.F.W. team—Cliff Stromberg, Roy Jorgenson, Eldon and Del Harbott, and Norm Wennberg — swept their three-game series with the Overvold Motors of Middle River, and as a result the Vets, by a one-game margin, won the league championship.

Mercury Mounts to 70 Mark Sunday

.20 Inch Precipitation Recorded Here Saturday

Three warm days and a cool one, is the capsule story of the weather here since Thursday. Temperatures here ranged from a high of 70 Sunday to a low of 34 Saturday, when hugh snowflakes fell for a short time early that morning, throwing an awful scare into residents who were awake as early as 6 a.m.

Precipitation from the snow and rain that morning amounted to .20 inch, according to KTRF records. The temperature Saturday remained low, with a high of 48 recorded.

Sunday, however, was a different story. Sunday drivers were in their glory, while the river near the Third st. bridge was a beehive of activity with boats of all descriptions being unlimbered for the season. That was the warmest day of the season to date with 70 and local residents made the most of it.

Another pleasant day is in store here with the weatherman predicting a high temperature of 70-75 and a low of 35-45 tonight.

Baudette Bridge Appears Assured

U. S. Agency Authorizes Issuing Call for Bids

A bridge spanning the Rainy river between Baudette and the town of Rainy River, Ontario, is a certainty today, Bridge Chairman T. H. Rowell reported to the Baudette Region Wednesday.

Mr. Rowell said that he had just received a wire from the Homer and Housing Finance Agency, authorizing the advertising for bids, and the call will go out immediately. Several firms are known to be interested in the project, in part or as a whole.

Engineer Sid Stolte is set to swing into action, and there appears to be no doubt that actual construction will begin in June. Some weeks ago Stolte forecast that it might be possible that the bridge would be finished and open to traffic by the fall of 1959.

You probably think today's news is important but, if you want to know how important, read a newspaper that was published in 1957.

If all the advice printed in newspapers and magazines and heard over the radio were collected into one volume, nobody would read it.

Northrop PTA to Note Centennial

To Offer 'I Remember When' Program May 19

The Northrop Parent-Teacher association's budget and finance committee met Thursday afternoon at the home of the chairman, Mrs. Melvile Simon.

Plans are now under way to present a program featuring 100 years of dancing songs and memories of Minnesota in a production called "I Remember When", which will be given Monday, May 19, in Northrop school auditorium.

Costumes are being arranged for by Mrs. Randall Noper, Mrs. Robert Robarge will assist in publicity and in handling the stage settings. Props are now being constructed. Mrs. R. O. Larson states the dance groups are practicing, and Phil Beadle is in charge of lighting.

Mrs. Frank Schmitz, ticket chairman, announces that tickets will be on sale at the April PTA meeting, and can be purchased from members of the unit after that date.

Ted Thorson to Be Honored Sunday

Crookston to Be Scene of Appreciation Banquet

Ted W. Thorson, music director at Crookston high school since 1920, and director of the Ninth district American Legion band since its organization 30 years ago, will be recognized next Sunday, April 20, at 5 p.m. at an appreciation banquet in Crookston.

In addition to his other musical activities, Thorson serves as director of the Northwest Singers association, and for 28 years has directed the annual Easter cantata, "The Seven Last Words of Christ".

A number of Thief River Falls men have served with him thru the years as members of the Ninth district Legion band, which has won a dozen state championships.

Mourning Dove Shot in Guatemala

A mourning dove, banded June 15, 1956 at the Mud Lake national wildlife refuge, was reported killed by Marcos Salazar at Asuncion Mita, State of Jutiapa, Guatemala, Central America. According to Herb Dill, refuge manager, this dove was killed January 28, 1958, a little over a year and a half after being handed. It was approximately 1,900 air miles from Mud Lake when killed.

Rev. Earl Weeks to Retire Next Fall

Former Resident Has Been in Ministry 42 Years

The Rev. Earl Weeks, Hayfield, Minnesota, who in his youth lived in Thief River Falls with his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Weeks, last week announced that he is retiring next fall after 42 years in the ministry.

For the past 20 years he has served as pastor of Trinity Lutheran church at Hayfield, at the same time serving Evanger Lutheran church near Sargeant. He previously had stayed 22 years at his first charge, Kerkhoven and Grove City.

Mrs. Weeks has served as her husband's secretary the past 40 years. They have a son and daughter and four grandchildren. They plan to move to Northfield in the fall.

State Patrolman Nabs Safecracker

Break-ins at Baudette Now Being Investigated

An alert state highway patrolman, Richard Florhaug of Baudette, brought in a truck driver early Sunday morning who is being held pending further investigations of two safe cracking break-ins in Baudette.

Florhaug noticed a pickup truck entering the highway from a sideroad half a mile east of Baudette, and stopped it for disregarding the stop sign. The driver's uncooperative attitude aroused Florhaug's suspicion. A further check revealed a small safe that had been dropped from the truck and the driver was arrested.

Back in Baudette it was discovered that there had been two break-ins, one at the Tangrean Lumber Co. and the other at the Holte Implement. A safe had been forced open at each place and in addition to cracking a large safe at the Implement office a small safe, weighing about 500 pounds, had been trucked away. Later investigation proved the truck had also been stolen from the lumber company.

Only the driver of the truck, who identified himself as Martin L. Benjamin of Duluth was apprehended but is is the opinion of officials that he had accomplices.

At present Benjamin is in jail at Baudette, Sheriff Emmet Chilgren said this morning. The case is being investigated by crime bureau officials and the Baudette Police Cheif, Chilgren said.

Most State Cities in 1958 Have Tax Rates over 200-mill Mark

More than three-fourths of Minnesota's 101 cities and villages with populations of over 2,500 have property tax rates higher than 200 mills in 1958, according to a compilation published in the March issue of Minnesota Municipalities. The highest rate is 577.72 mills at Eveleth, and the lowest is 142.63 at New Ulm.

Total property taxes levied in 1957 for collection this year increased from $193,145,807 (the 1956 levy collectible in 1957) to $217,370,321, be an increase of $24,224,514. This increase is accounted for by a ride in the levy for state purposes of $1,627,066 or 19.3%; in the county levy of $7,327,452 or 18.5%; in the municipal levy of $5,811,221 or 8%; and in the school levy of $9,458,774, or 13%. The total levy increased more than 12.5%

"These figures point to the excessive and rapidly increasing tax burden real and personal property is being forced to carry," Charles P. Stone, general counsel of the Minnesota Taxpayers association, said. "With total taxable values increasing only about 4% over the preceding year, it is obvious that the tax burden is increasing much faster than assessed valuations."

"At a time when most states are making special efforts to relieve the excessive tax burden on personal property as an inducement to new and expanding industry, the States of Minnesota has increased this burden 19% at the state level, and the burden has increased an average of 12.5% at all levels of government," Mr. Stone said.

"Many states leave the entire property tax field exclusively to the local taxing districts; yet the current trend in Minnesota is to increase the state property levy."

"The point where property taxes become confiscatory is hard to determine. But it must not be forgotten that during the 1930's tens of thousands of properties were forfeited to the state because the owners could not afford to pay their taxes based on rates probably well less than half of what now are being levied."

Polio Foundation Seeks to Broaden Use of Vaccine

Opens National Drive to Extend Its Use by Persons of All Ages

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis last week launched an "all-out all-ages" roundup to increase the number of people vaccinated against paralytic polio.

"For the first time since April, 1955, Salk vaccine supplies are sufficiently plentiful to support and all-out vaccination program across the nation," Basil O'Connor, National Foundation president, said in launching the push.

In a communication addressed to each of the Foundation's 3,100 local chapters, Mr. O'Connor pointed out "it is estimated that more than 80 per cent of our 172 million population has not had a single shot" of polio vaccine.

Four major target groups for vaccinations were listed:

1. Babies and other pre-schoolers, whose age group accounted for the highest paralytic rate in 1957.
2. Parents, who "don't realize that their children's protection won't protect them."
3. Teenagers, highly vulnerable to polio but "needing scaring and prodding."
4. Older adults, who think no one over 40 is eligible for vaccination.

The National Foundation's vaccination program is timed to coincide with the spring Stamp-Out-Polio campaign of the Advertising Council which is sponsored by the American Medical Association, the U. S. Public Health Service and the National Foundation.

Cobbler Potatoes Are Best Yielding

Average 209 Cwt. Per Acre in Red River Valley in '57

Results of 1957 Minnesota potato variety demonstrations were reported last week by Orrin C. Turnquist, extencion horticulturist at the University of Minnesota.

Irish Cobbler butyielded all varieties in the Red River Valley, averaging 209 100-pound bags per acre. Next was Antigo, averaging 199 cwt. followed by Kennebec, Red Pontiac and Cherokee, in that order. These varieties also averaged 90 percent or more number 1 size potatoes.

Kennebec was top yielder and had highest percentage of No. 1 potatoes at Grand Rapids and Osseo. The Russet Burbank variety was well adapted to the lighter soils in the Grand Rapids area. One of the top yielders there, this variety averaged 295 100-pound bags per acre. Highest yielder at Hollandale was Red Pontiac.

Three new potato varieties tested were Norland, Tawa and Plymouth.

Norland is a red variety recently introduced by the North Dakota Agricultural Experiment station. Although not one of the highest yielders, Norland showed excellent market quality. It has smooth tubers, good distribution of shallow eyes, is more tolerant to common scab than Red Pontiac and produces a quality chip.

Tawa, a white spud, has multiple disease resistance, high market and cooking quality. It is resistant to common scab, late blight and mosaic. It matures along with Irish Cobbler, but has fewer grade defects. It produces good quality chips at harvest and after being conditioned from storage.

Plymouth, a scab-resistant, white variety with flat tubers, was developed by the USDA and North Carolina Agricultural Experiment station. It has shallow eyes, but somewhat rough and flaky skin. It is resisant to common scab, mosaic and late blight.

Cooperating in these demonstrations were commercial growers, county agents, branch experiment stations and the Minnesota Department of Seed Potato Certification.

Optometrists to Open Convention in St. Paul Apr. 19

A theme, which Governor Orville Freeman has indicated is one of the most pressing problems in our state, will highlight the 58th annual convention of the Minnesota Optometric Association next weekend at Hotel Lowry in St. Paul. Dates of the convention are April 19, 20, 21. "Geriatrics—Problems of Aging Vision," is the theme around which the convention will be built and which state officials say should be met "head-on" before it becomes even more acute with our gradually aging population.

Speaking from State Side of the problem will be Morris Hursch, Minnesota Commissioner for Public Welfare. Hursch is to be the principal speaker at the convention banquet set for Sunday evening, April 20.

Keynoter and principal educator on the convention program will be Dr. Ralph E. Wick, Rapid City, S. D. An officer in the American Academy of Optometry, Dr. Wick is a prominent professional author and lecturer.

Retiring U. of M. Journalism Chief Will Be Honored

Centennial Sets Fishing Contest

State Anglers Catching Big Ones to Be Honored

Minnesota's fishing enthusiasts can win Minnesota Centennial master fishermen's certificates by entering the Minnesota Centennial Master Fishermen's contest.

Details of the statewide contest open to all men, women and children, were announced Friday by Ed Shave and Rollie Johnson, co-chairmen, and Cliff Sommer, chairman, Minnesota Centennial Sports Committee.

The contest begins with the opening of the fishing season, May 17, and extends through September 2, the day following Labor Day.

Certificates will be awarded to persons catching fish in eleven classifications. Basis for the awards is the weight of the fish.

Classifications and minimum weights are walleye, 6 pounds; northern pike, 0 pounds; crappie, 1½ pounds; bluegill, 1 pound; lake trout, 8 pounds; muskie, 12 pounds; German brown trout, 2 pounds; rainbow trout, 2 pounds; brook trout, 1 pound; large mouth bass, 4 pounds and small mouth bass, 2½ pounds.

Official weighing stations will be announced later.

Safety Contests Are Open to Local 4-H'rs

Four safety programs and contests are open to 4-H'ers of Pennington county this year, announces county agent Paul Stelmaschuk. The four contests offer varied awards to 4-H'ers for their work in increasing accident prevention and awareness of safety.

The farm fire safety program encourages 4-H'ers to inspect farm homes and buildings—their own as well as others—to see that hazards are removed in order to save loss of lives and property by fire. For county and state awards, a 4-H'er must make at least four farm inspections, using the official guide and inspection report. Work may be done individually or in committees.

County winners will receive a cash award, and state winners one boy and one girl, will each receive a trip to the National Safety Congress, Chicago, in October. For the national contest, six inspections and reports must be made. A trip, and cash and plaque awards are given top winners in the nation.

Writing safety slogans to be featured during National Farm Safety Week is the object of the safety slogan contest, which is open to all 4-H members, 14 years of age or older, who are enrolled in the safety project. A club member wishing to enter may submit up to three slogans to his county office before June 15. The county winner's slogan must be entered for state competition by July 1. The state winner will get a trip to the National Safety Congress in Chicago, and the second place winner will receive a trip to the Minnesota state fair.

The 4-H club safety activities program is a contest which emphasizes club efforts rather levement. A top club in each of five districts in the state will be named. Each of the five clubs will select a junior and an adult leader to attend the National Congress in Chicago.

Individual safety awards will be given again this year through the national 4-H club safety awards program. Selection is made from standard report forms and on the basis of past records. County winners receive medals and the state winner will receive a trip to the national 4-H club congress in Chicago.

Keeping Clean Is Costly

We are reminded by official proclamation that this is "Clean-up" week, and all good citizens will, of course, make a special effort to get their annual end-of-the-winter outdoors brushing and scrubbing completed. A drive around town last week indicated to us that the job is already well along. There is little rubbish left in the alleys and most lawns have that spic and span look that comes with the first raking and the removal of dead leaves.

Unfortunately keeping clean is not just a once-over operation with a comb and brush. Keeping clean is a never-ending chore, and costs us a lot of money as well as time. Cleanliness, including sanitation in all of its many forms, is expensive.

Adequate sanitary facilities in our homes no longer are luxuries. The average home of today provides sanitary facilities that were not available to the richest of monarchs several centuries ago.

And the saitary facilities in our homes are parts of a community sanitation system, and we are especially conscious of the high cost of this community sanitation system because the system we have is no longer adequate. It is going to cost us many dollars to provide adequately for this very essential keep-our-city-clean service.

When our sewage system was installed a half-a-century ago it was designed to serve the purposes of both sanitation and surface drainage. The need for a separate storm sewer system has been recognized for many years. It is been delayed because of the cost. Cleanliness has been postponed because it has been too expensive.

Now a new system of state-city streets brings added pressure for action in providing more adequately for our sanitation needs. Storm sewers must be built in order that the sanitary system will be able to function properly. It is one of the big items in the cost of keeping our city clean.

Keeping clean is expensive. Unfortunately, not keeping clean is more expensive.

Compromise Needed

Minnesota's rural press agrees that reapportionment of legislative districts is needed. Rural editors [illegible] that reapportionment on the basis of population alone, as provided for in the present Constitution, would give the metropolitan areas of the state control of the legislature, and that this would become increasingly unfair to the rural areas as the metropolitan area population continued to become proportionately greater.

Carl Weicht expresses the rural opinion in this paragraph from a Northfield News editorial:

"That reapportionment is long overdue is obvious enough, altho the difficulties are likewise apparent. In our opinion, the matter can best be resolved by compromise. Specifically, this would mean representation on both an area and a population basis. The conflict in this matter between rural and urban Minnesota is not much different from that between the large states and the small states, which led to the historic constitutional compromise of allowing each state two members in the U. S. Senate but providing for election of members of the House of Representatives from districts of relatively equal population."

The state of New York might be used as an example-in-point in justification of the rural attitude in Minnesota. Upper New York controls the legislature of that state, and the good citizens of Minneapolis and St. Paul probably would agree that it would be unbelievably stupid of the people of Upper New York to yield control of the state legislature to the voters of New York City.

Only by a compromise, reappotioning on a combination area and population basis, should this problem be settled in Minnesota.

Sales Tax A Certainty

Most Minnesota politicians will agree that a sales tax is inevitable. The financial difficulties with which the state will be confronted when the next legislature convenes make it quite likely that by this time next year such a tax will be on the way to final passage. In the meantime the political maneuvering will be mainly for the purpose of placing the blame for its enactment. Our crystal ball tells us that Governor Freeman will sign it "with great reluctance."

Over a period of years there has been much talk about adopting a sales tax as a replacement tax. One of the appealing proposals has been that it be used as a replacement of the personal property tax.

When it comes however, it will come not as a replacement tax. It will be a new levy to provide the additional revenue that will be needed to meet the obligations our spenders have already contracted for us. Revenue windfalls and a raid on the school trust funds made possible a postponement of a sales tax in the last session. It appears now that our financial folly is finally catching up to us.

Denying the Right to Vote

(Hoard's Dairyman)

As we have listened to and read articles by the opponents of the self-help dairy stabilization program, one question keeps coming to mind. Why do these people fear giving dairy farmers the right to vote on the kind of a peacetime price support program they want? If the self-help program is as bad as the critics imply, don't they believe that dairy farmers have the intelligence to recognize the shortcomings of the program and vote it down in a referendum September 8?

Can't the opponents of the self-help bill defend the logic of their position before the nation's dairy farmers and thereby defeat the bill in a fair referendum wherein every dairy farmer will, for the first time, have an opportunity to record his preference?

We have great confidence in the good judgement of dairy farmers. We are perfectly willing to put the question to every dairy farmer in the United States and abide unreservedly by the resultant decision. To take any other position is to deny democracy to dairy farmers.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

Checking some questionnaires that had just been filled in, a census clerk was amazed to note on one the figures 121 and 125 in the space of "Age of Mother, if living," and "Age of Father, if living."

"Surely your parents can't be as old as this?" asked the incredulous clerk.

"Well, no," was the answer, "but they would be—if living."

"You say you want the death certificate changed, Doctor?" asked the puzzled clerk. "It's rather against the rules, you know."

"I know that, but it's important," said the doctor. In a burst of confidence, he explained: "I was in a hurry and didn't pay any attention to the space marked, 'Cause of Death,' and that's where I signed my name."

—In Washington

With

Clinton Davidson

Confidential reports reaching Washington from behind the Iron Curtain indicate a major shift in Russian plans and explain, in part at least, why Nikita Khrushchev seized one-man control in the Kremlin.

It is no secret in Washington that Khrushchev is in serious trouble at home and that his hold over the Russian satellite nations is none too firm. He needs a dramatic change in both internal and foreign policies to stay in power.

Within the Soviet orbit he plans to ease off on huge expenditures for military weapons, increase production of consumer goods, and make an all-out effort to expand farm production. That is a 5- to 10-year program.

Khrushchev, in full control of Russian foreign affairs, is waging a new peace offensive to give him time to strengthen his position as boss of Russia and her satellites. He wants time, too, to make greater use of propaganda and economic aggression against the West.

The Soviet ruler is believed to have become convinced that Russia could not win an atomic and hydrogen bomb war, at least not without suffering losses which would destroy him. He seems, instead, to be following the teachings of Marx and Lenin in waging an economic and propaganda war against capitalism.

Washington has a sincere respect for the effectiveness of Russian propaganda among the vast numbers of people who know or have known exploitation by Western capitalistic nations. The Soviets are making "capitalism" a nasty word throughout Asia and Africa.

Washington officials are not taking the new Russian threat lightly. Although fearing to drop their military guard, they dare not ignore the propaganda and economic challenge.

Portions of a confidential study of Soviet economic plans and activities, made by the International Cooperation Administration, have been made available to us. It reveals that during 1957 Russia signed agreements to provide $1.9 billion additional assistance to non-communist nations.

This revelation is being used to spur Congress into greater speed in okaying the Administration request for an additional $3.9 billion in foreign aid funds for the next fiscal year.

The report shows that Soviet trade expansion and economic aid is being concentrated in the countries where Western influence is weakest. India, Yugoslavia, Afghanistan, Indonesia, Egypt and Syria have received 95% of Russian economic assistance.

There is no question here of Russia's ability to wage economic warfare on a broad scale over a long period of time. Russian economic progress, measured in percentage gain in industrial output, has far out-stripped the U. S. since the end of World War II.

The rate of Russian economic progress, if continued, would bring the Soviet bloc's gross national product up to the present U. S. total in another 10 to 12 years. And, Russian plans are being laid for a long economic war.

The Soviet rulers reason that the subjected peoples under their domination will continue to make sacrifices in living standards that would, if attempted in this country, create havoc. They reason, also, that Russia has or will have at her command resources at least equal and probably superior to the United States for the long economic struggle between the East and the West.

The key to safety is you.

Thief River Falls, Minn.

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

As I read reports on the activities that go on in the many departments of state government, I have been particularly interested in the evidence of increasing interest in programs and services for our senior citizens. This is the first year that we have had in Minnesota a Special Consultant on Aging. In his summaries of state-wide activity I find encouraging indications of an aroused determination, particularly on the part of voluntary groups, to engage in constructive programs for the aging.

Religious Organizations

Many church groups are developing activities for older people, and are particularly interested in planning homes for the aged. Some of the most constructive pioneering work in developing recreational, social, and educational activities for older people has been done by religious organizations.

Civic and Service Clubs

In many communities civic and service clubs have taken the lead in such activities as Senior Citizens' Day. A feature that has been of real interest to young and old alike has been the "hobby show" displaying the handiwork of people over sixty years of age. Often such clubs have cooperated with public agencies in planning increased specialized activities for older people.

Rural Counties

Most of the better known programs have been carried out in our larger cities. But recently I have noted that in many rural counties, in our smaller cities and in villages, interest is increasing. The executive secretaries of many of our county welfare boards have asked for the help of the state consultant in developing county-wide citizens committees.

Some schools have indicated interest in providing educational offerings for adults that would be of special interest in providing educational offerings for adults that would be of special interest to old people. Since the needs and conditions vary a great deal among the several counties and communities, the technique of establishing citizens' committees to study the situation in each community is especially valuable. No standardized or rigidly fixed program could be equally suitable in all areas.

Our Centennial Year

It has been decided that our centennial year, in which we observe Minnesota's first century of statehood, is a particularly appropriate time in which to pay tribute to our older citizens. We have therefore launched a project of giving citations to all citizens over ninety years of age. We must, however, find all those who are past ninety in order to present them with their certificates. We hope that the friends and neighbors of those who are over ninety will send us their names and addresses.

A special ceremony will be held on May fifth at the State Capitol to honor these senior citizens. At that time I will present those who attend with their citations. Those who cannot attend will receive theirs by mail.

Have you ever tried to throw anything to the "four winds?"

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans' benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA contact representative at the Grand Forks VA office.

Q—Must I include the new Social Security disability payments as income, in figuring my annual income for VA pension purposes?

A—Social Security disability payments should not be considered as "income" until the payments add up to the full amount of what you personally have contributed to the Social Security fund. After that, the Social Security disability payments will count as income for VA pension purposes.

Q—I have been offered a job as test pilot for an aircraft company. Will my GI insurance policy cover me if anything happens to me on the job?

A—Yes. Your GI insurance policy contains no restrictions as to hazardous employment. It will protect you no matter how hazardous your job might be.

Q—My husband was killed in active service in March, 1947—after the fighting in World War II had ended but before the war officially was declared at an end for purposes of VA benefits. Would my daughter be eligible for War Orphans schooling?

A—No. The War Orphans Education law specifies that for World War II veterans, death or disability must have occurred between December 7, 1941, and December 31, 1946. Since your husband's death occurred after the latter date, your daughter would not be eligible for the schooling benefits.

Q—Is it possible to take on-the-job training outside the United States under the Korean GI Bill? I would like to take my training in France.

A—No. Under the law, foreign GI training may be taken only in institutions of higher learning. Further, courses must be approved by VA.

The Lady was Willing

Recently a service station attendant changed the oil in a car with 23,000 miles on the speedometer. He noticed that a lubrication job was also badly needed, so he politely suggested it to the driver. She replied, willingly enough, "Go ahead if you want to . . . but I thought all that was done at the factory!"

Of course, this couldn't happen to you, but with cars getting more and more complicated every year, proper and frequent lubrication is more important than ever.

Phillips 66 Dealers specialize in lubrication. They have complete charts and specifications for all makes of cars, and what's more, they use them! Stop in next chance you get and watch how thorough Phillips 66 attendants are when they lubricate a car . . . it's a pleasant surprise for most motorists!

Hot Water Need Highest In Summer

Paradoxical as it may seem, the demand for hot water reaches its peak during the summer months, due to the increased use of water for baths and showers.

Thus it is during the summer months that the inadequacy of much of the existing water-heating equipment becomes evident, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau.

Years ago a 20-gallon water heater was considered big enough for the average family. More recently a 30-gallon water heater was regarded as the minimum size.

Today, with the increasing demand for hot water in the American home, the 30-gallon heater is inadequate in many homes, according to present standards, the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau points out.

Manufacturers of gas-fired water heaters, in an effort to enable householders to select water heaters of adequate capacity, have published a gas water heater sizing chart. This chart shows the minimum size of water heaters recommended for family needs.

According to this chart, a house with 1 or 2 bedrooms should have as a minimum a 30-gallon water heater; a house with 2 or 3 bedrooms, a 40-gallon heater; a house with 3 or 4 bedrooms, a 40-gallon heater; a house with 4 or 5 bedrooms, a 50-gallon heater; and a house with 4 or 5 bedrooms and 3 or 4 bathrooms, a 75-gallon water heater. All of these are minimum recommendations.

If an automatic washer or dishwasher is used, the next larger size should be selected.

Healthy Lawn Is Best Method Of Combatting Weeds

A thick healthy lawn is the best weed-killer, according to experts who have come up with simple, helpful hints to take the chore out of weeding.

Beyond a doubt, they say, rule number one is to maintain a healthy lawn. The reason? Weeds, like other plants, need plenty of sunlight to grow, and thick grass keeps weed seeds in the shade.

Regular fertilizing of a lawn keeps the grass green and thick and helps choke out weeds. Another point—weeds tend to grow fast during the hot summer months, so at this time of the year it is best to let the grass grow to 1½ to 2 inches. Raise your mower blades, a simple adjustment. If you have a lot of weeds, catch your grass clippings with a catcher to keep from sowing new weed seed.

Three-Step Plan

Here is a good three-step plan for a beautiful lawn:

1. In early spring, fertilize your lawn. This is the time of the year when the grasses are just beginning to grow. Give them the nourishment they need to make that turf really thick before the weeds start to grow.

2. During the summer months, give your lawn a weed killer treatment. Kill off any weeds that did get started and give the grass that extra shot it needs to keep it green under the hot sun.

3. In early Fall, give it another good fertilizing.

Paint Makes Home A Happier Place

Good taste is many things. It's the books you read . . . the hat you wear . . . even the manners of your children.

But what is good taste in home decoration? It's the way you "feel" in a room . . . the way things "go together." It's the happy combination of color, texture and materials. Hasn't a thing to do with the size of your room or how much money you have to spend.

Ever so often, there comes a time when you feel something must be done around the house. Rooms look a little tired and worn. Or, you just want a change for the sake of what it will do for your spirit. That's the time to do it!

And for goodness sake, don't feel that you have to throw away everything and start from scratch. You can redecorate, in good taste, any or all of the rooms in your house and not replace a single piece of furniture unless you want to!

Take a look around your home. Are things the way you'd like them to be? Wouldn't a bit of refreshing color help? What do your guests see when they step into your living room?

Paint can do wonders! Why, for about the cost of an automatic percolator, you can add a bit of harmony in lovely color to a room and make it a sunnier, happier place to live. Paint can bring out a hidden hue from a slip cover so use it as a wall color to weave new charm into your room.

Maybe it's time for a bit of sprucing-up in your home. Painting will do the most colorful, the most satisfying job ever. Do it quicker and for less money. And, you'll have the fun of being your own decorator.

It's the same room below modernized to provide more cabinets, more storage space. Note how new cabinets make the most effective use of available space in this kitchen.

Home Show Opens Apr. 19 in St. Paul

No Admission Fee to Be Charged This Year

Customers actually will be paid to attend the 1958 St. Paul Home Show, opening Saturday, April 19, at the St. Paul auditorium.

Show manager H. H. Cory previously announced that admission will be free for the seventh annual exposition. Now he reports that several thousand silver dollars will be given away as door prizes during the nine-day show closing April 27.

Each visitor will be given a numbered ticket as he or she enters the auditorium between the hours of 1 p.m. and 11 p.m. daily. Several "luck buck" numbers will be posted in the auditorium arena. Tickets which end in these numbers may be exchanged for silver dollars at the show office beneath the sign.

Each coin will have a sticker on its back reading, "Spend Me, Have Confidence Buy Now, Keep business Healthy." This spotlights the "buy now" campaign being waged during the week of the Home Show to stimulate sales. This program is spearheaded by Twin Cities area auto dealers and is being endorsed by trade associations and civic groups.

More than 150 exhibits of products for the home and garden will be on display at the Home Show, which always has been an admission event in past years.

As another centennial promotion, many exhibitors will display antique household articles in their booths.

Cory said children under 15 will have to be accompanied by adults.

Get Most out of Electric Gadgets

Home Economist Advises on Use of Appliances

Small electrical appliances can provide the homemaker with automatic maid service to lighten her household chores—if she gives those appliances proper care and uses them to best advantage.

Florence Ehrenkranz, professor of home economics at the University of Minnesota, gives some general rules to help the homemaker get the best service from her appliances:

Read the warranty. You usually it will give directions on the care and cleaning of your appliance. For example, some heating units must not be put in water during cleaning; others can be.

Read the warranty. You usually will find that if you try to repair the appliance yourself, your warranty is invalid.

If you must use an extension cord, be sure that it is a heavy-duty cord. Wattage of automatically controlled small electric appliances is usually high.

Remember that the cooking time given in the recipe booklet is approximate. It can be affected by the quantity of food you cook, the degree of doneness you prefer or the voltage available. Voltage may vary during the day.

Don't expect too much from your appliances. For example, toasters usually are adjusted to toast two-day old white bread. If you use another kind of bread, you may not get the same degree of brownness automatically.

Our LAND

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture.

Wheel-track corn planting is becoming a popular idea among Minnesota farmers. A number of farmers cooperating with University of Minnesota scientists last summer found that corn yields aren't reduced a bit by this practice. It involves planting corn in tractor tracks on undisked and undragged soil. On the average, these farmers found, yields were 2-5 bushels per acre greater from wheel-track planting.

Several Washington county farmers report their experience with wheel-track planting. Says Gerald Simon, Lake Elmo: "Even though I only cultivated it once, my wheel-track planted corn yielded 90-100 bushels per acre." He planted his corn in contour strips on slopes averaging 8 percent, yet had no visible erosion. He planted rows 42 inches apart and drilled the corn kernels 7 inches apart in the row.

Gene LaCasse, Hugo, did his wheel-track planting this way—He used a 4-row planter and set the rear tractor wheels 40 inches apart. He modified the front axle so the front wheels were 120 inches apart. This way, the inside rows were planted in the rear wheel tracks and the outside ones in the front wheel tracks.

Even With Soybeans, wheel-track planting worked well on the Tom Seeger farm near Hastings. Seeger reports: "I used a row-crop tractor, and welded a handle to the draw bar so that I could swing the drawbar when turning at the end of the field. This way, I could plant in the front wheel tracks and either rear wheel and not drive over planted rows."

New York City's subway system hauls approximately one-third fewer passengers than it did 10 years ago.

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Institute of Child Welfare
University of Minnesota

"It's What I Think About Me"

Little Jerry said the wisest thing. He is but five so he could not possibly know the fancy words that the psychologists use to express the same idea, but listen to Jerry and his grandfather:

Grandpa: "Jerry, that drawing is good. It looks like a real horse."

Jerry: "It's not as good as I can do."

Grandpa: "That doesn't matter. I like it."

Jerry: "No, I'm going to tear it up. It's what I think about me that makes me not like it." Yes, indeed, "it's what I think about me," that matters. What I think about me makes one proud or ashamed; rich or poor; large or small; pretty or ugly; king or slave.

As a child meets problems and demands, sometimes successfully, sometimes unsuccessfully, he gradually builds up ideas about himself and his relations to other people.

Taken together, these ideas are called the child's "self-concept." They depend upon what the child hears others say to him and about him; and how often he succeeds or fails at tasks he attempts. Billy, who hears nothing but praise no matter how poor his performance gets an unrealistic general image of himself. He is ill-prepared to compete on equal terms with others. Steve, with "Don't be so stupid" or "You never do anything right" ringing in his ears, is also unready to give his best.

"What I think about me" influences the goals one sets, too. Billy, bloated with self-importance, is headed for a rough road if he demands always the kingpin position. Steve, if repeatedly "cut down to size" is not apt to see himself doing big important things. Psychologists call this goal-setting, "level of aspiration"—the child's idea of expected performance, both what he thinks others expect of him and what he expects of himself.

Self-concepts and levels of aspiration can help or hinder in tremendous amounts when it comes to finding one's place in the world. So wise little Jerry has to tear up a few drawings to get to the point where "what I think about me is okay!"

it's time to paint up...clean up...fix up...light up

Clean-up Time Starts in City

This is Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up and Light-up week in Thief River Falls. The week was set aside in a proclamation from Mayor O. D. Belch, as the time to improve the looks of our city while home-owners work off that springtime urge to spruce up their homes and grounds.

So universal is the urge, that at this very moment, on every residential street in every city and town across the nation, homeowners are either planning or already launching their own individual Clean-Up, Paint-Up, Fix-Up and Light-up programs.

These refurbishing programs will range in scope all the way from a simple "let's-clean-up-the-place" operation to comprehensive attic-to-cellar modernization and remodeling projects.

Indeed, many ideas for the improvement of home and grounds are sparked by routine clean-up operations.

Property Improvements

A man raking the winter's accumulation of debris from his yard is inspired to touch up those bare spaces in his lawn or perhaps put in a new one altogether. This logically leads to thoughts of improving the landscaping with additional shrubs or trees or a colorful flower garden or border.

Often these improvements in the grounds make the home itself appear by contrast somewhat drab and weather-worn, calling out for a fresh coat of paint or even new siding or roofing to complete the picture of a well groomed property.

A woman, busily engaged in her usual "spring house-cleaning," begins to look at her home with a newly critical eye. Things hitherto taken more or less for granted begin to loom large with new importance. Those scuffs and scars on the living room floor, for instance, or that too-dark, "closed in" look to the dining-room. Suddenly she has the impulse for a complete "change of scene" in this room or that, or maybe throughout the house.

Modernizing Projects

The kitchen or bathroom (or both) also come in for their share of critical re-appraisal at "clean-up" time. Often they are found to leave much to be desired on the counts of appearance or function, and their modernization becomes a moot topic for family discussion and action.

Lighting, too, gets attention now. This is not to be wondered at, as four out of five existing houses are said to be inadequately lighted.

Storage House In Back Yard Solves Storage Problems

For home owners with houses that have neither a basement nor an attic, a storage house in the back yard can solve many problems and greatly increase property values.

Built of 2" by 4" lumber framing and paneled with Masonite ⅛" Tempered Presdwood, such a storage house is easily erected by the home owner. Size of the building depends on individual needs, but 12' by 12' is recommended. A building this size will provide adequate room for storage plus room for a work area.

The 2" by 4" framing is built on a concrete slab foundation. Rafters, studs and joists all should be 16" on center. Panels of ⅛" Tempered Presdwood form the exterior covering with 4-penny nails spaced every 4" on the edges and 8" apart at the studs over the rest of each panel. The hardboard panels also are used for roofing. Presdwood batten strips 2½" wide set in asphalt cement cover the joints.

Interior of the house can be left with open framing or paneled with ⅛" "Peg-Board" or solid hardboard panels. Perforated panels are recommended because they provide a place to hang neatly anything on the walls, leaving floor space open. Fixtures for ⅛" "Peg-Board" are strong enough to take power mowers, outboard engines as well as rakes and shovels.

Ventilators should be built into the gables at each end of the building. The door is located at one end and windows at the other and the two sides.

Both the interior and exterior should be painted. For best results, a primer coat is applied first followed by two finish coats of paint.

How to Paint the Outside of Your Home

The first big step towards a successful paint job is to plan well and allow yourself enough time to do the job properly. Experts say, much of the success of a painting job depends on preparation of the surface.

Be sure the surface is dry. Wait until the morning sun has dried off the dew. It is best to paint one side of the house at a time, when it's not in direct sunlight. If possible, paint when the weather is warmer. Most finishes dry best at 65 degrees F. or higher.

Your stopping place is important. It's best if you can complete one day's work by finishing an entire side. If not, try to paint up to a corner, window or door so that lap marks won't show when you resume.

Wait at least 48 hours' drying time before you apply the second coat. Painting too soon will cause the undercoat to shrink as it hardens, cracking the surface coat. Wait longer if you can.

When in doubt, check the directions on the paint can.

First time you're doing the painting yourself? We suggest you start at the back of your house so that, by the time you get around to the front, you'll be a regular "pro".

HOME Garden TIPS

ORRIN C. TURNQUIST

UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA

Planning the Shrub Border

A well planned shrub border will enhance the beauty of your private area but also provide privacy, windbreak and seasonal change of background. An interesting shrub board is one that varies in height, texture and color all through the growing season.

Variations in height may be obtained by selecting different varieties or species of a particular shrub or both the same variety and a dwarf variety of the same shrub. Or use a combination of different kinds of shrub materials.

Combining textural qualities of shrubs can also build interest. For example, the common Japanese barberry would be a fine-textured shrub, whereas the French hybrid lilac would be a coarse textured shrub. Spirea Van Houtte is medium textured.

Utilize foliage color to achieve interest, too. The foliage of the Peking Cotoneaster is a very glossy dark green, whereas the foliage of the Siberian Peashrub is light green and almost lacy in texture. The foliage of the honeysuckle is usually dark green but has a gray tone which lightens the color effect of the foliage. Where distances need to be shortened, use dark foliage. If the lot is small and you want the feeling of space, use shrubs with light colored foliage.

Seasonal color change adds to the interest of the border. Include some shrubs with high autumn color such as the Amur maple, Winged Euonymus, highbush cranberry, or false spirea sumac. Include also some flowering shrubs. The lilac, mockorange and honeysuckle are good examples of these.

Most Women Want to Make Kitchen Changes, Survey Shows

It's the same room below—modernized to provide more cabinets, more storage space. Note how new cabinets make the most effective use of available space in this kitchen.

Better than eight out of ten women want to make some change in their present kitchen.

This fact emerged from a nation-wide survey of housewives recently completed by the Steel Kitchen Cabinet Manufacturers Ass'n.

What kind of changes do they want to make? Most of them want more room in the kitchen (68%) and 42% want more cabinets or cupboards, more counter and more storage space.

With the advances in kitchen equipment in recent years, probably no one thing stamps a home as "modern" so much as an up-to-date kitchen. Styles in furniture change rapidly and the modern room of two or three years ago is behind the times to the fashion conscious today.

But there's a lasting freshness to a gleaming kitchen of steel. The baked enamel finishes of steel cabinets have the same lasting quality of the finishes on appliances and are just as easy to clean. In fact, ease of cleaning steel kitchen cabinets was an advantage most often mentioned by house wives in the country wide survey.

The clean, functional lines of cabinets resist dating. In shape and form they match equally well with the new, square look of appliances and the older, more rounded refrigerator or ranges.

Colored cabinets are available to match appliances or to provide the contrast in mix or match fashion so popular with some interior designers. It's significant, however, that of those covered in the survey the women [illegible] wanted all white kitchens. Of those wanting color, a single shade was preferred by more than 2-1 over a blend of colors. And the percentages were 60-40 in favor of appliances which matched the cabinets.

Yes, the American housewife wants changes in her kitchen. Next to more cabinets and storage space, this national survey shows that she would like a rearrangement for efficiency, space for eating, floor, wall and window changes, built-in appliances and space for laundry equipment as well.

It's Time Now To Prepare For Outdoor Living

Color Counts In Furniture Paint or Fabric

Soon we will be in the happy time of year when some of our leisure living will be pleasantly spent out-of-doors. Preparing for it will heighten its enjoyment. Whether you are buying new porch and garden furniture or refinishing what you already have, the color of it is certainly an important factor.

Many Colors

A wide variety of fabrics and finishes contribute greatly to the beauty of the new outdoor furniture. Among the fabrics are the perennially popular clear red, blues, greens and yellow that are found often on the sturdy wooden chairs and benches that are every-year favorites.

On rattans, fabric colors of white and various greens, together with a selection of floral patterns, are again being shown. High style paint colors for graceful iron chairs and tables with glass, tile or marble tops—are antique white, cream, dusty black, pastel blue, pale pink, aqua and coral. Additional cla[illegible] er on newly painted iron our faces before the paint has had a chance to dry.

Aluminum tubing furniture can now be obtained in attractive colors with matching or contrasting colored webbing. Yellow is an ever popular color. For porch gliders, and various greens still hold favor for all types of outdoor furniture. Picnic tables and benches of redwood, pine and cedar most usually are finished with a clear varnish coat but that reveals the rustic color and grain of the wood.

Very likely, the first soft spring days will inspire you to refinish last year's outdoor furniture in some lovely new color. Make sure then, first of all, that the surfaces are all clean and dry, free from rust and roughness. After sanding off rust, you must use a metal primer on the "bald spots" before applying a new finishing coat.

Use Enamel

Exterior enamel is the type of weather resistant coating to ask for—whether it's wood or metal you plan to paint for outdoor use. Where you want a dull finish for wrought iron, use flat enamel. The coating of new, unfinished wood furniture depends, of course, on the type of finish you prefer. Should you decide on a coat of color, first fill all cracks and nail holes with spackling material, then apply an enamel undercoat, and finally the exterior enamel. For a transparent coating on this type furniture, brush on two or three coats of tough and gleaming spar varnish.

Make sure the paint is free from lumps and that the solids and liquids are thoroughly merged before you begin. For extra convenience, pour the paint into an empty coffee tin. It's so easy to dip the brush into a wide-mouthed, not-so-deep container. Get all your accessories together before you start: paint, brushes, coffee tin, stirring paddle, paint rag and paint brush cleaner. And while you're at it, give the handles of your garden tools a colorful coat. Nice to have them match the furniture pieces, and what's more (green excepted, of course) they'll be easy to spot when you "lose" them in the grass.

Medicine Cabinet Prevents Poisoning

Since accidental poisoning kills more young children than polio, diphtheria and scarlet fever combined, it is important to select a sufficiently large medicine cabinet when planning to remodel your bathroom.

The medicine cabinet should be large enough to store all dangerous products out of the reach of small children. Standard cabinets are available with storage capacity ranging up to 1919 cubic inches, and capacity can be doubled or tripled through the use of twin or triple cabinet installations, joined together by simple joiner strips.

A special folder on this subject has been prepared by the F. H. Lawson Co., Cincinnati 4, Ohio, and is available free upon request.

THE MINNESOTA STORY

Prepared by the

Minnesota Historical Society

HUNTER'S FRIEND

Sportsmen who come to Minnesota to hunt in the early 1860s found an efficient guide in Bert Muller, the proprietor of the Wild Hunter hotel, on Jackson street in St. Paul.

Muller not only could lead visitors to the best hunting grounds in the state, but he was also prepared to furnish them with any equipment they might require at moderate costs. In August, 1860, he advertised that he had "three of the best trained dogs in the country," and that he would furnish parties with "dogs, tents, provisions, wagons," and the like at "less than the cost of purchasing or hiring outfits."

The editor of the "Pioneer and Democrat", in which Muller advertised his services as a guide and outfitter of hunting parties, described the owner of the Wild Hunter as "no Parlor Sportsman". Strangers were assured that he knew where to find game in abundance. He "always brings his game into town," wrote the editor, adding that Muller recently had brought into the newspaper office a "lot of the finest prairie chickens".

A PRIESTLY FISHERMAN

"First bite! Haul in: small pickerel. Second, a larger, still another, a half, a whole dozen, in something over an hour." Exciting sport on a lake in Murray county is thus described by Father Thomas J. Jenkens, a priest who spent much of the summer of 1883 in the Catholic colony of Avoca.

This was only the beginning of a day's sport for Father Jenkins. He declared that a "patter of rain" came up, making the "fish crazy for a frolic and food." "They shall have it," he said, "and so shall we! They nab the hooks; we snag three, four, by the ribs. They bite away as fast as I can throw out the line. Four, five, literally in as many minutes." A steady downpour finally drove the priest to shore and halted the run of luck that every fisherman dreams of.

Father Jenkins was a Kentuckian, who [illegible] sight-seeing and health-seeking, as well as on business intent." He decided to obtain "personal knowledge of prairie farming, by 'doing' the Northwestern Catholic Colonies" which were a "possible and probable choice of new homes for some families who were wearing out both patience and good Irish and American muscle on middle-Kentucky farms."

Although he traveled as far west as the Rockies and visited settlements in Iowa, Dakota, and Nebraska, he spent the greater part of his time in the Catholic colonies of Minnesota.

During the summer of 1883, Father Jenkins kept a diary, which he published the following year under the title "Six Seasons on Our Prairies and Six Weeks in our Rockies." A copy of this rare little book is in the Minnesota Historical Society's library.

A DISTINGUISHED TOURIST

Among the earliest woman tourists to brave the discomforts and dangers of a voyage on the upper Mississippi was the widow of Alexander Hamilton, who visited Fort Snelling in June, 1837.

Mrs. Hamilton, who was then in her eightieth year, traveled west to visit a son who had settled in the lead mining area of Wisconsin. Since she had "an inclination to see all she could", she joined a short excursion from Galena to the Falls of St. Anthony on the steamboat "Burlington".

When the boat docked at Fort Snelling on the morning of June 29, Mrs. Hamilton received a royal welcome from its officers, who appeared in full dress uniform to greet her. An hour later the commandant's "barouche and a Jersey wagon drove down to the landing, to take her and party to the falls, a distance of eight miles." The group enjoyed a "most delightful ride, stopping at every notable point, such as Lake Calhoun, the Falls of Minnehaha, and St. Anthony."

When the party returned to the fort at five in the afternoon, the colonel and the other officers were waiting at the entrance. The commandant offered Mrs. Hamilton his arm as he led her to the parade ground. [illegible] had been spread, an armchair set out for her, and the troops saluted. After music by the military band the group was served refreshments, and at sundown they returned to the boat for the journey down river.

HORACE GREELEY

Horace Greeley gave the principal address at a Hennepin county agricultural fair held in Minneapolis in September, 1871. At Harmonia Hall on the evening of September 14, he addressed a capacity audience on the "rights of the people as against the practices of the railroads in respect to extortionate charges for transportation."

Greeley's Minneapolis talk was one of a series that he gave at agricultural fairs in the South and in the Middle West in 1871. Wherever he appeared, "fair managers rated the 'Tribune' editor in the forefront of available speaking talent."

Judging from reports in the local press, Minnesotans looked upon Greeley's appearance as an event of some importance. "Though many words of wisdom have come from the tongue of the veteran editor," reported the "St. Paul Pioneer", nothing that he has ever said in advocacy of any reform, has ever come with more timely force." Greeley had contended that Congress and the state legislatures should fix railroad rates for the protection of farmers.

The next of Greeley's speech appears not only in the St. Paul and Minneapolis papers, but in the "New York Tribune" for September 15, 1871.

Electricity Has Key Role on Farm

Use More Than Doubles During Past Ten Years

Electricity has played a key role in building Minnesota's agriculture and may well do even more for farm families in the future, according to a University of Minnesota agricultural engineer.

A. J. Schwantes, head of the agricultural engineering department, points out that on a group of rural power lines studied in Minnesota, electrical use had doubled during the last 10 years. And it may double again in the next decade, another survey shows.

In four out of ten lines, use increased by 2½ times or more and on one line it is three times what it was in 1948.

Happily enough, electricity hasn't become any more expensive. In fact, the more it's used, the cheaper it gets per unit. The same study showed that in no case was there an increase in the kilowatt hour cost and, in some cases, there was a 33 per cent decrease. Kilowatt hour rates went down 24 percent or more in half of the lines.

Schwantes also reports on a recent survey of managers of rural electric lines in Minnesota. Many of these managers said they expected use of electricity in rural areas to be doubled within the next 10 years.

A typical comment from these managers was that "rural electrification is still in its infancy." Electricity has only begun to become adapted to the farm, they felt.

Some of the uses of electrical equipment that are rapidly gaining popularity are crop drying, silo unloading, barn cleaning, bulk milk handling, electric brooding and feed handling. One [illegible] during the past year or two is electrical home heating. The managers of electric lines all felt this use had a big future in Minnesota.

Board Votes to Keep Teacher Training Dept.

15 Teachers Resign Posts, and Five New Ones Are Appointed

At a postponed regular meeting of the board of the Thief River Falls school district Tuesday evening the members voted unanimously in favor of continuing the teachers training department. Appearing before the board in support of its continuation were three superintendents of school from neighboring counties and a committee representing the Chamber of Commerce of this city.

Charles Christianson, county superintendent of Roseau county, stated that the training department is needed in the area and that without the graduates of this one year course the recruitment of teachers for the rural schools would be a great deal more difficult.

He stated that the effect of discontinuing the department would probably result in a lower standard of teachers in these rural school. College graduates, he said, will not accept rural school teaching positions, and the only teachers available would be those who could be brought back into the service from retirement. He assured the board that progress toward school consolidation is continuing.

John Pearson, county superintendent of Marshall county, and Mae Barness, county superintendent of Clearwater county, agreed with the statements made by Mr. Christianson. Speaking for the Chamber of Commerce delegation was Andy Williamson, a former board member. He urged the continuance of the training course as a needed service to the large area in which there still are many rural schools operating.

Resignations of eight high school teachers and seven elementary teachers were accepted by the board at Tuesday's meeting, and appointment of five replacements was confirmed.

High school faculty members who will not return next fall include Mary Ann Borchert, Charles W. Ferguson, Harriet O. Gullingsrud, Robert L. Jacobson, Joel N. McDonald, Kathryn Offerdahl, Wilfred Raeker and Helen Ruegemer.

Grade teachers resigning include Adelyn Aune, Ruby Johnston and Lettie Hallstrom, Knox school; Jeannine Johnson, Northrop; Mrs. Robert Jacobson and Audrey Randorf, Washington; and Deone Cerny, Knox kindergarten.

New teachers engaged are

Rotarians Honor Roy M. Barzens at Rotary Ann Night

Couple Recognized for Work in International Student Exchange Plan

More than 80 persons, including Rotarians and their ladies, attended the annual Rotary Ann Night program Monday evening at the Thief River Golf club.

Club President Alf Boey presided over the program, which opened with group singing led by John E. Howard of the University of N. Dakota music department. Mr. Howard also presented numbers by several musicians and a magician from the university.

Roy J. Oen spoke of the contribution to international understanding made by the American Field Service thur its student exchange program, and in behalf of the club he presented a gift to Mr. and Mrs. Roy M. Barzen as an expression of appreciation to them for having opened their home to a foreign student each of the past three years, the young men having come from Japan, Brazil and currently from Indonesia.

Mrs. Barzen responded by telling of the pleasure they had derived from their association with the outstanding young men who had lived in their home while attending Lincoln high school here. Mr. Barzen explained how the student exchange plan operates and how it builds good will among nations.

Concert Association Votes to Suspend Due to Lack of Interest

To Leave May 1

CLIFFORD ZAFFKE

Who this week announced his resignation as cashier of the Northern State bank, effective May 1, when he will leave for Crookston to take over the position of cashier of the Polk County State bank.

The Northwest Concert association, which has functioned in Thief River Falls for many years, is discontinuing operations due to lack of support on the part of local residents, it was announced today by Curtis T. Harris, president.

The decision was reached at a meeting of interested persons which had been announced for Tuesday evening, and which was attended by only six persons. Only $251 in membership fees had been turned in to date for the coming year, with a minimum of at least $1,000 required for a successful season.

The following resolution was adopted at Tuesday's meeting:

"It is resolved that due to lack of interest within the community the Northwest Concert Association deems it best to suspend operations and to so notify local people. It is also resolved that should sufficient interest and leadership be stimulated by this pronouncement to indicate the advisability of trying to continue operations, that the present board members will do what is within their power to aid and assist a new group to continue the series."

Harris stated that the potential artists which Thief River Falls would have the opportunity to bring here next year through the series had it been continued include Stecher and Horowitz, duo pianists; The Vienna Choir Boys; The Roger Wagner Chorale; Westminster Choir; Wagner Operetta Company; Minneapolis Symphony; Isaac Stern, violinist; Andre Tchaikowsky, pianist; Blanche Thebom, mezzo soprano; Nicolai Gedda, tenor; William Warfield, baritone; Jerome Hines, bass baritone, as well as many artists.

Harris said "The lack of such

County DFL Will Convene in Court House Saturday

To Elect County Officers and Name Delegates at Convention in Evening

Ray Hemenway, Minnesota DFL chairman, in a statement today invited all voters interested in the candidates and programs of the Democratic-Farmer-Labor Party to attend their county conventions this weekend.

The Pennington county convention will be held Saturday evening, April 19, at 8 in the assembly room in the court house. Lunch will be served.

Hemenway said, "The official actions of the county conventions will be voted upon by delegates who were elected at the precinct and township caucuses last week, but the convention halls will be open to all who wish to attend. Officers will be elected and delegates named to the district and state conventions.

"I urge all DFL supporters to go to their county conventions. These meetings are a vital part of the democratic nature of our organization. Here, the course for the DFL party will be outlined for the next two years.

"The dates for the convention in the 9th congressional district is Sunday, May 4. The state DFL convention will be held in Rochester, May 23, 24 and 25.

Pennington GOP Reorganizing for Coming Biennium

Some Officers Elected at Convention Held in City Auditorium Monday

The biennial Pennington county Republican convention was held in the Auditorium building Monday evening, with only a limited group in attendance.

Harry E. Simons, county chairman, was retained in that office on a temporary basis, other officers named including John Keck of Goodridge, vice chairman; Howard Hoel, secretary; and A. F. Berge, treasurer. Announcement of the names of the newly elected chairwoman and vice chairwoman will be withheld until they have accepted the posts, Simons stated.

Officers of the county committe, together with David M. Brown of Goodridge and W. E. Dahlquist, will serve as delegates to the Ninth district convention at Moorhead May 24, and it was agreed that they should go uninstructed.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Carlson of Glasgow, Montona, arrived Sunday evening to spend an indefinite time visiting friends and relatives. He recently received his discharge from the Air Force.

Mercury In 70s In Area This Week

High temperatures in the seventies was the feature of this week's weather as the area continues to bask in unusually nice weather for April.

Conspicuous by their absence, however, are those April showers. Area farmers probably would just as soon they remain absent until some of the spring work backlog is caught up with, although lawns in the city could use the moisture.

Also hoping for rain are Minnesota forest officials, who state the fire hazard this year is one of the worst on record. In some parts of the state, particularly the northeast, a close watch is being kept over the explosive situation and all burning permits have been cancelled.

High temperature of this reporting period occurred Monday, with a 75 registered, followed by 74 Tuesday and 72 Wednesday. Low for the period was 38 Tuesday, followed by 42 the other three days.

Five Members of Chest Board Are Elected

Group Aims to Unite All Fund Campaigns Into One Next Year

Total agency disbursements of $8,045.75 were reported made to the various units participating in the Pennington County Community Chest, according to a report issued at the annual meeting of that organization, which was held Tuesday evening in the courthouse.

Total receipts from the 1957 drive were listed at $8618.31, while total operating expenses were $310.40, as given in the report made by Harold Storhaug, secretary-treasurer.

David M. Brown, president, Goodridge, presided at the meeting, which was well attended. The group heard reports on scouting expenses in the area by J. M. Roche for the boy scouts and Mrs. Gunder Legvold for the girl scouts.

Mrs. Stanley Cockrell discussed finances for the Northwest Minnesota Association for Retarded Children, while the local Salvation Army head also reported on his organization.

The possibility of having a completely united fund drive in the city was discussed by the directors and Harry Oen, one of the outgoing members made a motion to the effect that the new board of directors should work with the Chamber of Commerce in an attempt to combine all drives in the city into one big drive in future years.

Oen's motion met with the approval of the directors and was passed unanimously.

Final item on the evening's agenda of the Chest meeting was election of four new directors to serve three-year terms and one to serve a two year term to replace Orrin Hall, resigned.

Eight candidates were submitted, from whom were elected Walter Larson, local merchant; Rolland Sande, who farms west of the city; A. K. Baron, N. W. Bell manager, and R. J. Dryden, local postmaster.

Leonard Mostrom of southeastern Pennington county was unanimously elected to fill the two-year term as director.

The organizational meeting of the board was scheduled for Tuesday, April 29.

2 Lincoln Speech Students Share in Regional Contest

Two Lincoln high school students participated last Friday in the regional declamatory contest at Fosston.

Nancy Glass, competing in the extemporaneous speaking division, earned a Superior rating and was named alternate for the state tournament in the Twin Cities this weekend.

Janet Torgerson won a rating of Excellent in the discussion division. Norman Arveson, speech instructor, accompanied the students to Fosston.

Dredging Pool in River Is Topic of C. of C. Tonight

The Chamber of Commerce, at its April session this evening at 6:30 in the Elks club rooms, will hear a discussion by Roy M. Barzen, president of the local park board, of the benefits to this city that would result from dredging the river pool here to remove the heavy deposit of silt that has accumulated thru the years. Also expected to share in the discussion is Judge Paul A. Lundgren, who has been intimately associated with the Red Lake-Clearwater River drainage and conservancy district.

State GOP Chief Addresses Young Republicans Here

Pennington-Marshall Group Receives Charter from State Chairwoman

Members of the Pennington-Marshall County Young Republican Club who met Tuesday evening at the Rex Cafe heard Ancher Nelson, state Republican chairman, take another hefty swing at Governor Orville Freeman, along with speeches by other honor guests at the meeting.

The meeting was presided over by Gordon Reierson on behalf of regular Chairman David Bown, Goodridge, who arrived late due to an earlier committment at the Community Chest meeting.

Other guests who spoke were State Rep. Odin Langin, Kennedy, and Mrs. Donald Melzark, New Ulm, state YR chairwoman. Langin also attacked Freeman and the DFL for not living up to campaign promises, particularly in repeal of the personal property tax.

Mrs. Melzark urged even greater efforts on the part of Pennington-Marshall Young Republicans. One of the highlights of the meeting was her presentation of the YR club charter to Chairman David Brown.

In his address Nelson said that Minnesota can thank the conservatives in the state legislature that their income tax which was due on the local YR meeting date, is as light as it is.

At the time Freeman and the DFL were elected in 1954 the state levy was 9.15 mills and since then it has been increased to 12.62, which approaches the all-time high of 13 mills reached under former Governor Elmer A. Benson, another DFL'er, Nelson said.

A general discussion of issues ended the formal portion of the meeting, after which refreshments were served to the goodly number of young people present.

Jaycees to Elect Officers Tonight

Thief River Falls Jaycees will elect officers to serve during the coming year at a dinner meeting this evening at 6:30 in the Legion club rooms. Glenn Peterson is the sole nominee for president to succeed N. H. Kortuem.

350 Persons Attend Historical Program at Washington PTA

Fun comedy and history were blended into an interesting program at the Washington PTA fun night program Monday when the PTA fathers presented a mock television show called "This Is Your Life". More than 350 persons attended.

Moderator Paul (Furuseth) Edwards opened the show by surprising the person to be interviewed in the crowd. This turned out to be a portrayal of this city played by Ellsworth Jorgenson as Mr. T. R. Falls. With him seated on the stage, Paul Edwards proceded to unfurl the past history of the city. Playing various parts in this history were [illegible] an early chief of the Red Lake tribe, and Vernon Anderson as one of his two squaws.

Roger Hastings was introduced as Frank Russell, the first white land owner in this vicinity dating back to 1880. Albert Koop portrayed John Baptiste LaBree, who was first marshal of this area, a Trading Post owner, and the father of the first white child. Next to appear was Bruce Hall as Chris Porter, owner of the land now known as Porter's addition.

The Lions Quartet gave two numbers in a portrayal of an old time Barber Shop Quartet singing in the first Barber Shop which was started by S. T. Johnson in 1883. Lester Vigness called a thick Irish brogue into use as he played the part of Patrick Meehan, one of two brothers who started a saw mill in 1891.

Belle of the show, and practically stealing the entire scene, was Everett Yonke, who put in an appearance dressed as Mrs. T. R. Falls.

Next in the chain of historical events was the appearance of Lars Backe, played by John Elsbrener. Backe is credited with filing the petition for the incorporation of Thief River Falls; being the first city clerk and later serving as Mayor.

Rep. Odin Langen to Address Knox PTA Unit Monday

Kennedy Legislator to Discuss Higher Education; Election Also Scheduled

Rep. Odin Langen, for the past seven years a member of the state legislature from Kittson county, will be the guest speaker at the April meeting of the Knox school PTA unit next Monday evening, April 21, in the school gymnasium, L. A. Ihle, president, announced today.

Rep. Langen, whose topic will be "Problems of Higher Education in Minnesota," is a member of the Governor's interim commission on education. In 1957 he served as conservative minority leader in the house of representatives. He is a former president of the Kennedy school board and PTA unit.

In its business session Monday night, the Knox unit will elect officers following a report by Morris Howick, chairman of the nominating committee. The program will close with a room visitation and a coffee hour.

Athletic Banquet Next Wednesday

Program Rapidly Taking Shape for Annual Dinner

The program for the banquet honoring Lincoln high school lettermen, scheduled for next Wednesday evening, April 23, in St. Bernard's dining hall, is rapidly taking form, it was announced today by N. H. Kortuem, chairman of the program committee.

Bob May, University of North Dakota hockey coach, will be the guest speaker, other features including selection by the Lincoln high school boy's quartet and saxophone quartet. Rev. Keough Patnode will offer the invocation.

Sponsors of the banquet, an annual event here, include the Chamber of Commerce, Junior Chamber, Rotary club and Lions club.

James Smillie, chairman of the ticket sale, stated that banquet tickets may be obtained at the J & B Drugs, Pharmacy, Parkins Corner Drug, Bjorkman's, Lieberman's, Union State and Northern State banks, First Federal, Bridgeman's, Oen's Appliance and Chamber of Commerce.

Jaycees Resume Sale of Centennial Buttons Monday

Members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce will resume their house-to-house sale of Minnesota Statehood Centennial buttons next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evening, when they will canvass homes on the west side of the river, Glenn Peterson, Jaycee button sale chairman, stated today. The buttons sell for $1.

James Winjum Resigns Post on City Council

No Successor Named; Variety of Business Considered Tuesday

The city council transacted a wide variety of business at the regular April session Tuesday evening which continued until after 1 a. m.

A communication from James R. Winjum, first ward alderman, was read, in which he submitted his resignation, stating that the position conflicts with his business affairs and citing the increasing demand on his time. After some hesitancy, the council voted to accept the resignation, but took no immediate action toward appointing a successor.

After considering 11 bids on a high service pump for the city water department, the council accepted the bid of Fairbanks Morse & Co. in the amount of $2,917, and accepted the bid of $635 submitted by W. E. Thompson Co. covering a control unit.

Also accepted was the bid of the Chicago Pump Co. in the amount of $2,253 for a replacement pump for the main sewer lift station. Five bids were considered, the lowest one of [illegible] being rejected because it did not meet the specifications.

Lawrence Bjorkman, secretary of the park board, renewed the board's plea for early action by the council to provide modern toilet facilities at Riverside park. He submitted plans and specifications for a concrete block building which would be located in the rear of the armory property and would cost from [illegible] to $6,500, exclusive of the sewer and water mains. Action on the proposal was deferred.

Appearing in behalf of the city recreation board, Bill LaFave proposed that salaries of recreation directors for two [illegible] this summer be increased [illegible] for the season from the [illegible] figure in effect in recent years. The council compromised the issue by voting to pay [illegible] a season to three Lincoln high school teachers and to pay part of the salary of a fourth man.

The council approved a two-year lease to Eugene Rondorf of approximately 100 acres of farm land on the airport property with the rental fixed at $400 a year.

In a letter to the council, County Auditor C. W. Rodekuhr cited the state law regarding the size of voting precincts, and pointed out the advisability of taking steps to adjust the size of the four wards in this city, to increase the number of precincts.

Check Forger to Face Charges in Marshall County

Aurora Man, 22, Arrested in Wisconsin is Confined in Marshall County Jail

Thorvald Chilgren, 22, Aurora, who left a trail of forged checks in several Minnesota counties in recent months was brought to the Marshall county jail Tuesday by Deputy Milan Sorensen after a phone call to his home by Chilgren tipped off lawmen to where he could be found.

Chilgren was arrested in Watertown, Wis. by Watertown police after an alert Aurora telephone operator tipped off authorities he had left word for relatives to call him at a Watertown hotel, where he was arrested shortly afterwards.

Accompanying Sorenson to Watertown to pick up Chilgren was city Police Chief Elton Cummings.

Until he was captured, Chilgren had left the forged checks ranging in amounts from [illegible] to $100 in Pennington, Clearwater, Ramsey, Hennepin, Red Lake, Polk and St. Louis counties, according to Sheriff Charles [illegible] Richards.

Richards said Chilgren will be held at Warren for district court on charges of passing the forged instruments in Marshall county. However, they said, the other counties probably will file detainers against him.

Snorre Lodge Charter Member Honored

Halvor Rhodegaard, city, the oldest active charter member of the local Snorre Lodge, Sons of Norway, was given a 50 year diploma at the lodge's 50th anniversary program held at the Eagles' hall Wednesday evening. Making the presentation was District 1 President Vilhelm Holand, Minneapolis, who was present for the occasion. Shown here as Holand presented the diploma to Rhodegaard are Herman A. 9th District Club Women Meet in East Grand Forks

The Ninth District Clubs of the Minnesota Federation of Women's Clubs held their annual convention in the Mendenhall Presbyterian Church in East Grand Forks Saturday, April 12. The hostess clubs were L'Etudier, Hermana and Columbia.

Re-elected after being advanced a few months ago when the president moved out of the state, were Mrs. John Michus of Breckenridge, president; Mrs. Arnold Hamnes of Stephen, second vice president; and Mrs. Richard Jackson of Crookston, auditor. Holding over for another year are Mrs. Fred Kwako of Detroit Lakes, first vice president; Mrs. Arthur Knutson of Warren, secretary; Mrs. Earl Harney of East Grand Forks, treasurer. Mrs. Jordan Wheeler of Fosston was elected to the office of historian.

Four of the nine ninth district nominees for the Modern Maria Sanford of the district were presented at the noon luncheon. Mrs. Edgar Massee was presented by the clubs of East Grand Forks, Miss Alpha Morck, Crookston; Mrs. Basil Coninx, Warren; and Miss Lyda Batten, Thief River Falls.

The "Apostrophe to the Flag" was given by Judith Halvorson of Crookston, District winner of the Maria Sanford speech contest. One of the nine nominees for the honor of the Modern Maria Sanford, congresswoman Coya Knutson of Oklee was the unanimous choice of the three out of state judges, with Mrs. Mary Barnes of Bagley, second, and Miss Alpha Morck of Crookston, third.

Sun-bonneted and calico-clad women were seated among the 175 attending the convention indicating their participation in Minnesota's centennial observance. Mrs. Kermit Haugen of Minneapolis, State Federation president was guest speaker. She urged the women to take time now to do those things which support democracy or she said in ten years we may have lost it and will be living under a dictatorship. Better programs and an alliance with something greater than ourselves, will make it possible for us to share in the freedom of the future.

Winners of the State centennial essay contest were [illegible] Charron of Crookston and Ellen Beth Reed of Moorhead.

Members of the Thief River Falls Woman's Clubs in attendance at the convention were Mrs. Gaston Warll, Mrs. C. W. Vorachek, Miss Lyda Batten, Mrs. Gunder Legvold, Mrs. L. B. Hartz and Mrs. Lloyd Bennes.

26 from Lincoln High Share in Science Fair at Bemidij Saturday

Twenty-six members of the Lincoln High School Science club and advisors Lawrence Brown, Charles Samuelson, Al Adams, Howard Nelson and Elwin Broughton attended the fifth annual Northern Minnesota regional science fair at Bemidji Saturday, April 12.

Exhibits from Thief River Falls consisted of a linear accelerator by Charles Kimbrough, which received a blue rating and will be entered in the state science fair; and a model airplane carved from balsa wood with a ram jet engine by Stanford Pladson; and rockets shown by the Rocket club.

Jerry Wedul, son of Mrs. Helen Wedul of this city, was elected president of the Junior Academy of Science. Janet Torgerson, his campaign manager, gave a vote winning speech before the election. It will be Jerry's duty to act as president of the Northern Minnesota region and promote science clubs in this area.

Approximately 100 exhibits were shown by the schools participating in the fair. Among the many interesting entries were exhibits on the circulation of the blood, brain waves, the law of action and reaction, gibberellic acid used for fertilizer, the skeleton of a cat and of a chicken, parts of a skeleton found in Clearwater county, and a solar furnace.

Sixteen exhibits were chosen to represent the Northern Minnesota region in the state science fair May 2-3 which will be held in Bemidji.

A program consisting of a welcome by Dr. C. R. Sattgast, president of Bemidji state college, a few words by Dr. Harold Peters, president of the Minnesota Academy of Science; and a discussion of his work with "Brain Waves" by Bernard Backman, a Bemidji high school student, was given.

Two films, The Red River of Life, the store of blood, and the Strange Case of Cosmic Rays, were shown.

Experiments on atomic energy were given by the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing company, after which the awards were presented to the exhibitors. Blue "qualifying award" ribbons were given to those whose projects were worthy of representing the region in the state contest.

The purpose of a science fair is to stimulate interest in science and to give those who are interested a chance to display the projects they have worked on during the year.

Lutheran World Relief Clothing Drive April 26-29

Public Asked to Bring Garments to Auditorium on Saturday, April 26

The clothing drive, sponsored by the Church World Service and Lutheran World Relief Organizations, has issued an appeal for good quality ready-to-wear clothing for distribution in Korea, Hongkong, the Middle East, Hungary, Austria, Poland and West Germany, it was announced today by H. G. Rasmussen, local chairman.

Donors are asked to pack their clothing in cartons and tie securely ready for loading. Everyone in this area is asked to bring clothing to the north door of the city auditorium in Thief River Falls on Saturday, April 26th, Monday April 28th and up to 4:00 P. M. on Tuesday, April 29th. Henry Dahlen will be present at the Auditorium to assist with this work. That evening the clothing will be taken by L. B. Hartz Wholesale truck to Grand Forks where it will be loaded in a railroad car and shipped to a processing center for packing and shipping to the needy.

All churches, organizations and individuals are being asked to assist in this undertaking.

Items most needed include suits and overcoats, trousers and overalls, dresses and skirts, caps, gloves and mittens, sweaters, robes and mufflers, underwear and stockings, shoes — sturdy pairs tied together (low heels, closed toes), blankets and bedding, layettes and infants wear and cloth remnants for sewing.

Items that cannot be used are hats, neckties, open toe or high heel and narrow width ladies or bulky bedding such as pillows, mattresses, comforters and featherbeds.

D. Drotts Renamed Head of Gideons

Thief River Falls Camp Names Officers April 14

At is annual meeting in the Rex Cafe at Thief River Falls April 14, the Thief River Falls Camp of Gideons International re-elected David Drotts of this city as president.

Other officers re-elected to their respective post were: Secretary, Anton Hall, Thief River Falls; chaplain, John S. Vielguth, Thief River Falls; state trustee, C. G. Peterson, Warren; Bible secretary, Edwin H. Nystrom, Fosston; church assignment secretary, Clifford G. Vigness, Thief River Falls; camp trustee, Roy Johnson, Warren; youth testament secretary, Rodney Brodin, Thief River Falls; camp reporter, Rollie Rottweiler, Hallock.

Because of ineligibility due to having previously served three consecutive terms, the following offices were filled by newly elected personnel as follows, Vice president, C. Einar Johnson, Warren; assistant secretary, Axel H. Taflin, Fosston; treasurer, Gunnar E. Kronholm, Crookston; and membership secretary, Nels J. Holmberg, Thief River Falls.

Paul W. Anderson, president of the Bemidji Camp of Gideons, was the installing afficer and speaker at the dinner meeting which was attended by some 30 or more Gideons and auxiliary members from Fosston, Crookston, Warren, Hallock and Thief River Falls. The Thief River Falls Camp includes these localities in its area-wide jurisdiction!

A hard task is eased by the application of immediate energy.

Levin Vagle Heads Galilee Bible Camp

Chapel Built Last Summer Is Added to Facilities

The annual meeting of the Galilee Bible Camp corporation was held at the Bethlehem Lutheran Church at Newfolden on Tuesday evening, April 8.

The Galilee Bible Camp is located near Lake Bronson. Last summer a large chapel was erected in addition to the other buildings which had previously been built. With the completion of the chapel, it is expected that many groups will desire to lease it. The Bible Camp is sponsored by the Thief River Falls district of the Lutheran Free church.

At the organization of the board, following the meeting, the following officers were elected for the coming year: Levin Vagle, chairman; Joseph Jacobson, secretary; and H. C. Haugen, treasurer.

Lunch was served by a group of Newfolden ladies. The Galilee Bible Camp dedication services will be held at the camp Sunday, June 29.

Fergus Falls Honors Hospital Head Apr. 27

April 27 will be Dr. Patterson Day in Fergus Falls. Residents of the county and the state will be invited to join with Fergus Falls citizens in recognizing the contribution Dr. W. L. Patterson, superintendent of the Fergus Falls state hospital, has made to the mental health program of the state. Dr. Patterson has been a member of the hospital staff for forty-six years, serving as superintendent for the greater part of that time.

April 17 has been chosen as the date, first because it is the beginning of the Mental Health Week, secondly because this is Minnesota's Centennial year. April 27 is also the anniversary date of Dr. Patterson's arrival in Fergus Falls forty-six years ago.

The program for the day will include the following events:

2:30 p.m.: A procession from the downtown Great Northern depot to the state hospital grounds, will re-enact Dr. Patterson's arrival in Fergus Falls in 1912.

3:00 p.m., A dedication ceremony in which Dr. Patterson will turn the first spade of ground for the new geriatrics activities unit to be built this summer. This unit will be later dedicated to Dr. Patterson.

3:30 p.m., A reception in the hospital auditorium.

6:30 p.m., A recognition banquet will be given at the Roosevelt park high school honoring Dr. Patterson as the outstanding citizen of Fergus Falls and for his contribution to the state mental health program.

During Mental Health Week, April 27 thru May 3, 1958, the Fergus Falls state hospital will hold open house with tours daily thru the hospital at 1:00 and 2:00 p.m. At a coffee break, slides will be shown depicting the treatment of a mentally ill person at the hospital, and this will be narrated by hospital personnel with time for a question and answer period. There will be Educational displays in the downtown stores and the Library in Fergus Falls. The hospital chaplains are planning an institute on Wednesday, April 30, based on "Pastoral Care for the Psychiatric Patient". The 8th Annual Volunteer Banquet honoring the Volunteers who serve the hospital will be on Thursday May 1, 1958.

WALTHER LEAGUE WILL ELECT OFFICERS SUNDAY

St. John's Walther League will meet in the church parlors Sunday, April 20, at 8:00 p.m. The annual election of officers will be held. The pastor will present a topic on church customs. Bob Benke will discuss Lutheran symbols. Serving committee is Gerald Jasperson and Donna Hesse.

James H. Winjum, Alderman from 1st Ward, Resigns

ported that a total of 3,288 votes was cast in the 1956 general election in Thief River Falls, with the number of votes per ward varying from 455 in the third ward to 1,331 in the fourth. A council committee was named to confer with Auditor Rodekuhr and City Attorney Robert Wurst in an effort to work out a solution.

Vernon Scholin, 404 Duluth av. S., asked for action on his claim for $500 filed against the city January 15 to cover damage to the basement of his home resulting from a broken city water main last fall. City Attorney Wurst stated that the insurance company covering the city had rejected the claim on the ground that it had been filed too late, but Wurst agreed to write to the company and intercede in Scholin's behalf.

Also received was a claim against the city filed by Chris B. Kierk, who early in 1957 had been relieved of his duties as city airport manager. He claimed the city owes him $2,774.53 in salary, loss of profit on the operation of the airport cafe, and for equipment. The council ordered the matter filed.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce was granted the use of the parking lot at the corner of LaBree av. and First st. in connection with the annual Jaycee Teen-age Road-E-O scheduled for Saturday, May 24.

Approved by the council were five applications for building permits, the major ones being issued to the Odd Fellows lodge for a $30,000 addition to its building and to Philip Hess for a $15,000 residence.

The council voted to trade in the police car bought last fall on a 1958 Chevrolet at a price of $495 in addition to the trade-in.

The Northern State and Union State banks were designated as official city depositories.

A representative of the Duncan parking meter company was present to display his product, and he stated that meters help to relieve the parking problem. He recommended that the city start with 630 meters at a cost of about $65 each, and said they could be installed with no down-payment and paid for out of parking revenue. The council took no action.

Washington PTA Gives Historical Program Monday

Last to appear was Bob Kraemer, playing the part of the Reverend Ino B. Smith. Smith was was immortalized in Thief River Falls history by predicting the growth and development of Thief River Falls as an important city. This prediction was made in 1907.

Following the style of all good TV programs, several commercials were offered. These commercials were staged by flashing old time newspaper advertisements on the screen and using a modern style announcer to read the advertisement. Some of the old time ads used were taken from a 1913 issue of the Thief River Falls "News Press". These included advertisements for C Gustafson & Sons, Lieberman Bros., Hansen & Barzen Milling Co., Kiewel Products Co., Eastman Stud Service, Prichard Lumber and Products Co., and the Oen Mercantile Company, all old time business firms of this city.

Mrs. Robert Abbott, substituting for her husband, the Rev. Abbott, former president, installed the recently elected slate of officers, headed by Paul Furuseth, who succeeded Irvin Wilson. Others inducted were Ellsworth Jorgenson, vice president; Mrs. Silas Hanson, secretary; and Lester Vigness, treasurer.

Door prizes were won Art Moe and Mrs. Irvin Wilson.

Coffee and lunch was served while a large selection of old time photographs and other historical items was flashed on a screen by means of an opaque projector.

Concert Assn. to Suspend Due to Lack of Interest

a series is going to be a detriment to those now in the community who are interested in music as a profession and who are able only by the series bringing the concerts in locally, [illegible] gain that fundamental ground work in music which is necessary for them if they are to be prepared to go ahead with advanced studies after they leave our community.

"Before May 1 it will be necessary for something to happen to support the series if it is to be revived, for after May 1 it will be nearly impossible to book any artists for the coming season as their dates with the necessary support and leadership required.

"I will be in Minneapolis this week end and will be advising our concert bureau at that time of our local action in discontinuing the series. The action will be final unless someone steps forward as indicated."

Teacher Training Department Will Continue in TRF

125 at Banquet Note 50th Anniversary of Sons of Norway Lodge

Over 125 persons were present Wednesday evening, as the local Sons of Norway Snorre lodge observed its 50th anniversary with a banquet at the Eagles Hall.

Judge Herman A. Kjos, lodge secretary, was toastmaster at the affair, at which Sons of Norway District 1 President Vilhelm Holand, Minneapolis, and Judge Gilman Ganderud, Glenwood, supreme lodge director, were guests.

Highlight of the banquet was the presentation of a 50-year diploma to Halvor Rhodegaard, city, only active living charter member of the lodge, which was formed in December, 1907. The award was made by Holand.

The banquet was opened by a welcome from Snorre lodge President Lawrence K. Aase, and was followed by group singing of the Star Spangled Banner and Ja vi elsker dette landet.

Greetings from the district lodge was given by Holand, and introduction of charter members, lodge officers and visiting officers followed.

Bert Tveit provided singing for the group, accompanied by Jerry Joringdal.

The main address of the evening was given by Judge Ganderud, who related the saga of Norwegians in America, beginning with a small settlement at Fox River, Ill. in 1833 and coming up to the present. He cited the hardships and the great contributions made to the country by these early Norwegian settlers.

Following the audience singing of America the formal program was closed and a dance was held for those present.

Culkins Reminds of Deadline Friday for Federal Cost-shares

Patrick W. Culkins, manager of the Pennington County ASC office, informed the Times today that Friday, April 18th is the final date for Pennington county producers to request federal cost-shares for carrying out spring conservation practices on their farms under the federal government's ACP program in 1958. All interested persons who intend to participate in the 1958 program are requested to call at the ASC office not later than the 18th of this month.

Permitted acreage reports will be mailed out to all farmers who are participating in the soil bank programs in the immediate future. These reports will be the advice to soil bank farmers regarding the acreages of depleting crops that may be seeded on their farms in 1958. All participants are advised to seed within their permitted acreages because overplanting will result in severe penalties. In some instances it may result in forfeiture of the entire annual payment which would be due in 1958.

Pennington county farmers who do not have wheat acreage allotments on their farms and who seed wheat in 1958 are requested to call at the ASC office and report their seeded acreage as soon as planting operations are completed. Failure to report wheat acreage seeded in 1958 will delay the issuance of a marketing card, which is necessary in order to market the wheat produced in 1958.

Farmers who have signed up in the Acreage Reserve part of the Soil Bank program are advised that if they rent other land with no previous wheat history, and plant wheat on this land, their Soil Bank payment will be reduced on an acre-for-acre basis on their 1958 Acreage reserve agreement. The office recognizes the fact that the Soil Bank programs are quite complicated, cooperators to visit their ASC said Culkins, and we invite all office and secure the correct information on any part of the program that is not entirely clear to them.

Hazel Happenings During the Week

Mrs. Carl Alberg, Phone MU 1-17[illegible]

Fire Department Called

The St. Hilaire fire department was called to the Walter Odegaard farm on Monday. A pile of rubbish had been burned on Saturday and evidently there were still some live sparks, which due to the strong wind were blown into the tall, dry grass that started the fire which spread rapidly. A great deal of credit is due the fire department [illegible] to save all the buildings with the exception of a shed.

However the fire spread quickly thru the dry grass and jumped the rail road track, so homes on that side were also threatened, but the fire department together with the help of a large number of neighbors, brought the fire under control, which will be gratefully remembered by all concerned.

The St. Pauli Ladies Aid will meet at the church Thursday afternoon April 17 at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. Clarence Arneson will be the hostess.

This was also a birthday celebration for Mrs. Kenneth Hanson and Bill Lindahl.

Ole Selmanson of St. Hilaire visited Saturday evening at the Carl Alberg home.

Mrs. Marie Omlid of Bemidji spent the weekend at the Jesse Skaaren home.

"I REMEMBER"

BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Florence Palmer, Fort Wayne, Indiana: I remember walking to and from school. On the Illinois prairie where I lived, most of us walked approximately two miles to and from the little district school each day.

In September when school started, decked in a new calico dress (a must for the first day in school) and with our round tin dinner pail we gladly took off early in the morning. Summer, warm and hazy, still hovered over the landscape and the roads were dusty and full of yellow butterflies.

October was a brisk, pretty month and we welcomed the first frosty morning. Then came winter. The snow drifted, sometimes covering the hedge fences. We loved this. Dressed in leggings that buttoned well over our knees and with four buckled overshoes, we walked on top of the hedge to school, had snow fights and, though the oldsters grumbled about the snow, we were sorry when the spring thaw began.

There was fun in the spring, too. Most of us had rubber boots to travel the wet, muddy roads and how we enjoyed wading in the little rivers and ponds melting snow and spring rains provided. I can remember that your feet were often cold but we would venture as far as possible into the water and take as long as we possibly could to get home in the evening.

I am sure the school bus is most convenient but today's children miss something too, for we really had fun walking to and from school.

Alf Longren Finds It Doesn't Pay to Work Heavy Soil When Wet

Alfred Longren, farmer in North township coperating with the Pennington county soil conservation district, has noticed that when the heavy sticky soils on his farm are worked when wet, they pack and become hard. He has observed that these packed clods do not make a good seed bed. As a result an uneven stand of grain is obtained.

Longren also said that soils in which alfalfa and grass had been plowed down did not pack as much as soils that had been fallowed without a green manure crop.

Don Lawrence, S.C.S. Farm planner for the Pennington Co. soils district, said that in some cases working soil when wet does more harm than good. He said that experimental evidence points to three bad effects of working wet land. They are packing the surface soil with the resulting poor seed bed; packing the soil at or near the plow depth, which results in restricted plant root growth and lower yield; and smashing the soil particles together so that soil structure is broken down and water intake is slowed.

Lawrence also said that farmers who use good crop rotations that include grass and legume for green manure crops will have less trouble with packed soil.

A Well-Placed Dam solved two problems on the Herman Carstens farm near Appleton. The problems: excessive erosion from runoff water and a need for a place to water cattle at a distance from the farm buildings. J. L. Edman, Swift county agent, reports that Carstens built a dam to hold the runoff water in a place where cattle could drink it. This project was made possible through ACP cost-sharing.

Hunting and Fishing are actually getting better and better, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The November issue of "Soil Conservation," official magazine of the SCS, reports we now have thousands of acres of manmade pounds, lakes and reservoirs that provide good fishing where little or no fishing existed 100, 50 or even 10 years ago. Windbreak and shelterbelt planting in the Upper Midwest has encouraged spread of several native game species—racoon, foxes, squirrels and deer, the magazine says.

Contour Farming has proven itself for John Weber, farmer in Dakota county. "I was skeptical of this practice until I helped harvest oats on the farm of a neighbor, Gilbert Ludwig," Weber says. "But I found out that on contour strips, it was easier going on the level that going up and down hill. The crop was much better than it used to be when the farm was farmed up and down hill. Also at the bottom of a slope near here, there was a culvert that had to be cleaned of silt frequently. Then the slope was farmed in contour strips and the culvert hasn't needed cleaning since."

Corn Planted in wheel tracks yield 70 bushels per acre on the Marvin Meixner farm near Owatonna last summer. This was five bushels more than where corn was planted the usual way, according to Russell Nute, Steele county agent. Also, there was less soil erosion in the wheel-track-planted corn and weeds didn't grow as well there.

Sunday visitors at the Pete Nelson home were Mr. and Mrs. Carl B. Larson of Thief River Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Dalager, and Grace, Gunild Evenson and Henry and Ulrick Erickson. Other visitors during the weekend were Albert Hestekind of McIntosh and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Arneson, Harold and Florence.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sandberg returned to their home here Friday after spending the past months in New Jersey.

Mrs. Oscar Peterson and Russell visited Tuesday evening at the Orville Roese home near Plummer.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hanson and son Randy moved recently from Thief River Falls to the Walter Odegaard farm south of Hazel.

Mrs. Henry Sandberg and Mrs. Clarence Roese visited Tuesday afternoon at the Oscar Peterson home.

E. Scholin Wins Men's Bowling Tournament

Einar Scholin, a member of Service league champion Grolle's Pure Oil team, bowled games of 187-214-181-147 for an actual pin total of 729 pins, and, with a handicap of 80 pins, posted an aggregate of 809 pins to win the men's city singles handicap bowling tournament that was concluded at the Pla-Mor alleys on Sunday night.

Otto Myhrer, with games of 200-147-166-165, and plus a handicap of 112 pins, had an aggregate of 790 pins for second place; and Mauritz Scholin gained third place honors with an aggregate of 789 pins, scoring games of 200-164-134-179, and a handicap of 112 pins.

Ambrose Wysoski had the high single game, a 221, rolled in the third game of his four-game series. Wysoski, with a handicap of 48 pins, had games of 182-155-221-177, for an aggregate of 783.

Conservationists Plan Field Day at Lake Bronson Park

One of Seven Field Days Will Be Conducted at Park Wednesday, May 14

The new approach to conservation education, Conservation Field Days, successfully initiated last year in a pilot demonstration at Camden State Park, will be repeated before the close of the school year in at least seven state parks, Nat Johnson, conservation department education advisor, announced today.

The programs are designed to develop a pattern for utilizing services of conservation department personnel in an outdoor instructional program. The fundamental aims are to offer an opportunity for biology students and instructors to gain first hand information about conservation operational techniques, acquaint conservation field personnel with objectives of conservation education and to acquaint students, instructors and conservation personnel with Minnesota state parks.

Conservation field days are scheduled for the following state parks with local high schools participating: Buffalo River, May 15; Flandreau, May 2; Lake Bronson, May 14; Mille Lacs-Kathio, May 6; Mound Springs, May 1; O'Brien, May 8 (tentative); and Whitewater, April 23.

Cooperating agencies, Johnson said, include the department of education, the University of Minnesota, U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, and many others. The Centennial will be represented by a speaker at each of the field days.

High Scoring Bowlers at Plummer

High scoring bowlers who were honored at the banquet held in the Plummer hall, and which was sponsored by the Plummer Bowling association, were, left to right, Jesse DuChamp, whose 180 average won the season's high average trophy; Bruce Erickson, who rolled a 242 game for high single game honors; and Wally DuChamp, who won the high three-game series trophy with a 610 mark.

Another Close One

If you thought that the windup of the Business bowling league last Tuesday evening was a hectic and close affair, you should have been on hand for the City league's schedule-ending matches on Friday night.

The Argyle State Bank team won the league championship, but not until they had experienced some anxious moments, for the league title was in the balance until the final ball was rolled, and then a single pin was the deciding factor.

The drama of Friday night's bowling was centered in the Northern Woodwork vs. Danny's Grocery match. The Northern Woodwork entered the final match trailing the Argyle State Bank by one-half game, 48 wins and 33 losses to 47½ wins and 33½ losses.

The Northern Woodwork team, bowling on the early shift, dropped a pair of matches to Danny's, and one of these losses was by one pin. Orv Gillespie, the anchor man for the Danny's, rode into the head pin high on his final ball, but instead of getting a split, he toppled over nine pins and gave the Danny's a one-pin win. The Argyle State Bank squad, bowling on the late shift, was able to win but one game from the Hi-Ways, but that win preserved their half-game margin and the league championship.

Here's the roll-call of the Friday night City league champions: Vic Loranger, Orrin Skunes, Bernard Tracy, Bill Conway, Omer Deschene, and B. Smith.

The Northern Woodwork did manage to salvage a bit of honor out of the Friday night bowling for their Ambrose Wysoski, with a 171 mark, won the individual high average title.

Did You Miss It?

Did you read the pertinent remarks that South Dakota's governor, Joe Foss, made at the Sportsmen's Show in Minneapolis last week? Foss, who was a Marine "ace" during World War II, and is in his second term as governor of South Dakota, stated that he was protesting against the "dictatorship" of biologists and others who use the name of science to do what they want in game and fish affairs.

As quoted by Jim Peterson, Foss said "Yes, we need science, but we also need some good old horse sense to go along with it. I am opposed to dictatorship in any form of government, and that includes the game and fish department."

Foss concluded his remarks by adding that "the worst thing is that they won't change their ideas one bit and they (the biologists) have influenced a lot of good sportsmen into going along with them."

We agree with many of Foss' statements, but we aren't so sure that the biologists and game scientists are to blame for the erratic game and fish program. There probably is considerable politics mixed up with the game and fish department on the state level. Policies re usually formed at the executive level, and these policy makers are license-fee conscious, and these plans are usually formed with one eye on the cash register.

Portent for Good Fishing

Indications are that the walleyed pike fishing in Lake of the Woods and Rainy river will be good to excellent this season. That is if the reports of the early-season fishing, which concluded on Tuesday, April 15th, is any criterion.

The river opened unseasonably early this year, and this "breakup" permitted the anglers to take advantage of the extra month of pike fishing that is allowed on the boundary waters between Minnesota and Canada.

Incidentally, dont' forget that the daily limit of walleyes is set at six, and that the possession limit of walleyes is also six. The daily limit of saugers or sand pike is eight, with eight in possession. These limits are established by the commissioner, and they are a bit at variance with the limits authorized by the legislature. But the commissioner has the authority to set these limits. He cannot exceed the limits recommended by the legislature.

Trap Shooters to Dine This Evening at T. R. Golf Club

The Thief River Falls Trap Shoot club will hold its annual meeting and dinner at the golf club on Thursday evening, April 17th. Following the dinner, which will be served at 7:00 p.m., a business session will be conducted, with plans for the 1958 season being discussed.

If weather conditions permit, the traps will be open at 4:30 p.m. for informal trap shooting.

Local Delegation at State Food Retailers Parley

A delegation of local grocers and their ladies attended the annual convention of the Minnesota Food Retailers association Sunday and Monday at the Leamington Hotel in Minneapolis.

A highlight of the program was an enlightening discussion on methods of combating shoplifters and writers of bad checks.

In attendance from this city were Otis Wold, vice president of the state association, and Mrs. Wold; Gordon Ballingrud; James Winjum and son James and their wives; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Christianson and Ole Vraa.

Governor to Present State Safety Awards

Winners of the 1957 state traffic safety contests will be honored at the annual Minnesota Safety Council presentation dinner at Hotel Saint Paul, St. Paul, Thursday, May 1, according to A. V. Rohweder, Duluth, president of the council. Governor Orville L. Freeman will present awards to Minnesota cities and counties which have been adjudged as having contributed substantially to the state's traffic safety efforts.

For the second successive year, the capital city of St. Paul will receive a bronze plaque award for the top over-all program in group "A" cities, having 100,000 population or more. In the group "B" cities, between 10,000 and 100,000 population, Virginia will receive a plaque from the Governor, winning over last year's leader, Rochester.

Sixteen other cities will be recognized with awards of merit for activities in particular fields:

In traffic safety education: Austin, Faribault, Hibbing, Rochester and St. Cloud in group "B" cities; Fairmont, Northfield and Willmar in group "C" cities under 10,000 population.

In traffic law enforcement: Fergus Falls, Rochester and St. Cloud in group "B" cities; Anoka and Marshall in group "C".

In traffic safety engineering: Bemidji, Farebault, Fergus Falls, Mankato, Owatonna and St. Louis Park in group "B" cities; and Granite Falls in group "D" cities, under 5,000 population.

In the county division, two awards of merit will be presented. For the eighth consecutive year, Ramsey county will be honored in group "AA" counties having 50,000 or more population. The award will be presented for traffic safety engineering. For counties with 25,000 to 50,000 population, the award will go to Freeborn county for traffic safety education.

No awards were recommended by the safety council's award committee for counties having less than 25,000 population.

More than 800 state and industrial safety leaders are expected to attend the dinner which highlights the state's safety activities.

In the 1955-56 scholastic year, enrollment in public and private schools in the U.S. totaled 41,553,000.

Finalists in State Centennial Speech Contest Selected

Student in Cathedral High School, Crookston, Among Regional Winners

A boy is one of the ten finalists in the Centennial Maria Sanford speech contest to be held Friday, April 25, at 10 a.m. in the state office building auditorium, St. Paul.

William Harper of White Bear Lake will represent the fourth district in competition with nine girls in the contest sponsored by the Centennial Maria Sanford statue committee and the Minnesota Federation of Women's Clubs.

The state winner will go to Washington, D. C. and recite Miss Sanford's "Apostrophe to the Flag" next November during the unveiling ceremonies of the Maria Sanford statue in Statuary Hall in the nation's capitol.

Evelyn Raymond, Minneapolis sculptor, is at work on the 7-foot statue of the pioneer University of Minnesota professor who became known as Minnesota's "Apostle of Culture and Patriotism."

Other district winners are Abby Sprague, Caledonia; Kathryn Herbeck, Holy Trinity Cathedral of New Ulm; Leonore Karstad, Nicollet; Nancy Joubert, Richfield; Marian Gansveld, Zimmerman (Elk River High School); Susan Stahler, Morris; Sandra Simonich, Ely; Judith Halverson, Cathedral of Crookston and Sandee Ames, Mound.

Centennial Farm Film Is Released

Movie Loaned Free to Any Interested Organization

Availability of a 26-minute color sound film, a project of the Minnesota Centennial agriculture committee, was announced Wednesday, April 9.

Theodore Fenske, associate dean of the University of Minnesota's Institute of agriculture and chairman of the Centennial agriculture committee, said the 16 millimeter film will be made available on a free loan basis to any interested organization.

Films can be obtained from the agricultural extension service, Institute of Agriculture, St. Paul 1, or Reid H. Ray Film Industries Inc., 2269 Ford Parkway St. Paul 16.

The movie, "An Agricultural Portrait," has been shown during recent days in some motion picture theaters.

Farming's many facets, plus marketing procedures and consumer interests, all are covered broadly in the picture.

Intent of the film, according to Dean Fenske, is to reveal the present as well as the past and the scenes of people working their land.

"A great deal of effort has been devoted to the advancement of agriculture," Fenske said. "Our film is an effort to show the interdependence between all peoples and that the developments of the past century are stepping stones to an unlimited future."

Editorials . . .

"The fact is that civilization requires slaves. The Greeks were quite right there. Unless there are slaves to do the ugly, horrible, uninteresting work, culture and contemplation become almost impossible. Human slavery is wrong, insecure, and demoralizing. Well Deserved Tribute

At their Rotary-Ann dinner Monday night Rotarians paid a well deserved tribute to Mrs. Roy Barzen for her contribution to the exchange student program sponsored by the club during the past three years. With Roy Barzen serving pretty much as the spark plug for this program within the club, and the Barzen home being made available as the guest house for the visiting students, this program in Thief River Falls so far has been largely a Barzen family project.

While the exchange student program has its roots in World War I, in its present form it is only ten years old. Up to four years ago the number of foreign exchange students in our country totalled only 225. Each year, since then, the number has increased substantially. This year there are more than a thousand, and American Field Service officials estimate next year's total at about 1,400. The program has proven itself worth while and is recognized now as one of our country's most important contributions to international understanding and good will.

It is evident therefore that Thief River Falls has pioneered in this good effort, thanks to the Barzens and the Rotary Club.

As a result of this local participation we have three staunch friends who will remember us favorably for many future years. And these young people of today will probably be men of influence in the years ahead.

The Barzens hear regularly from Kiyoshi Tanabe of Japan, now taking engineering at the University of Tokyo, and Gilson deSouza of Brazil, a law student at the University of Rio de Janeiro and looking forward to a career in politics. The present guest at the Barzen home is John Sutiana of Indonesia, who hopes to advance in the field of either business or engineering.

These three young men have made a very favorable impression on our students with whom they have been associated. Their scholastic attainments have dispelled any notions our students may have had about the countries of their origin being backward in educational standards and objectives.

[illegible] for the community in expressing to the Barzens and to the Rotary Club a vote of thanks for the good achievement which reflects credit upon all of us.

Justifiable "Gag"

President Eisenhower has suggested a program for the reorganization of the military forces, placing them under a centralized command. This proposal has led to the usual critical reaction from top brass in the several branches of the service. Each branch prefers to continue as an independent agency, and that position is understandable to anyone who has been exposed to government bureaucracy.

Under the circumstances there is justification for the order from on high that military men who do not agree with the President's proposals will keep their opinions to themselves. If called upon by congressional committees they of course will be expected to express their honest opinions. The "gag" is imposed to keep publicity-seeking colonels and corporals out of the headlines.

Ordinarily we object to a gag rule under any and all circumstances, but we will go along with this particular order as a reasonable curb on a segment of our economy that has too often been too vocal.

The fact that President Eisenhower is a military man by profession, and by long experience, makes it easier for us to go along with his views about the military, speaking as a civil officer. His views about our military defense organization are not necessarily right, and they may be properly questioned. As long as Congress retains the right to hear all of the evidence for and against the president's proposals we do not have to concern ourselves about any suppression of information.

Truman Then and Now

Former President Harry Truman has been volunteering a lot of advice about what should be done to curb the recession. He recently was invited to express his views before the House banking and currency committee, headed by democratic chairman, Congressman Brent Spence. This committee hearing served as a great national sounding board for Happy Harry to broadcast his views. And he had a lot of fun telling the administration all about its shortcomings.

Mr. Truman assured the committee that if he were president he would not sit idly by and do nothing while millions of our people were unemployed. He would take steps to put people to work. All of which reminded the Chicago Tribune that there had been a recession during the Truman administration, and during that recession Mr. Truman had expressed some entirely different views. Says the Tribune:

> There was a recession in 1949-50, when Truman was President. Unemployment reached 7.6 per cent of the working force at that time. A total of 4,684,000 workers were out of work, out of an available labor force of 61,427,000. The available working force as of now has risen to 67,510,000. Of these 5,198,000 are unemployed, equivalent to 7 per cent of the labor force.
> The rate of unemployment in the current recession is, therefore, less than during the Truman recession of 1949-50. Yet, in the earlier recession, President Truman was not minded to espouse rash measures to counter the slump. He calmly said:
> "A certain amount of unemployment, say from 3 to 5 millions, is supportable. It is a good thing that job-seeking should go on at all times; this is healthy for the economic body."
> When unemployment had reached 4,684,000 in January, 1950, Truman announced, "I am happy to report to you today that the state of the Union continues to be good. . . . We have met and reversed the most significant downturn in economic activity since the war. . . . Major readjustments have been made without widespread suffering."
> But two months ago Truman was singing a different tune. He said, "There are those who have been saying that a little recession is a good thing for the health of our economy. They would like you to believe that a [illegible] prosperity is the way to halt runaway inflation. That kind of thinking is like believing a little bit of war might be beneficial."

But was not Truman himself saying in 1950 that unemployment of 3 to 5 million was "a good thing" because it stimulated job-seeking, which was healthy for the economic body?

Harry, who now promises that he would be "doing something," was not doing anything those days. He might not have been playing golf, but it would be risky to bet that he wasn't playing poker with his kitchen cabinet.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

"Herbert," said a girl to her rather insipid-looking young man, "if people ask me what I see in you, what should I tell them?"

"A fine time to come in," stormed a wife to her spouse as he stumbled in at 4 a.m. "I want an explanation, and I want the truth."

"Make up your mind, dear—you can't have both."

We heard of a family who could trace their ancestry back 800 years, yet could not possibly tell where their children were last night.—Rotary Shaft.

Charity may begin at home, but where it really goes to town is in the "contributions" section of the tax blanks.

OUT-PERFORMS
Them All in Growers' Own Weight and Compare Tests

Don't miss out on corn income you could just as well be collecting. Make certain you plant every acre of your corn ground to the highest-producing hybrids you can get. How do you tell which are the highest producing? Thousands of profit-minded corn growers now choose their hybrids this proven way:

THEY WEIGH AND COMPARE

[illegible] with their own pickers. Weighed on the scales of their choice. They figure their own results. These corn growers report Funk's G-Hybrids out-perform the best of all comers, by averages of from 5 to 15 bushels an acre. Time after time. Field after field. Year after year.

FIGURE IT OUT. Yield averages like that can easily give you an extra wagonload for each bushel of Funk's-G you plant. A load of corn you wouldn't have had, had you chosen any other hybrid seed. Make certain you get these extra bushels. This spring plant your entire corn acreage to Funk's G-Hybrids.

You're always prepared for a Party from your Pantry!
with COKE and these quick-fix foods on hand!
YOUR GROCER IS FEATURING THEM NOW!
Unexpected guests? A busy day? A midnight snack to make? You can turn out these delicious dishes in a jiffy if yours is a well-provisioned pantry. So why not stock up on the makings at your grocer's, today. And—remember plenty of Coca-Cola. So good in taste and in such good taste . . . Coke really puts the finishing touches on an impromptu meal.
SNACK TRAY. Served with Coke, it's ideal for evening entertaining. Try combining cubed luncheon meat and pickled onions; cocktail sausages, sweet pickle slices; shrimp, stuffed olives; cream cheese, dried beef. Add assorted crackers.
CHICKEN AND WAFFLES. Fry frozen chicken parts until golden brown, serve with waffles—they're so easy to make from a prepared mix. Grand late supper dish with ice-cold Coca-Cola! Coke is your guests' favorite—the best-loved sparkling drink in all the world, enjoyed over 58 million times each day.
GELATIN FRUIT DESSERT. Mold tangy lime or lemon gelatin, surround on platter with chilled, canned fruit cocktail flavored with grated lime or lemon rind. Serve with your favorite assortment of sweet cookies and Coca-Cola. Extra-good because . . . Coke actually freshens up your taste between bites.
CHEESEBURGER. Season quick-frozen ground beef with basil. Sauté until almost done, top with square of American cheese, cook in covered skillet until cheese melts. Only one sparkling drink goes so well with 'burgers—Coke! So good in taste, in such good taste—serving Coca-Cola makes 'burgers a meal in themselves.
Remember— COKE and Good Taste go together!

THE REAL ECONOMY PAVEMENT IS Concrete
Hundreds of cities and towns throughout America have invested their street paving funds with great foresight by building good-looking, comfortable-riding, safe and long-lasting concrete streets.
There are many good reasons for choosing concrete. (1) Concrete streets make any area, business or residential, more attractive. (2) Concrete streets stay comfortable-riding many years longer than other types. (3) Concrete streets are safer to ride on. They are skid-resistant, wet or dry. (4) Concrete streets are durable. They save taxpayers the future burdens that result from excessive maintenance and frequent resurfacing or replacement costs.
[illegible] concrete—the true more-for-your-money pavement.
Thief River Falls receives a direct share of municipal-state aid funds for street construction. Insist on concrete, the more-for-your-money pavement for your community.

'58 Greenbush Sheep Days Set for June 6-7

Greenbush Sheep Days are scheduled for Friday and Saturday, June 6 and 7, at the Minnesota Sheep Palace at Greenbush. Preliminary plans were discussed at a sheep producers association meeting held at Thief River Falls the evening of April 1.

Some changes and alterations have been made in last year's program. A shearing school conducted by Ed. Warner of the Sunbeam Corporation of Chicago, Illinois will be part of the program again. Anyone is eligible to participate in this shearing school.

Senior and junior shearing contest will be part of the program again this year. Prizes and regulations for the senior contest are the same as last year. Winner will be crowned Minnesota champion shearer.

Entrants in the junior shearing contest must be 21 years of age or under and cannot have previously been junior shearing champion in order to be eligible. Prizes in the junior shearing contest are the same as last year.

A sheep judging contest will offer very attractive prizes to winners of this event. A first prize of 2 yearling ewes; one yearling ewe to the next four to place, and a plaque to the winning team are offered to the top sheep judgers to enter the contest this year. Age limit of 21 years or under holds for contestants in this judging contest. You need not be a 4-H member or an FFA member to compete and everyone is judging as an invidiual.

The wool fleece contest has been changed from last year. Two classes will be judged rather than one as previously—3/8 blood and finer; and ¼ blood and coarser. The Minnesota Wool Pool will be there to buy the fleeces.

A lamb fitting contest has again been included in this years program. Very attractive awards are being offered in this contest too.

The Minnesota sheep producers present felt that emphasis on purebred rams should be included in the show. As a result Purebred breeders are urged to exhibit pens of three purebred yearling rams this year, for breed competition.

Pens of market lambs—ewe and wether lambs—with the top fat market lambs weighing from 85 lbs.-98 lbs. will be judged at 9:00 a.m. on Saturday morning. There has been no change from last year's program in this respect.

Mr. N. K. Carnes, general manager of Central Livestock Association, has been secured as guest speaker at the banquet on Friday night.

Downward Trend in Traffic Deaths Seen

A downward trend was indicated in Minnesota traffic fatalities in a report released today by the Minnesota highway department covering traffic deaths for the first quarter of 1958.

Three out of the last four months have had fewer traffic fatalities than the corresponding month of a year ago. While January 1958 was equal to the same month in 1957, February showed a 15% drop over last year; while the life-saving gain was [illegible] better in March 1958 than the same month in 1957.

The report showed that 119 persons lost their lives in traffic during the first three months of this year; 46 in January, 34 in February and 30 in March. The quarterly drop was 13% below the 138 total registered in the first quarter of 1957.

Driver errors indicated in a third of the fatalities brought a reminder from the safety division that April is "Know Your Traffic Laws" month in the year long "Back The Attack on Traffic Accidents" safety program. Failure to grant the right of way, wrong side of the road and disregarding traffic controls were indicated in 13 fatalities according to accident reports received from investigating officers.

Excessive speed, unsafe for existing conditions, was the highest factor resulting in fatalities, with 10 persons killed in mishaps where this violation was indicated. The reports did not always indicate that speed was the cause of the accident, but emphasized that excessive speed increased the impact and severity of injuries resulting in the mishap.

Forest Fire Hazard in State Increases

A variety of weather in the last ten months has played a controlling part in the serious forest fire hazard built up in northern Minnesota this spring, says Don Wilson, forester, in charge of fire control in the Minnesota division of forestry.

Ample rainfall last summer created a rank growth of vegetation which is a high fire hazard when dead and dry. Below normal snowfall in northern Minnesota through the last winter, and a dry, high temperature since March first this year have all combined to make an extremely high hazard and dangerous fire risk in the forest areas.

Fire records this spring prove this hazard, as there have been 302 fires through the first week of April compared with none in 1955 and 1956, and only 7 in 1957 for the same period.

A total of about 14,000 acres, 9,500 of which are swamp and meadow grass and 4,500 forest [illegible] estimated costs of fire fighting and losses amount to about $16,100.

Wilson reports that practically all of the 113 forest lookout towers have been manned from mid-morning till sundown. Emergency standby fire fighting crews are in readiness with equipment at all the headquarters and ranger stations and at many strategic locations to be on the way within minutes of the first report of fire.

Radios in stations and towers and "walkie-talkie" sets in vehicles and at the sites of fires maintain constant communications between the St. Paul office, supervisors headquarters, and the men in the field.

A high hazard will continue, Wilson predicts, until a good soaking rainfall or snowfall occurs, and the spring fire season will last until vegetation becomes green to reduce the inflammable material.

Wilson asks the cooperation of all residents and people using the northern outdoors to be extremely careful with fire and aid in the protection of Minnesota's resources of forests, wildlife, and scenery.

Brotherhood Life General Agent at G. Forks Retires

Paul M. Onstad, general agent for Lutheran Brotherhood in Grand Forks, N. D. since 1950, announced today that he is retiring. His successor is W. J. Swenson, field supervisor at Grand Forks for the life insurance society since Sept. 1957.

Mr. Onstad will be honored at an appreciation dinner at 6:30 p.m. Friday at the Dacotah hotel in Grand Forks. Among guests will be Lutheran pastors in the Grand Forks area, business associates, and members of the Swenson agency and their wives.

Representing Lutheran Brotherhood's home office in Minneapolis will be Carl F. Granrud, president; N. K. Neprud, vice president and director of agencies, and Dreng Bjornaraa, a member of the board of directors.

Born at Ada, Minn., Mr. Onstad attended Ada schools and St. Olaf college, Northfield, Minn. He joined Lutheran Brotherhood in 1949.

Among Minnesota agents with the agency is Harold G. Rasmussen, Thief River Falls.

Blossoms prove that winter has given place to spring; fruit, vegetables and grain prove that harvest is at hand—all are miracles. We see them so often we take them for granted, and we forget there are other miracles, just as beautiful, just as significant, just as unfailing.

The Church, bringing human lives into contact with God, produces miracles every day. Rough, actually evil people become powers for good. As winter changes into spring, so cold, barren nature blossoms and brings forth good fruit.

God depends on our help to cultivate the soil and care for the seed. Similarly, He looks to us to help bring the message of the Church, the message of salvation to others. He invites each of us to become part of His great miracle-working program.

Why not begin NOW? Become a part of the Church and its great work. Your own life will be enriched, your happiness increased, because you are a partner in performing miracles.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

HANK'S INVENTION

By Lyle Pace

EVERYBODY in Plainville said Ellen Mason was a sweet girl. No one could deny she was also the most beautiful young woman in town. She had money, too, or rather old man Mason, as they all called him, did. He was Ellen's father and owned the big factory that spread itself nearly over half the town. But that wasn't all he owned. There were other enterprises John P. Mason had his fingers in. So many, in fact, that the boys down at the barber shop joked about how John P., himself, didn't know how many things he was running at the same time.

But about Ellen. Just nineteen and fresh as a new peach. She'd never been serious about any of the boys in town, and some said Ellen didn't know how to be serious about anything. That is, until Hank Lawson came to town to sell John P. on an idea.

Hank Lawson had come to town just to see Ellen's father, but he didn't make a very good impression on John P. that first day.

To sort of give you some background a minute, old man Mason was sort of eccentric. I mean in the way he dressed and turned up at the oddest places. Like meeting the train.

Well, the day Hank came into town, John P. was just standing there on the platform watching the cars slow down, and as Hank stepped off the train he motioned to John P., thinking that Ellen's father was just hanging around the station, hoping to get a bag to carry and make himself a tip.

"Say, old timer," Hank said. "Here's a quarter. How about you taking this bag down to the hotel for me?"

Well, John P. never had lacked a sense of humor and so he went along with the idea. He took the quarter, picked up the bag and carried it down to his own hotel.

The boys around the station got quite a kick out of it, and as John P. went out of sight, one of then went up to Hank and grinned.

"You picked a distinguished porter, son. You know who that is carrying your bag?"

"First time in this town, mister," Hank said. "Can't say as he looks very distinguished to me."

The boys chuckled over that and turned away. Hank scratched his head for a second, and walked to the hotel.

He found out about John P. down there. He was all for taking the next train out of town. But of course he didn't, because that was when he ran into Ellen. He just about knocked her down as she was turning the corner from the hotel and he was on his way out with his bag.

Hank put up in the hotel for a couple of days, and he managed to see Ellen quite a bit, too. They took a canoe up the river and went on a picnic together.

It was about two thirty on that Saturday afternoon, and the day was getting hotter. There hadn't been a cloud for weeks, and all of a sudden there was a million of them and it started to pour.

About that time, Hank and Ellen were out on the river in a canoe. When the rain was over about an hour later there wasn't a thing on the river, and everybody gave them up for drowned.

Just when things got organized to drag the river and find out for sure, Ellen and Hank came walking into town.

Hank and Ellen got married soon after that. They live up on Maple Street now and have a couple of fine little boys. John P. Mason's got a new business, too. He paid his son-in-law plenty for the idea Hank had come to town to sell him.

Maybe you've seen it in the stores. You carry it in your pocket like a handkerchief. It inflates like a balloon, and in case you find yourself in water you can't get out of, you just blow it up. They call it Mason's Jiffy Life Raft.

The cast includes Mary, the mother, played by Janet Torkerson, John, the impatient father, played by Bruce Russell, the two sons, Larry and Conrad, played by Richard Jorde and Charles Anderson, the two daughters, Francis and Marjory, played by Shirley Fuller and JoAnn Vatsaas, and two of Mary's friends, Ella and Gladys, played by Patricia Hornseth and Kathleen Torgerson.

Mrs. Caster Moe left Friday for Grafton to visit until Sunday with friends and to attend the funeral for Mrs. W. A. Moe in St. John's Catholic Church in Grafton Saturday morning. Mrs. Moe, the former Helen Sevigny, was the wife of the proprietor of the Grafton Floral Shop. Mrs. Caster Moe planned to return home Sunday.

Mrs. Harold Halvorson and Mrs. Alfred Solem attended the Appreciation dinner at the Trinity Lutheran Church Wednesday evening. Dr. L. E. Tallakson of Fargo was the guest speaker. Dr. Tallakson is the president of the North Dakota District of the E.L.C. and a brother to Rev. S. L. Tallakson, a former pastor of the Trinity Church. A girl's sextet sang two selections. The girls were aJnet and Grace Torgerson, Marilyn Matson, Janice Melvie, Donna Hesse, and Judy Steitz.

The best ideas germinate in honest, idealistic minds, and are not the result of self-seeking thoughts.

There are few unaffected by flattery and we are among them, thankfully.

ALL'S FAIR—EVEN MIRIAM

By Ona F. Lathrop

ALL our old crowd nearly flipped when we heard the news—Miriam Compton was coming home with a man! Miriam had been the 'old maid' of the bunch for years now. All the rest of us had married and settled down, mostly in or about Weston, and had assorted families of from one to four. We had no fear of Miriam as a rival for she could never have won a beauty contest, and she had been flitting about the world as a government secretary—first in Washington, D.C., then Hawaii, and now two years in Alaska.

"But how do you know?" the girls all exclaimed when I broke the news at Eloise's bridge-party.

"Her mother told me this morning. She doesn't know too much about it—just had a wire that they were back in the states."

"You mean they're married?" Eileen Melton screamed.

"She doesn't know. She says Miriam is the world's worst letter-writer and all she's had is this telegram saying, 'SAM and I are at his folks. Hope to see you soon.' She expects them any day."

"Well, I never!" the whole bridge table breathed as one.

Miriam had been the odd-ball in our school days. A short, somewhat chubby, dishwater blonde, who waddled when she walked, and never used makeup, she nevertheless was no dummy and had held good jobs and seen the world while the rest of us settled for babies and bridge-parties. None of our men had ever given her a second glance, we were sure. What man could have fallen for Miriam?

"But what does he do? Who are his people?" the questions came.

"Now gals, I can't tell you. But I did see a picture of them, and he's really handsome, in a devil-may-care sort of way."

"Handsome? Miriam? And how does she look by now?"

"You'd be surprised! She has her hair in bangs and a short fluffy-cut—it might be touched up a little—and she had lipstick and eye-shadow on.

They arrived the next week, and one by one we thought up errands to take us over there. And we came away gasping. They WERE married, and he was a six-footer with red wavy hair and a big hearty grin.

"But how did she ever land him?" we kept whispering to each other—she that never had a beau or had a man look at her—leastwise none of ours!"

But from the moment the party began there was a queer feeling of suspense in the air. When they came to our door, Sam grasped my Jack's hand and said, "So this is Jack! And Fran actually married you? I must say she was open-minded, at that." What could he mean? You'd think I'd married a grass-widower or a criminal.

Then when the other guests began to arrive it was the same thing. "And you're Chuck Melton. Man, I've heard plenty about YOU. Guess you were a gay old dog in your day, eh? But you finally tied him down, eh, Eileen?"

When the Evans and the rest arrived, it was the same thing. "Good old Brad—'Old Faithful' huh? But I see Sally finally took you off the hook.

"I've told Sam what good times we all used to have together," Miriam said slyly. "You were all so grand to me—especially the men.

Sam said, "Listen to her—playing innocent now when I'll bet you all fell for her just the way I did. But I won out in the end."

"Miriam really played the field," Eloise remarked dryly. "We are glad you finally took her out of circulation, Sam."

Sam grinned, "Don't know how I was so lucky, but she's mine now." We all laughed in a relieved manner. 'All's fair in love and war' and no use making war on Miriam now. More power to her!

Local Student at N. Dakota 'U' Dies in Crash

Robert Joringdal Victim; Accident Near Hillsboro, N.

Funeral services for a Thief River Falls student at North Dakota University, Grand Forks, who was killed in an automobile accident near Hillsboro, N.D. early Friday morning, were held at 2 p.m. today in the Zion Lutheran church, with the Rev. Walter Pedersen officiating.

Robert J. Joringdal, 26, was killed instantly when the car in which he was riding as a passenger with Jack C. Pflugrath, 20, Thompson, N. D., struck a bridge abutment about 12 miles south of Hillsboro. Pflugrath was seriously injured in the crash.

According to Traill county Sheriff Howard Kaldor, a watch worn by one of the men stopped at 2:01 a.m. Friday and it is believed the accident occurred at that time.

Joringdal was a junior at the university, which he was attending under the G.I. Bill of Rights, and was enrolled in the school of business education.

Thursday he had been invited as a dinner guest of the W. Richard Steffen family in Grand Forks but had called to say he was leaving to visit relatives here about 4:30 Thursday and would not be able to keep the engagement. He was not heard from after that.

Pflugrath, who was driving the car, underwent emergency surgery early Friday morning. He was reported suffering from multiple leg fractures, head injuries and a possible fractured pelvis. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Pflugrath of Thompson, N. D., where his father is school superintendent.

Joringdal was born at Thief River Falls Dec. 23, 1931, son of the late Richard J. Joringdal and Mrs. Joringdal. His father had preceded him in death only a short time earlier this year. In addition to his mother, he is survived by a brother, Jerry.

Interment was made in Greenwood Cemetery.

Queen Contest to Feature 9th Dist. Legion Convention

Candidates Sought for Contest to Be Staged at Roseau Parley June 20-22

The Kaleb E. Lindquist post of Roseau, as hosts to the 9th District Convention of the American Legion, have designated June 20th, 21st, and 22nd as the meeting dates. A gala event is being planned with committeemen at work preparing the various phases of the convention.

A special feature of the convention this year will be a contest to select a queen of the 9th district. Each American Legion Post in the district is being asked to select a contestant. Miss Diane Albers, of Dundas, Minnesota, the Minnesota Centennial Queen, will be present to crown the winner and be the special guest at the queen contestants dinner.

Highlighting the activities on Saturday evening will be a parade featuring the famous 9th District American Legion band under the direction of Ted Thorson of Crookston. Many floats as well as marching units representing the various posts in the district will contribute to making this a spectacular event.

Centennial Unit to Hold Meeting Tuesday Evening

The Pennington county statehood centennial committee will meet Tuesday evening, April 22, at 7:30 in the assembly room in the court house, it was announced today by Judge Herman A. Kjos, chairman. A conference will be held with representatives of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and there will be a report by Chairman Robert J. Lund of the Centennial train committee.

Driver Despoils Parkway Beauty

This is the aftermath of an escapade in which a local youth, Donald Klopp, drove two blocks on the Third st. berm between Kneale and Spruce avenues about 11:30 last Thursday evening. Klopp was driving at a high rate of speed when his car apparently jumped the curbing and ran onto the berm and, before Klopp re-entered the street two blocks later, he destroyed five beautiful evergreen trees and an elm, each of which represented about 10 years growth. He was apprehended Friday morning by Sheriff Charles Richards and will probably be charged with driving under the influence and driving after license revocation.

Appointments Asked for Orthopedic Field Clinic Here Apr. 29-30

Parents of youngsters who have or may be developing any crippling disability still have time to make an appointment for them to be examined at the orthopedic field clinic at the Trinity Lutheran parish house, Fourth St. and Horace Ave., Tuesday and Wednesday, April 29 and 30. To arrange for a definite hour, parents should contact the public health nurse in their area.

The clinic is one of 15 sponsored throughout the state this spring by the Crippled Children services of the Minnesota department of public welfare.

Clinic services are available to anyone under 21 who lives in one of the following counties: Kittson, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake, Roseau and Beltrami (Reservation and Grygla).

Parents bringing children to the clinic for the first time are advised to bring a referral from the family physician, according to Mrs. Fred Monroe, Thief River Falls local chairman. The co-chairman is Mrs. Roy Oen.

Patients will be seen by an orthopedist and a pediatrician, and a report given to the family doctor. If the child needs to be hospitalized or given other special care, the doctor will help in making arrangements.

Cooperating in the clinic program are Gillette State hospital, State Division for Vocational Rehabilitation, the state Christmas Seal organization, Northwestern Pediatric society, Minnesota-Dakota-Manitoba Orthopedic society, Minnesota State Medical association and local medical societies.

Sponsoring local organizations is the Thief River Falls Woman's club.

Local VFW Ready for 9th District Parley May 3 & 4

Additional Entries Are Sought for Spectacular Parade Saturday, May 3

The local VFW post 2793 is now winding up the final preparations for the Ninth district convention to be held in this city May 3 and 4. Teams are out selling bunting for street decorations.

A large number of units and floats have been arranged for the parade Saturday, May 3. Alex Cloutier, parade marshal states he has had some trouble getting high school bands due to the conflict with the high school music contest here in Thief River Falls on the same date. A number have reported they will be here, and together with the possibility of getting a Canadian band should provide an excellent parade.

Anyone having floats or units for the parade is asked to contact H. B. Raftseth. Commander Ollie Mosaestad reports a meeting will be held Wednesday evening at 8:30 to draw up the final arrangements for the convention. All committee men are asked to be present.

Five Fire Alarms Since Thursday

Fire Department Reports No Damage from Blazes

The Thief River Falls fire department was called out five times from Thursday afternoon to Saturday morning, none of the blazes resulting in property damage.

Firemen were summoned Thursday afternoon and again that evening by a fire that spread from the city dump and endangered buildings on a vacated farm to the south.

They were called Friday morning to quench a grass fire that developed near the Adrian Nelson home at 601 E. Eighth st., and also to the H. I. Finstad farm five miles south of the city, where fire spread to the farmyard and endangered buildings.

The last call came Saturday morning from the home of Mrs. George Baken on Oakland Park road, where a chimney fire developed, no damage being reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Victor and family of Winnipeg, Canada were weekend guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Berg.

Goodridge Man Elected Head of County DFL

Ernest Swanson Is Named; 50 Persons Attend Convention

Pennington county Democratic-Farmer-Labor leaders expressed satisfaction with the excellent attendance at the DFL county convention held in the assembly room in the courthouse Saturday evening.

Approximately 50 persons were packed into the small room when the meeting was opened by Carl R. Anderson, chairman. The convention, a lively one all the way through, elected Charles I. Richards as the convention chairman by voice vote.

County DFL officers for the next two years were elected as follows: Chairman, Ernest Swanson, Goodridge; vice-chairman, Kenneth Haldin, Thief River Falls; chairwoman, Mrs. Alfred M. Johnson, Thief River Falls, and vice-chairwoman, Mrs. Agnes Israelson, Thief River Falls.

Secretary-Treasurer Alfred M. Johnson was re-elected to another two-year term.

The convention had nominated Carl Anderson, county chairman during the past biennium, to serve another term but he declined to serve.

Named to the executive board were Chas. Kotaska, city; Carl Anderson, St. Hilaire; John Tanem, Goodridge; Robert Benke, city; Bernard Arveson, Highlanding; Sen. Roy Wiseth, Goodridge; and Odin Hanson, Silverton.

The six DFL delegates at the 9th district convention to be held at Crookston May 4 are Sen. Roy Wiseth, Carl Anderson, Alfred M. Johnson, Ernest Swanson, Chas. Kotaska, and Bernard Arveson.

Alternates named were Bert Johnson, Mrs. Agnes Israelson, John Tanem, Mrs. Alfred M. Johnson, Jack Radniecke and Robert Benke.

By unanimous approval of the convention the same delegates and alternates were named to attend the state convention at Rochester, May 23-24-25.

Resolutions approved included: That the Pennington county convention goes on record against increasing the interest rate on REA loans.

That the convention goes on record as opposed to a state sales tax.

That all delegates are to go to the district and state conventions with an open mind on all candidates for office.

Jaycees Elect Glenn Peterson President; Set up Whisker Club

Glenn Peterson, assistant manager of the local Gamble Store, Thursday evening was elected president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, succeeding N. H. Kortuem.

Others elected include Stan Gibson, and Bruce Hall, respectively first and second vice president; John Elsbrenet, secretary; Peter Jepson, treasurer; N. H. Kortuem, state director; and Ralph Foster, Milo Gulbranson and Lew Johnson, directors for two years. Hold-over directors are Roger Tunberg, John McGinley and Charles Samuelson.

Announcement was made by the centennial whisker club committee that local men will be expected to start growing beards on May 1, unless they pay the price, yet to be determined, for a shaving permit. Further details of the whisker-growing contest and the prizes to be offered will be annouced shortly.

The Jaycees urged that local citizens who are buying Centennial buttons now on sale should make a practice of wearing them regularly.

Retiring president Kortuem, conducting his final meeting, praised Bruce Hall, secretary, and John Elsbrenet, treasurer, for their efficient services during the past year.

Arrangements were made for a delegation of Thief River Falls Jaycees to attend the state convention in Albert Lea May 2, 3 and 4.

To Head Jaycees

GLENN PETERSON

Number Working Here in March Was Same as Last Year

Total of 2,638 Persons Was Employed in City, One More Than Year Ago

March employment in Thief River Falls totaled 2,638, a moderate drop of 57 compared to the December figure of 2,695, it was revealed in an analysis Thursday by R. S. Eidevik, manager of the local employment office.

The March level of employment is almost identical with that of a year ago, when 2,637 persons held jobs, Eidevik reported.

Local building projects are not expected to create much of a demand in the labor market this year, he added, since only a limited amount of new construction is in prospect here this season.

The supply of labor apparently reached its peak April 1, due to the fact that persons laid off from jobs in other areas have returned to homes or relatives in this community. Many workers are awaiting calls from former employers engaged in road building and construction work.

Rat Poison to Be Set out on City Dump Thursday

The Thief River Falls city dump will be poisoned for rats Thursday, April 24, it was announced today by Lystad's Exterminators of Grand Forks, in charge of the work. They warned parents to keep their children and pets away from the area for at least two weeks.

Lincoln Lettermen's Dinner to Draw Many Wednesday Evening

A gathering of 350 or more men, women and students is anticipated at the eighth annual Lincoln high school lettermen's banquet to be held Wednesday evening, April 23, at 6:30 in St. Bernard's church dining hall.

Doug Tegtmeier, serving as master of ceremonies, will introduce the guest speaker, Bob May, University of North Dakota hockey coach, who recently completed a highly successful season. Also to be introduced are coaches from neighboring towns, who will be guests.

Ralph Skay, Lincoln athletic director, will present coaches of the various teams, who in turn will introduce their players. Cliff Bjorkman general chairman of the banquet committee, will offer a welcome to the gathering, and Joey Poole of this city, a UND hockey star, will be introduced.

The program will open with the invocation by the Rev. Keough Patnode. Musical selections will be given by the high school saxophone quartet made up of Wilfred Webskowski, Bob Purdy, Susan Forkenbrock and Sandra Nabben; and by a vocal quartet including Wes Christianson, Frank Conklin, Lolell Dyrud and Ronald Moe.

As in past years, the banquet is being sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce Junior Chamber, Rotary club and Lions club.

Banquet Speaker

BOB MAY
Successful hockey coach at the University of North Dakota, who will be the guest speaker at the annual banquet honoring Lincoln high school lettermen, to be held Wednesday evening, April 23, at 6:30 in St. Bernard's dining hall. A former star on the UND hockey team, he also had coached hockey at Wayzata high school and at Roosevelt high in Minneapolis, losing only one out of 30 conference games in the Minneapolis city high school conference in two seasons.

C. C. Speakers Urge Dredging of River Pool

Cite Necessity of Increasing Water Storage Capacity

Two speakers at the April Chamber of Commerce dinner meeting Thursday evening called attention to the urgent need for dredging out the accumulation of silt in the river pool here to increase the water storage capacity, which they said has diminished thru the years to its present critical stage.

President Harley Kelly called on Art Christianson, chairman of the Chamber's civic development committee, to introduce the speakers, Roy M. Barzen, president of the city park board for more than 20 years, and Judge Paul A. Lundgren.

Barzen stated that the river passing thru this city is one of the community's most valuable assets, but that the pool above the dam is getting very shallow due to heavy deposits of silt, endangering the city's water supply.

He recommended a long-range dredging program and the acquisition of submerged and low-lying land along Thief and Red Lake rivers to be filled in. He also proposed that the city secure from the legislature authority to set up an agency to carry out the project over a period of years as funds are made available.

Judge Lundgren agreed that it would be necessary to secure permission from the legislature to acquire property beyond the city limits which would be required in carrying out the project.

He said there was a slight prospect of federal aid being made available if the local work is tied in with other area projects on which action is currently being sought. He suggested that the city should cooperate in the campaign now under way to have U. S. Army engineers make a survey of the Thief River watershed.

Herb Dill, manager of the Mud Lake game refuge, also spoke briefly on wildlife and drainage projects, and endorsed the idea of a long-range project designed to improve the outlets.

At the close of the discussion, a motion was adopted instructing the civic development committee to take the lead in setting up an agency to promote the project.

President Kelly announced that Sig Quam had been appointed to succeed Clifford Zaffke, who tendered his resignation as a member of the board of directors.

Chairman Wm. Foster of the membership committee reported that when the membership campaign is completed shortly, it is expected that approximately $20,000 in dues and assessments will have been collected.

Secretary J. M. Roche announced that Thief River Falls again will be host to the state area music contest May 2 and 3.

Beverly Eggers and Ted Stokke Wed April 5

Miss Beverly Eggers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Eggers of McIntosh, Minn. and Theodor O. Stokke, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Stokke of this city, were united in marriage Saturday evening April 5 at the Immanuel Lutheran church in McIntosh. Pastor Max L. Schaefer performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of 250 guests. Baskets of white gladioli and lighted spiral candelabra formed the setting for the wedding ceremony.

Miss DeLores Habendank of Crookston presided at the organ for a prelude of nuptial music. She also accompanied Mrs. Harold Storhaug of this city who sang "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden" as each bridal attendant entered, and "God Is My Shepherd" during the ceremony. Clifford Eggers of McIntosh sang "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt at the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a floor length gown of imported Rosepoint lace and tulle over layers of net and taffeta. The fitted lace bodice featured a portrait neckline edged in lace, and long sleeves that came to a point over the wrists. Her bouffant skirt was accented with lace motifs etched with irridescent sequins and pearls. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion net was held in place by a pillbox half hat trimmed with drop pearls.

Couple Wed In McIntosh

Wedding vows were spoken by Beverly Eggers and Theodor Stokke at a ceremony performed Saturday, April 5 at the Immanuel Lutheran church in McIntosh with Rev. Max L. Schafer officiating.—Photo by Ken R. Johnson Studio, Crookston.

She carried a bouquet of stephanotis and white feathered carnations centered with a white orchid. Her only jewelry was a pair of drop pearl earrings, a gift from the groom. The tradition of "something old, new, borrowed and blue" was also carried out.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her sister, Miss Janice Eggers. Bridesmaids were Miss Marilyn Gunderson and Miss Marcia Eggers, sister of the bride. They wore identical street length dresses of white lace over mint green taffeta. To complement their attire they wore matching headbands, cummerbunds and shoes. They carried cascade bouquets of yellow roses and their jewelry consisted of pearl earrings, gifts from the bride.

The groom was attended by his brother, David Stokke as bestman. Groomsmen were Robert Helgeland of Rochester, Minn. and James Zavural of Grand Forks, North Dakota. Serving as ushers were Gary Humes of this city and Herman Vosland of McIntosh. They all wore white dinner jackets with black trousers and yellow boutonnieres.

Mrs. Eggers, mother of the bride, chose a navy blue dress with pink accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Stokke, mother of the groom, wore a light blue dress with white accessories. Their identical corsages were of pink sweetheart roses and feathered carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors with Mrs. Bertrand Thompson of McIntosh as hostess. The bridal table was centered with a tiered wedding cake which was cut and served by Miss Bertha Hastad and Mrs. Ed Leyden both of this city, aunts of the groom. Mrs. Albert Habedank, aunt of the bride, poured. Serving as waitresses were Misses Janice Larson, Joanne Kapler, Lois Rolf and Mrs. Don Malm, Mrs. Dallas Nelson and Mrs. Melvin Johnson, Jr.

Mrs. Paul Hamilton registered the guests and the gifts were arranged by Misses Roberta, Margaret and Rosemary Stokke and Patricia Lofberg.

Out of town guests were from Fargo, Kenyon, Crookston, Strandquist, Brooks, Fisher, Minneapolis, Walker Grand Rapids Fosston East Grand Forks, Winger, Duluth, Moorhead, Alvarado, Erskine, Goodhue, Bemidji, Virginia, Oklee, Rochester, Grand Forks, and Fort Sill, Okla.

Build to Fit Climate, Building Expert Says

Regardless of how well you like Minnesota's weather, you can still plan farm buildings to fit this erratic climate.

Whether it's for livestock or family, a building properly planned can be warmed by the winter sun and still be refreshed by the cool breezes of summer.

Jesse Pomroy, agricultural engineer at the University of Minnesota, suggests several rules for "building to fit the climate." His tips appear in the current issue of "Minnesota Farm and Home Science," an Agricultural Experiment station publication.

"Take advantage of the sun," Pomroy says. Face long, narrow buildings toward the sun, with the axis east and west. Build some overhangs to shade sun in summer.

Shield buildings from prevailing winter winds, but don't cut off summer breezes.

If you have a choice of sites, always take south slopes over north, and pick east slopes over west. Pomroy says north slopes can be just as hot in summer as south slopes and will definitely be colder in winter. North slopes will also be slower to warm up in spring.

West slopes are very hot in summer; yet they offer no winter advantage, since the sun then is too low to be any help.

Avoid building in small valleys and low spots, Pomroy advises.

Also, avoid large windows. But if a large glass area is absolutely necessary, make sure you have a "double glazed" arrangement—either a window with two panes or two windows. If possible, don't have such a window face prevailing winter winds.

If the ground has the right slope, there's something to be gained by building into a bank or side hill. This usually means more gradual temperature changes and walls will be warmer in winter and cooler in summer.

ALLAN LUND ON HONOR ROLL AT MACALESTER

The Macalester college news service reports that Allan Lund, senior at Macalester, was named to the dean's honor list for the first semester of this school year. To qualify for the dean's list, a student must have maintained a grade point average of 2.5 or better, based on a scale which gives three points for a grade of "A". One hundred thirteen students acquired that standing last semester.

STOCK CABINETS IDEAL FOR STORAGE, FURNITURE

Many thrifty and imaginative home-owners are solving their storage and furniture problems with cabinets of ponderosa pine.

The wide variety of styles and sizes available as stock units from building material dealers makes it possible to building anything from a storage wall to a hi-fidelity cabinet.

Most of the cabinets come "K-D"—knocked down—and can be quickly assembled with a hammer and screwdriver.

TREE PROTECTION

If tree limbs are split in a windstorm, do not grab hold of them and pull them from the tree. If you do, you may pull off a long strip of bark from the main trunk and thus permanently disfigure the tree. Cut limbs off evenly with a saw. If dangerously high from the ground let a tree expert do the work. He will doctor the tree.

TEMPER RESTORED

Knife blades that won't hold an edge may have lost their temper. To restore temper, heat the blade over a gas flame until it is a dull red. Immediately plunge the blade into a large size potato and let it cool. The knife can then be sharpened.

WRENCH WON'T SLIP

Wrap a strip of rubber electrician's tape around the joint of a chrome plumbing fixture before you attempt repairs. The tape keeps the wrench from marring the chrome, and avoids slippage.

CLEAN GLASS EASILY

Stubborn spots on window glass can be removed with a small amount of toothpaste. Dab the toothpaste on the spot and rub gently with a soft cloth. The dentifrice has a soapy, abrasive action which cleans and polishes.

School Carpentery Students Get Practical Work

Members of the carpentry class at the area vocational school here get actual practice as well as theory in their studies.

Here is an example of the students' work. This playhouse, which is actually a house using all the principles of good carpentry applied on a miniature scale has attracted wide attention in the area. C. W. Pope, carpentry instructor, said the playhouse would make a good do-it-yourself project for fathers, and at the same time enable them to brush up on their carpentry technique before going on to larger projects around the home.

DESIGN C-479. This plan includes a lavatory near the rear entry and a dental basin in the main bathroom. A low planter separates the living and dining rooms. Generous bedrooms have wardrobe type closets, and there are plenty of storage closets in the hall. The basement presents an excellent opportunity for those who want a rumpus room, with the entire rear half of the plan providing a clear space.

The exterior is a pleasing combination of wide horizontal siding, asphalt shingle roof, planter and the flower box under the kitchen window. Floor area is 1436 square feet, cubage is 28,002 cubic feet.

For further information about DESIGN C-479, write the Small House Planning Bureau, St. Cloud, Minn.

Ernest Swanson Is Named County DFL Chairman

That the convention go on record supporting the withholding proposal of state income tax.

The resolutions as read by the convention chairman were unanimously approved by the convention. However, fireworks ensued when the call for resolutions from the floor was made.

Orval Halland sponsored a motion in favor of cutting both federal and state income taxes, which motion was amended by Senator Wiseth to read "to reduce taxes wherever possible."

Considerable discussion followed, with the original motion in disfavor among the delegates. Finally, Halland withdrew his motion and a resolution was put before the convention to increase federal income tax exemptions from $600 to $900. This was passed by the convention but in amendment to limit the increased exemptions to persons of $5000 income or less was beat down as discriminatory and calling for a revision of the entire income tax structure.

Throughout floor discussion of taxes several persons called for wiser use of tax monies at all governmental levels. Ultra deluxe school buildings were among the main targets of the economy advocates.

Following adjournment, which came after the passage of resolutions, the members served refreshments.

Paul Quinlog Succumbs; Rites Held Saturday

Funeral services for Paul Quinlog were conducted Saturday, April 19 at Zion Lutheran church with Rev. W. M. Pedersen officiating. Interment was made in the Greenwood cemetery. Mr. Quinlog passed away April 17 at Northwestern Hospital at the age of 84 years.

Paul Quinlog was born May 25, 1873 in Fergus Falls, Minn. where he attended school and grew to manhood.

On February 21, 1902 he was united in marriage to Miss Hannah Koppang in Fergus Falls. In 1903 they moved to this city and was employed by the Soo Line Railroad from 1917 until his retirement in 1946.

Survivors include one daughter, Agnes; one granddaughter, Mrs. Stanley Mortenson of this city; two great grandchildren; and one sister, Mrs. Lydia Danielson of Fergus Falls. He was preceded in death by his wife, one daughter, five sisters and two brothers.

Gulbranson Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Final Rites Are Conducted For Mrs. I. Holdahl

Mrs. Ingeborg Holdahl, a long time resident of Kratka township passed away suddenly Saturday, April 12 at Northwestern Hospital at the age of 84 years.

She was born in Holdalsmo, Laurdal, Ovre Telemarken, Norway September 7, 1874. On May 10, 1907 she came to the United States and settled in Kratka township.

In the fall of 1907 she was united in marriage to Mr. Holdahl of Crookston. They settled in Kratka, where she resided until a short time before her death.

Survivors include one son, Osmund, at home; one sister in Norway; two nieces and five nephews. She was preceded in death by her husband in 1940; two brothers and three sisters.

Albin Arveson Succumbs; Rites Held Saturday

Funeral services for Albin Arveson were conducted Saturday, April 19 at the Nazareth Lutheran church with Rev. Wilhelm Peterson of Oklee officiating. Interment was made in the church cemetery. Mr. Arveson passed away April 15 at Northwestern Hospital at the age of 88 years.

Albin Arveson was born December 31, 1869 in Sweden and came to the United States with his parents in 1887 and settled in Hazel, Minn.

In 1896 he was united in marriage to Miss Hannah Kron in Crookston and they homesteaded in Garnes township, Red Lake county. In 1906 they moved to Hickory township, Pennington county, where they made their home until three years ago when they moved to the Oakland Park Rest Home where he made his home until the time of death. He was a member of the Nazareth Lutheran church.

Survivors include his wife, Hannah; two sons, Eddie of Trail, Arthur of Goodridge; one foster daughter, Mrs. Emma Christianson of Fergus Falls; 13 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren. He was preceded in death by three sisters and three brothers.

Trains and Buses Will Not Observe Daylight Saving

When daylight saving time takes effect Sunday morning, April 27, train and bus schedules will continue to operate on central standard time, as was the case last summer, it was announced today. Northwest Trails buses will leave Thief River Falls at 10:25 a. m. and 5:45 p. m., central standard time and will arrive here at 11:50 a. m and 8:20 p. m. CST.

Shootin' the Breeze

BY Mack Draper

Well, lots of things happened last week, lots of water ran over the dam and generally speaking, it was a nice week with warm temperatures and sunny skies enough to make the most hardened pessimist feel brighter.

Ah, but a sour note creeps in! About 11:30 Thursday evening as I stood at our kitchen counter reading the Readers Digest while drinking my last cup of coffee before retiring, there, suddenly came a sound like muffled thunder, combined with a noise that made one think of a jet plane breaking through the sound barrier.

A look outside revealed nothing however, except a lot of dust on Third st. so I went back in the house thinking some punk had merely breezed by in a hot-rod.

As it turned out, I was partly right. One had breezed thru like Hurricane Hazel, almost losing control of the car at Kneale av., jumping the curb and doing considerable damage to the shrubbery on the berm.

The results: five nice spruce trees (perhaps they're fir, I'm no tree expert) and one elm ruined completely, one errant youth in the cooler, and a lot of disgusted angry folks in that neighborhood, including yours truly.

The missus and I shudder to think what could have happened had this misguided missile veered to the right instead of to the left and onto the berm. We could have wound up with a hot-rod in our living room at the very least!

Apparently a lot of local folks believe in doing nothing today that can be put off until tomorrow. A chap tells me that when he went down to the depot mailbox to drop in his state tax return, April 15, the box was so crowded with other returns he couldn't get his in. Be different, Buddy — mail it late!

Speaking of taxes, is there any good reason why the government shouldn't pay interest on tax overpayments? The government doesn't hesitate to charge the taxpayer interest when he's a little tardy!

Well, I still don't have my lawn raked. Too many things going on around town so have to be at many of these affairs in the role of news reporter.

The part of this that is so disgusting to me is that while probably three-fourths of these meetings, etc., are strictly unnecessary and uncalled for, I still enjoy some of 'em despite my fervent wish that I were elsewhere.

At home with the family for instance. But, the way it looks they'll be seeing less of me and there's no telling how long the winter's litter will remain on the yard.

The thought just struck us that roly-poly Parkins pharmacist Frank Ganderman, an avid baseball fan and local player, looks real cute in his baseball uniform.

Sometimes the pot calls the black, but I don't profess to be cute — just roly-poly. Which should pretty well take care of the rebuttal problem, I hope.

The local trap club starts team shooting April 24 with pretty much the same faces as were on hand last year. If you are a scattergun enthusiast why not come out some Wednesday or Thursday afternoon and try your hand at busting a few pigeons? You might like it, and it'll be good practice for you.

It doesn't matter if you miss quite a few at first. You'll have plenty of company — and I'll admit to being quite lonesome the way things stand out there now!

Well, unless the old cow goes dry, the well caves in and my rich uncle bequeaths me a fortune, that's all for now.

Evangelical Free Church Mission Conference Set

The annual missionary conference of the Evangelical Free Church of Thief River Falls will be held this week, beginning on Wednesday evening, and continuing until next Sunday, April 27.

There will be services each night at eight o'clock, except Saturday, and on Sunday at 11:00 A.M. and 7:45 P.M.

Eight missionaries, representing the fields of Hong Kong, India, Belgian Congo, South Africa, Venezuela and Colombia will participate in the conference.

In addition to the messages which will be given, films will be also be used to show the work that is being done.

An invitation is extended to all to attend the conference.

Mayor Belch at Municipalities Group Meeting

Mayor O. D. Belch attended a committee meeting of the League of Minnesota Municipalities on Thursday, April 17 at Minneapolis.

The purpose of this committee on general legislation, of which Mayor Belch is a member, is to prepare resolutions to be presented to the annual meeting of the league and the state legislature during its next session.

Three Men Leave for Six Months Army Training

Two local youths and one from Middle River, members of Company F of the National Guard, left by bus Saturday for Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. where they will receive eight weeks of basic training.

After their basic training they will receive two months of advanced infantry training and then will be released from service to return here, where they will complete their reserve obligations as members of Co. F, 136th Infantry, which is the local National Guard company.

Car Wrecked Enroute to Fire

This 1953 Chevrolet shown upside down on the roadbank was rolled over when its driver, Tim Breiland, apparently lost control as he rounded a corner while enroute to a farm fire southeast of the city Friday, about noon. The car was practically demolished.

With Breiland as a passenger was Kermit Finstad. Information regarding injuries, if any, was not available, although it was not believed Breiland or Finstad received more than scratches and bruises. The fire was on the Carl Finstad farm, and is reported elsewhere in today's Times.

Shown in the foreground is the car's windshield, which popped out of the frame upon impact, a safety feature on most new cars.

Local Firemen at Region Session in Hallock Thursday

Fire Commissioner from Manitoba Guest Speaker at Evening Meeting

A total of 150 firemen representing 27 towns attended the annual spring meeting of the Northern Region Firemen's association at Hallock Thursday evening.

Representing Thief River Falls were Chief Roy Langevin, association secretary; Loren Borsheim, Lloyd Hogenson, Leonard Hanson and Bruce Reski, local civil defense chief.

Mayor Dipple of Hallock welcomed the group and Langevin made the response.

Principal speaker was Gus Thorimbert, Manitoba fire commissioner, who told of progress being made in the province in securing better fire-fighting equipment. He also showed a film, "Before They Happen", dealing with fire prevention.

Others who spoke briefly included Clarence A. Cherry of Detroit Lakes, deputy state fire marshal; Bruce Reski, Emmett Kane, Polk county civil defense director; and Chief Peterson and former Chief Andy Larson, both of Hallock.

It was decided to hold the midsummer meeting at Roseau.

Beer Theft Solved by Local Police

Three Youths Picked up with Loot in Possession

One robbery was solved and another one was added to the list of those as yet unsolved by police, over the week-end, according to Police Chief Elton Cummings.

One theft of beer from a truck which was reported last week was apparently solved when Patrolman Myers apprehended three youths on another charge and found the stolen beer.

The other theft involved a pair of 12-inch field boots taken from Ole's Northern Supply Saturday. The report said only two other customers were in the store when one of a party of youths in their late teens or early twenties walked back to the store's shoe department, tried on the boots and then walked out leaving his old boots behind.

No description of the youths was available as the theft apparently took place before the salespeople were aware of what was going on.

Only Your Doctor Can Tell!
Self diagnosis of persistent or recurring symptoms can cause you to underestimate the trouble with a resulting dangerous delay in obtaining proper treatment, or you can magnify them out of all proportion to reality thereby producing worry and nervous disorder. When you feel below par—see your doctor at once. Only he is qualified to tell what your symptoms mean and to prescribe for you. When detected in their early stages, most ailments respond swiftly to simple treatment.

FARMING TODAY

Bigger Litters Mean Lower Costs

At the same price per hundred pounds at market time, the farmer who raises 9 pigs from each litter to market weight is actually making a dollar more profit for each 100 pounds of hogs than is the farmer averaging only 5 pigs per litter.

This is because, with large litters, feed cost per pig weaned is much lower than is true with small litters.

The difference shows up in the feed requirements for a gilt from the time she is bred and for the pigs until they are weaned at 40 pounds each. Based on current feed prices, this feed cost averages out to $8.93 per pig in a 5-pig litter.

For 7-pig litters, the cost is $7.30 per pig, and it's only $6.30 when the litters average 9 pigs each. These costs are based on feeding corn, oats and sow supplement to the gilt and 40 lbs. of starter supplement to each little pig before weaning time.

These figures show there is a $2.33 per pig saving in 9-pig litters, compared to litters averaging 5 pigs. At market time, the difference would amount to about $1 per hundred for 230-pound pigs.

Minnesota farmers, on the average, raise 7 pigs per litter to market weight, although the number varies from farm to farm. Management — particularly at farrowing time — makes a big difference. Averaging 9 pigs per litter is possible for the farmer who feeds the gilt well, uses farrowing stalls, heat lamps, and gives the little pigs good care and feed.

The saving is even greater for farmers who raise 11 pigs per litter to market weight. With this average, the feed cost per pig at weaning weight is only $5.60.

Try Birdsfoot Trefoil

Birdsfoot trefoil, when managed properly, can work out well alhought it's a newcomer. Trefoil can be a good seed or pasture crop. Trefoil seed market is strong and it also warrants a try for pasture.

Use trefoil inoculant on the seed. Where fields have never raised trefoil before, use two or three times the normal amount of inoculant. You can use milk as a "sticker" for the inoculant.

Use the Empire variety of trefoil and plant early in the spring. Seed 5 pounds of trefoil with 6 pounds bromegrass or 5 pounds of timothy, for pasture purposes. If possible, use band-seeding to get quick establishment. Use about 4 pounds when used for seed. Don't seed more than a half inch deep. Plant a bushel or a bushel and a half of oats as a companion crop. If there's no weed problem, trefoil can be seeded alone.

When used as pasture, Empire trefoil usually isn't ready to graze until June or early July. But it stands continuous grazing better than alfalfa or red clover and works out well with rotations grazing.

After the cattle have grazed an area, clip it and spread the droppings. The second growth of trefoil recovers slower than alfalfa, but it will stand pasturing better without danger of bloat.

Follow a good fertility-management plan, to keep up the soil in phosphorus and potash, to maintain a good stand.

End Office of Co. Superintendent

The office of county superintendent of schools in Norman County is to be abolished at the end of this year, according to a resolution adopted by the Board of County Commissioners last week.

The county now has less than ten common school districts, as a result of consolidation or rural districts with the village and city schools. A state law permits the abolishment of the superintendent's office when there are but few common districts left.

Crookston Youth Wins Internship

A graduating St. Olaf College senior from Crookston, Minnesota, this week was announced winner of a novel political internship. The awardee, David Stenseth, was one of two in the state to receive summer political scholarships by the Minnesota Citizenship Clearing House (MCCH), a non-partisan group.

With the joint co-operation of both the state Republican and DFL headquarters, MCCH, this year sought a new program to foster political interest in state college circles.

They announced a plan to subsidize one young Republican and one young Democrat to a 10-week summer internship working with the state political committees.

The St. Olaf student won the post with state Republican offices where he hopes to learn about politics and government from the "grass roots" up. Half of his support during the summer will be financed by the MCCH and half by the state Republican offices.

Oklee FU Local

The Oklee Farmers Union local will present a program at the Oklee community hall Friday evening, April 25, at 8:00 o'clock.

Bob Bergland, area fieldman, will speak and present the main feature, a film entitled, "The Living Desert." Also on the program will be musical numbers and drawing for door prizes. Lunch will be served. There is no admission to the program, but a small charge will be taken for the lunch. A special invitation is extended to members of other area Farmers Union locals and the general public to attend.

Barber Shop Group to Be Picked in Minneapolis

Barber shop quartet singing is being revived as an official part of the Minneapolis Aquatennial calendar.

An Aquatennial barber shop harmony festival, bringing together outstanding male quartets from the entire Upper Midwest area, will be held Saturday night, May 17, at the Lyceum theatre in Minneapolis.

The winning group will be Aquatennial Barber Shop Quartet Champions" and will be available for appearances at Aquatennial functions during the July 18-27 dates of the summer festival.

Quartets interested in taking part in the festival are asked to contact D. E. Mattson, contest chairman, at the Aquatennial office, 116 Times Annex Building, Minneapolis.

Competition will be held in accordance with prescribed "Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America" rules, according to Mattson.

40th Anniversary of Airmail Service Observed May 15

In recognition of the 40th anniversary of the first regular scheduled airmail service, the post office department has authorized a special dispatch of airmail on a flight May 15, 1958. This flight will operate from Washington, D. C., via Philadelphia, Pa., to New York, N. Y. over the route of the original flight on May 15, 1918.

A special cachet has been authorized for application to covers dispatched on this flight from Washington and Philadelphia.

Covers to receive the special cachet should be sent to the postmasters at Washington and Philadelphia with request to hold for the flight, and must be prepaid at the airmail rate. Covers will be backstamped at termination of the flight and dispatched onward to destination.

Association for Retarded Seeking to Add Members

The Northwestern Minnesota Association for Retarded Children has set the period of April 21st to 30th for a membership enlistment campaign.

Anyone is eligible to join and participate in the activities of the Association, purposes of which are to create top level care, recreation, education, supervision, training and job opportunities for retarded children in the community, institutions and elsewhere.

About 3 per cent of the United States population is mentally retarded, according to the Minnesota Association for Retarded Children.

In announcing the membership campaign, Mrs. Ted Booth president of the association, pointed out that this is not a fund raising campaign.

Trap Shoot Club Retains Dorn and Granum on Board

Club Holds Its Annual Meeting and Banquet at Golf Club Thursday

The Thief River Falls Trap Shoot club held its annual banquet and meeting at the golf club Thursday evening.

Following the dinner, the group was called to order by presiding officer Bill Dahlquist, and business matters were acted upon. The terms of two of the club's directors, Tony Dorn and Henry Granum expired, and both were reelected.

The board of directors appointed Stan Wilson and Tony Dorn as executive officers of the club and they will have charge of the operation and promotion of the trap shooting layout. Walt Fischer was appointed custodian of the lunch counter, and Al Fonder was named as mechanic in charge of the operation of the traps.

The Northern Chevrolet team, captained by Roy Jorgenson and composed of Howie Brandt, Walt Anderson, Walt Jung, Henry Granum, Erling Torgerson, George Mackenroth, and Frank Rinkel, was presented with the league championship Trophy. Jorgenson, in behalf of the team, accepted the trophy from league secretary Erling Torgerson.

Receiving awards, in the form of "arm patches", for their feat of breaking twenty five consecutive targets in league competition were Tony Dorn, Bob Mattson, Sandy Wilson, and Cy Schantzen.

The sponsors of the six teams that participated in the league shoot last season—Frank Rinkel of the Northern Chevrolet, Ole Ekern of the Pharmacy, Clarence and Bob Mattson of the Times, Stan Wilson of the Wilson Bros., Roy and Gordon Johnson of the Johnson Bros., and Roy Oen of the Oen's Appliance—were introduced to the group. The Johnson brothers informed the league that they would not sponsor a team this season, but that the T & S Implement would enter a squad as a replacement.

Plans were discussed for the opening of the 1958 league shooting, and it was decided that Tony Dorn and Stan Wilson, after a meeting with the team sponsors, would, along with league secretary Erling Torgerson, draw up a schedule and announce the date of the opening shoot. In the meantime, the traps will be available for open shooting on Wednesday evenings and Sunday mornings.

Local People Help to Honor Retiring Insurance Agent

Paul M. Onstad of Grand Forks, general agent for the Lutheran Brotherhood insurance society, was honored on his retirement at a banquet Friday evening in the Dacotah Hotel, Grand Forks, attended by 150 friends from a wide area.

President Carl F. Grandrud presided as toastmaster, and called on a half-dozen speakers who praised Mr. Onstad for his services to the community, church and to the company he represents. Among the speakers was Dreng Bjornaraa, a director of Lutheran Brotherhood.

Attending the banquet from Thief River Falls were Harold G. Rasmussen, local agent, and Mrs. Rasmussen; Rev. and Mrs. Otto Dale, Rev. and Mrs. Walter M. Pedersen, Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Holen and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Stenberg.

The Pennington County Sportsmen's club will stage its annual smelt fry Thursday evening, April 24, in the Legion club rooms. Serving will continue from 6 to 8 o'clock.

Win Emblems for Shooting Perfect Scores

Pennington March Bond Sales $13,573

Marshall County Fourth in Three-month Totals

Sales of Series E and H Savings Bonds in March 1958 totaled $13,573 in Pennington county, bringing the year to date sales to $54,846 or 26.4 per cent of the county goal for 1958, J. M. Roche, county chairman, announced today.

Savings Bond sales in Minnesota for the first three months of 1958 total $20,374,390, an increase of 10.5 per cent over the same period of 1957 and represent 28.5 per cent of the 1958 quota.

Combined Series E and H sales during the first three months of 1958 exceeded last year in 70 of 87 Minnesota counties.

Counties leading in quota attainment included: Norman, 3rd, 41.6 percent; and Marshall, 4th, 39.9.

3 Traffic Mishaps Friday and Sunday

Drivers Are Not Tagged in Any of Accidents

Three traffic mishaps over the past week-end brought to and end the recent period without accidents in this city. No injuries were reported in any of the accidents, however, and property damage was relatively minor in most cases.

Two accidents occurred at almost the same instant in different parts of the city Friday. At 5:55 p.m. a car driven by Mrs. Eunice Nelson Efteland, city, was hit by another car driven by Arnold L. Engelstad, rt. 3, city, causing an estimated $20 damage to the Efteland car. Mrs. Efteland was turning off E. Third st. into Erv's Conoco station when Engelstad, who was parking hit her car.

Also at 5:55 p.m. Friday Harold Knutson, address not listed, slowed his pickup truck to allow a car in front of him make a left turn just across the Third st. bridge, when his truck was struck in the rear by a car driven by Donald W. Lokken, city. No damage was caused to the truck but Lokken's car sustained $150 estimated damages.

In a similar accident Sunday about 7:17 p.m., a car belonging to Melvin Joppru was damaged to about $85 extent when the driver, Robert R. Pohlen, city, struck a car driven by Aloysius B. Schmitz, rt. 3, Red Lake Falls, in the rear as Schmitz was making a left turn off North Main by Fred's Mobil Service. There was some dispute over whether Schmitz signalled the turn but neither driver was tagged in this or the other two accidents above.

Lee DeForest carried on his first successful wireless telephone experiments, which pioneered modern radio, in a laboratory on the campus of Illinois Institute of Technology, Chicago.

Accepts Top Trap Team Award

Roy Jorgenson, the captain of last year's winning Northern Chevrolet trap shooting team at the Thief River Trap club, is shown here as he accepted the trophies from Erling Torgerson, at Thursday's banquet. Team shooting will again get under way within the next week or so, when the Chevrolet team will try to retain the title it won against tough competition, including the 1956 champs, the Wilson Bros. team.

That Time Again

It's athletic banquet time again, and that means that the local high school fans in particular, and sports fans in general should make plans to be in attendance at the St. Bernard's church parlors on Wednesday evening, April 23rd when the city's four service club honor the Prowler athletes and coaches.

The program this year will be tinged with hockey for the featured speaker will be Bob May, the personable and efficient coach of the North Dakota Sioux. A guest at the banquet will be Joey Poole, the former Prowler hockey luminary, and who, for the past couple of seasons, has played a sturdy role for the North Dakota Sioux.

Gus' Selections

We received a note from G. A. (Gus) Kruege, of Morris, Minnesota, including his predictions for the National and American leagues. Gus, you will recall, was a long-time president of the Northern Minny baseball league when he resided in Plummer. In those days he was Plummer's "Mr. Baseball".

Here's his National league choices: Milwaukee, St. Louis, Los Angeles, Cincinnati, San Francisco, Philadelphia, Chicago, and Pittsburgh. In the American league, his list reads as follows: New York, Chicago, Boston, Detroit, Cleveland, Baltimore, Kansas City, and Washington.

The batting average leaders in the respective leagues will be Milwaukee's Hank Aaron in the National, and Boston's Ted Williams in the American.

Since retiring from his duties as Soo Line agent at Plummer, Gus has been living in Morris. He adds, "I have been living with a heart condition since mid-August 1947 which has been gradually taken me more and more out of condition, but it has not lessoned by interest in baseball."

SIDELINED

The three Winnipeg hockey clubs—the professional hockey Warriors, the senior hockey Maroons, and the junior hockey St. Boniface Canadians—that were engaging in playoff competition, have all been shunted to the sidelines.

The Warriors, forcing their best-of-seven series with Vancouver into a seventh game, lost this final game, and the series, to the Canucks, 5 to 1.

The Bill Robinson-coached Winnipeg Maroons, with Bill Juzda, Murray Balagus, and others, in the lineup, were eliminated in Allan Cup playdowns when they lost their best-of-seven series with the Kelowna Packers by a four games to one margin. Kelowna closed out the series by defeating the Maroons, 3 to 1, on Monday night.

The lost marked the third straight year that the senior hockey Maroons have made the trip to Canada's Okanagan Valley to compete in western Canada senior hockey playdowns. And it was the third straight setback. When asked if he intended to make a fourth trip out there if the occasion should be presented, Bill (The Beast) Juzda, the former National hockey league defenseman, expressed his doubts. In fact, it wouldn't be surprising if Juzda "hung up" his skates after this season and he has made statements to that effect.

And the dissension-wracked St. Boniface juniors, charged with lack of discipline and violating training regulations, proved easy victims for the smooth-playing Regina Pats. The Canadians lost the series, four games to two.

The Trap Club

Judging by the generous portions of chicken that was served at the banquet on Thursday evening, the financial standing and credit rating of the Thief River Falls Trap Shoot club must be excellent.

The club held its annual meeting on Thursday night, electing a couple of directors, awarded various prizes, and made plans for the 1958 season. A tentative opening date for the league competition was set for April 24th, but some doubt was expressed as to whether or not the competing teams would have their team rosters complete by that time. The league will definitely be in competition by May 1st.

But the point which the club's directors and officers wished to stress on Thursday evening, is that the trap club is not an exclusive organization, and that the club is eager to increase its membership. The club realizes that there are quite a number of prospective trap shooters in the vicinity, and that these prospects are a bit wary about joining the club, or trying their hand at busting the clay pigeons, being troubled by a feeling of self-consciousness.

Except for a dozen or so of the club's shooters, the members are ordinary marksmen and a newcomber need not feel "out of place". In fact, Stan Wilson, Tony Dorn, or Erling Torgerson will make arangements whereby a group, or a single shooter for that matter, can try out the traps without the added handicap of a crowd of spectators. It's the first twenty-five targets that are the hardest.

FU Grain Assn. to Add to Storage Facilities in '58

To Add 6,000,000 Bushels To Capacity at Superior, and 3,000,000 in St. Paul

Farmers Union Grain Terminal Association is adding 9 million bushels of storage space to its grain elevators in St. Paul and in Superior, Wisconsin, to be completed in time for the fall harvest, General Manager M. W. Thatcher announced Saturday in St. Paul.

Another 2 million bushels more for the elevator at Sioux City, Iowa, are scheduled for construction later this year or early in 1959, he said.

Work already has started in St. Paul and Superior. Prime contractor for the Head-of-the-Lakes job is the Western Knapp Engineering Company of Hibbing, which will put up 6 million bushels of storage space at Superior by September 1. The St. Paul job is being contracted by McKenzie Hague Gillies of Minneapolis, which is sceduling a 3-million-bushel addition for completion by October 1.

This extra space will give the Grain Terminal Association cooperative a total terminal elevator capacity of 30 million bushels, according to J. A. Gallaher, elevator superintendent, under whose direction most of the terminal facilities were built.

All of the tanks will be of steel. The co-op decided to use steel partially because of economy, but mainly in order to have the storage ready for the fall harvest, Gallaher said. This would not have been possible with concrete, the more conventional type of elevator construction, he said.

Fertilizer Tests on Martin Hanson Farm

The Martin Hanson farm is the site of experimental fertilizer and variety trials.

The test plots have been put in on the Hanson farm on April 14, according to County Agent Paul Stemaschuk. The farm is four miles east of Thief River Falls. The plots are along Highway one so they may be readily observed during the summer.

Included in the variety trials are thirty-three different crops and varieties. There are forty different analysis and rates of fertilizers used in the fertilizer trials and these are replicated four times so that one hundred and sixty different lots will be harvested.

The barley varieties included are Vantage, Forrest, Traill, Fox Parkland, U.M. 570 and Kindred (L). Oat varieties used are: Branch, Andrew, Rodney, Gopher, Garry, Branch, Simce, Fortune, Sauk, Bonda, Minhafer, and Burnett. Flax varieties include: Redwood, B5128, DeOro, Sheyenne, Marine, Raja, Norland, Arny, and Bolley. Wheat varieties: Selkirk, Conley and Langdon. Sugar beets and Ladino and Trefoil legumes are also included.

The fertilizer rates and analysis include twenty pounds of nitrogen combined with 0, 20, 40, 80 and 120 pounds of phosphate. And the one combination is repeated with 40 pounds of potash.

Another combination used is 40 lbs. of nitrogen with 0, 20, 40, 80, and 120 lbs. of phosphate and no potash. These plots are repeated with 40 pounds of potash.

Straight phosphate studies are also included where 0, 20, 40, 80 and 120 pounds of phosphate are applied per acre. These applications with no nitrogen are repeated with 40 pounds of potash.

Other plots include studies with 80 pounds of nitrogen per acre combined with 0, 20, 40, 80 and 120 pounds of phosphate and no potash. These combinations are repeated with 40 pounds of potash.

The fertilizer trails are a demonstration and also a joint research project with the University of Minnesota soils department. Similar plots are used in Kittson and Marshall counties to study crop responses to various applications of fertilizers. The yields will help determine the most economic fertilizer application. Fred Heck, soils extension agent, Warren, is co-ordinating the work with fertilizer plots.

Farmers are invited to visit the plots through the summer to observe the effects of fertilizers and development of the various crop varieties.

Danger from Fires Is Rising in State, Freeman Reports

Forest Fires Are Termed More Dangerous Than During Past 27 Years

In a statement released thru Keep Minnesota Green, Inc. office, Governor Orville L. Freeman said today that the right combination of a high wind and a careless person in the northern woodlands could give Minnesota its worst forest fire in recent years. He said that the danger of a serious fire is now greater than at any time in the past 27 years.

"I have been told by people in our Conservation Department that they cannot remember any year since the early 1930's when our woodlands have been as dry as they are now," he said.

Governor Freeman said that in the past week alone the Forestry Service has spent more than $14,000.00 in fighting fire outbreaks. He noted that the total acreage burned already this year exceeds the total in all of 1957. To date this year, 481 fires have burned better than 18,000 acres of timberland. Last year, for the entire year, approximately 17,800 acres of land were burned.

Fireman said that the most comparable set of statistics for a dry year would be found during the years 1931 to 1935. In 1931 the State recorded 2,778 fires which burned 992,000 acres. During that five year period, the yearly total of acres burned never dropped below 100,000 and usually exceeded 300,000 acres.

The Governor said the light snowfall for the winter combined with the lack of spring rains has added greatly to the fire hazard. "If we should get heavy winds in the transition periods as leaves are greening, there is no telling what could happen. The next three weeks will be the most critical," Freeman continued.

The Minnesota Forestry Service is now better equipped to combat forest fires than at any period in the past. Where fire fighting was mostly hand work during the 1930's, mechanized equipment and a fast communication system, radio and mobile phone facilities now enable fire fighters to reach an outbreak quickly with bulldozers, heavy pumpers and tankers.

USO Volunteers Aid Service Men

Chairman Thanks Public for Community Chest Aid

Nearly 40 million visits by members of the armed forces and their dependents, were made to USO clubs, lounges and information centers around the world last year, according to the 1957 annual report of United Service Organizations, Inc., received here by Josiah E. Brill, chairman of the USO Defense Funds for Minnesota.

Volunteers devoted 4,800,345 hours — the equivalent of 548 years — of their time to the USO program of serving the off-duty welfare and morale needs of the armed forces.

Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., USO chairman and chairman of the board of Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., paid tribute to these volunteers for continuing to recognize their responsibilities toward the "two and a half million young men and women in the armed forces protecting our country throughout the world."

USO volunteers are needed now as never before, he said and expressed confidence that the public will continue to support the USO as a part of "our American philosophy to give the utmost service to those who serve their country in uniform."

USO was included in 1,465 United Fund and Community Chest campaign throughout the country last year, a decided increase over 1956. USO is included in almost all United Fund and Chest campaigns in Minnesota. Mr. Firestone voiced deep appreciation to the United Funds and Chests for their support, and to the independent campaigns who are raising the funds to make the work of the USO possible.

New Vegetables Are Available This Year

Home gardeners who are interested in planting some new vegetable varieties this year will find some helpful suggestions in a newly revised bulletin published by the University of Minnesota Agricultural Extension Service.

Just off the press is "Vegetable Varieties for Minnesota," Extension Folder 154, which contains a list of recommended varieties for this state based on trials conducted annually in various locations in Minnesota in cooperation with both home and commercial gardeners. The new edition of the publication summarizes results of last year's tests of hybrids and newer varieties, in addition to giving a suggested list of older varieties found dependable for Minnesota home horticulturist at the University. Copies of the publication are available from Bulletin Room, Institute of Agriculture, University of Minnesota, St. Paul 1.

Turnquist suggests that home gardeners can add interest to their plantings by putting in some of these newer varieties and hybrids, along with some of the older varieties:

Pearlgreen snap bean, an all-America award winner, mosaic resistant and high yielding. White-seeded at maturity, it is suitable for dry shell beans if all pods are not picked at the young snap stage.

Ruby Queen and King red beets. Both are globe shaped with solid red interiors and no conspicuous rings. Gardeners have reported favorable results with both varieties but show preference for King Red.

Morning Sun and Golden Beauty sweet corn, new hybrids of excellent quality.

Marketer cucumber, one of the most dependable varieties for slicing.

Slobolt lettuce, a loose leaf variety that remains productive when other varieties go to seed in hot weather.

Moreton hybrid, Big Boy and Fireball tomatoes. Moreton hybrid is very early, thick walled and meaty. Big Boy is a large fruiting hybrid, later than Moreton, but one of the most popular in Minnesota. Fireball is an extra-early standard variety, especially well adapted to the north. Fruit size is small to medium.

One out of Every 3 Suffers Backache

State Physicians Give Advice on Prevention

If you are not presently suffering from a backache the chances that you have, or will have in the future, are pretty good.

According to recent estimates, one out of every three Americans will suffer from some form of back pain during a life time. It has also been fairly established that currently 35 percent of the population under the age of 24, and 39 percent under the age of 45 have some form of back pain.

Strain and fatigue account for more than 90 percent of backache. Improper bending, lifting, and twisting are most common causes of backaches.

Improper sleeping habits are a perennial cause of aching backs. Avoid sleeping on a mattress which is too short, too soft, or too narrow. A back curved to fit a sagging mattress may have painful after effects.

The Minnesota State Medical association gives the following suggestions which may help prevent possible discomforts of backache.

Don't over-do it. Know what your physical limitations are. Don't risk life and back with grandstand plays.

Bend at the knees when lifting a load. Distribute the load to allow legs, arms, and hips to share the burden.

Learn to sit down gracefully. A crash landing may jolt the spine.

Get all the muscles into the act. Don't concentrate on a few. Precede participation in vigorous sports activities with a gradual warm-up.

Seventh inning stretches at work and recreation are recommended.

Editorials . . .

"The true rule in determining to embrace or reject anything, is not whether it has any evil in it, but whether it has more of evil than of good. There are few things wholly evil or wholly good. Almost everything, especially of government policy, is an inseparable compound of the two, so that our best judgment of the preponderance between them is continually demanded." —A. Lincoln

Helping Ourselves

Farmers' income from dairying in Minnesota last year totaled $279 million, an increase of more than $14 million over the $265 million figure for the year 1956. The boost was due mainly to a 3 per cent increase in milk production and the continuing trend of marketing whole milk rather than cream. The trend has also continued toward fewer but more productive cows and fewer but larger herds.

This trend is expected to continue. What once was looked upon generally as a side line is now becoming the main operation on a farm or is being dropped completely. That is the trend, and whether we like it or not, there probably is nothing we can do to stop it.

Our area is well suited for dairying. The fellows with sharp pencils tell us that our disadvantage of distance to markets is offset to a large extent by lower production costs. A pound of butterfat can be produced for less cost here than on high cost land closer to the markets, the figures show.

One thing we can do to help ourselves, they also tell us, is to reduce our local marketing costs. Our processing costs vary more than ten cents a pound of fat here among our own creameries, and our average cost is several cents higher than in areas where marketing is organized more efficiently. This is a condition that we ourselves can correct, and the problem deserves the careful consideration of all who are interested in the future of dairying in this area.

A Calmer Congress

Back at their desks in Washington, following their visits with home-district neighbors during the Easter recess, members of congress generally agreed that folks back home were surprisingly calm about the recession. Proposed pump-priming projects and tax cuts were not in great demand. Reports indicate that, following their little vacation, the members of Congress are now less panicky and more inclined to be moderate in their approach to the problems before them.

All of which strengthens the argument of those who think we would have better government if the sessions of congress were shorter and its members spent more of their time tending to their own affairs in their own home communities. We are sure things would not go to pot if the present session suddenly adjourned for the duration. It might actually have a stimulating effect on the economy. It would be especially helpful, of course, if they would just quit making speeches for a while.

Why Be Consistent?

Harry Truman's first reaction to the quotation of what he had said about unemployment back in the recession of 1949, was that they were not true. He never had said what they said he had said, he said.

When presented with the report as it had appeared in the New York Times, with his approval, he admitted that his memory was getting bad and that the quotations were correct. He apologized for having questioned a good reporter and a good newspaper.

That's what we like about Harry Truman. He is having a lot of fun in his retirement. And, after all, why should he be concerned about whether or not what he says now is in harmony with what he said when he was in the driver's seat. A foolish consistency may be the hobgoblin of little minds, but not Harry's.

It Grows—And Grows

(The Milwaukee Journal)

Italy has just started a campaign to cut down its civil service and reduce the number of its government bureaus. Under Mussolini the Italian bureaucracy grew beyond imagination.

A special bureau has been set up to do the pruning job. And it is working so hard that it has grown to 600 people — but has not closed down a single bureau as yet.

The new bureau has uncovered some interesting facts, however. It finds that a department for the maintenance of aqueducts in Albania exists — although Albania has been in the hands of the Communists for 13 years. There is a department which is charged with superintending projects in Ethiopia — which Italy lost in the war.

Government, apparently, is government, whether it's in Rome or in Washington.

Pump Priming

(Don Brown in Waseca Journal)

We will be much surprised if this nation does not witness another round of inflation before year's end.

Every agency of government, legislators in general and administrators in particular are urging more public spending. Without giving programs already voted a chance to show their worth, we are launching new spending projects.

The man on the street is being impressed with the fact that he can spend his way to better times for the nation.

One of these days the full impact of the many programs will hit us and we will find ourselves facing a price spiral which will soon get out of hand. A consuming public needs only the thought that something is going to be higher in another month and that public immediately starts buying beyond present needs.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

An old-timer in this modern world is the person who remembers when many believed that most of our problems would be solved when women were given the vote and the common drinking cup was abolished."—Edmonton Journal.

The bank cashier recognized the matron as the wife of a leading poultryman, but in totaling her sizable deposit, did not hear her remark that the money had been raised in a drive by the town's Woman's Club.

He finished counting, smiled blandly and observed, "Well, I must say the old hens are doing a swell job."

Friends! Two women mad at the same person.

HOME GARDEN

Plant Tomatoes

One of the most popular vegetables in the garden is the tomato. In most parts of Minnesota this vegetable may be seeded directly in the garden if early varieties are used. Crops from these plants may be used for canning. For early fruits for the table a few plants should be started early or purchased from a greenhouse for transplanting to the garden.

Some of the new hybrid tomatoes have been extremely popular in recent years. The Big Boy produces luscious large tomatoes of excellent quality. However, it is not the earliest variety. The Moreton hybrid produces medium-to-large fruits over a longer period. Other promising hybrids are Hybrid E and Polaris.

In open-pollinated varieties, try Fireball for very early fruiting and medium-size tomatoes. Firesteel, Sioux and Rutgers are also desirable.

Don't make the mistake of setting out plants too early. The soil temperatures as well as the air temperatures should be warm for good growth and development. To be safe, wait until Memorial Day before transplanting tomatoes out of doors.

If garden space is limited, space the plants 18-21 inches apart and plan to prune the plants to one or three stems. Tie these to a stake for support. As the plants begin to branch, remove the small side shoots that develop where the leaf joins the main stem.

If plenty of room is available space the plants 3-4 feet apart and don't prune or stake.

Washington's route of presidents and visiting celebrities stretches along Pennsylvania Avenue for a mile and a half between the Capitol and White House. When Charles Dickens came to the young city in 1842, he called it one of the capital's "spacious avenues that begin in nothing and lead nowhere."

Automation, rather than eliminating the human being in the production process, is creating the need for more college-trained people and for technicians trained in the complexities of new processes.

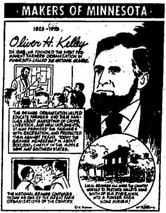
MAKERS OF MINNESOTA



1826-1913
Oliver H. Kelley
IN 1868 HE FOUNDED THE FIRST PERMANENT FARMERS ORGANIZATION IN MINNESOTA CALLED THE NATIONAL GRANGE.
THE GRANGE ORGANIZATION HELPED EDUCATE FARMERS AND THEIR FAMILIES ABOUT MARKETING OF CROPS, LIVESTOCK, AND NEW IMPLEMENTS. IT ALSO PROVIDED THE FARMERS WITH RECREATION, AND PROTECTED THEM AGAINST FRAUD. TODAY THE GRANGE MEMBERSHIP IS ABOUT 800,000, CHIEFLY IN THE MIDDLE WEST AND SOUTHERN STATES.
THE NATIONAL GRANGE CONTINUES TODAY AS ONE OF THE GREAT FARM ORGANIZATIONS OF THE COUNTRY.

The steady rise in the average of farm prices in recent months to the highest level in almost five years is giving Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson a defense that neither he nor his attackers had counted on.

The price increase of 7% since December and 11% over a year ago won't, however, halt the debate over whether the present farm program should or should not be continued. Only a few think it should be.

President Eisenhower says he hasn't changed his opinion that new farm legislation is needed. Most congressmen disagree with him only as to what changes should be made. The odds are that no changes will be made this year.

The farm battle throughout the remainder of this year, including the election campaigning, will be a war of words more than action. A continued rise in farm prices could, however, take the edge off of farm programs as a political issue.

The chances of adopting sound farm legislation have been lessened by the propaganda war that would do the Russians credit for half-truths and outright misrepresentation of the facts. The result has been to whip up anti-farmer resentments among consumers.

More than just farmers are involved. Along with the 21 million people on farms there are 42 million others who make their living processing, transporting and retailing foods and fibers, or in manufacturing supplies for farmers. Three out of every eight Americans are engaged in feeding and clothing the nation.

It is interesting to follow a dollar spent by a city housewife for food or clothing. Sixty cents are taken out for "services" before the remaining 40c reaches the producer. Out of that 40c the producer must pay 31c for hired labor, machinery, gasoline, fertilizer, interest on debt, taxes and other operating costs. He has only 9c left for his labor, out of which he must pay family living costs. His average wage is less than 50c per hour.

Consumers are told they pay for their food twice—once in higher prices and again when they pay their taxes. Any housewife will tell you that food costs a lot of money and that prices have been going up and up.

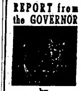
The other fact is that the average wage earner in 1957 could buy more and better food with a smaller percentage of his income than at any time in more than 40 years. From 1947 to 1957 factory wages increased 67%, but food costs are up only 31%.

Prices paid farmers for raw products have gone down by an average of 20% in the past 10 years. All, and more, of the increased food costs are the result of higher processing and distribution costs.

In 1948 the farm price of wheat was $2.81 a bushel and the average price of a one pound loaf of bread was 13.8 cents. Last year the average price of wheat was $2.05 a bushel and the average price of a loaf of bread was 19c. Wheat went down by 27% and the price of bread went up 29%.

In 1952 the government supported milk at 90% of parity and the average price of milk was 22.8 cents a quart. In 1957 the government supported milk at 83% of parity and the retail price of milk averaged 24.3 cents a quart.

REPORT from the GOVERNOR



by Orville L. Freeman

Most of these weekly columns have related to activities of government as they are carried on today. It is perhaps appropriate, however, especially in this, our Centennial Year, to look back at government operations a century ago. Our Secretary of State, Joseph L. Donovan, has recently looked into some of the earliest records of his office, and has noted some interesting features relating to activities in our early years as a state.

Handwriting Important

Official letters and communications were written by hand in 1858. Handwritten copies of such letters were made, and bound in large, leather-covered books. Along with copies of letters are copies of memorials and joint resolutions sent to Congress, and records of appointments filed by the Governor.

A State Seal

The first letter in Book No. 1, which covers 1858 to 1878, was a communication from the Secretary of State to Governor Sibley noting that there was no state seal. The second letter was a reply, made the same day by the Governor, — May 25, 1856, — advising the Secretary to use the territorial seal until the state seal became available.

Uniformity Needed

Another early letter from the Secretary of State to the Governor requested the adoption of a uniform size and form for bills and acts of the Legislature, noting that important public documents were being worn out by folding and unfolding them.

Budget in 1858

On June 11, 1858, in a letter to the Governor, the Secretary of State submitted a proposed budget for his office. He asked for a total sum of $2,500.00, of which $1,000 was for an assistant Secretary, $500 for clerk hire, $500 for stationery and postage, and $500 for fitting up the office. "In connection with this last item," he wrote, "I beg leave to remark that the offices to be occupied by me are destitute of every convenience."

Absentee Voting

Minnesota has apparently always been on the alert to see that its citizens were provided with opportunity to vote. Copies of letters written in 1862 show that commissioners had been appointed to take ballots to Minnesota soldiers in the Union Army in order that they might cast their votes in the 1862 election.

State Institutions Built

Correspondence during the years 1862-1866 show that at this time Minnesota patients suffering from mental illness were cared for in a hospital at Mount Pleasant, Iowa, until the Minnesota hospital at St. Peter could be opened. Apparently hospitals were crowded even in those years, for a letter from the hospital superintendent in Iowa in 1865 refuses to accept any except "most urgent recent" cases, and these only in exchange from "chronic, incurable patients" who were to be returned to Minnesota.

Minnesota paid Iowa three dollars a week for each patient cared for. This figure, together with the sum of $500 which the Secretary of State thought would be adequate to furnish his offices, indicate one of the great changes that have taken place during our century of statehood.

SLOW DOWN AND LIVE!

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor Times

Some time ago we all received a double post card form the T.R.F. Fire Dept. with the request to fill in and return the ½ of this card, giving a clear directory of the proper roads to go, from the fire hall to your place.

I have just been informed that there are some 40 cards not yet returned. Now this is evidently due to oversight of the delinquent parties and possibly not recognizing the importance of those cards.

This card system is the result of considerable study by your town board and the fire chief. It is copied from systems in extensive use by rural districts in our state and also other communities having similar fire protection arrangements and it is very important that those cards are attended to. If you have misplaced the original card use an ordinary post card and give the proper directions from the fire hall to your place.

The way this will operate when completed is. The information you give is typed on a separate card with a duplicate of a red color. The two cards are placed in a rack with all other like cards and each pair of cards is given a specific number. You'll be notified of your number. This then is your fire call. In case of fire just call the Fire Hall and say fire at No. "so and so", the department then picks your number and on that card is his information as to where to go.

Tend to those cards now, don't wait "for George to do it." It's for your own protection. It will take a few minutes of your time and a postcard. I don't see why we should be forced to hire someone to canvas the farms to get this information.

THE MINNESOTA STORY

Prepared by the Minnesota Historical Society

A STRANGER'S GRAVE

Considering the huge sums expended today upon public welfare by all units of government, it is startling to learn that the most expensive public charity in which the officials of Ramsey County engaged in 1851 cost a total of $62.26!

This sum was expended in caring for the remains of "a stranger found dead" in St. Paul. An inquest was held, but no information as to the stranger's identity or manner of death could be found. It was decided to bury him at public expense.

The examining surgeon at the coroner's inquest was paid $10.00 and six citizens received $1.60 each for serving on the jury. Nine persons called as witnesses received varying sums. For digging the grave, one Michael Hays was paid $5.00, and another $5.00 was spent on a "plain pine coffin." There were a few other incidental expenses for a team and wagon, etc.

This typical frontier incident —the decent burial of a stranger—must have been the end that came to many men in the mid-nineteenth century who went West to seek their fortunes and were never heard from again.

1852 PROHIBITION LAW

The social problems caused by drunkenness in Minnesota's early days aroused great concern on the part of some citizens, and about 1850 temperance clubs were formed in many of the territory's settlements.

In February, 1852, the temperance clubs of St. Paul and St. Anthony presented to the state legislature a petition asking for a prohibition law. It was signed by 1100 people. They wanted legislation modeled on the so-called "Maine Liquor Law" which imposed total prohibition of alcohol, with stringent penalties for anyone caught possessing it.

To almost everyone's surprise, an "Act for the Suppression of Drinking Houses and Tippling Shops" was passed on the last day of the session. The legislators were apparently afraid to vote either for or against the measure for fear of arousing the ire of their constituents, so they passed the bill with the provision that it be submitted to the people of the territory for confirmation.

On April 5, 1852, the people approved the prohibition bill by a vote of 853 to 662. It was said that in St. Paul "the election was conducted with great decorum," except for "one or two fights by mistake." The temperance law became the talk of the day in Minnesota — Lott Moffet even changed the name of his St. Paul Inn to the Temperance Hotel.

It is doubtful, however, that the law was enforced. A few months later a test case was carried to the Minnesota territorial supreme court, and the prohibition law was declared unconstitutional.

STAY WHERE YOU ARE

"Stay where you are," was the advice one Minnesotan who had emigrated to Oregon in 1851 gave to his fellow citizens. In a letter, written from Marysville, Oregon Territory, and published in the "Minnesota Democrat" of March 3, 1852, Henry Doolittle told of his arduous journey overland from St. Paul via the "Northern route."

He had started from St. Paul in June, 1851, with a small group of men who wished to work in the newly-discovered gold mines of British Columbia. They reached Pembina without any trouble and took the Hudson's Bay Company cart trail to Fort Ellis at the junction of the Assiniboine and Qu'Appelle rivers.

They intended to follow the Assiniboine to the Rocky Mountains, cross them, and find the headwaters of the Columbia River, which would lead them to the Pacific. Unfortunately, they became lost crossing the mountains, could find no game, ate two of their horses, and almost starved before they found their way.

Even if the journey to Oregon were not so difficult, Doolittle said that the trip was, in his opinion, inadvisable for citizens of Minnesota, since Oregon did not offer any advantages they could not find at home.

FRONTIER EDITOR

When Daniel A. Robertson, Ohio newspaper editor and politician, decided to go to Minnesota in the fall of 1850 to start a Democratic paper, he was taking on a difficult job. In addition to the usual problems of financing and securing subscribers and advertisers, Robertson's career was complicated by frontier conditions.

The first issue of the "Minnesota Democrat," as he called his paper, was published in St. Paul on December 10, 1850. In his adjoining editorial, Robertson told his readers that he had purchased his printing plant with his own capital and that his "humble abilities and exertions will be devoted to the interests of the Territory." He promised to fight the Whigs editorially and to be their friends personally.

"We send this number of your paper to every citizen of the Territory whose name we have been able to obtain," Robertson said. "All who wish to subscribe, will please send in their name without delay."

The difficulty of obtaining news in St. Paul without a telegraph and, in the winter, without regular mails, is illustrated by Robertson's apologetic note: "We have delayed the issue of our paper several hours, with the expectation of the arrival of the mail, which has been due several days, but we are obliged to go to press without it."

The mail situation created another difficulty for Robertson: "We are bad off for mails to distribute our paper in the distant parts of the Territory," he wrote. "We will endeavor to obviate this difficulty, by sending the paper up north and in other directions, by teamsters and other private conveyances."

Despite his early trials, Robertson made a success of his paper. In 1853 he sold it to David Olmsted, and after that he devoted his time to real estate dealings and other interests. He was known for the intelligence and humor of his writing.

Our LAND

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture.

Fertilizing wheat can definitely pay off, reports Curtis Klint, extension soils agent in Norman county. He and other extension soils men helped a number of farmers in the Red River Valley set up fertilizer demonstration plots last summer. On one farm, applying 40 pounds of nitrogen and 20 pounds phosphorus per acre, according to soil test, boosted wheat yields by 13.2 bushels per acre. This meant a gain of $26.40 from applying $7.80 worth of fertilizer.

Wild Geese can be completely "at home" on man-made ponds. Ralph Trageser, Pipestone farmer, noticed flock after flock settling down on a neighbor's farm last fall, so he decided to construct a similar pond on his own place. He was helped in planning and engineering the pond by Les Swanson, U. S. Soil Conservation Service Technician. Trageser is a cooperator in the Pipestone soil conservation district.

Doubled corn yields were the result of a land improvement program started by Elmer Donner, cooperator in the Jackson soil conservation district. He recently told Ralph Nordstrom, U. S. Soil Conservationist, that his corn yields eight years ago averaged 35 bushels per acre. Now they are twice that high. The reason: Donner has followed a corn-grain, hay-pasture rotation, used a complete fertilizer program. He plans to terrace his slopes and set up several wildlife areas to round out his conservation plan.

A farm pond brings these savings to Joe Sogla, cooperator in the Rush-Pine Creek Watershed: less traveling by the cattle herd, better grazing distribution, a water supply in case of fire, wildlife benefits, saving of well water, and less power and machine cost for pumping well water. Sogla made these comments recently to William Silman, SCS conservationist in Winona county.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans' benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA Contact Representative at the Grand Forks VA office.

Q—I am a Korea veteran with a service-connected disability not severe enough to warrant compensation payments. Would that qualify me for special GI insurance for disabled Korea veterans?

A—Yes. A noncompensable service-connected disability would qualify you for the special insurance, so long as it isn't a dental condition for which a rating was made only for purposes of dental treatment.

Q—I understand a war veteran needs at least 90 days military service to qualify for a pension. If I was absent without leave, would that time count toward his 90 days?

A—If his pay were forfeited for his period of absence without leave, that time would not count toward the 90-day minimum service requirement.

Q—I am the widow of a deceased World War II veteran and I never have remarried. Also, I served in the WAVES during World War II. Thus, it seems to me I would have entitlement to two GI loans. Am I right?

A—No. Under the law you would have only one entitlement to a GI loan, not two.

Q—I am planning to go to school under the Korean GI Bill. Would my monthly allowance be based on the amount of tuition I'll have to pay?

A—No. Your GI allowance would not be based on your tuition. Instead, it would be a flat monthly sum.

It is remarkable how "upset" people become over public proposals that affect their pocket books.

Turnabout a la Tony

Have you met Tony yet? He's from Europe—and rents the old Whalen farm.

Tony's a good worker and has that farm running pretty slick. Funny though—on days off—Tony hangs around the barbershop listening to the political discussions. But he never says a word.

Last Thursday, though, Tony was there and was speaking his mind. When I asked him about the sudden change, he smiled and showed a brand-new set of citizenship papers. "Now I talk up like an American should," he said.

From where I sit, every citizen has a right to speak his mind —on all subjects. For instance, I happen to feel that beer is just about the best refreshment beverage there is. Nobody has to agree with my choice—but there's no arguing my right to "sound off" about it.

Cloverleaf Couple "Gram" and "Gramp" to All Their Neighbors

By Shirley Oski

Do you have a pioneer couple living in your community? Cloverleaf township is very proud of their pioneer couple Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ptacek or Grandma and Grandpa Ptacek as they are usually referred to, and who have made their home here since they homesteaded in 1904. A very pleasant and informative time can be had by visiting our pioneers who are happy to tell of their early experiences in starting the progressive communities we now have.

Grandpa Ptacek, one of a family of 10 children, was born in Bohemia 88 years ago. The extent of his education was meager as everyone had to work to provide food for the many hungry mouths. When he was 10 years old his parents decided to go to America.

They landed in New York in 1880 and went directly by train to Pocahontas County in Western Iowa where relatives were already living.

Grandma Ptacek, Louisa Reichardt, born in February 1873 in Germany, was one of a family of 4 children. She was only 4 years old when her family decided to go to America. They landed in Boston after about 2 weeks on ship and went to the home of a friend in Garner, Iowa. She attended school in Concord, Iowa and learned the English language. After finishing grade school she worked at thhe home of a school teachers. Later she hired out as a maid of all work on a dairy farm where she later met Joseph Ptacek, also a hired hand.

When asked why the families in Europe left home, relatives and friends and went to America, they both said, "We heard so much about the great land of opportunity for old and young, rich and poor, where everyone had an equal opportunity to own property that it was hard to stay in Europe where only a few were property owners and not subject to regimentation." Mrs. Ptacek said each year the militia with Kaiser Wilhelm Sr. and Prince Wilhelm on magnificant horses, together with many officers would camp for several weeks on their alfalfa fields and have mock battles. "Many times," she said "I stood just a stones throw from the old Kaiser and his son on horseback."

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ptacek were united in marriage in a Catholic Church at Fort Atkinson, Iowa in Nov. 18, 1890. The first year they lived in Garner and he worked as a section hand on the railroad. They didn't like city life and railroad work was not the work for him, and they rented a farm in Hancock county, Iowa.

Their six children were born there. Charles Ptacek now of Thief River Falls, Annie (Mrs. Clem Sebek) Claire City, S. Dak. Albert Ptacek, Thief River Falls, Mammie (Mrs. Mammel) Grand Forks, Rosie, deceased, Emma (Mrs. Henry Klockman) Goodridge, Minn.

In 1903 preparations were started to move to northern Minnesota where lands were still being opened for settlement. Joseph made the first trip alone to look the situation over. His brother Fred was already settled on a farm near Thief River Falls known as the Knox farm. He was doing well and the soil looked fertile so Joseph rented a farm, 5 miles south of Thief River Falls, about where the airport is, from Bill Kratka. He then returned to Iowa to get his family. His wife and children and her sister Mary who made her home with them, his parents and a brother-in-law and wife (Mr. and Mrs. Lamac fomerly of Thief River Falls) made the trip on the Great Northern.

Two emigrant box cars were loaded with provisions, furniture, machinery, 8 horses, geese, chickens, pigs, cows and grain. The trip took 4 days with a day lay over in St. Hilaire. The actual initial cost was not bad, only $90, but what really hurt was the charge made for overloading the cars. This was more than $80 extra. They arrived in Thief River Falls February 26, 1904. With the help of his family and friends the work of unloading the cars and moving the property to the farm started. The weather was cold and the moving was done on foot and with wagons on trails barely passable. Many trips were made "toting" as Grandma said, the things to their new home. The buildings included 2 small log houses and a larger log barn.

In June of 1904 the first auction of reservation lands was held in Thief River Falls. The land was sold to the highest bidder with a minimum price of $4 an acre and bids went as high as $20 a acre. This sale continued for several days with 15% cash and the balance in several years. In the fall the land not sold at the first auction was auctioned again; at Crookston. The land remaining was later sold to squatters. After 7 years were up and the farm paid for, living quarters built, a well dug and 2 acres plowed the land was "proved up" as it was called and a deed was issued to the owner.

Cloverleaf Township Pioneers

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ptacek, who homesteaded in Cloverleaf township when the Indian Reservation lands were opened for settlement in 1904, and who are still making their home on the original homestead.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ptacek and family "proved up" on the SE¼ Sec. 18 in what is now Clover Leaf township. Their first neighbors, were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hruby and family, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Svendsgaard, Sr. and family, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Oski and family, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Sanders and family, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Rickson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Benarchik and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Holmen and family, Mr. and Mrs. Thor J. Skaar and family.

Work on the Ptacek farm buildings started in June with Mr. Ptacek and the older children doing the work. Mrs. Ptacek was chief hauler of the lumber. The first trip from Thief River Falls took three hours with horses, wagon, hayrack and mower. The first thing that had to be done was cut the grass which provided hay for the horses. The first evening they slept on the hay in the hayrack but by morning the 8 horses had eaten the hay and only bare boards were left.

While the men were busy arranging for building Grandma made an outdoor stove of rocks to cook their meals. She also made huts of brush and hay for sleeping quarters. Then the job of hauling lumber started for Grandma. The younger children stayed on the farm south of Thief River Falls with their Aunt Mary.

The hard work during the spring and summer proved too hard for Grandma and she became ill and was obliged to spend several weeks in a hospital in St. Hilaire as there was none in Thief River Falls. While she was confined in the hospital their home south of Thief River Falls burned and they lost all their possessions except a dining room table and sewing machine which they still have. The children were taken care of by her sister Mary and his sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Lamac in Thief River Falls until they moved to their homestead in the early part of 1905.

The land proved somewhat disappointing because of all the rocks which still are a great hindrance in raising crops. Juneberries and strawberries were very plentiful and enjoyed by young and old. Mrs. Ptacek was kept busy cooking, baking and washing clothes. She raised 2 to 300 chickens every year with mother hens. She made a garden and canned many quarts of berries and vegetables. She milked cows, churned butter and fed the livestock. Besides these womanly tasks she also helped with the haying and shocking and stacking grain.

Sewing for the family and knitting rugs was a pasttime. Summer evenings were spent watching the stars and listening to the prairie chickens and slough-pumpers. The children earned money for special occasions such as birthdays, 4th of July and Christmas by digging snakeroot and selling it for 50c a dry pound in Thief River Falls. This was used in medicine.

Winter evenings were spent at home or the whole family would be bundled into warm clothes, blankets and off to the neighbors they'd go. The time was spent in tieing quilts or stripping feathers and listening to stories of their experiences told by the fathers or grandfathers. No one was ever too busy to lend a hand to a neighbor in time of need. It was a hard life for all, but no one had time to get into mischief of a serious nature. Pranks, yes but willful destruction, never.

Grandma and Grandpa Ptacek are very active and spry at the ages of 85 and 88 years and live together on their original homestead in the same home built in 1904 but recently remodeled. Grandma still does her own baking and cooking and loves to take care of her chickens. They still plant a garden of vegetables and flowers. Their son Albert, his wife or one of their sons, make a daily visit to the old folks to see that all is well.

Their last remarks were. We are thankful we are still together and can enjoy visiting with our children, 19 grandchildren and 20 great grandchildren. America is a wonderful land to live in.

Lincoln School Musicians in District Event

Several Hundred to Go to Crookston Friday and Saturday

Several hundred Lincoln high school musicians will make an exodus to Crookston Friday and Saturday to compete in the District 31 high school music contest.

The following week-end, May 2 and 3, Thief River Falls will be host to approximately 2,500 vocal and instrumental groups and soloists at the state area music contest, in which those winning top ratings in the district contest will compete.

Soloists and ensembles will perform at Crookston Friday, with the larger groups taking part Saturday.

Lincoln instrumental groups will be headed by the band and also by the orchestra, which will enter district competition for the first time. Instrumental ensembles included the woodwind, clarinet, trombone and string quartets, saxophone quintet and brass sextet. Soloists will be Dave Thorstad, oboe; and Diane Lindquist and Sharon Klein, snare drum.

Larger vocal groups from Lincoln school that will compete are the 50-voice mixed chorus and the 45-voice girls' glee club. Ensembles are the senior and junior girls' sextets and the boys' and girls' sextets. Soloists will include Frank Conklin, Marcia Fanberg, Janet Torgerson, Yvonne Olson, Marilyn Matson and Donna Hesse.

Orthopedic Field Clinic Scheduled in City April 29-30

Six Counties to Share in Two-day Event in Trinity Parish House

The annual orthopedic field clinic for disabled crippled children will be conducted at the Trinity parish house next Tuesday and Wednesday, April 29 and 30, under the sponsorship of the crippled children's services of the Minnesota department of public welfare, with the local cooperation of the Thief River Falls Woman's club.

Clinic services are available to anyone under 21 who lives in one of the following counties: Kittson, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake, Roseau and Beltrami (Reservation and Grygla).

Parents bringing children to the clinic for the first time are advised to bring a referral from the family physician, according to Mrs. Fred Monroe, Thief River Falls local chairman. The co-chairman is Mrs. Roy Oen.

Patients will be seen by an orthopedist and a pediatrician, and a report given to the family doctor. If the child needs to be hospitalized or given other special care, the doctor will help in making arrangements.

Manager of Local Theatres Resigns

Chuck Meister Named Manager 59-Hi Drive-in

C. E. "Chuck" Meister, who last fall succeeded Ward Nichols as manager of the Falls and Avalon theatres, this week announced his resignation effective next Thursday, May 1.

Meister has accepted a position as manager of the 59-Hi drive-in theatre, east of the Thief River Falls city limits on Highway 59.

His successor as manager of the Falls and Avalon will be Willard Knockendoffel, who has been manager of the Park Rapids theatre for the Home Theatre company. He has been associated with the firm the past 12 years.

Dr. O. D. Beich last week-end attended the state convention of the Minnesota Optometric association in the Lowry Hotel in St. Paul.

Trinity Lutheran to Re-dedicate Edifice Next Sunday Morning

Trinity Speaker

REV. G. S. THOMPSON

Of Eau Claire, Wisc., former pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, who will be the guest speaker at festival services in the church Sunday, re-dedicating the edifice on which a $25,000 renovation project has just been completed.

Trinity Pastor

THE REV. OTTO DALE

Now in his fourth year as pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, under whose direction the recently completed renovation of the church edifice was carried out.

The congregation of Trinity Lutheran church next Sunday, April 27, will celebrate the completion of a thoro renovation of the church edifice with festival services at 9 a. m., followed by the act of dedication at the second service at 10:30.

Speaking at both services and performing the act of dedication will be the Rev. G. S. Thompson, who preceded the Rev. Otto Dale as pastor of Trinity, and who is now serving the First Lutheran church of Eau Claire, Wisconsin.

Assisting in the services will be three pastors who are former members of the Trinity congregation. They are the Revs. Walter Ekeren of Wells, Minnesota; Dale Larson of Mobridge, S. D.; and Otto Wedul of Tofte, Minnesota. Rev. J. J. Jacobson of Crookston also will take part. Reverend Dale will serve as liturgist.

Other events on the day's program will include a service of prayer and praise at 3 p. m., at which anthems will be sung by the five choirs of the church; and a fellowship hour at 4:30, at which members of the congregation will have an opportunity to visit with the guest pastors.

Work done on the handsome edifice, representing an outlay of $25,000, includes the installation of new chancel furnishings, refinishing the pews and other equipment, redecorating the interior, rebuilding the pipe organ, and making numerous other improvements.

Also to be dedicated is the bulletin board on the church lawn, which was given by the family of the late Kenneth E. Lindberg in his memory.

Gustafsons Are Liquidating Farm Implement Dept.

Firm Will Continue to Own Its Building and Sell Nash-Rambler Cars

C. Dave Gustafson, proprietor of C. Gustafson & Son, pioneer Thief River Falls farm implement and automobile firm, announced today that due to unfavorable local economic conditions in agriculture, the company is liquidating the farm machinery part of its business.

The entire stock of new and used farm equipment and parts is being offered at substantial discounts.

Mr. Gustafson stated, however, that the firm will retain ownership of the building, and will continue the operation of its repair shop as well as retaining the agency for Nash-Rambler cars and certain other lines.

Founded 47 years ago by Mr Gustafson's father, Charles Gustafson, the company has held the local International Harvester Co. franchise for the more than 40 years.

Junker, social studies and coach; G. Edwin Mounger, industrial arts; Curtis J. Tonneson, business education; Miss Ethel Torgerson, mathematics; and Wayne Ulferts, social studies and drivers education.

Plans still are indefinite for Mrs. Mary Tandberg, Newfolden who has been teaching girls' physical education on a part-time basis.

Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Norquist spent Saturday in Wadena and visited with Mrs. Willard Anderson who is a patient at the Wadena Hospital.

County Plans for Centennial Are Advanced

Definite Dates Set for Several Events During the Summer

Plans for the observance of the Minnesota statehood centennial in Pennington county this year were further developed at a meeting of the county committee Tuesday evening in the court house, with Judge Herman A. Kjos, chairman, presiding.

Events definitely scheduled to date, include observances at Goodridge Sunday, June 1, and St. Hilaire Friday, July 4; appearance in Thief River Falls of the statehood centennial train Friday, July 11, and Saturday morning, July 12; and a combined celebration of the completion of the new Eighth st. bridge and Jaycee water carnival August 1, 2 and 3.

Other proposals made at Tuesday's meeting for inclusion in the August 1 and 2 program included a banquet at which long-time residents of the county would be honored, and an old-time dance with music and costumes of pioneer days. Approval of both suggestions was withheld, pending the securing of groups to sponsor the events.

Following a report by Robert J. Lund, chairman of the committee arranging for the appearance here of the centennial train, the meeting went on record as favoring the placing of the train on the Soo Line tracks adjoining the depot, pointing out that this site offers the advantages of ample car-parking space.

Present at the meeting was a delegation from the local Jaycee chapter, including Glenn Peterson, Ormond Johnson, Chuck Meister, John Elsbrener and Stan Gibson. The group outlined the being set up, and told of plans to stage a series of kangaroo court sessions on Friday evenings.

Supt. David M. Brown of Goodridge stated that plans for the celebration in that village July 1 would be outlined at a meeting of the committee Friday evening.

Sportsmen's Club to Stage Fish Fry at Legion Tonight

Smelt lovers in Thief River Falls and surrounding area will have their first chance of the season to indulge in the tasty fish this evening, when the Pennington County Sportsmens club annual smelt fry is held at the local Legion club.

Serving will begin at 6 p.m. and continue until 8, according to club president Robert Larson.

"The smelt are extra nice this year and we guarantee everyone who comes a real he-man sized portion for his or her four bits," Larson said.

A large crowd attended last year's smelt fry, which was judged a tremendous success from every standpoint, and it is hoped last year's attendance can be equalled, if not bettered, tonight.

Regulations Cited for Wheat Growers in County During '58

Public law 85-366 which was approved by the President on April 4, provides that any farmer who plants an acreage of wheat for harvest as grain for 1958 in excess of the farm acreage base will no longer be able to increase future allotments because of such excess planted.

Prior to 1958, any producer who planted in excess of his farm acreage base was credited with a history acreage equal to the actual acreage of wheat for harvest on the farm and, consequently, allotments determined in future years could be increased because of the increase in farm history.

Public Law 85-366 now limits 1958 wheat acreage credit to the farm base acreage for all farms, according to Oscar Houske chairman of the Pennington county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

This law deals with wheat acreage history credit only for 1958, and has no effect whatever on the marketing quota provisions of the Agricultural Act of 1938, as amended. Thus, Houske stated, any producers who have an acreage of wheat for harvest in excess of the farm allotment or 15 acres, whichever is larger, will be subject to a wheat marketing quota penalty based on the marketing excess in bushels multiplied by 45 percent of the May 1 parity price per bushel, which will be announced next month.

Farmers who comply with 1958 allotments will be eligible to receive a marketing card as price support on all 1958 wheat production and will also receive 1958 history credit equal to the farm base acreage.

Big Gathering Attends 1958 Athletic Banquet

Joey Poole Gives Greetings

UND Hockey Coach Was Guest Speaker Wednesday Evening

The well-attended annual athletic and recognition banquet sponsored by the Civic and Commerce, Jaycees, the Lions and the Rotary, honoring the Prowler high school athletes and coaches was held in the St. Bernard's church parlors on Wednesday evening.

Following the invocation by Rev. Keough Patnode, the program was ably handled by Doug Tegtmeier as the master of ceremonies.

Several musical selections by the Lincoln high school saxophone quartet — Wilfred Wa skowski, Sandra Nabben, Susan Forkenbrock, and Bob Purdy — and the Lincoln high school quartet — Wes Christianson, Frank Conklin, Loleil Dyrud and Ronald Moe—were presented and enjoyed by the audience.

Tegtmeier then introduced Joey Poole, the former Prowler all-state hockey player and now a member of the North Dakota varsity squad, to the gathering. Poole, accompanying North Dakota coach Bob May here, gave a few words of greeting to his many friends in attendance at the banquet.

Several athletic coaches from neighboring towns were in attendance, and they responded to introductions by Tegtmeier.

Ralph Skay, the Lincoln high school athletic director, introduced the Prowler coaches—Al Adams, Jack Boyer, Dick Edlund, Joe Mrkonich, Dale Folger, Quentin Jones, Joel McDonald, John Matchefts and Dave Rogers—and the coaches in turn presented and introduced their respective squad members.

Bob May, capable Sioux hockey coach was the evening's featured speaker. May paid tribute to the fine caliber of coaches that comprise the Lincoln high school athletic staff, stating that he had had personal contact with many of the staff members either as a competitor in college athletics or in coaching competition against Prowler teams.

Mr. May was lavish in his praise of Joey Poole, emphasizing that the popular redhead, who will co-captain the Sioux next season along with Bill Steenson, was the "top hockey player on our club".

The point stressed by May in his address to the Prowler athletes, and which he hoped they would carry on through life, was that they "should strive for a goal"; and that in their efforts to reach this goal, the boys should show "desire". According to May, "Desire" is the ingredient without which no athlete can achieve greatness.

The personable Sioux hockey coach, speaking directly to the athletes, reminded the youths that they should observe the training regulations and disciplinary rules established by their coaches. This observance is a modest price to pay for the benefits that is to be derived from athletics. And the lessons that the boys learn through their high school and college athletics will prove invaluable in later life.

The banquet was concluded with the presentation of a plaque of appreciation to Doug Tegtmeier, for his capable manner of broadcasting the Prowler athletic events. Milt Reierson made the award in behalf of the athletic committees of the four service clubs.

The Prowler athletes were presented with pennants as a memento of the banquet.

1,000 Persons Attend 3 Pennington Co. 4-H Play, Music Contests

Over one thousand people witnessed the 4-H play and music performances at the three elimination centers in the county. In the contest held at Thief River Falls on Monday night the Smiley 4-H club won top honors with its play and music entries.

Their play entitled "In Doubt About Daisy" featured a cast of John Konickson, Faye Torkelson, Corrine Torkelson, James Korpstnicki, Carol Rude, and Harlon Rude. Their music number presented were "Dreaming" and "Put on Your Old Gray Bonnet." Taking part were Carol Stenseth, Gloria Philipp, Nancy Newton, Gloria Helgeland, Ivette Torkelson, Carolyn Torkelson and accompanied by Faye Torkelson.

The best actress was Faye Torkelson of the Smiley club, and Milton Leiran of the Silverton club was named as the best actor. The Smiley play was coached by Mrs. Anton Torkelson and Mrs. Olga Konickson.

In the contest held at St. Hilaire, the Rocksbury 4-H club won the top honors with its play, "The Old Grouch," and the St. Hilaire club presented the winning music numbers given by a group of girls. The best actor was Norris Thune; the best actress award went to Bonnie Dicken. Coaching the play were Don Wald, Mrs. Art Dicken and Mrs. Martin Finstad.

In the contest held at Goodridge the Deer Park club won both the top play and music awards. The play given by Deer Park was "Love Him Wilbur", and the cast included Timmy Radniecki and Korydon Cherverstad. The coaches were Mrs. Roman Radniecki, Mrs. C. W. Radniecki and Mrs. Jack Radniecki.

The music number was given by Bonnie Radniecki, Maryann Radniecki, Roxanne Radniecki, Regene Radniecki, Timmy Radniecki, Michael Radniecki, Korydon Cherverstad and Keith Radniecki accompanied by Mrs. Roman Radniecki. Connie Anderson was named best actress and Timmy Radniecki won the top actor recognition.

These plays and music numbers will next be presented at the county contest tonight (Thursday) in the Lincoln high school auditorium. Everyone is invited to witness the performances.

The top play and music numbers will be entered in the sub-district competition at Red Lake Falls on Wednesday, May 14. They will meet there with the winners of West Polk and Red Lake counties.

The contest culminates in the winners at Red Lake Falls going to the Crookston 4-H Club Week on June 4.

Ruby I. Conklin Married To Otto Folkers April 4

In a setting of white callalilies, ferns and lighted candelabra, Miss Ruby Ione Conklin became the bride of Otto Floyd Folkers on Friday evening, April 4 in the Mission Covenant church of St. Hilaire. Pastor Normand Person performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of approximately 200 guests.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Conklin of this city and the groom's father is Otto Folkers of Kenmare, North Dakota.

Mrs. Kenneth Thyren of Moorhead, friend of the bride, presided at the organ for a prelude of nuptial music and the traditional wedding marches. She also accompanied Mrs. Robert [illegible] of St. Hilaire who sang "O Heaven's Grace", "That [illegible] Mine" and "Thank God He Gave Me You."

Frank Conklin, brother of the bride, sang "The Wedding Prayer" as the couple knelt at the altar. Serving as candle lighters were Ruth and Thelma Conklin, sisters of the bride. They wore identical ballerina formals of embroidered white dotted swiss.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a floor length gown of satin fashioned with layers of illusion net and hand embroidered lace appliques. The fitted bodice featured a portrait neckline with tiny buttons extending down the back and short sleeves made of lace applique. The full bouffant skirt extended into a chapel train and she wore a fingertip veil, held in place by a crown of sequins and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses centered with a white callalily and her only jewelry was a pair of pearl earrings, a gift from the groom.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was her sister, Mrs. Earle Gustafson of St. Hilaire. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Lester [illegible] of Fargo, sister of the bride and Miss Evelyn Folkers of Minot, North Dakota, sister of the groom. Their identical dresses were of yellow nylon and net fashioned with fitted bodices, short sleeves and a slight scoop neckline cut in V's in the back. The bouffant skirts fell to waltz length. They carried white Bibles topped with callalilies and white lace streamers. The Bibles were gifts from the bride.

Serving as flower girl was Holly Narverud of Mankato, Minn., cousin of the bride. She wore a street length dress of light green fashioned similar to the attendants. Her miniature bouquet was identical to the bride's and her pearl bracelet was a gift from the bride.

The groom was attended by Frank Conklin, brother of the bride, as bestman. Groomsmen were Lawrence Helmers of Carpio, N. Dak., cousin of the groom and Bernard Whitman of Norma, North Dakota, a friend. They all wore white dinner jackets and black trousers. Serving as ushers were Eldon Burstad of Red Lake Falls and Kenneth Goetsch of Madison, Minn.

Gary Gene Gustafson of St. Hilaire, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer. He was dressed identical to the attendants and carried the rings on a lace edged white satin pillow.

Mrs. Conklin, mother of the bride, chose an aqua dress with navy blue accessories for her daughter's wedding. Her corsage was of yellow roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was given by the bride's parents in the church parlors. Acting as hostess was Mrs. Harry Sjulson of St. Hilaire and the Ladies Aid served.

The serving table was centered with a four-tiered square wedding cake which was baked and decorated by Mrs. Jerome Larson of Minneapolis. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Ida Burstad, aunt of the bride, Mrs. Emil Goetsch of Madison, Minn., aunt of the groom, and Mrs. Richard Riel of Red Lake Falls, cousin of the bride. Miss Marlene Torkelson of this city and Miss Marion Helmers of Donnybrook, North Dakota, poured. Serving as waitresses were Misses Janice Rood, Althea Burstad, Carol Grendahl, and Nora Rita Davies.

In charge of the guest book was Miss Elaine Folkers of Kenmare, sister of the groom, and the gifts were arranged by Mrs. Gene Leslie, Mrs. Lynn Hanson, Mrs. Dake Ayers and Mrs. James Berg. Mrs. Paul Johnson of Ada and Mrs. Goodwin Kvasager of Plummer presided at the punch table.

For their honeymoon to Minneapolis and North Dakota the bride chose a gray tweed suit with pink accessories. She wore her mother's corsage of yellow roses.

Mrs. Folkers is a 1953 graduate of Lincoln high school and is presently employed by the Thief River Falls Times. Mr. Folkers is a 1953 graduate of Kenmare high school and is employed by Gulbranson Funeral Home in this city.

Out of town guests were from Fargo, Newfolden, Minot, Madison, Devils Lake, Norma, Donnybrook, Leonard, N. Dak., Red Lake Falls, Plummer, Minneapolis and this city.

Miss Marcia Louise Lemieux, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Lemieux of Plummer and Douglas A. Grace, son of Mr. Lyle Grace of Waterloo, Iowa, were united in marriage Friday evening, March 28 at the Church of the Roses in San Diego, Calif. The double ring ceremony was performed at 6:30 p.m. before an altar graced with bouquets of white flowers and lighted candelabra.

Given in marriage by her brother, Jackie Lemieux, the bride was attired in a ballerina length gown of white nylon net over taffeta. She carried a bouquet of red roses and carnations.

Their only attendants were Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Sheldon, brother-in-law and sister of the bride. Mrs. Sheldon wore a ballerina length gown of white lace over taffeta. Her corsage was of red roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Sheldon home for 50 friends and relatives. The bridal table was centered with a three tiered wedding cake. Colored movie pictures were taken during the wedding and reception for the bride's parents who were unable to attend.

Mrs. Grace is a graduate of Pershing high school in Plummer and is presently employed by the San Diego police department. Mr. Grace graduated from the Great Falls high school in Great Falls, Montana and is now stationed with the United States Navy. Mr. and Mrs. Lemieux are now at home at 1841 Polk Ave., San Diego, Calif.

Out of town guests were Jackie Lemieux and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Hohles of Fresno, Calif.

W. C. T. U. News Notes

The Womans Christian Temperance Union met on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Edrie Ripley, with Mrs. Joe Stenberg and Mrs. R. B. Westacott as assisting hostesses.

There was a very good attendance with real enthusiasm for the projects recently started as well as those carried on for a number of years. Mrs. R. B. Westacott, presided in the absence of Mrs. E. B. Conklin, local president.

Committees reported on the Iota Sigma, a group of young women which it is hoped will organize soon, Mrs. Peet reported on the radio work and finances. Rev. E. C. Meade gave a report on the Gillette Razor Co., changing type of program. Another announcement of great importance was that The Siler Bill, outlawing advertizing of alcoholic beverages on the air was to be before the House of Representatives April 22nd and all members present wrote cards to urge its passage.

Mrs. Peet, district president gave an outline of the district convention to be held May 13 in the Mission Covenant church in Crookston at 10 a.m.

Mrs. Torkel Ose read a letter from the Rev. Sand family, missionaries in Africa. She thanked the group for the cake mixes, jello, powdered milk and other much treasured articles which made up the package.

Mrs. Peet told the group that the films "It's the Brain that Counts" and "Food for Thought", two temperance films were being shown in all local city schools this week. They had also been shown in Warren and Alvarado.

There will be a silver speech contest at district convention and anyone over 12 years old may enter. Contact Mrs. R. B. Westacott soon. Mrs. Westacott was named chairman of the district nominating committee, with Mrs. Albert Lundeen of Stephen and Mrs. Berdeen Holt of Fosston. A ten minute session of prayer was held for the Youth Work as this is Youth Temperance Education Week as set forth by a proclamation by Governor Freeman.

Rev. Mead closed with the Benediction.

St. John's Host to Lutheran Layment Sunday, April 27

Ladies Aid Will Serve Banquet in Evening

The spring rally of the Red River Valley Zone of the Lutheran Laymen's League will be held in St. John's Lutheran church in Thief River Falls Sunday, April 27, beginning at 3:30 p.m. Harold Ross of Crookston, zone president, will be in charge of the business meeting, which will include hearing of reports on various projects of the league such as the Lutheran Hour, the placement service, seminars, the laymen's retreat, Valparaiso University, and others. Officers will be elected for the next term.

A six o'clock banquet will be served by St. John's ladies aid. The principal speaker will be Prof. Robert Koehler of Concordia College, St. Paul, who will speak on the school's recruitment program, supported by the laymen's league. At the close the newly elected officers will be installed by the Rev. E. Bentrup of Fisher, pastoral counselor of the zone, and closing will be conducted by the Rev. A. C. Seltz, pastor of St. John's church.

Rotarians Hear Patrol Officer

Sgt. Tom Scanlon Praises Local Driving Practices

Sgt. Tom Scanlon of the Minnesota highway patrol spoke on traffic safety at the regular noon luncheon of the Rotary club Monday and provided a program that was both educational and entertaining.

He pointed out that the patrol is now enlarged to the extent that makes possible the stationing of at least one officer in each county seat and that the highways are now being patrolled more thoroughly than before. The Thief River Falls district has an excellent record of compliance with safe driving practices, he said.

The effectiveness of the patrol during periods of extra heavy traffic will be extended by the use of National Guard personnel again this year. By providing officers with a Guard escort the patrol has been able to greatly extend its activities, he stated.

He cautioned club members about the need for strict compliance with posted speed limits in "absolute" zones. A "trafficorder" timing device, producing automatically a speed chart that is admissible in court, is now being used in the area with good results. He stated that spot checks on lights and brakes will be conducted shortly and urged drivers to have their cars checked regularly for mechanical defects.

State Seeks Bids on Grading No. 59 Newfolden North

Bids will be received by the Minnesota Highway department on May 9 in St. Paul on trunk highway improvements expected to cost over $4,000,000. The 20 projects, located in 13 counties, include four bridges, traffic control signal systems, and more than 86 miles of trunk highway improvements.

The projects, by county and trunk highway, include:

Beltrami County, T.H. 72—Grading, gravel subbase and road-mixed bituminous base of 4.9 miles southerly from Waskish.

Marshall County, T.H. 59—Grading and gravel surfacing of 11.8 miles between a point three-fourths mile northwest of Strandquist and Newfolden.

Norman County, T.H.s. 31 & 32—Plant mixed bituminous surfacing and gravel shoulders of 15.3 miles between Ada and Jct. T.H. 32 and between Twin Valley and north Jct. T.H.s. 31 and 32.

Kittson Legislator Addresses Knox PTA on Higher Education

"Problems of Higher Education in Minnesota" was the subject of an address to the Knox PTA at its meeting Monday by state Rep. Odin Langen of Kennedy.

Langen, who is a member of the legislative interim committee on education said that the shortcomings of space and other facilities in the elementary and secondary schools are now being felt in the institutions of higher learning in the state.

An estimate, which he said he believed to be quite accurate, is that the figure now enrolled in state institutions of higher education will double in the next 12 years.

The interim committee, he said, is set up to study the problem. It is still in the study phase of the problem, and is not ready to make recommendations.

The problem simplified, said Langen, is, what avenues shall the state take to meet the educational requirements of the future?

Among the various possibilities under exploration are the following:

(1) Expand the university to meet the need.

(2) Let the university take over the teachers colleges, putting them all under one head so as to provided educational needs at less cost and with better coordination. There are many strong objections to this plan.

(3) Expand the teachers colleges, also strongly objected to.

(4) Since distance is a barrier, set up junior colleges which would provide equal opportunity in all areas of the state.

Langen stated that whatever solution is finally chosen it should provide equal opportunity to young people in all parts of the state, provide the highest possible standards of education, and provide the highest production of graduates possible.

The whole problem is largely unresolved, despite the various solutions proposed. A separate committee has been set up to study the junior college question, with the state of California main object of study.

Another problem facing all state schools is that of depletion of funds. No matter what solution of the problem under study is decided upon, all schools will be competing for available funds.

Following his address, Representative Langen answered questions form the audience, demonstrating a thorough knowledge of the situation.

Prior to Langen's address, officers were elected to serve during the 1958-59 term including Dr. Dan Greene, president; Gordon Ballingrud, vice president; Mrs. Tom Fuller, secretary and Mrs. Art Stordahl, treasurer.

Following the meeting lunch was served by the Knox kindergarten mothers.

Robert Joringdal Rites Held Monday

Air Force Veteran Died Suddenly Last Friday

Funeral services for Robert Joringdal were conducted Monday, April 21 at Zion Lutheran church with Rev. W. M. Pedersen officiating. Interment was made in the Greenwood cemetery. Mr. Joringdal passed away suddenly Friday, April 18 at the age of 26 years. He was the son of Mrs. Myrtle Joringdal of this city and the late Richard Joringdal.

Robert Joringdal was born December 23, 1931 in this city where he was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran faith and grew to manhood. He graduated from Lincoln high school in 1940 after which he served one year with Co. F of the National Guard, and January 10, 1951 he enlisted in the United States Air Force.

He received his basic training at Lakeland Air Force Base in Texas after which he was transferred to Lowry Air Force Base in Denver, Colorado where he attended camera repair school.

He was then transferred to Mt. Home Air Force Base in Mt. Home, Idaho, and then to the Phillipines where he was assigned to the 6200th maintance squadron, Clark Air Force Base, north of Manila where he was stationed 20 months.

On April 15, 1954 he returned to the United States and was stationed at Lake Charles Base in La. with the 68th Bomb Wing and later sent to England where he served with the Strategic Air Command for six months. He returned to the United States and was discharged January 9, 1955.

Following his discharge he was employed in Dallas, Texas by International Harvester Co. in the accounting department. He was presently enrolled as a junior at the University of North Dakota in the school of business education. He was a member of the U of N. D. Veterans Club, Lutherans Students Ass'n. (A Christian Fellowship) and the Madrigal Club.

Survivors include his mother; one brother, Jerry; and his grandmother, Mrs. Anna Mallum of Seattle, Wash. He is also survived by three aunts and ten uncles.

Services Today for Victor F. Robarge, Retired Engineer

Died Sunday at Age of 72; Had Been Employed by Soo Line for 51 Years

Funeral services for Victor F. Robarge, retired Soo Line locomotive engineer and a resident of this city for 44 years, will be conducted today (Thursday) at 2:00 p.m. in the Community Methodist church, with Rev. E. C. Mead officiating. Interment will be made in the Greenwood cemetery. Mr. Robarge passed away Sunday, April 20 at the age of 72 years.

Mr. Robarge was born September 16, 1885 in Buffalo, Minn. where he attended rural school and grew to manhood. He remained on the farm until 1905.

On May 6, 1907, he was united in marriage to Anna Nelson at Fargo, North Dakota and in 1914 they moved to this city where he made his home until the time of death.

He was employed by the Soo Line Railroad for 51 years including 46 years as locomotive engineer. He retired in 1955. He was a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Odd Fellows Lodge and of the Community Methodist church. He also served as president of the local Soo Line Veterans association for the past two years.

Survivors include his wife, Anna; three daughters, Mrs. Julian Lendobeja of this city; Mrs. Ralph Galbraith of Grygla and Mrs. Lionel Brattland of Minneapolis; two sons, Robert of this city, and John of Tacoma, Wash.; three sisters, Mrs. Frank Violet of Buffalo, Minn.; Mrs. Addie Berthiaume of Superior, Wis.; and Mrs. Edmer Robarge of Everett, Wash.; and eight grandchildren. He was preceded in death by one sister and two brothers.

Dystrophy Victim Dies in Accident

Palmer Dubrosky, a wheel chair victim of muscular dystrophy, died in a Willmar hospital April 8 from internal injuries suffered when his parents' car turned over near Dawson, Minn. after blowing a tire.

His mother, Mrs. Laverne Dubrosky of Willmar, and three younger brothers and sisters suffered less serious injuries. He was a grandson of Palmer Voldness, formerly of this city and now of Montana.

Plan to Dedicate St. John's June 15

Formal Dedication of Handsome Edifice Set

The day for the formal public dedication of the new St. John's Lutheran church has been set by the congregation to be June 15. Divine services will be held that day at 10:30 a.m. and at 3:00 p.m. Various special events will be scheduled at the church also during the week following dedication Sunday.

St. John's building committee was appointed to be the dedication committee and consists of Elmer Anderson, Chris Anton, Bruno Beiswenger, George Busse, chairman; Fred Koop, Walter Monroe, secretary; and the Rev. A. C. Seitz, pastor.

Preparation of a dedication booklet and development of further plans for the dedication is now under way. The new church has been in use for worship since February 2, but details of construction, especially in the basement, have still been going on since that day.

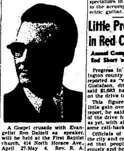
Evangelist Dalzell at Baptist Church Starting Sunday

Ron Dalzell to Conduct Gospel Crusade Due to Continue Thru May 4th



A Gospel crusade with Evangelist Ron Dalzell as speaker, will be held at the First Baptist church, 414 North Horace Ave., April 27-May 4, Rev. R. A. Dahlquist, pastor, stated today. Services continue nightly at 7:45.

Rev. Floyd Dalzell and Ron Dalzell together conduct the Message of Life radio program each Sunday morning. The broadcast is carried by KFGO, Fargo at 7:30 A.M.; KSJB, Jamestown at 8:55 A.M. and KCJB, Minot at 9:05 A.M.

Ron Dalzell began travelling with his father when just a boy and sang with his sister Ruth. At the age of 18 he began preaching and has spent many years in evangelistic and pastoral work.

Evangelist Dalzell uses many striking and unusual texts with timely illustrations. He also specializes in Gospel songs sung to the accompaniment of the electric guitar.

Little Progress in Red Cross Drive

Annual Campaign Nears End Short of Its Goal

Progress in the current Pennington county Red Cross drive is reported as "very slow" by L. J. Gustafson, drive treasurer, who said $1,683 has been turned in on the drive to date.

This figure represents very little gain over the last pervious report, he said. No single phase of the drive has been completed as yet, with all solicitors having some call-backs to make.

Officials of the drive, both in the city and county areas, pleaded that people contribute generously and be ready for the Red Cross drive worker when he or she calls.

The drive heads also urged that, because of the late start and slow progress shown to date, workers should make all call-backs as quickly as possible in order to bring the drive to an end in the near future.

Union State Bank to Share in Award of Scholarships

Affiliates of Northwest Bancorporation Join in Offering Merit Awards

The Union State bank in cooperation with other affiliates of Northwest Bancorporation, is sponsoring a merit scholarship program designed to provide two four-year scholarships to highly qualified students in the midwest, it was announced today.

E. O. Peterson, president of the bank, said the program is aimed at locating the exceptional student and helping him finance his college education.

Funds supplied by the Bancorporation and its affiliates are administered by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation, a non-profit organization which assists business and other donors in the selection of scholars, determination of stipends, and distribution of funds.

Scholars are selected on the basis of academic and personal merit, not on financial need, the stipends ranging from $100 to $1,500. The scholarship qualifying test will be given by area high schools on April 29.

Northwest Bancorporation merit scholarships will be available to qualified students interested in a career in business who live in Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Iowa, Nebraska, Montana and Wisconsin.

Drunken Driver Is Given 30-day Term

Youth Sentenced to Serve 60 Days, with 30 Suspended

Only two cases were heard in a special session of municipal court Tuesday, held before Special Judge Stanley Mortenson in the absence of Judge H. O. Chommie this week.

The main case was that of Donald J. Klopp, city, charged with driving under the influence of liquor. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 60 days in jail, 30 suspended on condition.

On a second charge of driving after revocation of license, he was also sentenced to 30 days in jail, to be served concurrently with the other 30 days.

Klopp is the youth who jumped the curb onto the safety island on E. Third st. last Thursday evening, destroying several evergreen trees in the process driving two blocks on the safety island before returning to the street. He was arrested early last Friday morning by Sheriff Charles Richards.

The only other case heard was brought by the highway patrol. Donald W. Larson, city, pleaded guilty to a speeding charge and was fined $15 plus $4 costs.

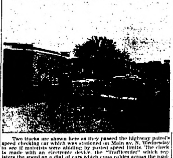
Check Speeds on North Main



Two trucks are shown here as they passed the highway patrol's speed checking car which was stationed on Main av. N. Wednesday to see if motorists were abiding by posted speed limits. The check is made with an electronic device, the "Trafficorder" which registers the speed on a dial of cars which cross cables across the roadway. Captain Walter Anderson said today that local drivers passed the check with flying colors. Only six warnings were issued out of 655 drivers checked, both at the Main av. North location and south on highway 32. One arrest was made due to an expired drivers license, Anderson stated.

He Operates Speed Recorder

Obert Lillo, patrolman from the Roseau area is shown here as he monitors the Trafficorder, an electronic speed recorder which shows the speed of cars which pass over cables across the road. The recorder also keeps a graph record which enables the patrol to prove in court, if necessary, that a driver accused of speeding was actually doing so. Captain Walter Anderson said the device will be used near small communities at first, later on open highways in his district. This is the only speed device in the district but later, Anderson said, aircraft will also be used to control speed of traffic.

31 Teachers Study Government Here

Orville Jensen Serves as Instructor of Group

Bemidji State college is currently offering a course in Minnesota state and social government in Thief River Falls under the instruction of Orville Jensen.

The class has currently been receiving first hand information about government at the state and local level from public officials. Those who have appeared to explain the duties of their office are Senator Roy Wiseth, Representative Ben Wichterman, Mayor O. D. Beich and County Commissioner Don L. Olson.

County Auditor C. W. Bedeku[illegible] led a tour of the court house and explained the functions of the various offices. Several county officials were present at the time and explained their offices in detail.

Thirty one teachers from Pennington, Marshall and Red Lake counties are enrolled in the class.

Farm Safety Week Slated for July

Annual Observance Aims to Reduce Farm Mishaps

"When you work for safety—safety works for you."

That's the theme of the 15th annual National Farm Safety Week, which will be observed July 20-26. It is co-sponsored by the National Safety Council and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Purpose of the special week, which has been proclaimed by President Eisenhower, is to prevent accidents to farm families—in the home, in the field and on the highway.

Accidents to farm residents take nearly 13,000 lives and injure more than a million persons annually. Farming has more deaths each year than any other major industry.

Many organizations concerned with agriculture and farm life will take part in the campaign.

"The National Safety Council urges everyone with an interest in the welfare of farm residents to participate in National Farm Safety Week, and to promote accident prevention the year 'round," it said.

Stock Car Racing to Start Here Shortly

If weather conditions remain favorable it is expected that the 1958 stock car racing season will begin on the speedway west of town in a couple of weeks. That was the announcement this week by Bud Mercier, who is the supervisor of the racing program for the local association.

The speedway, which will be in its second season of operation, is located three miles west of town, and just south of highway No. 1.

Mercier stated that a "face lifting" program has been progress at the speedway for the past several weeks, with a crew of men employed to re-surface and re-grade the track. The bleachers have been improved, and the concession facilities have been expanded.

With the opening of the racing season, Mercier said, the association will conduct a racing program at the speedway every Sunday afternoon. These Sunday programs will be arranged on a five-event basis—time trials, heat competition, trophy races, consolation event, and main feature.

The admission prices this year, with a slight reduction in force, will be ninety cents for adults, fifty cents for students, and children admitted free.

Soo Line Bowlers Win Women's Title

Pharmacy Team Places 2d in Nite Hawk League

The Women's Nite Hawk league concluded their 1957-58 schedule of bowling on Wednesday evening, and the Soo Line team, captained by Kek Lee, won the championship, posting a season's mark of 56 wins and 28 losses.

The schedule-windup found three teams, The Pharmacy, the Land O' Lakes, and Mostue's Floral deadlocked for second place, with the teams having marks of fifty-four wins and thirty losses. A playoff was required to determine the second place winner.

In first round playoff games, Mostue's Floral, by scores of 690-701-855 defeated the Land O' Lakes, two games to one. The Pharmacy, rolling scores of 601-700-843, defeated Mostue's Floral, two games to one; and in a match against the Land O' Lakes the Pharmacy, with games of 712-810-680, defeated the Land O' Lakes, two games to one to win second place in the league standings.

Thieves Schedule Practice Tilt for Next Sunday, 2:30

Frank Gunderman, the playing manager of the senior baseball Thieves, announced that an informal practice game will be played on the Fair Grounds diamond on Sunday afternoon, with game time at 2:30 p.m., against the Carpenter's Corner team.

Carpenter's, which has been a member of the Pennington County league the past several seasons, has joined the Red River Valley loop this season.

Gunderman states that no admission will be charged for Sunday's tilt, and that all baseball fans will be welcome to attend the game.

Police Find Cache of Stolen Items

Wine, Liquor, Cigarets Found under Building

An alert local mother, whose young son brought a carton of cigarettes home as he returned from Sunday school Sunday, gave local law officials a tip that resulted in their finding a large amount of liquor, wine, cigarettes, cigars and other items hidden under a building near the Soo Line tracks.

The strange part of the whole affair, according to Police Chief Elton Cummings, is that no break-in in which such goods have been taken had been reported to the police or sheriff.

Four young boys caught near the loot told officers they had merely found it and had made use of some of the peanuts, pretzels and potato chips included in the loot. Some wine and cigarettes the boys had taken home was returned to the original lot. None of the boys are being held in connection with the case.

One minor accident was reported to police Tuesday but it was not investigated and no damage estimate nor details was available.

The only activity reported by Sheriff Charles Richards this week was the return of two runaway teen-age girls to Thief River Falls Wednesday. They had been reported missing Tuesday, and were located at Grand Rapids, where they were picked up by the sheriff's office and held for Richards.

Newfolden Does Well in District Vocal Music Event

Newfolden high school musicians won their full-share of No. 1 ratings at the District vocal music festival held at Karlstad last Saturday. Those receiving No. 1 or 1- ratings will compete in the state area music contest and festival May 2 and 3 in Thief River Falls.

The 45-voice girls' chorus won a No. 1 rating, as did the girls' sextet and soloists Karen Carlson, Zoe Ann Dill and Donald Engelsrud.

Grades of 1- were given the boys' octet and soloist Janice Olson. Ratings of 2-plus were won by the mixed chorus and soloist Elvida Sollum.

Prowler Ball Club to Open Season Friday

Coach Ralph Skay's baseball Prowlers will open their 1958 campaign on Friday afternoon, April 25th, when, in a game called for 7:00 p.m., they meet coach Curly Gasperlin's Goodridge Huskies on the Goodridge diamond.

Friday afternoon's tilt is the opener of a sixteen-game schedule for the Prowlers, and fifteen of those games will be crammed into the month of May. The first home game on the slate will find the local entertaining the Warren Ponies here in a night game on Monday, May 12th.

The tentative starting lineup for the schedule-opening game on Friday afternoon will find Dean Bergland at first base; Jerry Jorgenson at second base; Phil Hanson at shortstop; and Mickey Hanson at third base. The outfield will find either Mike Poole or Paul Saurdiff in left field, Tony Wald in center-field, and Gene Wackworth or Arlan Hjelle in right field. Jimmy Wegge will be the catcher, with righthander Harlie Drees getting the pitching assignment.

According to coach Skay, the Prowler pitching on Friday will be shared by several of the local hurlers, with Hjelle and Mickey Hanson being slated for pitching duties.

The Prowlers have won the 31st district baseball championship for the past five seasons, and they have hopes of continuing that streak this year.

Soo Line Womens' Bowling Team Awarded Trophies

This is the winning Soo Line team in the city womens' bowling league, with the trophies which were awarded Wednesday night at the annual league banquet held at the Legion club. Shown lft to right, are Teen Berg, Tresa Noel, Orpha Ryan, Laura Poppenhagen, and Keck Lee. One team member, Addie Overson, was absent when the picture was taken.

High Singles Winners Honored

High single game award winners were honored at the annual womens bowling league banquet held Wednesday evening at the Legion club. Shown here with their trophies are Teen Berg and Verona Pream. Addie Overson, the other high singles winner, was absent.

Highest Scorer

Tresa Noel compiled the winning high league average during the past bowling season in the women's league and is shown here with the trophy she earned. She is a member of the winning Soo Line team.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

The Opener

On Friday afternoon, on the Goodridge diamond and against the Goodridge Huskies, the baseball Prowlers of coach Ralph Skay will open their 1958 schedule. It is the opener of a season which the locals hope will conclude on June 5th with the winning of another 31st district championship. If that happy event should occur it would make the sixth year in a row that the Prowlers have won the district title.

But judging by the reports that are trickling in from the baseball camps in the district, the Prowlers will have a difficult task in defending their title this season. It just about a fifty-fifty chance for the Prowlers, and that's all the odds that the locals ask.

In the five years that coach Skay has been at the helm of Prowler baseball, starting with the 1952-53 season, the Prowlers have notched up sixty-eight victories and absorbed but seventeen losses. That's a mark to which local high school baseball fans can point to with pride. And they do.

In addition to the five district titles, the Prowlers, in 1955, won the regional championship, and, in the state tournament, they won consolation honors.

A look at the schedule reveals that a number of interesting and entertaining games are billed for the Fair Grounds diamond. Perhaps the highlight game, as it was last season, will be the tilt here on May 21st when coach Chuck Johnson brings his powerful Fertile Falcons here for a night game. We can assure you that this game will be a "must".

The Prowlers won't be moving into the opener on Friday untested, for the squad has engaged in a pair of informal tilts, playing Goodridge here and Red Lake Falls there. A highlight of the game against the Eagles at Red Lake Falls on Tuesday afternoon was first baseman Dean Bergland's homerun smash over the left field fence. Tony Wald banged out a triple, and Harlie Drees aided the Prowlers cause with a double.

At Long Last

At long last and finally, a team has succeeded in shoving the Pharmacy team off of the top rung in the Women's Nite Hawk bowling league. And we are happy to report that the league championship for the the 1957-58 season was won by the Soo Line team.

If recall rightly, and we surely do, we have been boosting the Soo Line for a championship for the past couple of years. This season we kept mum, for reasons of strategy, and the strategy paid off.

Let us list the roster of this Soo Line team so that we can pay proper homage to the gals who finally toppled Bess Lang's ever-winning Pharmacy club—Kek Lee, captain, Orpha Ryan, Teen Berg, Addie Oveson, Laura Poppenhagen, and Tresa Noel.

But the Pharmacy didn't give up the title without a struggle, for they finished the season in a three-way tie for second place, being knotted with the Land O'-Lakes and Mostue's Floral. And in a playoff, the Pharmacy won second place.

The Bridge Fund

One of the projects that will be given top priority in the regime of golf club president Russ Embury is the establishment of a "bridge fund" for a span across the Thief river. According to present plans, and they are in the blue-print stage, this span will cross the river at the 5th hole.

The great advantage of this bridge would be that it would ease the congestion at the 1st tee on tournament dates or holidays, or whenever there is a heavy turnout of golfers on the course. A number of golfers could begin their rounds of golf playing off the 6th tee.

To give this bridge fund a proper send-off, Plummer's Lars Haga, a newcomer to golf and whose sprightly gait around the course belies his sixty-seven years, has pledged fifty dollars to the fund.

And speaking of golf. That was a fine crowd of divot-diggers that played the course on Sunday. One of the best opening-day turnouts we have witnessed. And there were no drownings.

Miscellany

Duane Sundby, who coached the Crookston Pirates to an undefeated season last year, has resigned his position at the Pirate school to accept the football coaching job at Brainerd high school. Last season's Crookston Pirate gridders, under Sundby's coaching, were an inspired group of football players. We hear that the Brainerd football coaching list of candidates had been reduced to two, Sundby and Herb Claffy of Milaca.—While we aren't able to put our eighteen-foot cedar-strip boat into competition with the fiber glass boats as the city's finest watercraft; we do claim that after the application of four coats of spar varnish, we have the shiniest pair of oars.—Stan Nelson can put in a valid claim for being the city's early-bird lake trout fisherman. Stan was up into Canada last week, fishing Pipestone lake for trout. He reported a successful trip.—Lowell Larson, who turned in a creditable job as coach of the Roseau Rams football team this past season, has signed a contract to coach and teach at Crookston. He will succeed Sundby as grid coach of the Pirates.

M-SGT. G. THORSON ON ARMY RIFLE TEAM

The U. S. Army Rifle Team opened the 1958 season of competitive marksmanship style by successfully capturing both the team and individual championships shot in the Arizona and Arkansas State Rifle Matches. M-Sgt. George Thorson of Thief River Falls, paced his four-man Army team in taking the Arizona state rifle team championship title.

During 1957, there were 1,300 fewer highway traffic fatalities than in the previous year.

Expect little and you will spare yourself disappointments.

Highway Employes Honored for Safety Records on Thursday

Employees of the fifth maintenance district of the Minnesota highway department will be presented with department and National Safety Council "Safe Driving" awards at the annual safety meetings to be held next Thursday, May 1, at 1:30 p.m. in Crookston.

Department awards will be presented to all employees who have operated motorized equipment or motor vehicles throughout 1957 without a preventable accident. In addition, those drivers who devoted more than half of their working time to the operation of motorized equipment and had no accidents during the year will receive National Safety Council awards for their contributions to safety.

This is the 27th year motor vehicle safety awards have been presented to highway department employes. Many of the men will receive awards showing they have driven that entire period without an accident with state-owned equipment.

Special awards will be made to two district headquarters on Thursday. District six with headquarters in Detroit Lakes will receive a bronze plaque in recognition of first place in the state-wide motor vehicle safety contest. Its 77 employees came through 1957 without a single preventable motor vehicle accident. Willmar and St. Cloud also had perfect records. This is the second consecutive year the award has gone to Detroit Lakes for a perfect record.

WILDLIFE in Minnesota

by JIM KIMBALL
DIRECTOR OF GAME & FISH

What is so rare as a day in June? A muskie egg in April! States and provinces frequently buy and sell various species of game and fish. They also exchange turkeys for antelope, walleye eggs for catfish, or pheasants for quail. This is a fine thing because each state acquires some breeding stock in a trade for some species it has in abundance. So the game departments swap, trade and barter almost everything—everything, that is, except muskie eggs. We even offered to live-trap some of our fisher to swap for muskie eggs. The fisher is staging a good comeback in Minnesota and is an animal much coveted by other states, but even the fisher could not buy muskie eggs.

So we proceed with our tedious and expensive process of building up our own muskie brood stock.

Only one lake in Minnesota has enough catchable muskies to make spawn-taking possible. This is little, isolated Shoepack lake on the Kabetogama peninsula near the Canadian border, and miles from the nearest road.

Each spring, as soon as the ice is out, a State crew flies in and starts catching muskies and stripping them of eggs and milt. One of the warden service planes shuttles between the Lake and Kabetogama landing as the eggs are taken. From there they are rushed to the Park Rapids hatchery.

Even under the best conditions muskie eggs are hard to get. These fish do not run up the streams like northerns, or concentrate like walleyes. They spawn in the lake and to catch them you must first find them. Their eggs ripen slowly and can be taken only a few at a time. The Shoepack Lake muskies, for some reason, never get very old or large, and therefore, do not produce eggs in great quantity. This is why we do well to end up with a total of eight quarts of eggs for our spring work.

In spite of all this, we are determined that Minnesota shall have muskies and a solution appears to be near at hand.

Most of the muskies hatched and reared to date have been stocked in Spider lake near Grand Rapids. Now don't pack up your fishing gear and head for Spider lake because it is closed to muskie fishing. Of course, the plan has been to create a supply of brood stock in Spider lake which will give us another source of eggs.

This is something of a gamble because anything can happen to the fish in one lake, but it appears to be working. In fact, we hope to be taking some eggs from Spider Lake muskies for the first time this year.

Now why should a game and fish administrator be so determined to provide muskie fishing for the people he serves and tries to keep happy? You can get the answer by asking, "How's fishin'?" of a few home-ward-bound anglers. The crappie fisherman says, "Well, I got my limit but some aren't very large." The man after walleyes says, "Oh, we filled up but we sure had to work for 'em". But the fella who drove 700 miles for muskies says, "Fishin' was great. We only fished three days, and we 'raised' two fish. Some day I'm gonna hook one of them muskies".

Bridge Bids to Be Opened May 13th in Clearwater Co.

The Minnesota Highway department is calling for bids on an estimated million dollars worth of county road jobs. The 13 projects include two bridges in Clearwater county and more than 53 miles of road improvements in Big Stone, Mahnomen, Otter Tail, St. Louis and Stearns counties. The work will be paid with matched county and federal aid secondary road funds. The bids will be received May 12-14 at the respective county seats.

The projects include: Clearwater County, CSAH 7—Bridge No. 7224, widen 16x18 foot beam span to 24 foot roadway, over Lost River, 1.7 miles south of Gonvick. CSAH 7—Bridge No. 7225, widen 16x18 foot beam span to 24 foot roadway, over Lost River, one-half mile south of Gonvick. Bids to be received May 13 at Bagley by County Auditor Geo. D. Allen.

Regular Eye Tests Advocated for All Drivers of Cars

The American Medical Association recently reported that a driver needs regular eye examinations. The association warned drivers that they should see an eye doctor at once if they notice any change in their vision.

The group suggested that properly fitted sun glasses may reduce eye strain, but they should not be worn after dark. The Medical Association also pointed out that hay fever or the common cold can blur the vision dangerously.

To avoid tiring the eyes, night driving should be avoided if possible. This applies especially to persons over 65. The doctors warned that in older persons reflexes and coordination tend to be slower, resistance to glare is lessened and the ability to see at night is declining. The report recommends that older drivers should try to schedule their trips during non rush hours and should not spend long periods at the wheel.

"As to the position that 'the people always mean well;' that they always mean to say and do what they believe to be right and just—it may be popular, but it can not be true. The word 'people' applies to all the individual inhabitants of a country—. That portion of them who individually mean well never was, nor until the millennium will be, considerable. Study Needed—Not Speed

President Eisenhower has been prodding Congress to act swiftly on a proposal for an extension of unemployment insurance benefits as a means of easing recession hardships. This is one proposal upon which we think hasty action would be a mistake. There are other ways in which the needy can be provided for and what is referred to as unemplyment insurance has already become too much of a public relief program. Before it is further liberalized there should be a careful study of its present shortcomings.

Unemployment compensation insurance has much to recommend it. The many millions of dollars that have been distributed to the unemployed in recent months have no doubt done much to cushion the shock of the recession. Like most other kinds of insurance, this program is intended to pay off in the time of need, which it does.

This program is particularly popular because of the mistaken notion that the benefits are provided without cost to the public. The reserves from which benefits are being paid have been built up by a payroll tax which is paid by employers. Employees make no direct contribution.

But like most other taxes on business, this one becomes just one more expense item which must necessarily be passed along to the buyer of goods or services. The employer is merely the agency through which the tax is collected. The public pays the bill.

This federal program is administered by the states, and each state writes its own rules. Some states are more liberal than others. In Minnesota the rules under which the benefits are distributed are especially liberal in some respects. One of the notable shortcomings of the program is the lack of uniformity among the states in the rules under which it is administered.

One of the serious shortcomings of the program in Minnesota is the liberality with which benefits are distributed to seasonal workers. Our frigid winters create special problems, and seasonal employment is one of them. We have a large number of employees engaged in work of a kind that can be carried on only during certain seasons, and many of these employees either remain idle during the off-season period or find temporary employment in other fields.

To the extent that they remain unemployed and draw unemployment compensation, they are supported at public expense, and the public assistance is available to them regardless of how great their earnings may have been during their months of employment.

Under our rules there is no limit to what an employee may earn during the period of employment, and as soon as he becomes unemployed the public starts contributing toward his support. Many of our workers who earned more than $5,000 during the time they were employed during 1957 started drawing weekly unemployment checks as soon as their work stopped. That would have been true if they had earned $10,000 or $25,000. There is no qualifying limit to their earnings.

Before the program is extended it should have a thorough study with the view of strengthening it where it is weak and safeguarding it from abuses. We should keep in mind that while this program is referred to as insurance, those who are insured pay nothing directly toward its support. The cost is an item of public expense and the program therefore is more closely related to public relief than it is to insurance.

The proposal that the benefits to the unemployed should now be extended over a longer period of time is appealing to the politicians because it enables them to provide additional relief at the expense of what was established in theory as an insurance program. It provides an easy way to secure extra dollars at the present time, taking out of the reserves that have been built up under the present rules.

But the easy way is not the honest way, and for the long pull the easy way is not the best way in terms of what is best for a sound unemployment insurance program. The proposal for speedy action in tapping the accumulated reserves presents us with a problem that should be approached with caution.

Too Much Pork

Senators Thye and Humphrey are unhappy about President Eisenhower's veto of the $1,700,000,000 public works bill. In his veto measure the president said in effect that it was a pork barrel bill containing authorizations for too many projects that could not be justified. Most of the estimates on the amount of the "pork" range upwards from $300 million.

Unfortunately the veto means a delay for many much needed projects, including several in Minnesota. But among the Minnesota projects there also was pork. Providing a few more miles of navigation up the Mississippi, with tremendously expensive control works to get the barges up and over St. Anthony Falls, is generally regarded as pork with a capital P.

We can recall a few years ago when the two Minnesota Senators were very indignant because the Army Engineers thought the cost of this project would exceed the benefits. They pounded on the table and said they would do awful things if the Engineers did not become more cooperative. We thought at the time it was a rather unstatesmanlike approach to an engineering problem.

In the long run the politicians probably will prevail and it would be a good bet that all of the projects provided for in the public work bill will eventually be approved. But the president has performed a good service in slowing down the process.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

"Why didn't you report the robbery at once?" an insurance agent asked a woman claimant. "Didn't you suspect something when you came home and discovered all the drawers opened and the contents scattered?"

"Not really," she replied. "I thought my husband had been looking for a clean shirt."

The rising generation was the last one. This one believes in keeping its seat.

—Vesta M. Kelly in Quote.

"Robert," said the wife, "where did all those empty bottles in the cellar come from?"

"I don't know dear," answered Robert. "I haven't brought home any empty bottles."

Sen. Humphrey's Newsletter

Loans To Communities

Minnesota's smaller towns and communities may receive a real shot in the arm for their programs of public works, through our successful effort last week to expand the Public Facilities Loan Program for states and local political subdivisions. The Senate approved and sent to the House S.3497, which I joined Senator Fulbright in sponsoring, carrying a total of $1 billion to be loaned for up to 30 years for such purposes as sewerage treatment works, public streets and sidewalks, lighting systems, hospitals, schools, libraries, recreational facilities, and other badly needed projects which have been held back for lack of low-interest financing.

Interest Rate Program

Originally our bill provided $2 billion with an effective rate of 3% interest, but in the Banking and Currency Committee, seven Republicans and one Democrat joined to raise the effective interest rate to 3½% (by a vote of 8-7) and to cut the fund by half. On the floor of the Senate, I introduced an amendment to restore the original 3% rate, which would have saved Minnesota communities and local taxpayers $2,500 each year in interest payments on a typical $500,000 loan. Again it was only by the narrowest partyline vote, and after a terrific battle, that we were defeated—41 to 40. Only one vote change would have restored the original 3% interest rate and made the bill much more valuable to Minnesota communities—most of which are paying between 3% and 3½% for their capital improvements money.

Help From Mayors

In answer to my queries as to how my legislation would affect the communities, over fifty mayors of Minnesota communities with over 1,000 population wrote me to list the kinds of projects such low-interest, long-term might be used for. Almost invariably they pointed out that 3% interest loans would be of great assistance, particularly in their sewerage-treatment construction plans, and their plans for community hospitals and schools—many of which have had to be postponed because the taxpayers would not stand for paying exorbitant interest rates. Among the first letters from Minnesota mayors received in my office, there were nineteen letters alone detailing plans for more than $8.8 million for sewerage treatment and disposal facilities. This is clear evidence of detailed plans which could go forward at once of our bill is passed and signed by the President.

Prospects

We are hopeful that the House of Representatives will yet act to restore the original low-interest rate and raise the amount of the loan fund. The public works that would be made possible by this program would not only be a long-range benefit to the average community, but would help to put people back to work in that community. I am hopeful that the President, despite his veto of many important Minnesota flood control and navigation projects last week, will not block this fine loan program with another veto.

SENATOR THYE Reports TO YOU

from the UNITED STATES SENATE

Williams Appointment

The appointment of John H. Williams, University of Minnesota physicist, as Director of Research, U. S. Atomic Energy Commission, brings much honor to our State and to our great University. The new appointment is further recognition of the University's leadership in the field of original and applied research. Mr. Williams was one of the men who developed the original atomic bomb at Los Alamos. He and his associates at Minnesota built "Linac," a proton linear atomic accelerator at the University under contract to the Atomic Energy Commission. Professor Williams joined the University staff in 1933 as physics instructor and has long been a leading advocate in plans to have this country build the world's most powerful atom smasher. Professor Williams — who was to take up his new responsibility last Thursday — joins the ranks of Minnesotans who lead our country on to new horizons in science. Such men as Dr. Laurence M. Gould and Dr. Lloyd V. Berkner bring much prominence to our State and I am certain that John H. Williams will continue that tradition.

Machine Tools for Youth

I am happy to announce that a very positive move in the direction of training our youth for industrial skills has been made by the Department of Commerce. Officials there now tell me that a large store of machine tools such as lathes, milling, grinding and drilling machines will be channeled to State and local educational institutions. These tools are excess to government needs and will be handled by State agencies for surplus property in each State, working with the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Tax Relief for Teachers

A very important ruling by the Internal Revenue Department will now allow teachers to deduct expenses incurred in advancing their professional training. In the First Session of the 85th Congress, I introduced legislation to accomplish this; the bill prompted the Treasury Department to issue clarifying regulations which permit such deductions. The effect of the new ruling is retroactive. Refunds can be claimed for the 1955, 1956 and 1957 tax years. Those teachers who made claims for the 1954 tax year may receive a refund if their request was filed prior to April 15 of this year.

Thye Declares Intent To Override River Bill Veto

The President's veto of the Omnibus Rivers and Harbors Bill was a matter of real regret to those of us who had worked to see this bill become law. There were certain specific aspects of the general bill which discouraged the President from signing it. The most important point is that all of the Minnesota projects in this bill had been carefully and thoroughly processed. I have spent a great deal of time working on the various aspects of navigation and flood control projects — at South St. Paul, St. Paul, Winona, Rushford, Mankato, North Mankato, Ruffy Brook, Lost River, St. Anthony Falls and the Minnesota River. I have seen the great damage to property; families placed in dire circumstances because of floods. As one who has worked with and for these projects for more than 20 years, I will dispatch my responsibility with a vote to override the veto.

How to add $90 a month to Your Retirement Income

When you retire, an extra $90 a month may mean the difference between skimping along, or living very comfortably.

Most people do not realize how little it takes to increase their retirement income with a Lutheran Brotherhood insurance plan.

For example, suppose you are 33 years old. A Lutheran Brotherhood Endowment at 65 contract for $10,000 would give you a monthly income of $91.20* for the rest of your life.

Yet you get this contract for only $6.08 a week on an annual basis.

And all this time, your family would have their future protected too. If you should die, they would receive at least $10,000. This death benefit increases up to a maximum of $14,480 at age 65.*

Payments waived in case of disability. If you should become totally disabled from sickness or accident before the age of 60, Lutheran Brotherhood would send you a receipt instead of a premium notice. That is, you would retain the full insurance benefits without ever paying another payment. (Standard Risks only.)

Cash Reserve for Emergencies. Like all Lutheran Brotherhood insurance plans, the Endowment at 65 contract is designed so that you can borrow against the cash value in time of need. And at the end of 10 years, for example, you could quit and receive a paid-up contract for $4,260 which will mature at 65.

The Younger you are, the Lower your payments. Of course the same kind of protection is available to people of almost any age, with the payments varying by age at time the plan is issued. On the Endowment at 65, which we have been discussing, the payments on a $10,000 plan would be about $4.50 a week at age 25, and about $10.75 a week at age 45—on an annual basis.

You can see how your income during retirement can be greatly increased by setting aside just a few dollars a week now on a Lutheran Brotherhood plan. And all during the years while you are accumulating money for retirement, the same Lutheran Brotherhood plan is protecting your family. Why not start right away, while payments for you are still low?

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Dovre of Snohomish, Wash. were Wednesday dinner guests at the Oscar Schenkey home. The Dovres had also visited a daughter and family at Red Lake Falls and visited friends at Greenbush and also with Mr. Dovre's sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Alf Movik at Holt.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Evans and Mr and Mrs. Ed Savard were last Sunday afternoon and supper guests at the Eddie Ososki home near Stephen. Mrs. Ososki is a daughter of the Savards.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Stout of Oakes, N. Dak. and sister, Sheila Franke, Holly and John of Litchville were last weekend guests of Terry Stout.

Harry Scramstad and Emmett McDonogh, who has been employed the past four months at Naples, Florida, returned home Monday.

Mrs. Selma Kortesmaki who had spent the winter months staying with an aged lady in Minneapolis returned home Saturday evening of last week. Her daughter and son-inlaw, Mr. and Mrs. Don Niemal of Monticello, Minn, brought her home.

Mrs. Charles Josephson and Mrs. Charles Collins visited last Monday afternoon with Miss Marie Phillipson at the Oakland Park Rest Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rasmussen and children visited a week ago Sunday at the Alfred Johnson home near Gatzke. Mr. and Mrs. Milton Naeseth were also visitors there.

Mrs. Archie Prosser and Mrs. H. A. Hall visited Thursday afternoon with Marie Phillipson at the Oakland Park Rest Home at Thief River Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Evans of Zion, Ill. arrived Wednesday evening at the Ray Filpula home for a week's visit with other relatives and friends here. They had also visited a few days at Elk River with her mother, Mrs. Filpula and her sister and brother-in-law.

Civic Oration Contest To Be Held May 1 to 8

"Shrines of America" is the subject to be discussed by Plummer school students of the fifth through Junior High grades, in the Civic Oration Contests held at Plummer High School from May 1 to May 8th it was announced today.

The eleventh in a series of annual contests sponsored by Modern Woodmen of America, the competition will be supervised by Mrs. John Meland. Awards will be distributed by Mrs. Emma Waldal.

According to Mrs. Waldal, two individual trophies will be given, one each to the winner and the runner-up. Another trophy, to be presented to the school, will be engraved with the winner's name. Five other gold pin awards will be made during preliminary competition. All trophies and prizes are provided by Modern Woodmen of America.

Finalists will be chosen during elimination contests held in the individual classrooms. The names of the three local civic leaders, who will judge the final event, will be announced at a future date, as will the date and location of the finals.

The purpose of the annual Civic Oration Contest, according to a statement from Mrs. Emma Waldal, is to stress the attributes of good citizenship in the minds of school pupils and help them to think and speak in public." Mrs. Waldal pointed out that the contest is a nationwide program sponsored by Modern Woodmen of America, as a part of their efforts to be of assistance in the training and development of young America.

NOTICE

Since I had my informal opening I have had three people in to see me. Two were looking for the Old Folks Home and the other for the Post Office.

Am having a formal opening later in the speing and then there will be favors for the ladies dandelions for them and sow thistle for the men.

I mustn't forget the School Board. It must be getting monotonous to keep eating crow.

They have twice thrown the Teachers Training out the window and once it was accomplished by a big-time operator with the help of a loyal member of the board.

However, each time they have restored it and we believe they now realize that this department is quite important and wanted by a large majority of the people.

The salary of the instructor is paid by the state and class room furnished free by the County Board in the Court House.

I have "eliminated" the committee of last year and now like the great Russian leader, Mr. Crookedchief have taken over all the offices such as Pres., V. P. and Sec'y.-Treas.

Have organized a group which shall be known as "Society for the prevention of cruelty and inhuman treatment to underprivildged insurance agents."

Respectfully,
Lars Hylden

OUT-PERFORMS

Them All in Growers' Own Weight and Compare Tests

Don't miss out on corn income you could just as well be collecting. Make certain you plant every acre of your corn ground to the highest-producing hybrids you can get. How do you tell which are the highest producing? Thousands of profit-minded corn growers now choose their hybrids this proven way:

THEY WEIGH AND COMPARE

In their own fields, with the hybrids side by side. Picked with their own pickers. Weighed on the scales of their choice. They figure their own results. These corn growers report Funk's G-Hybrids out-perform the best of all comers, by averages of from 5 to 15 bushels an acre. Time after time. Yield after field. Year after year.

FIGURE IT OUT. Yield averages like that can easily give you an extra wagonload for each bushel of Funk's-G you plant. A load of corn you wouldn't have had, had you chosen any other hybrid seed. Make certain you get these extra bushels. This spring plant your entire corn acreage to Funk's G-Hybrids.

Stock up on COKE and these quick-fix foods and be ready to give a Party from your Pantry!

PLANKED FISH FILLETS. Thaw frozen fish fillets, spread with prepared bread stuffing, roll, fasten with toothpicks. Dot with butter, bake on plank until almost done. Border with instant mashed potatoes, return to oven until border browns. Arrange peas on plank. So festive served with the bright sparkle of Coca-Cola.

Your grocer is featuring these foods now!
When you want to turn out an extra-special dish and time is short—that's when your plentifully stocked pantry is a real blessing! Then quick "masterpieces" like these are easy. So shop your grocer's for canned goods, frozen foods, mixes. And don't forget your favorite sparkling drink—Coca-Cola. If there's one thing that adds distinction to snacks, meals, desserts—it's Coke—so good in taste, in such good taste!

FRUIT WITH CUSTARD SAUCE. So quick—no cooking! And guests will really be impressed when you serve it! Heap chilled canned fruits into a bowl, pour on instant vanilla pudding for sauce. Dress it up with a topping of slivered toasted almonds. Remember—dessert time is a good time for the good taste of Coke. Enjoy the cold, crisp taste of Coke!

VEGETABLE PLATTER—CHEESE SAUCE. Serve frozen or canned waxed beans, asparagus tips, corn. Add easy, instant mashed potatoes and a ramekin of stewed tomatoes. "Spoon on" prepared cheese sauce. The unique good taste of Coca-Cola helps complete the meal. Coke—acclaimed in over 100 countries of the world.

BARBECUED SKILLET MEAL. Arrange sliced luncheon meat, canned corn and cooked rice in skillet. Pour liberal amount of barbecue sauce over meat. Cover and heat on top of stove. Tangy dishes are extra good with thirst-quenching Coca-Cola! So always be sure you have plenty of Coke on hand.

Remember—
COKE and Good Taste
go together!

Highway Dept. Will Award $25 Million in Projects by June 30

Announcing an accelerated highway construction program, the Minnesota highway department yesterday revealed plans for more than $25 million of new trunk highway construction, to be put under contract between now and the end of June.

This program calls for 89 different projects throughout the state, with contracts for 46 of them to be let in May and 43 in June. Work on all will be started during the coming summer.

More than $14 million of construction contracts are scheduled for award during May. Bids on $4.3 million of this work will be received by the Highway department on May 9. Of this group of 20 projects, the largest is for grading and paving on T.H. 63 southwesterly six miles from Lake City in Wabasha county, to cost nearly a million dollars.

On May 23, a new bid date set by the highway department just recently, bids will be received on 26 projects having an estimated total cost of $9.7 million. Constituting the largest group of contract lettings, these projects have all been moved forward from previous schedules.

Five of these projects will be devoted to the start of a highway relocation and bridge construction plan connected with flood control problems at Montevideo. Estimated total cost is more than one-and-a-quarter million dollars. One contract calls for diversion of the channel of the Chippewa river.

Also among the major projects in the May 23 letting date are five bridges, expected to cost one-and-a-half million dollars, to be constructed on the eastern portion of Interstate Route 393, the new Twin Cities circumferential road. Two will be located at the Soo Line tracks in Little Canada and three will be at the interchange with T.H. 61 in Newport.

Three other major projects planned for letting on May 23 have an estimated total cost of $2,575,000. They are:

T.H. 63—Grading and bituminous surfacing of 7½ miles southerly from Rochester.

T.H. 220—Concrete paving of 12.7 miles northwesterly from Climax in Polk County.

T.H. 23—Concrete paving of 10.4 miles between Jct. T.H. 65 and Jct. T.H. 61 in Kanabec and Pine counties.

The next bid date will be June 6, when the highway department plans to receive bids on 21 projects having an estimated total cost of $6,587,000. Four of the major projects in this group are expected to cost $3,475,000. They are:

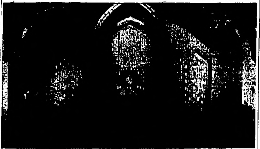
Interstate Route 303—Grading and paving of .8 mile from a point near Cedar Ave. to a point near Thirty-fourth Ave. S. in Minneapolis.

T.H. 75—Grading and concrete paving of 9.7 miles from Jct. T.H. 55 to Doran in Wilkin county.

T.H. 71—Grading and concrete paving of 12.3 miles from Windom to Jct. T.H. 47, in Cottonwood county.

June 27 is set by the highway department for receiving bids on 22 smaller projects planned throughout the state. The cost of this group is estimated at $4,563,000.

Beautiful Trinity Church Interior after Renovation



Pictured above is the handsome interior of the Trinity Lutheran church edifice as it looks following the recent completion of an extensive renovation project. New altar furnishings were installed, the interior redecorated, pews refinished and the pipe organ rebuilt. Re-dedication of the edifice will be held Sunday morning.—Photo by Kavanaugh.

136 Charged with Game Violations

Arrests for violations of the game and fish laws during March totalled 136, reports Arthur Emme, assistant chief game warden.

Violations of fishing regulations accounted for 90 arrests, while transportation of loaded or uncased firearms resulted in 16 arrests. Miscellaneous other infractions accounted for the remaining arrests. Fines levied in the 136 cases totalled $2,803.

Urge Safety Plan in Water Sports

State Safety Council Issues Four Reminders

The coming outdoor season focuses attention on the importance of proper safety measures for swimmers, boaters, fishermen and all others who participate in sports in and on the water.

Four safety reminders have been issued by Carl W. Moen, secretary, hunting and water safety section, Minnesota Safety Council:

1. Know your waters—whether bating, swimming or fishing you should know depths, currents and other characteristics of the water areas.

2. Know your equipment—whether it is life preserver, canoe, boat or motor you should be thoroughly familiar with its location and its use.

3. Know the weather—know what to expect by watching forecasts and then keep an alert "weather eye".

4. Know your own limitations—you may be called upon to put forth your effort in emergency. Know what you or your craft can do and never exceed it unless called upon. It is a wise man who calls for additional help before it is too late.

Arbor Day Will Be Noted at Capitol

Plan to Set out Norway Pine in St. Paul May 2

Preliminary plans for the planting of a Red (Norway) pine, the Minnesota state tree, on the capitol grounds in St. Paul on Friday, May 2, to celebrate the Minnesota Centennial and Arbor Day, have been completed by a committee, with Alf Larson, Hayfield, as chairman.

Governor Orville Freeman and George A. Selke, conservation commissioner, will take part in the program of accepting the tree in the name of Minnesota citizens. Others on the program will be Milton Maxwell, president of the state soil conservation districts, William Bennitt, chairman of the state soil conservation committee; and Andy Surek, representing the Minnesota Bankers Association.

An unusual feature of the planting will be the fact that the tree will be planted in soil from all over the United States. At a recent national soil conservation convention in Minneapolis, small bags of soil from each of the 48 states and from each of 2,750 soil conservation districts over the country were brought to Minnesota by the delegates. This mixture of soils will be placed on the roots of the Minnesota State Tree as it is planted.

FIRE LOSSES IN MARCH IN U. S. TOTAL $102 MILLION

Estimated fire losses in the United State during March amounted to $102,722,000, the National Board of Fire Underwriters reported. Losses for the first three months of 1958 now total $306,493,000, a decrease of 2.8 per cent from the first three months of 1957, when they amounted to $315,400,000.

RUSSIA CAN'T GARBLE THIS MESSAGE

Behind the iron curtain is a powerful transmitter which tries to garble the messages which come from the free world.

We like to think that no one can garble the prayer of a little child to his God. But sometimes, right here in a free Christian land, we jam the wave-lengths of faith with examples of doubt and indifference. Even parents occasionally stifle the spiritual yearnings of their own children!

One of our freedoms is FREEDOM OF WORSHIP. In the sight of God, and before the eyes of a growing generation of free Americans, what shall we do with this freedom?

There has never been a day when Christian sincerity in the community, Christian example in the family, and Christian devotion in the individual were more essential for the preservation of our spiritual heritage to another generation!

Come to Church—join the Church—support the Church.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Report on Viking News of the Week

Mrs. Arne Samuelson, Phone 170

Mrs. Oscar Swanson is P.T.A. President for 1958-59

Monday evening, April 14, the Viking P.T.A. held their annual business meeting with Rev. T. J. Weltzin in charge. A short business session was held, after which John Peters, chairman of the nominating committee read the names the committee had selected to run for office for the coming year. As there was no further nominations, the following officers were elected: president, Mrs. Oscar Swanson; vice-president, Mrs. Ernest Melvie; secretary, Mrs. LeRoy Sustad; treasurer, Mrs. Vernon Sebade. These new officers will be installed at the May meeting.

A special thank you to Mrs. LeRoy Sustad, Mrs. Clarence Gustafson and Miss Carole Leining for the fine work and effort they have put forth on the Procedure Book for the year which was on display at the meeting.

Program chairman for the evening was Mrs. Paul Erickson. She read the topic for the month "Exceptional Child". Mrs. Omar Sorenson sang a solo. John Palley of Warren gave a lecture on water and soil conservation. Lunch was served by John Peters, Ed Bergs, Arnold Skervens, Gorden Skjervens, and Paul Ericksons.

We are sorry to hear Mrs. Carl Knutson suffered a stroke Saturday while on a trip to Virginia, Minn. with her husband to visit their son. She is hospitalized there. We wish her a speedy recovery.

Two of our community families came back this past week, after spending the winter months elsewhere. They are Mr. and Mrs. Andie Kvamme and family who were in North Dakota and Mr. and Mrs. Mozinski and family living in their trailer home in Florida. Welcome back folks!

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Anderson and Vernon Sebade were in Superior Tuesday and Wednesday to attend a E.R.O. meeting.

9th Dist. VFW Convention to Open Saturday

Elaborate Parade Scheduled for 6:30 Saturday Evening

An elaborate parade starting Saturday evening, May 3, promptly at 6:30 will be the outstanding feature of the annual Ninth district convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and its auxiliary to be held in Thief River Falls next week-end, Roy Jorgenson, Ninth district commander, stated today.

Alex Cloutier, parade marshal, announced that the procession will line up east of the Third st. bridge at 5:30, and that included in the line of march will be nine or ten bands and drill squads from Crookston, Fergus Falls and East Grand Forks, and a German band from Ada, together with about 40 floats, marching units and cars.

The Ada band will provide street entertainment following the parade, and a dance will be held at the VFW club rooms later Saturday night.

Registration of convention delegates will open at 10:30 Saturday morning at the VFW hall, while bands and drill squads will register at the city Auditorium for instructions.

Sunday activities will open at 9:30 a.m. with a short memorial service in Greenwood cemetery, followed at 10:30 by a business session of the VFW in the Odd Fellows hall, with the auxiliary meeting in the city Auditorium.

A banquet will be held at noon in the Eagles auditorium, with Ollie Mossestad, local VFW post commander, as master of ceremonies. Speakers will include Mayor O. D. Belch; Harold M. Johnson, Ninth district Legion vice commander; Robert Bredeson, commander of the TRF Legion post; Arnold Ringstad of East Grand Forks, deputy chief of staff of the Minnesota VFW and endorsed candidate for department judge advocate; Estelle Hess of Minneapolis, representing the state VFW auxiliary; and Mrs. Naomi Bredeson, local auxiliary unit president.

Following the banquet, the posts and units will resume their business sessions with the presentation of awards and the election of district officers to serve during the coming year. At the close of the afternoon, lunch will be served at the VFW club rooms.

Lincoln School Vocal Concert and Meeting of PTA Unit Tuesday

Lincoln high school vocalists will present their annual spring concert Tuesday evening, April 29, at 8 o'clock in the school auditorium in connection with the April meeting of the Lincoln PTA unit.

Larger groups that will be presented under the direction of Bryant Ulseth include the senior choir of 50 voices, the senior high girls' glee club of 45 voices and the 30-voice freshman chorus. Also appearing will be the senior girls' sextet and the boys' quartet, while Donna Hesse will supply a solo.

Frank Conklin, president of the choir, is in charge of arrangements for the concert, with Janice Melvie handling programs, Marcia Fanberg ticket sales, and Jerry Jorgenson stage manager.

Mrs. Robert Bredeson, retiring president of the PTA unit, will present the remainder of the program, which will include a display in the school cafeteria of projects carried out by students during the current school year. Lunch will be served at the close of the evening.

Red Lake Indians Will Vote May 22 on Constitution

Members of Band Will Elect Commission to Re-write Its Charter

An election will be held on the Red Lake Indian Reservation among members of the Red Lake Chippewa Band on Thursday, May 22, to select members for a constitutional committee to either rewrite the band's constitution or form a new one. It was announced Friday by W. W. Palmer, Minnesota Indian Agency superintendent.

This election has been called for by Commissioner of Indian Affairs G. L. Emmons, as the result of a dispute among two factions of the band which claimed to follow a legally constituted council. After hearings by representatives of the Department of Interior in February, it was decided that neither council was legally constituted in accordance with a constitution drafted by the band in 1913 hence, neither is now recognized.

In order to remedy the situation and prevent its recurrence, the Department of Interior also stipulated that the 1918 constitution must be amended, or a new constitution formed. Also, the amended or new constitution must be approved by secret ballot of the band members, and governing authorities must be placed in office in accordance with conditions of the finally accepted constitution.

A three-cent postage stamp commemorating the 200th anniversary of the birth of James Monroe will go on sale Tuesday at the local postoffice, it was announced today by Postmaster R. J. Dryden.

District Legion Officials Fly to City for Roundup

Commander Phil Kjoglien Picks up Memberships from TRF Legion Post

Thief River Falls airport was the noon stop of a group of American Legion 9th district officials who conducted the Legion's annual Aerial Roundup Saturday, with the flight terminating Sunday at Crystal airport, Minneapolis.

District Commander Phil Kjoglien and George Bang, district adjutant, Fergus Falls, and their entourage were met at the municipal airport here by local post Commander Robert Bredeson, and Harold Johnson, 9th district vice-commander, with the results of the recent membership drive of the Thief River Falls post.

The group laid over in the city for a noon luncheon and then continued with the tour in other 9th district localities. On the itinerary for Saturday, starting at Fergus Falls, was Detroit Lakes, Fosston, Roseau, Hallock, Warren, Crookston, Moorhead and return to Fergus Falls, with the flight to Minneapolis to follow Sunday. The group came here from Fosston.

The Legionnaires were flying the aerial roundup in a new Cessna 182 furnished, with pilot by the Hinck Flying Service, in the Twin Cities area. There is a Legion aviation post in Minneapolis.

2,000 Student Musicians Due Here May 2 & 3

State Area High School Festival Set for Lincoln School

More than 2,000 young musicians from a wide area will assemble in Thief River Falls Friday and Saturday, May 2 and 3, for the annual state area high school music festival to be conducted at Lincoln school auditorium and gymnasium, it was announced today by Paul E. Anderson, festival manager.

Bands, choruses, glee clubs, vocal and instrumental ensembles and soloists will receive criticisms and ratings from seven widely known adjudicators.

The festival, Anderson said, will be participated in by more than 50 schools, and will be larger than ever this year, owing to the inclusion of schools in District 29, including Bemidji.

Sessions will open at 9:30 Friday morning, with vocal and instrumental ensembles and soloists performing. Bands and orchestras will play Saturday in the Lincoln auditorium, while the choruses and glee clubs will sing in the school gymnasium.

Participating in the area contest here will be groups and soloists who won A ratings in district events held during the past week. Taking part from Lincoln school will be the following groups and soloists who won top ratings at the District 31 contest in Crookston last Friday and Saturday: Band, mixed chorus, senior girls' vocal sextet, boys' quartet, clarinet quartet, woodwind quartet, brass sextet and saxophone sextet; and Janet Torgerson and Frank Conklin, vocal soloists.

Car Prowlers Busy Thursday Evening

Steal Items from Cars in Front of Owners' Homes

Three instances of car prowling in the city residential section were reported to local police last Friday morning, Police Chief Elton Cummings stated. The prowlers were active Thursday evening.

The only items taken were a set of fender skirts from a station wagon owned by Barry Tollefson, 112 Kendall av. S. and a set of green terrycloth seat covers from a car owned by Gunler Grovem, [illegible] Arnold av. N. In each case the cars were prowled while parked in front of owner's homes.

A car owned by Lowell A. Haugen, 419 Kendall av. S., was also prowled at the same time the fender skirts were taken from Tollefson, but nothing was reported taken.

Mrs. Dennis Lund, 621 LaBree av. N. reported that three boys were going through cars in her neighborhood, but they have not yet been apprehended. Police are at present checking out leads.

Jurors Listed for May Term of Court Here

Jury Probably Will Not Be Summoned Before May 26th

The general May term of Pennington county district court will be convened for the call of the calendar on Monday, May 12, the present prospect being that the petit jury will not be summoned to convene before May 26, it was announced today by Henry Storhaug, clerk of court. He added that Judge J. H. Sylvestre of Crookston will preside over the term.

A panel of 36 prospective jurors was drawn last week and includes the names of 25 men and 11 women, with 13 of the group being from Thief River Falls and 23 from the rest of the county.

Residents of this city whose names were drawn include Ivan Bundy, Clair L. Larson, Lester Gustafson, Arthur E. Dicken, Mrs. Leonard Anderson, Orville M. Hanson, Floyd S. Dalton, Orville Gillespie, D. J. Houfek, Mrs. Ronald Glass, Lawrence Aase, Leonard Bushaw and Mrs. P. E. Casey.

Vraa, Reiner; Mrs. Lester Halvorson, North; Alvin Bakken, Star; Mrs. George G. Swanson and Chris Anton, Sanders; Lawrence Phillip, Smiley; Ole Selmanson, River Falls; Martin Wedul and Morris Nelson, Mayfield; David Burnquist and Mrs. Melvin Melin, Polk Center; Sam Sorenson and Dake Ayers, Norden; Robert Merrill and Mrs. Walter Asp, Cloverleaf; Nels Johnson, Black River; Mrs. LeRoy Scholin, Bray; Walter Aubol, Silverton; and Ray G. Oen and Clayton B. Mathson, Rocksbury.

2 Meetings Set on Multi-Co. Library

At Goodridge Wednesday and at Newfolden Friday

Local residents interested in promoting a multi-county library to get bookmobile service are urged to attend a meeting in the Goodridge gymnasium Wednesday evening, April 30, at 8 p.m., it was announced today.

David H. Brown of Goodridge, chairman of the Northwest Minnesota committee for a multi-county library, stated that an area meeting of supporters of the project will be held Friday, May 2, at 8 p.m. in the lunch room of the Newfolden community school. Prompt action is necessary, he stated, if the service is to be secured.

Counties involved in the proposal include Pennington, Red Lake, Marshall, Roseau and Kittson, while others are welcome, Supt. Brown said.

Mrs. Art Gunderson of Alexandria was a Saturday visitor at the home of Mrs. Alma Hanson.

A program will be presented and will include a piano selection by Miss Susan Kvikstad; a talk by John Sutisna, exchange student from Indonesia; and a vocal solo by Mrs. Bryant Ulseth.

The door prize is being furnished by Mostue's Flower Shop. Lunch will be served by the Current Events group, Zehillian and Allegro groups.

Rocksbury & Smiley Win County Honors in 4-H Play, Music Event

The Rocksbury and Smiley 4-H clubs won top honors in the final county 4-H play and music contest held at Thief River Falls on Thursday. The Rocksbury club presented the play "The Old Grouch", which won first place, and the Smiley club sextet won top recognition in music. They presented the numbers "Dreaming" and "Put on Your Old Gray Bonnet".

Named as the best actor was Timmy Radniecki who appeared in the Deer Park play called "Love Hits Wilbur". The best actress award went to Faye Torkelson who played "In Doubt About Daisy" given by the Smiley 4-H club.

Appearing in the play presented by the Rocksbury club were Bob Wald, Irene Morris, Virginia Finstad, Carol Wald, Billy Grundhaus, Norris Thune, Tommy Braaten, Alvin Chapman and Bonnie Dicken. The play was coached by Don Wald, Mrs. Art Dicken and Mrs. Martin Finstad.

In the Smiley sextet were Carol Stenseth, Gloria Philipp, Nancy Newton, Gloria Helgeland, Ivette Torkelson and Carolyn Torkelson, accompanied by Faye Torkelson.

Judging the play and music numbers were E. N. Reiersgard, principal, Northwest School, Crookston; and Marlin Johnson, assistant Polk county agent, Crookston. Two hundred and fifty people witnessed the presentation of the plays and music numbers.

The Smiley music number and Rocksbury play now go to the sub-district contest to be held in Red Lake Falls on Wednesday, May 14 where they compete with entries from West Polk and Red Lake counties. The top play and music number will then be presented during the 4-H Week at Crookston on June 4.

Beer Thieves Are Arrested Friday

Youths Again Break Into Grain Belt Warehouse

The Grain Belt Distributing Co. warehouse, which seems to have a habit of being robbed periodically, was in the limelight again last week when prowlers took six cases of beer from the premises Thursday evening, but did not take any money.

The theft was reported by Pete Sullivan, one of the owners of the warehouse, Friday morning. Later the same day the beer was recovered, and Friday evening the three youths who had committed the robbery were taken into custody by Patrolman Myers and Sheriff Charles Richards.

Police Chief Elton Cummings said police are using a "system" to nab thieves in such break-ins, and that they have been quite successful in several cases. He did not divulge details.

Jaycees to Meet Thursday Evening

The Junior Chamber of Commerce will meet Thursday evening May 1, promptly at 6:30 in the Legion club rooms, it was announced today. Dr. George Martin is arranging the program.

Whisker Club to Start May 1

A special meeting was held Thursday night by the Jaycee board committee to set rules governing the whisker club and the contest to be held in connection with Centennial activities this summer.

Chuck Meister, committee chairman announced today that beard growing activities were to officially commence as of May first, but that many early starters had already begun. No penalty will be invoked for an early start as advance publicity had not specified a starting date.

Under rules set up by the committee, an entry fee of fifty cents will be charged, which will entitle the entrant to wear a pin labeled "Centennial Whisker Club", and qualify him as eligible to compete for prizes offered by the Jaycees for best beard, most unusual beard, longest beard, etc. Cash prizes will be offered in amounts up to $25.00.

Participation in beard growing activities is not limited to any particular group of individuals, Meister stated, rather, it is intended that all male adults of the area should respond to the Jaycees call to engage in this Centennial activity. Meister pointed out that the Jaycees recognized situations which make it impossible for an individual to grow a beard or mustache, and for this reason a shave permit will be on sale. The shave permit will be another button which will be sold by the Jaycees for $3.00.

Money raised by the sale of entry fees and shave permits will be used for prize money in the beard contest and for various Centennial activities. All buttons will go on sale May 15th, allowing a two week grace period for the starting of beards, sideburns or, mustaches or any combination of the three.

According to Meister, persons not complying with the regulations may be subjected to embarrassing activities, and fines of up to ten dollars and more, to be administered by an unmerciful judge of a kangaroo court. Court sessions will be held several times throughout the summer. He pointed out that persons most strenuously objecting may be singled out for unusual punishment.

The official closing date of the beard contest will be August 3, the date of the JayCee Water Ski Show. Activities of that weekend will be in gay carnival spirit according to the JayCee committee. August first has been set as a dedication date for the Eighth street bridge by the Pennington county centennial committee. August second will feature an old timer parade complete with ox carts and model "Ts"; and other events.

Jaycee beard activities will find the brothers of the brush conducting the most merciless of all kangaroo courts on Saturday evening, August 2. Activities will be climaxed Sunday afternoon with the annual Jaycee Aquacade.

800 Centennial Buttons Are Sold

After covering the greater part of the west side of the river in a canvass that continued three nights, Glenn Peterson, chairman of the Jaycee sales committee, reported Friday that approximately 800 Statehood Centennial buttons had been sold. He added that it is planned to continue the campaign until at least 2,000 of the emblems have been disposed of.

Grygla Resident Accidentally Shot Self Last Friday

Alton Anderson, 46, Is Making Progress Toward Recovery in Hospital

A Grygla man who accidentally shot himself in the temple Friday was reported today to be making satisfactory progress at Northwestern Hospital here.

According to Marshall county Sheriff Oscar Erickson, Alton Anderson, 46, was driving along a rural road northwest of Grygla about 9:00 a.m. Friday when he apparently started to shoot a gopher.

At any rate he reached into the back seat of his car to get a single-shot .22 rifle in a case and when he pulled it toward him it discharged, the bullet striking him in the right temple and coming out above the left eye, after which it glanced off the windshield, Erickson said. He ruled the shooting purely accidental.

Anderson lay unconscious for some time but finally came to and was able to drive to the Albert Moe farm. From there he was brought to Thief River Falls for treatment.

Erickson said Anderson was unaware the gun was loaded and cocked. That he was able to drive for help, or lived at all was a miracle, the sheriff stated. Hospital officials here said Anderson was doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances, and is expected to recover.

Marshall DFL to Send Delegates to District Meeting

H. F. Hedquist of Argyle Heads Group at May 4th Convention in Crookston

Delegates elected from Marshall county to the district DFL convention to be held in Crookston May 4 include H. F. Hedquist, Argyle, county chairman; Mrs. Betty Rantanen, Middle River, chairwoman; Anthony Merck, Argyle, vice-chairman; Mrs. Theodore Ranstrom, Warren, vice-chairwoman, and Phillip Bedard, Argyle, secretary.

Other delegates and alternates are Bob Prickett and Thomas Hughes, Middle River; John Bergeron, Argyle; Henry Clausen, Goodridge; Percy Stokke and Alvin Grandstrand, Viking.

In other action at the county convention, resolutions were passed deploring the present system of electing state representatives and senators on a no-party ballot, and criticizing the present farm programs.

All resolutions were passed unanimously except the one dealing with party designation for state representatives.

Peace Officers of RR Valley to Meet in City Wednesday

Attorney General Miles Lord to Be Guest Speaker at Banquet in Evening

More than 100 men from both sides of the Red River are expected to attend the annual spring meeting of the Red River Valley Peace Officers association in the Legion club rooms in Thief River Falls Wednesday, April 30, starting at 3 p.m.

Police Chief Elton Cummings stated that Mayor O. D. Belch will extend greetings to the group and that afternoon speakers will include Paul Martz, chief of the Minnesota highway patrol; J. E. Milnes, agent in charge of the Minneapolis office of the FBI; and a representative of the state parole service.

A banquet will be held at 6:30 in the Legion club, with County Attorney L. W. Rullen as toastmaster, and Minnesota Attorney General Miles Lord as guest speaker.

Carol Davis and Ronald Gerardy Wed April 12

Miss Carol C. Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Davis of Oklee, Minn. and Jerry Gerardy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Gerardy of Plummer, were united in marriage Saturday morning, April 12 at St. Frances Xavier Catholic church in Oklee. Father Cardin performed the double ring ceremony before an altar graced with baskets of snapdragons and carnations. The Blessed Virgin altar was adorned with a bouquet of pink roses.

Miss Ruth Lindquist of Oklee, presided at the organ for the nuptial music and also accompanied the soloist who sang "Ave Maria" and "On This Day".

Given in marriage by her father the bride was attired in a floor length gown of lace over satin, featuring a V-shaped neckline with tiny buttons extending down the back and long sleeves which came to a point over the wrists. The full bouffant skirt was fashioned with tiers of lace. Her fingertip veil from a crown of sequins and pearls and her jewelry consisted of a single strand pearl necklace and earring set. She carried a white Prayer Book topped with a lavender orchid and white streamers.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was her sister, Mrs. Warren Hanson of Crookston. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Noreen Johnson of Minneapolis, sister of the groom, and Miss Darlene Beriner of Minneapolis, cousin of the bride. They wore identical waltz length gowns of light blue with headbands of flowers and matching veils. Their bouquets were of pink roses and white and pink carnations with pink satin streamers.

Serving as flower girl was De[illegible] Meresenki of Milwaukee, Wis., niece of the bride. She wore a gown fashioned similiar to the brides and carried a basket of cut flowers. Her pearl necklace was a gift from the bride.

The groom was attended by his brother, Ronald Gerardy of this city as bestman. Groomsmen were Merle Johnson of Minneapolis and Charles Davis, Jr. of Oklee. They all wore white dinner jackets and black trousers with white carnation boutonnieres. Ushers were James Jaeger of Plummer, cousin of the groom, and LeRoy Meresenki of Milwaukee, Wis., brother-in-law of the bride.

Monty Greenwald of Plummer served as the ringbearer and he was dressed identical to the attendants. He also wore a white carnation boutonniere and carried the rings on a white satin pillow.

Mrs. Davis, mother of the bride, chose a blue dress with white accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Gerardy, mother of the groom, also wore a blue dress. Their identical corsages were of pink roses and white carnations.

Following the ceremony a dinner and reception was given by the bride's parents in the church parlors for approximately 80 friends and relatives. Miss Harriet Bruggeman, cousin of the groom, cut and served the wedding cake while Mrs. Ed Beriner, aunt of the bride, poured. In the evening a supper was served at the home of the groom's parents.

Mrs. Gerald Engerson, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Ronnie Gerardy, sister-in-law of the groom, arranged the gifts and Mrs. LeRoy Meresenki, sister of the bride, registered the guests.

Mrs. Gerardy is a 1957 graduate of Oklee high school while Mr. Gerardy graduated from Plummer high school in 1956. Mr. and Mrs. Gerardy are now at home near Plummer on the groom's farm.

Out of town guests were from Staples, Minneapolis, Holt, Crookston, Fairfax, Red Lake Falls and this city.

Judge Paul A. Lundgren Letter Explains T. R. Watershed Problem

The following letter, written by Judge Paul A. Lundgren to Senator Edward J. Thye, is interesting as a review of the background of the drainage problems in the Thief River watershed. It clarifies some of the questions involved in the present effort to secure a survey of the watershed and a plan for its development that will be in the best interests of agriculture, forestry, conservation and wild life.

April 19, 1958
Re: Red Lake Drainings & Conservancy District

Hon. Edward J. Thye
U. S. Senator
Senate Chambers
Washington, D. C.

Dear Senator Thye:

You may recall that I was one of a group that was active in the development of the Red Lake and Clearwater Rivers. When these projects were in the planning stage it included the entire Red Lake River, with Clearwater River and Thief River as tributaries, looking toward the improvement of each of these channels. During the hearings which we had with the U. S. Corps of Engineers a conflict of interest and disagreement arose with respect to the development of the Thief River channel due largely to misunderstanding and the fact that the State of Minnesota had been acquiring the lands comprising Thief Lake, under the Department of Conservation, as a migratory waterfowl refuge and public shooting ground; and the Federal Government had acquired, and was in the process of developing, Mud Lake as a public migratory waterfowl refuge. Because of these conflicting interests, which were not present so far as the Red Lake and Clearwater Rivers were concerned, we deemed it advisable to concentrate our efforts upon the improvement of the Red Lake and Clearwater Rivers. As you know, we were successful in this through your efforts and those of the late Congressman Hagen. In the floods of last year we realized more than ever the benefits to that area, attributable to your good office.

I realize that you have a large number of problems which makes it impossible for you to keep each in mind. I therefore briefly want to call your attention to the fact that the bills which authorized the development on the Red Lake and Clearwater Rivers provided for the creation of a public authority which should be the contracting agency with the U. S. Corps of Army Engineers. This was done and the Red Lake Drainage & Conservancy District came into being under the provisions of Chapter 111, Minnesota Statutes Annotated. This law briefly provides that the management of the district shall be vested in a Board of Directors acting under the supervision of the District Court. While the work on the Red Lake and Clearwater Rivers was in progress I was appointed to the Bench, and thereby my usefulness as an advocate came to an end; and it became my duty to assume such administrative duties with respect to the Drainage & Conservancy District as the Legislature had seen fit to impose upon the Court.

One of the arguments advanced in favor of concentrating our efforts upon the development of the Red Lake River was that a north and south off-take channel could be constructed along the west line of the Red Lake Indian Reservation, thereby preventing the flood waters of the reservation from being impounded upon the agricultural lands of our county, and to divert some of the waters now impounded upon the Thief River channel by reason of ill-advised drainage ditches that were constructed under the theory that the Red Lake River channel was not adequate. The Red Lake Drainage & Conservancy District has, as far as their resources permit, sought to correct this situation. Surveys have been made of the Thief River Watershed. Plans and specifications have been completed for the construction of the proposed off-take ditch. The district has, however, been unable to secure any co-operation from the local Indian Council and the Bureau of Indian Affairs. Meetings have been held and studies made of the area, with a view of determining the benefited lands to cover the costs of construction. Because of Indian lands and Conservation Department lands the benefited area is too small to bear the cost; and diversion no longer appears practicable.

During all of this time the drainage ditches in the Thief River Watershed, which were constructed some forty or more years ago, have been constantly deteriorating until a condition has been created that is intolerable so far as agricultural lands are concerned. During the past three or four years farmers have petitioned for, and have been granted, the right to repair some of the existing ditches. At the present time I have nine petitions pending and there will undoubtedly be many more.

Unless something constructive is done upon an area basis, I fear that we will be entering upon a cycle of ill-advised drainage that will be detrimental to the intrests of the area as a whole. Our drainage laws did not contemplate a situation such as here exisits and are quite incapable of dealing with it. The original drainage systems which were constructed in the Thief River Watershed were constructed under the theory that Thief Lake and Mud Lake were to be drained and become agricultural lands. With this in mind, much of the drainage was shunted around and away from the original lake bottoms. Our law provides that once a drainage system has been constructed it becomes a judgment in rem wherein each parcel of land that contributed toward the payment thereof has a vested right in the functioning of the drainage system. The law makes it mandatory to maintain a system in repair. While the State and Federal Governments have acquired title to their respective Refuges, they have not thereby acquired the drainage systems; so that we have a situation where the lands in the upper reaches have a vested right in the functioning of the ditches for the drainage of their lands. If the ditches in the upper reachers are merely cleaned, and the water poured in on the Refuges, their usefulness will be destroyed, particularly during the nesting season. If the ditches which divert water away from the refuge areas are repaired a situation may be reached where these areas do not have sufficient water for their proper maintenance. Either of these contingencies will impound upon the river channel water in destructive quantities in times of flood or rapid run-off.

It has finally, I believe, become clear not only to the agricultural interests but to the U. S. Wild Life Service and the State Department of Conservation that the bottle-neck of the entire situation lies in the inadequacy of the channel as an outlet. The Wild Life Services realize that they cannot indefinitely thwart the agricultural interests in their right of drainage; and the agricultural interests realize that they cannot indefinitely impound waters upon the refuge area or, in lieu thereof, circumvent the refuge areas by diverting it into the river, because of the inadequacy of that channel.

I am now informed that a group has been formed known as the Thief River Watershed Development Association, having as its purpose the study of this watershed area with a view of harmonizing the respective interests in the best interest of the area. I am also informed that this group has petitioned you and our other Representatives in Washington that there be included in the Rivers and Harbors Bill an authorization and appropriation for a survey of the area by the U. S. Corps of Army Engineers.

I am therefore moved to write you, not in the spirit of advocacy for or against any project, but as the District Court charged by law with carrying out the administrative duties of the Red Lake Drainage & Conservancy District imposed upon me as Judge of the District Court, in an effort to explain the legal, administrative and practical problems which the area poses. I am personally convinced that a solution cannot be chystalized unless and until an over-all survey has been made in the light of the needs of agriculture, conservation and wild life. I am likewise convinced that such a survey will discolse the utter inadequacy of the Thief River channel. From the attempted survey which was made by the District of the agricultural area in the watershed, I am further convinced that the district on the local level cannot undertake a complete survey by reason of the vast area that now constitutes tax-exempt, municipal and governmental lands. Since the stream which furnishes the outlet is under federal jurisdiction, since the Wild Life Services have a definite interest in the area, and since the solution will require co-operation on the state, federal and local level, it appears to me that the U. S. Corps of Engineers is the proper agency to undertake such survey. I therefore recommend that you give this petition your serious consideration.

Sincerely yours,
Paul A. Lundgren.

State Counties Levy $40 Million More in '57 Than Year Before

Nearly 40 million dollars more in taxes was levied by the state's 87 counties on real and personal property in 1957 than in 1956, State Auditor Stafford King announced Friday.

A record total of $372,158,035 was levied; this compares with $332,729,752 in 1956. The 1957 taxes are payable this year.

The biggest increase in taxes was made by school districts.

The average rate of taxation was 175.23 mills as against 160.02 mills the previous year. Of the 17-mill rise, the 1957 state levy accounted for slightly more than three mills. The 1956 state levy was 9.15 mills as against 12.62 milles last year.

Of the actual hike of $39,428,283, school districts levied an additional $15,864,346.

Total school district levies on real and personal property in 1957 was $140,597,753, as compared with $124,733,407 the previous year.

City and village taxes went up almost 9 million dollars—from $92,176,078 to $101,862.

Counties raised their taxes more than 10 million dollars—from $87,606,226.10 to $97,973.59.

Township taxes dropped from $12,661,345 to $12,549,948, due to annexations by villages and cities and abolition of some townships.

Taxes elvied for state purposes in 1957 amounted to $19,955,842.35. This compares with $15,552,607.17 in 1956, or an increase of about four and a half million dollars.

Marshall Co. Red Cross Raises 75 Pct. Quota to Date

The total collected in the Marshall County Red Cross drive to date is $3,092, which is approximately 75% of the $4,153 quota set for the county. This year's Red Cross campaign results are slightly lower than the 1957 drive; however, a few townships have not reported as yet. Those that have not reported yet are urged to send in their reports as soon as possible. Anyone, who has not contributed and desires to do so, may send their contributions to the Marshall county chapter of the Red Cross in Warren.

Have the new wrinkle resistant cottons caught your eye? If they did, I'm sure you found yourself thinking, "mhm—nice for a new spring dress."

These attractive cottons are welcome time savers. As a result of a resin treatment they have the following characteristics.

1. Little or no ironing needed. Most of us would agree that generally ironing is necessary.

2. Does not get that "mussed up" look so quickly.

3. A smooth finish that does not seem to soil as easily as soft-finished materials. These fabrics do require some special care and attention.

Many of the wrinkle resistant fabrics are not sanforized. (A sanforized article is guaranteed not to shrink more than 1%) Often the label may list the maximum shrinkage at 3%. This would amount to slightly over one inch per yard. If you do not preshrink your material, your dress may look as if you had gained 5-10 pounds.

To preshrink cotton material, pin the selvedges and the ends together and place in clear lukewarm water until completely wet. Hang over a rod or line to drip dry. Wringing will cause unnecessary wrinkles. Any ironing that is needed should be done with the lengthwise grain of thread to prevent stretching. High heat will harm the resin finish. Watch the temperature at which your iron is set and never, never boil wrinkle resistant cottons.

Chlorine bleach reacts with the resin to produce an undesirable yellow brown color. If bleaching is necessary, use the same perborate bleach that you use for your synthetic fabrics.

The last living dodo was reported seen in 1681. It was the survivor of the huge, flightless birds that roamed the ebony forests of Mauritius, a small island in the Indian Ocean. The dodo vanished so completely that its existence was doubted until skeletal proof was found in 1863.

Order for Hearing on Petition to Determine Descent

State of Minnesota,
County of Pennington—ss.

IN PROBATE COURT

IN RE ESTATE OF [illegible], Decedent

[illegible] having filed in this Court a petition representing, among other things, that said decedent died intestate more than five years prior to the filing thereof, leaving certain property in Pennington County, Minnesota, and that no will of said decedent has been proved, nor administration of her estate granted, in this State and praying that the descent of said property be determined and that it be assigned to the persons entitled thereto;

IT IS ORDERED, That the hearing thereof be had on May 9th, 1958, at 10 o'clock A.M., before this Court, in the Probate Court Room, in the Court House, in Thief River Falls, Minnesota, and that notice hereof be given by the publication of this order in the Thief River Falls Times and by mailed notice as provided by law.

Dated April 10th, 1958.

Garden TIPS

C. GUSTAV HARD
ORRIN C. TURNQUIST

Perennial Vegetables

Asparagus and rhubarb are two important perennial vegetables. Both occupy the garden space for several years, so it is best to put them at one end of the garden where they will not interfere with garden preparation in the future.

Both are cool season crops and can be planted as early in the spring as the soil can be prepared. Set asparagus crowns 8-10 inches deep in a furrow that has been prepared with some well rotted manure on the bottom and then covered with an inch or two of soil.

Cover the crowns with 2 inches of soil and fill in the rest of the trench gradually as the plants develop. Rows should be 3-4 feet apart and the crowns set 18-24 inches apart in the row.

Rhubarb roots can be planted the same way, but space them so they are at least 3-4 feet apart in the row.

For a family of five, secure at least 30 one-year old crowns of asparagus or 12 rhubarb plants. Select either Latlin Hybrid or Mary Washington asparagus. Valentine, Macdonald or Canada Red are excellent red colored varieties.

Don't harvest new plantings of either crop until the spring of the third year after planting. Don't cut asparagus after July 1 and avoid pulling rhubarb after mid-July each year. Remove flower stalks as they begin to develop on rhubarb but allow asparagus tops to grow after July 1. Don't cut them off until early the following spring.

AVOID RUSTY TOOLS

Drop a piece of charcoal in your tool box. It will absorb moisture and keep your tools from rusting.

State Ranks High in Support of Schools

Minnesota ranks high among the 48 states, in its support of public school education, but not so high in its ability to pay for such support, according to a current publication of the research division of the National Education Association.

This publication, entitled "Rankings of the States", presents the results of a searching statistical examination of the cost of the public school system in the 48 states, according to Norman A. Borgen, executive secretary of the Minnesota Taxpayers association.

"The three key points covered by the study which are of particular interest to Minnesotans are: (1) the incomes of the people of Minnesota; (2) what the people of Minnesota spend on education; and (3) the expenditures per pupil enrolled."

"Minnesota, with an average income of $1745 for each individual, ranks 24th of the 48 states in per capita personal income of its people. Not only do 23 states have a higher individual income level than Minnesota, but the per capita personal income of the people of Minnesota is 10% below the national average of $1940."

"Despite this low ranking as to personal income, Minnesota ranks in 8th place in the amount of current expenditures for public education as a percent of personal income," Mr. Borgen continued. "In other words, only 7 states spend a greater percentage of the personal incomes of their people on public education than does Minnesota. The figure for Minnesota is 3.41% of personal income, as compared with the national average of 2.57%. Thus, Minnesota's expenditures for public education as a percent of personal income are 32% above the national average."

"Minnesota ranks 6th in the nation in average current expenditures for public education per pupil enrolled, according to the study," Mr. Borgen said. "The figure for Minnesota is given as $319 per pupil. This is 19% above the national average of $268 per pupil, and is exceeded only by the states of New York, New Jersey, California, Wyoming, and Montana."

"With 645,000 pupils enrolled in Minnesota, this means that this State is spending almost $33 million more annually on public school education than would be the case if these expenditures were at the national average," Mr. Borgen observed.

Mrs. Ellingson, of Goodridge, invited our club to sponsor a candidate for the Centennial Queen Contest to be held in Goodridge in May. We decided to do so but left the actual choosing of this candidate until our next meeting.

Demonstrations were given by Cathy Oski, "How to Make a Tossed Salad"; Shirley Oski, "Sewing Techniques". Jerry Wayne gave a project talk, "Storing the Tractor for Winter."

Included in the program was Jokes by Iran Coving, two songs by the Oski girls, trombone solo by Leighton Lindwick, and a short play given by some of the younger members of our club.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Oski and Mrs. Troska.

"I Remember When" to Be Given May 19

Northrop PTA Unit to Look Back into the Past

A glimpse into the past will be given Monday, May 19, when the Northrop PTA presents "I Remember When". Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Wegge, in a 1958 setting, will bring forth memories by way of groups in song and dance of past eras, all with lovely costumes and a handsome stage setting.

Co-ordinating the program with music will be Mrs. Curtiss Nelson. The program will be divided into two sections, the 1800's and 1900's.

Highlight of the evening will be the opportunity to see yourself in a picture with a gorgeous "leg-o'mutton" sleeved gown, or a handsome 4-button suit with stiff collar. Members of the Zehlian group of the Thief River Falls Woman's club are painting this photographic setting and pictures will be taken and sold at a cost of fifty cents, with immediately delivery, to provide a lasting memory of "I Remember When".

Mrs. Frank Schmitz is the ticket chairman. Tickets may be purchased now from all Northrop PTA members. Proceeds will be used to send delegates to the state PTA convention.

Prowler Nine Whips Goodridge Team 9-1

Coach Ralph Skay's district champion baseball Prowlers opened their 1958 schedule on Friday afternoon by defeating the Goodridge Huskies, 9 to 1, in a conference game played at Goodridge.

The Prowlers will be idle until Friday May 2nd, when they meet Oslo and Alvarado in a double-header. In a 2:00 p.m. game, the Prowler will play the Indians on the Alvarado diamond; and at 5:00 p.m. the Prowlers will meet the Oslo nine on the Oslo diamond.

Friday afternoon's game at Goodridge found the Prowlers scoring a run in the 1st inning when, with two men away, Dean Bergland drew a walk, moved around to third base when Tony Wald doubled down the leftfield foul line and scored when Husky pitcher Don Lokken uncorked a wild pitch.

A pair of three-run clusters in the 3rd and 4th innings boosted the Prowler lead to a comfortable 7 to 1 margin. Mickey Hanson highlighted the Prowler rallies in these two frames by banging out a pair of singles to drive in four runs.

While the Prowlers were chopping away at the offerings of Goodridge's righthanded hurlers, Lokken and Larry Anderson, coach Skay's trio of hurlers—Harlie Drees Arlan Hjelle, and Paul Saurdiff—was pitching low-hit and shutout ball. Drees, on Mike McNelly's infield scratch in the 1st inning, gave up but one hit in the three innings that he toiled; Hjelle tossed hitless ball in his two-inning stint; and Saurdiff was tagged for a single by McNelly in the 6th inning, and gave up the lone run when, after issuing walks to Vraa and Sorenson Gene Hendrickson lofted a short fly to left field, which was bobbled by Phil Hanson, permitting Vraa to scramper home with a tally.

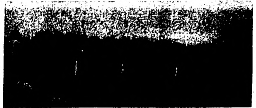
Cold Wind Hampers Shooters at Trap Club Opener



A raw wind made life miserable for the trap shooters at the local range Thursday, as the league shooting season opened. Shown here is the first official flight of the season on the line. One man draws a bead on a clay pigeon as the others prepare to exchange posts. Stan Wilson is the scorekeeper, and also fires the pigeons. Membership in the club is open to the public, including women shooting enthusiasts, at a very low cost.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

First Look

After a season of indoor sports, basketball and Hockey, it was a joy to be on the sidelines at Goodridge on Friday afternoon as the Prowlers opened their 1958 baseball season. Perhaps was a bit too chilly for first class baseball, but the two teams turned in creditable performances.

And don't sell coach Curly Gasperlin's Goodridge Huskies short! With Don Lokken on the mound, a very strong hurler, and with a fine catcher in Al Wickstrom, the Huskies have a first-rate high school battery. The infield of Wayne Paulson at first base, Ev Johnson at second base, Gene Hendrickson at shortstop, and Chuck Wiggins or Howard Hendrickson at third base, is adequate.

The Goodridge attack, though, except for the pair of hits garnered by Mike McNelly, wasn't too robust. But a season-opening game perhaps isn't a fair test for a batter, and it's probable that the Prowlers pitchers—Harlie Drees, Arlan Hjelle, and Paul Saurdiff—were ahead of the Husky batsmen.

As for the Prowlers, coach Ralph Skay's club exhibited fine all-round balance. Team balance has been a trade-mark of Ralph's clubs since he took charge of Prowler baseball.

There had been some doubt about the hatting power of this season's club, but with such boys as Harlie Drees, Dean Bergland, Tony Wald, Jerry Jorgenson, Mickey Hanson, and a couple of others, the attack will be all right. Not the fence wrecking crew of several years ago when Glenn Carlson was hitting in clean-up, and the the Prowlers won the state consolation title, but this year's club will provide the opposing pitchers with anxious moments.

Recollections

Last September, or perhaps it was in October, we came out with some predicitions on the outcome of the men's bowling leagues. The season was concluded last week, and this week, on Wednesday evening at the Eagles, the annual banquet and awards night will be held.

But 'way back last fall, when the leagues were just getting under way, we stated that the KTRF team would win the Monday Service league competition; that the V.F.W. would win first place on Tuesday night in the Business league; that the Eagles would be winners on Thursday night, in the Commercial league bowling; and that the Argyle State Bank would be the league champions on Friday night's City league. How did we fare?

The Groalie's Pure Oil won the Monday night bowling, with our choice, KTRF, in second place. On Tuesday night, the Vets, by a narrow margin, came in first. Our Thursday night selection, the Eagles, were back in the field, finishing in fourth place as the Post Office crew took over first place. We were back on the beam on Friday night, with the Argyle State Bank being the winner, but only after a last-pin finish.

Moving over into the individual bowling category, for the season's high average in each league, we were back to normal hitting one for four. Doug Tegtmeier bowled the high average score on Monday night, and we had picked Orv Gillespie. John Jaranson, City John that is, had been our choice in the Tuesday night bowling, but he came down with a crick in the back that sidelined him for much of the season. Gordy Releroon of the Elks, won the high average honors, and his average was the highest in all the leagues. Am Wysoski took over the high average marks in the Thursday and Friday night bowling, and he did give us our lone winner. We had picked Am to win the Friday night high average title.

Troubles

An item in the Red Lake Falls Gazette reveals the Lakers will be having difficulty in fielding a team for competition in the Northern Minny league this season.

The Lakers are an always popular club, and they have been, for years and years, one of the traditional rivals of the Thieves, and so we are sorry to hear of their player troubles. Fact is, the item stated that "lack of players may force Lakers to cancel schedule."

A number of former players, such as Duane (Bozo) Emard and Ronnie LaChance, have moved away for employement or entered the service. And it is difficult for the young and prospective team members to find employment in the Red Lake Falls area.

We are sure, though, that for the good of baseball in Red Lake Falls in particular, and for the Northern Minny league in general, that enough capable players can be obtained to give the Lakers a team. There must be a number of ball players from the Plummer, St. Hilaire, or even Thief River Falls, who would be anxious to "try out" for the Lakers.

Meeting Held to Organize D-ball Loop for Summer

Representatives from six teams were in attendance at the softball meeting held in the city Auditorium on Thursday evening as plans for the 1958 city softball program were completed. There is a possibility that a seventh team, Holsum Bread, will enter a team in the league.

Roland (Stretch) Erickson was named secretary for the city softball league, and it was announced that all players wishing to participate in the program, and join a team, and who have formally signed with a team, should register with Erickson at the C. Gustafson and Son office.

Mercury Slumps to 18 Degree Mark Here This Morning

Still Colder Weather with Snow Forecast Tonight and Tuesday

The weatherman dealt northwest Minnesota residents a very low blow Monday morning, when he dished out the worst weather of the month to date. If you had planned gardening today you'd best put it off. The temperature had skidded to 18 by 10 a. m. today and that white stuff you saw falling was snow.

In the recorded period of April 17 through this morning the high temperature was 67, while the low of 18 occurred today. Precipitation figures were not complete and available. High temperatures during the period reported ranged from the mid-sixties to the low forties, while lows ranged from today's 18 to 38 Sunday.

The unpleasant forecast, as given by KTRF is for much colder temperatures with winds from 30-40 m.p.h. today. Light rain today is expected and already has changed to snow.

It will be much colder and windy tonight with occasional light snow. Partly cloudy skies are predicted for Tuesday, along with continued low temperatures.

Highs expected today are 32-45 and the lows tonight 15-25.

Moorhead Wins Sioux Outdoor Relay Event

For the second week in a row the powerful Moorhead Spuds track squad invaded Grand Forks for track competition and grabbed top honors. The Spuds piled up 44 1/6 points to win the team title in the annual Sioux Outdoor Relays held in North Dakota University's Memorial stadium on Saturday. Grand Forks Central finished in second place with 22 points, while St. James of Grand Forks earned third place with 17 points.

The short-handed Prowler squad, with weightman Larry Gausen accounting for all of the points, compiled seven points to finish well back in the field. Gausen scored a second place in the shot put, being runner-up to Oklee's Martin Johnson. Gausen had a third place in the discus throw.

Two new Sioux Relay records were set. Bob Bowers of Oak Grove high school of Fargo, ran the mile in 4:36.2 to break the record established by Grand Forks' Cliff Cushman in 1955. In 1955, Cushman ran the mile in 4:42.9.

The Fergus Falls' Otters fine 880-yard relay team of Tom Glorvigen, Sheldon Monk, Tim Cashman, and Roger Heeby posted a new record when they ran the event in 1:36.5, breaking the mark set by Grand Forks Central in 1948.

Moorhead's Dale Lamski won the individual point honors, chalking up 16½ points as a result of his efforts in the high and low hurdles, the broad jump, and the high jump.

Carpenters Lose to Thieves Sunday 16-4

On a chilled and wind-swept Fair Grounds diamond Sunday afternoon the Thieves of the Northern Minny league defeated the Carpenter's team of the Red River Valley loop, winning by a 16 to 4 score in seven innings.

The game, which was an exhibition tilt slated to permit the respective managers, Frank Gunderman of the Thieves and Louis Carpenter of the Carpenter's club, to test their player personnel, was an interesting affair.

Carpenter's, after a pair of scoreless innings, chalked up the game's first runs in the 3rd inning on ground singles by Zutz and Carlson and a two-base throwing error by pitcher Gene Leslie. The Thieves, in the last half of the 3rd inning, shoved across three runs, taking advantage of a pair of errors, a wild pitch and singles by Arlan Hjelle and Joey Poole.

In the 4th, a walk, an error and a double by Hjelle plated two Thieves runs; and in the 5th inning nine runs were trotted across the plate to give the locals a comfortable lead.

Gene Leslie, working the first three innings, Mickey Hanson, pitching the 4th and 5th frames, and Hjelle, hurling the 6th and 7th, allowed Carpenter's but five hits.

Picture Book on State Due May 5

'The Face of Minnesota' Is Centennial Project

The publication of the Minnesota Centennial picture book, "The Face of Minnesota" by John Szarkowski on May 5 by the University of Minnesota Press will be marked by the opening of an exhibit of pictures from the book at the Walter Art Center, Minneapolis.

A grant from the Centennial Commission made the preparation of the book possible. It contains a total of 179 black-and-white and 24 color photographs of Minnesota people, places, and events. These were selected from hundreds of pictures which Mr. Szarkowski took especially for this purpose.

In taking the photographs, he traveled to all parts of the state in the last two years. The result is a camera artist's view of the state's activities, regions, and landscapes through the varying seasons. The book will be priced at $5.00.

Along with his pictures Mr. Szarkowski presents excerpts from the writings of others and explanatory comments of his own to help interpret the state. In a technical note he explains the methods he used in making the photographs and some of his principles of photography.

Soo Line Earnings Decline Sharply Compared to 1957

Gross revenue of the Soo Line was down substantially in March, totaling $3,121,000 for the month this year compared to $3,985,000 in March, 1957. Compared to a net income of $285,564 in March last year, the company recorded a net loss of $331,786 for the month in 1958. Net deficit for the first three months of 1958 amounted to $806,000, compared to a net income of $219,431 for the same period last year.

Car Liability Claims Hit $3,300 a Minute

Thirty-three hundred dollars a minute, day and night thruout the year, is the pace insurance companies paid auto liability claims in 1957. Minute by minute, that adds up to traffic accident costs of well over $1,500,000,000 for the 12-month period.

This "startling" fact is brought out in a new leaflet prepared by the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies to explain why it has been necessary for insurers to raise automobile liability insurance rates. The pamphlet is being mailed to insured motorists throughout the country by insurance agents and brokers.

Automobile insurance rates are based on claim costs resulting from traffic accidents. Insurance costs more today, the mailing piece asserts, principally because of increases in the number of accidents, the higher charges for repairing cars and people, and the growing size of damage awards by juries.

"The toll of fatal and bodily injury accidents as well as property damage accidents last year reached the staggering total of 11,700,000, 18 per cent over the figure for only five years ago," the folder states. "In this tragic sum, 1,865,000 men, women and children suffered personal injuries. Every weekend was a catastrophe in 1957, accounting for almost half the disasters, as death struck every nine minutes and every 12 seconds someone suffered injury."

Just as accidents have been increasing, so too have the costs of those accidents, the pamphlet points out, noting that modern cars with elaborate chrome trim, wrap around windshields, tinted glass, twin headlights, triple taillights and sweeping fenders have changed yesterday's minor sideswipe into today's major repair job. A bumper and front end repair that cost $29.70 five years ago is valued at $56.75 now, an increase of 91 per cent, the leaflet says, while a front fender and light that used to bring $50.85 brings $71.50 today, an increase of 41 per cent.

Another factor in higher claim costs cited in the pamphlet is the continually climbing expense for medical treatment. In some instances, hospital rates for room, board and nursing service valuted close to 50 per cent in five years.

Still another factor is the marked rise in the size of verdicts rendered in liability suits. The average verdict for plaintiffs in the supreme court of one large state has more than tripled since 1941, and in certain areas the average award has gone up as much as 486 per cent. Yet, over that same period of time the consumers' price index increased only 95 per cent, it is stated.

All together, repair prices, medical expenses and jury awards boosted the countrywide average cost per claim more than 20 per cent between 1952 and 1957.

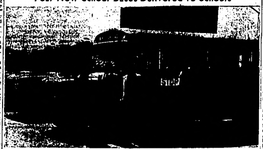
The Farm Safety Award went to the Winona FFA chapter.

Four New School Buses Delivered to Schools



School Supt. Irwin T. Mickelson (center) is shown here as he takes delivery of four new 44-passenger school buses from Wallace Tunberg, left, of Tunberg Motor Co., as Roger Tunberg looks on. The four vehicles were delivered to the schools Friday, the largest number of buses delivered to schools here at one time. Although all four are Fords there are two of each body style in the group. They were immediately pressed into service to give safe, comfortable transportation to area students at Thief River Falls schools.

Lincoln High Quartet Sings at Athletic Banquet

A quartet of Lincoln high school boy students appeared on the program at the athletic banquet last Wednesday evening in St. Bernard's church dining hall, and presented several well-rendered selections. The group includes, left to right, Ronald Moe, Frank Conklin, Lolell Dyrud and Wes Christensen.

AAA Opens Drive on Litterbugs

Appeals to Motorists to Keep Highways Clean

The American Automobile Assn. (AAA) has opened its annual campaign to keep America's roadsides clean by appealing directly to the "culprit" and the "beneficiary"—the motorist.

"Thousands of miles of our major highways will continue to be trash-littered eyesores despite the best efforts of state and local officials as long as some drivers treat the roadsides as one big trash can," H. M. Craig, executive secretary, Minnesota AAA, said. "As in most problems of this sort, the real offenders are a small minority of the motoring public, but it takes just a few litterbugs to make a big mess."

A recent survey placed the cost of litter cleanup at between $15 and $50 per mile. Minnesota spends about $250,000 a year for litter cleanup, according to late statistics.

The AAA official urged motorists to keep unwanted objects in a litter bag, or plain paper bag, until they can be disposed of at a proper trash receptacle.

Urges Arranging for Summer Resort Now

One of the more difficult questions to answer which comes to the tourist office of the Minnesota department of business development is also one of the more frequently asked, according to Commissioner J. W. Clark. That question is usually posed like this, "You folks here know the resorts, hotels and motels of Minnesota about as well as anybody. Give me a good steer. Where should I take my family this summer?"

The question is difficult to answer. That is because tastes vary so much. One person's idea of "a pleasant reasonably priced family cottage" may be much different than that of another. Also a state agency, maintained by public funds, cannot play favorites. At the same time Minnesota citizens are entitled to all the direction and assistance which can be supplied.

The tourist office tries to meet this situation in two ways, according to Commissioner Clark. One is that of providing directories, state and regional, to those who ask for them. The other is by urging the inquirers to take a pre-vacation exploratory trip.

While many of the resorts are not actually in business during the month of May, the operator and his wife are there. They welcome the opportunity of showing the prospective guest about, and discussing reservation possibilities, costs, recreation facilities, and specific accommodations. Experience has so conclusively proven the value of these pre-vacation trips as to warrant their more general use.

Those who do not know now where they wish to take their ten day or two weeks vacation are urged to take the family on one or two weekend explorations. It is good fun and assures the longer trip in mid-summer being just what that family wants.

Centennial Stamp Exhibit Planned

To Be Held in St. Paul Hotel on May 9, 10 and 11

One of the featured events of the year long celebration planned for the 100th anniversary of Minnesota's statehood will be the stamp exhibition sponsored by the Twin City Philatelic Society to be held in the St. Paul Hotel on May 9, 10 and 11th. This will be the largest and finest exhibition ever held in this area both from the numbers of exhibitors and the quality of the collections on display.

The Court of Honor will have special frames of philatelic interest from the governments of Sweden, Norway, Denmark and the United States and selected pages from the Cardinal Spellman collection of "Religion on Stamps". Guest of honor exhibits will be; S. M. Arnold, St. Louis, "President Free Franks", C. Turner Nearing, Decatur, Illinois, "St. Louis Postmaster Provisionals" and Henry Meyer, Evansville, Indiana, "Covers of the Early Years of the French Revolution".

The Minnesota theme will be carried in the exhibition by a ninety page exhibit of all the earliest known Minnesota territorial covers. This rare and unusual exhibit is being compiled from the collections of the states foremost collections of Postal History.

Big Year in Road Work

Ancher Nelson, state chairman of the Republican party, has been criticizing Governor Orville Freeman for delays in the letting of highway contracts, accusing him of "sitting" on 80 million dollars of construction funds. Highway department officials do not support the Nelson charges. They tell us Governor Freeman has instructed them to advance the work program as speedily as is practicable. One of the officials responsible for programming tells us, "The Governor has been pounding us on the back to get work under way."

The unusually large cash balance in the construction fund is due mainly to delays in letting contracts on the interstate system. The regular program is proceeding well up to schedule, we are assured.

Delays in letting contracts on the new interstate system are due to unusual conditions. One of the necessary preliminaries is the acquiring of right of way, a slow procedure in the metropolitan area. Planning involves many unusual problems. Special care in the drafting stage may save costly errors later on.

We are sure 1958 will be a big year for road construction in Minnesota. Additional millions have been made available to counties and cities, and our guess is that there will be no idle road building machinery. Such a large work program thruout the entire state should do much to reduce the state's unemployment figures.

We Are Not Impressed

We are glad to give space in the Public Opinion column to a letter we received from Attorney General Miles Lord in which he takes exception to a statement we made some time ago about his fitness as a champion of the dairy industry of the state in the fight to break down the barriers against freedom in the marketing of milk. Our question was raised mainly on the conflict of interest in this argument between organized labor and the producers.

From our observation of the evil here at home, in the metropolitan area of our own state, and a situation with which Mr. Lord is very familiar, we know that the strongest pressure group politically favoring strict local regulation of milk sales is the milk drivers' union. We have taken for granted that the same situation prevails generally in all of the large cities of the country.

We therefore have come to what we believe to be a logical conclusion in assuming that one of Mr. Lord's main adversaries in the fight for freedom would be organized labor. And, frankly, it is not easy for us to visualize Mr. Lord struggling whole-heartedly in support of a group of unorganized farmers in an argument with a highly organized labor union.

In our large cities the milk drivers' strangle hold on the milk industry comes pretty close to being a racket. Many a milk route pays a driver more than Mr. Lord receives as attorney general. The cost of milk deliveries in the large cities is the biggest item of expense between what the producer receives and the consumer pays. The union that exacts this tribute is a powerful force politically. And Mr. Lord is a politician.

Plunderers? No.

Before you throw away yesterday's Minneapolis Sunday Tribune, salvage the editorial page article by George Peterson, replying to a sob-sister "Lament for Minnesota: One Hundred Years of Pillage", which is appearing in the May issue of Harper's magazine. Mr. Peterson's answer is deserving of careful study.

In the Harper's article the author looks back upon the years of her girlhood in Northern Minnesota, when, she says:

> "I watched the transformation of a paradise of primeval beauty and a treasure trove of economic wealth—which, properly husbanded, might have lasted forever—into a grim, gray landscape. I saw it all because, unlike the ancient civilizations whose unthinking exploitation we deplore, it didn't take two thousand years—or even five hundred — for these natives to plunder their land. They accomplished it in less than fifty."

Mr. Peterson, in his article, points out that the "wealth" which she saw plundered, is being husbanded, and in many respects, is being augmented by sound policies and practices, and that "Minnesota is setting up as many guards as possible over its natural resources."

The generation that preceded us made a few mistakes. So have we. But they handed down a wonderful heritage in improvements of various kinds. Measuring the good things they did for us along with their errors, we have no reason to complain about their management of our natural resources. If we do as well, proportionately, for the generation that succeeds us, we will have reason to be proud of our achievement.

Conservation department officials tell us "they cannot remember any year since the early 'thirties when our woodlands have been as dry as they are now." The next three weeks will be the most critical, if we do not get rain, we are told. As a means of protecting our own property, let's be extra careful.

Minnesota dairymen apparently are in the business for keeps. According to Al Stech man of the St. Paul Pioneer Press, for the third time our state has rated first in the nation in production of milk per cow, tieing New Jersey and beating all other states. In our area the number of cows of more than average production is steadily increasing. Now is a good time to dispose of the boarders that do not produce enough fat to pay for their feed.

Higher prices for red meat have improved the prospects for turkey growers. Up to the first of April the cold storage stocks of turkeys had been reduced substantially to a lower figure than that of a year ago. The Thanksgiving turkey may be up in price next November and in our area that is good news.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

The school board of a backwoods country school was paying a visit to the classroom, and the teacher was showing off her pupils.

"Who signed the Magna Charta, Robert?" she asked one boy.

"Please ma'am, it wasn't me," he said, edging back in his seat.

The teacher was about to pass on to another pupil when an old tobacco-chewing board member interrupted. "Call that boy back," he directed, "I don't like his looks. I believe he did do it."

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans' benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA Contact Representative at the Grand Forks VA office.

Q—My doctor tells me my service-connected disability is getting worse because of the trouble I am having with my teeth. Would I be eligible for VA dental care even though my tooth trouble is not service-connected?

A—If VA finds that your dental condition is aggravating your service-connected disability, you would be eligible for VA dental care to alleviate the aggravation.

Q—If I take farm training under the Korean GI Bill, will I receive the same allowance rate throughout my training?

A—No. You will receive the maximum rate during your first year of farm training. After that, the rate will be reduced at four-month intervals.

Q—I am planning to get a VA-insured GI business loan. Will the interest rate be 4¾ percent, as it is for GI loans guaranteed by VA?

A—No. In the case of non-realty GI farm and business loans insured by VA, the interest may not exceed a three percent discount rate or an equivalent simple interest rate of 5.7 percent a year.

Q—A World War I veteran died, leaving a son age 21. The son is eligible for War Orphans education. Would his War Orphans benefits end when he reaches age 32?

A—No. Since the veteran-parent died after his son had passed age 18, the young man will have five years after the death of the veteran to complete his War Orphans schooling.

THIS WEEK

—In Washington

With Clinton Davidson

Washington this week is moving slowly toward a Summit Conference later this year with about as much enthusiasm as a small boy about to enter a haunted house.

"We know that the Russians are baiting a trap for us," a veteran diplomat told us, "but the lure of even the remotest possibility of an easing of the cold war is irresistible."

The trap that Nikita Khrushchev has so cleverly set for us is the most powerful in the world. The jaws of adverse public opinion can crush any nation. The bait is promises of peace.

The Russian objective is to convince as many nations as possible, as well as the Russian people, that the Communist Bloc wants peace, and that it is the capitalistic nations that are the warmongers.

President Eisenhower interprets Russian demands for a Summit meeting as a trick to inflame world opinion against the U.S. Secretary Dulles sees it as another phase in the Communist plan for world domination.

Both credit Khrushchev with being sincere in his desire to avoid a hydrogen-atomic bomb war, but only if he can achieve world conquest by other means.

Russia has a potent weapon which Washington fears far more than the hydrogen bomb or the ICBM. The communists did not invent propaganda, but they are the most skilled and ruthless users of the "big lie" in the world today. The Summit Conference demand is a matter propaganda stroke.

What Khrushchev wants is something for nothing. He has the advantage of knowing that the West will bargain in good faith and that it will keep any promises made. Khrushchev is hampered by no such scruples.

"The American representatives at the conference," a former U. S. envoy to Moscow told us, "had better wear both a belt and suspenders. Either way, we still are likely to lose our shirt."

One of the things that bothers Washington most is the remarkable and ominous similarity between the tactics of Khrushchev and German dictator Adolf Hitler. The parallel is almost as if we were turning back the pages of history.

Hitler dreamed his mad dream of world domination, and so does Khrushchev. The record of both is bloody with the ruthless extermination or exile of all internal opposition. Khrushchev, as did Hitler, cloaks his intentions behind a professed desire for peace.

Hitler walked out of the League of Nations, and Khrushchev used the United Nations as a propaganda sounding board. The Russians have the same underlying spirit of "do as we wish you to do or else . . ."

Twenty years ago Hitler lured Allied government heads to Munich with the promise of a man-to-man settlement of their differences. While he talked of peace he armed furiously for war.

British Prime Minister Sir Neville Chamberlain came away from Munich with the conviction that he had secured a firm promise of "peace in our time." Hitler robbed Western Europe, and perhaps the U.S., of the alertness to danger that might have prevented World War II.

The question Washington is asking itself is: Is history again about to repeat itself?

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

The securities division of the state of Minnesota is an agency of state government designed to protect the public against fraud and misrepresentation in the sale of securities. Another agency, the securities exchange commission, has similar functions on the federal level, but its operations relate primarily to securities that are sold in interstate commerce. Therefore this subject is one of concern to both state and federal governments.

Registration of Securities

The Minnesota commissioner of securities, Arthur Hansen, summarizes the duties of the securities division as being two-fold: (1) to regulate the sale of legitimate securities upon applications made for the registration of such securities after the examination of information submitted; and (2) by a process of education to reduce, and help to eliminate, losses due to stock swindlers and their persuasive influence on gullible investors.

Unwary Investors Lose

Mr. Hanson reports that records in his office show numerous instances of Minnesota investors who succumbed to glowing descriptions, often given over the telephone, of profits that could be made by the purchase of some unheard-of stocks, only to lose all they invested. To avoid that kind of loss, Mr. Hansen suggests that anyone interested in investing in securities follow certain accepted rules.

How to Avoid Loss

Long experience suggests that the following advice is helpful:

1. Investigate before buying.
2. Deal only with a security firm which you know, or one recommended by someone familiar with investments.
3. Be skeptical of securities offered on the telephone from any source, and particularly from any firm or salesman you do not know.
4. At all times be on guard against any indication of high pressure, either through literature, long distance telephone calls, or telegram.
5. Beware of promises of quick, spectacular price rises.
6. Be sure you understand the risk of loss, as well as the prospect of gain.
7. Get all of the facts. Do not buy on tips or rumors.
8. Give at least as much thought when purchasing securities as you would when acquiring any valuable property.
9. Request the person offering securities to furnish evidence of licenses from the Securities Division, or, if over the phone, to mail written information concerning the company, its operations, profit and management.

The registration of securities with a federal or state agency cannot, of course, guarantee against loss. Legitimate business sometimes has losses as well as profits, and any investor must recognize that fact. All government can do is to try to prevent deliberate fraud and attempts to mislead the public.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor Times:

I write this letter in answer to your editorial "Start the Fight Now" of April 3, 1958. You suggest that the fight to open the nation's milk markets should not be delayed for the time necessary to get an appropriation through the Legislature. You also question the wisdom of having the Attorney General lead this fight.

Although you may not be aware of it, the fight has been under way for three years. At the request of myself and Governor Freeman, an appropriation of $30,000.00 was made in the 1955 session of the Legislature to the Attorney General. This fund was to be used to take action to open the nation's markets to Minnesota milk and dairy products.

The Attorney General did this work to the satisfaction of the dairy men and the creamery men of the state who have twice since asked the Legislature to keep the appropriation in effect.

The Attorney General is now in litigation in Louisiana where that state has passed a law excluding our dry milk powder. I have appeared before Congress several times urging the Congress to enact legislation curbing the activities of the Department of Agriculture whose milk market orders have restricted our trade.

On Friday, April 18, 1958 I appeared before the Commerce Committee of the House of Representatives in support of a Federal Law setting uniform sanitation standards for milk and dairy products. This law would make it impossible for each community to keep out all milk except that produced near the market.

These are only a few of the many appearances we have made in our efforts to further the interests of the Minnesota dairy farmer.

The State of Minnesota each year produces 5 times as much dairy products as it consumes. We must export to the large centers of population to stay healthy.

The adversary of the Minnesota dairy farmer is not the man who delivers the milk as you would have your readers believe. Instead it is the milk producers of the south and east who work in giant combination to monopolize the consuming capacity of their area.

Your Very Truly,
Miles Lord
Attorney General

How to buy "vitamins"

Door-to-door peddlers are around now, selling vitamin preparations and nutritional supplements. The talk is mighty convincing. But, remember, talk won't do a thing for you. There's only one way to be sure of what vitamin you need if any are needed at all. That is to see your family physician. He and he alone is qualified to prescribe for you. Always buy vitamins or nutritional supplements from a registered pharmacist. Then you'll know what you're getting—and you'll get your money's worth.

Race

Some Minnesota iron ores now being mined contain as much as two-thirds waste rock and sand. Extensive research found ways to improve these ores . . . and millions of dollars were invested in plants to do the work. Improvements like these help our state stay in the race as a major iron ore producer. We need more plants, more investments, more development of our low-grade ores to remain in that race.

Only research and investment can keep Minnesota's iron ore future bright!

House With Pitched Roof Cost Less, Offers More

Which costs more to build—a house with a flat roof or one with a pitched roof?

A popular theory among builders and home owners alike has been that a flat-roofed house costs less because the roof structure itself is less expensive.

But the University of Illinois Small Homes Council has exploded the theory with detailed comparisons of the costs of both roof types.

Here, as reported in House & Home, a magazine for professional builders, are some of the more important conclusions:

Flat roofs usually cost less to frame than pitched roofs, but the savings are more than offset by the need for heavier plywood decking and build-up roofing instead of asphalt shingles. In California, builders of huge developments have discovered another advantage in that roofs of various pitches give single houses more of an individual look. For this reason, plus the greater economy of pitched roofs, many West Coast builders have all but abandoned flat roof construction.

The extra cost of framing a pitched roof—more lumber and labor is required—is more than absorbed by the use of lighter plywood decking and asphalt shingles, resulting in a lower total cost for the entire house. A further advantage almost as important to the individual home owner is appearance. A pitched roof with colorful asphalt shingles adds important color to the entire exterior appearance of the house.

Flat-roofed houses need a bearing partition under which the foundation must be strengthened. Wall materials must be cut and fitted to the partition at ceiling and end walls. Floors also must be cut and fitted to the partition. The strengthened foundation, plus the extra labor with wall and floor materials, considerably raises the cost of flat-roofed-house construction.

Pitched-roofed houses need no bearing partition, because trusses span wall-to-wall. Ceiling and wall material can be applied in unbroken sheets throughout the living area, and partitions can be built later. Floors also can be laid without cutting for partitions. In addition, even the lowest-pitched roof provides an attic space for ventilation, important to keeping summer heat out of the house.

Four Domestic Tragedies And How to Meet Them

Spring cleaning isn't what it used to be. Carpets were yanked up, Papa—so the comic strips said—was yanked from his favorite chair, and even the dog slunk out of the house to wait for quieter times.

Today it's different. The house is mechanized and the homemaker can do a more thorough job more frequently than her mother could with brush and broom.

Still there are household difficulties which can't be handled in day-to-day or weekly cleaning. Repair takes a concentrated effort and know-how. The Seng Company's Handbook of Furniture Facts lists these four common domestic tragedies and ways to deal with them:

Varnish turned white by hot water or hot dishes. Rub lightly with flannel dampened with spirits of camphor or essence of peppermint. Varnish will be temporarily softened. Let it dry, then rub it smooth. Apply wax furniture polish.

White spots on wax finish. Remove by sponging with turpentine; Apply fresh wax when fumes evaporate.

Dents in furniture. Wet with warm water. Roll brown paper, soak in warm water and lay upon dent. Apply a warm (not hot) iron until moisture evaporates. Repeat if dents do not disappear.

Deep furniture scratches. Remove loose splinters. Work stain into crack with fine brush. Stain darkens with time so use a stain slightly lighter than surrounding wood. With a fine brush fill the scratch with white shellac, being careful not to allow shellac to overlap edges of scratch.

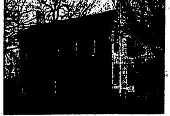
AMERICANA — Cities to See

Springfield—Chosen City of Abe Lincoln



Lincoln Home—Springfield, Ill.

THERE are two things about Springfield, Illinois, that are known to virtually every American: Springfield is the capital of Illinois and the chosen city and final resting place of Abraham Lincoln. These are separate distinctions, but both eventualities are a part of the heritage of the great President.

During the 1836-37 session of the Illinois General Assembly, one of the chief matters at hand was the selection of a new site for the Capitol. Five cities were under consideration. Abraham Lincoln, a young lawyer representing Sangamon County, introduced a bill providing for removal of the Capitol of Illinois to Springfield. He was backed by eight fellow members who with him were known as the "Long Nine," because all were over six feet in height. Springfield was selected (Vandalia had been the Capitol) and the State Legislature first assembled in Springfield in 1839.

The Capitol at Springfield was completed in 1853. It took 15 years to build and cost $260,000. Constructed of cut stone brought from a quarry six miles away, it was considered one of the architectural wonders of the State. The present Capitol, completed 1887, cost more than $4,500,000.

Tourist attractions include the Capitol Group—principal buildings of State Government. In addition to the Capitol, are the Illinois Centennial Building, commemorating the admission of the State to the Union in 1818; the Illinois Supreme Court Building; State Armory; and a new $11,000,000 State Office Building completed in 1955.

No visit to Springfield would be complete without viewing Lincoln's Home and Tomb.

New Salem State Park, a half-hour's drive from Springfield, is an authentic re-creation of the village where young Lincoln clerked in a store, chopped wood, enlisted in the Black Hawk War, served as postmaster, deputy surveyor and legislator, and met Ann Rutledge.

Two Weeks in Paris, London, Rome Is Top Prize in New Wool Sewing Contest

Girls Between the Ages of 14 and 22 Can Enter the 12th Annual "Make It Yourself With Wool" Contest

Girls in this area have the opportunity to win numerous valuable sewing prizes—including a two-week, all-expense-paid trip to London, Paris, and Rome—by entering the twelfth annual "Make It Yourself With Wool" contest, now beginning.

Sub-Deb Entries Encouraged

Any girl between the ages of 14 and 22 is eligible. All she has to do is make a dress, suit, coat or ensemble of all-wool fabric and enter it in the contest. A girl may compete in one of three divisions: junior, for girls between the ages of 14 and 17; senior, for girls 18 to 22 inclusive, and sub-deb, for girls 13 to 16. The sub-deb division has been made more important this year and will receive a greater number of prizes than ever before.

The contest, which is sponsored in 19 states by the nation's wool growers and the Wool Bureau, is designed to stimulate interest in home sewing and to show young girls how easy it is to sew with wool. It is endorsed by the National Education Association and is encouraged by the Extension Service and the Farm Bureau.

Top national award is a two-week tour of Europe's fashion capitals via Pan American World Airways for two girls, one in the junior division and one in the senior division. Other prizes, which total $45,000, include scholarships, U.S. savings bonds, sewing machines, wool fabric lengths, and many other valuable awards.

Free Trip to Portland Finals

In addition to state and national awards there are many district prizes given in the preliminary finals which will be held in each of the several districts in the state in the early fall. Winners in the districts then go to the state finals to be held later in the fall. Girls who win in the state finals will receive trips to Portland, Oregon next January where the national judging will be done. Travel tickets for each girl will be presented by the F.W. Woolworth Co.

Awards at the various stages of the contest will be presented by Clauss Cutlery Co., Coats and Clark, Inc., Colorado Woman's College, John Dritz and Sons, McCall's Patterns, Singer Sewing Machine Co., Simplicity Patterns, and Woolite Inc. Mills

FIRST TO ENTER 1958 CONTEST: Judy A. Ackerman, 15 year old high school sophomore from Alzada, Montana, is presented with a bouquet of red roses for being the first girl to enter the 1958 "Make It Yourself With Wool" contest. Congratulating Miss Ackerman is Mrs. Rudie Mick, president of the Women's Auxiliary of the National Wool Growers Association which co-sponsors the contest with the Wool Bureau.

contributing awards include Dorman Mills, Forstmann Woolen Co., Pendleton Woolen Mills, Sag-No-Mor Jersey by Wyner, Standard Felt Co., and Strathmore Mills.

The 19 states participating in the contest are Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Contest information is available from The Wool Bureau, Inc., 16 West 46th Street, New York 36, N.Y., or from the state contest director.

In Minnesota, the state contest director in the "Make It Yourself With Wool" contest is

Trip To West Coast

A trip to the west coast by Albert Olson, Louie Aaseby and Ludvig Ona. The first part of March they started on a four week trip by car. When about 100 miles west of Fargo they were in a snow storm, the first night was spent at Bismarck, N. D. and the roads were very icy until entering Montana, but at Helena they were in a snow storm again. The first place they visited was at Spokane, Wash. they visited with Mr. Olson's daughter and her family, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Edwards, from there to St. John, Wash. where they visited Mr. Olson's son and other daughter, Clifford Olson and his family and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Schlerman and family, when leaving there they drove the scenic Columbia river highway to Portland, Oregon. At Kelso and Longview, Wash. they visited Mr. Aaseby's son and daughter, Melvin Aaseby and his family, Melvin is a wood chips hauler in a large lumber mill. While here they also called on Mrs. Erickson, the Ericksons formerly lived on the Walker and Frank Armstrong farms in Norden. At Long Beach they visited Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brating who has a cranberry farm, the Bratings, formerly lived in this community. At Bremerton they visited Carl Berg. The next stop was Poilspo, Wash. where they visited with Ludvig Ona's brother Alfred who is a fisherman, next they visited Mr. Ona's grandchildren at Kickland and while Mr. Ona remained at Kickland, Albert Olson and Louie Aaseby visited with the Knute Johnson's at Everett. At Tacoma they spent a few days with the Joe Joringdals' who are busy with their vegetable, fruit and poultry farm. Everywhere they went the grass was green and the flowers were blooming. But they report that business was a little slack out there also. While they were at the Joringdals there was real excitement one day when Joe was plugging in an electric razor for them, there was a break in the cord where Joe put his thumb and it made the sparks fly, there was quite a surprised look on his face, but don't worry Joe is tough. He will pull through. They also visited with the Oscar Vingers who have a small fruit farm and Oscar is working in a smelting plant in Tacoma.

The Vingers lived in this community for several years that is the James Wilson farm now. Enroute home at Steven pass the roads were bad and a lot of snow.

At Glasgow, Montana they visited a friend of Mr. Ona's and at Poplar, Mont. they visited with Artuhr Monestad and Lester Engen.

Summer Furniture Utility Increased

Summer furniture is taking to the four seasons.

The basket chair on your patio at 90 above may be in front of your TV at 10 below.

Grandma saw rattan and wrought iron only in the garden. Her grandchildren took them into the living room and dinning room a long time ago. Now they appear in some of the smartest new bedrooms too.

Some summer furniture is more correctly labeled "casual" or "indoor-outdoor". You can leave it one a covered porch or terrace under a tarpaulin, during summer showers. But is will be equally handsome, year round in family rooms or living rooms. Upholstery fabrics range from tough, waterproof plastics to beautifully colored hand printed cottons, to woven textured tweeds. Cushion covers are often zippered for easy removal for washing. Foam rubber cushions and good spring bases provide the maximum comfort. Much of the new furniture seems designed to stimulate the gypsy in all of us.

Hawaii, China, Japan and Indo-China are brought to mind by some of the more sophisticated new pieces. But American design practicality is evidenced by plastic table tops, interesting combinations of wood with rattan, stainless steel or lacquered brass draw pulls.

Scandinavian countries and Italy have contributed to the form and size of much of this new "casual" furniture. Slim and low lines, similar to much of our most modern indoor wood furniture have been adapted to the newest rattan and metal furniture to take the place of the curlyques of grandma's porch furniture.

Wood Keeps Its Vital Role As Home Building Material

In an era when science is constantly coming up with new "miracle materials," why is nature's oldest building product, wood, still so vital in home construction?

Here are a few of the most important reasons:

1. Beauty. The texture, grain, and color of wood can't be duplicated in the laboratory. These qualities help give the home the warmth and richness of appearance it should have.

2. Warm to the touch. In windows of ponderosa pine, for example, the inside of the sash and frame stay warm, even in the coldest weather. This keeps the moisture from collecting and running down to damage interior paint and wallpaper.

3. Decoration. Wood can be painted, enameled, stained, or given a clear, natural finish. This is important to home decorating, inside and out.

4. Low labor costs. Windows of ponderosa pine are available in units with frame and sash fitted together at the factory. The unit is simply slipped into the opening, and nailed in place.

5. Long life. Wood will last as long as any other component of a structure. Wood windows and doors of ponderosa pine are scientifically treated with preservatives to strengthen their natural resistance to weather.

6. Variety of design. Wood windows and panel doors are available in stock from building material dealers in numerous styles and sizes.

7. Versatility. The easy workability of wood makes it possible to manufacture stock windows, and panel and louver doors of ponderosa pine to suit any architectural design.

Paneling Can Make Wasted Space Useful

Paneling a room in wood can convert a dormant, dusty attic or basement into bright, cheerful space for living.

An important reason for the popularity of paneling is its easy installation which helps keep down labor costs if a professional does the work and at the same time makes paneling projects possible for the "do-it-yourself" amateur. For the guidance of the amateur, here are some tips from the Western Pine Association on how to panel:

Store the lumber for about 10 days in the room where it is to be used. Put sticks between each piece to allow the air to circulate.

First step in construction is to provide a nailing surface to which the paneling is to be attached. For applying horizontal paneling to an ordinary unfinished wall, such as is usually found in an unfinished attic, it may be possible to nail the boards directly onto the studs. However, most other jobs require that furring strips be provided.

Basement Installations

In a basement or for any concrete or masonry walls, furring can be installed by use of various kinds of special screw plugs or steel cut nails. It can be nailed directly to old plaster walls.

Furring strips should be horizontal in applying vertical paneling. Strips should be at least 1x2 inches and placed at least every four feet beginning with the top. At the bottom there should be an extra-wide furring strip—usually 1x8. It should be wide enough to leave a surface for the paneling to be nailed on when the baseboard — usually a 1x6 — is attached.

After the furring is in, start cutting the paneling to fit. Do not install it, but measure out where each piece will go. Make sure each board fits properly.

Then do the sanding. This is the secret to really fine paneling. Use a fine sandpaper and sand with the grain.

Now is the time to add the color to the wood if you wish—before it is nailed in place. Pre-stain everything—paneling, cabinets, baseboards, window trim, and mouldings.

Start With Baseboard

The pre-stained paneling is now ready to be installed. The baseboard is first. In installing vertical paneling, start at the corner. Butt each piece squarely onto the baseboard and nail it directly to the furring strips. "Blind nailing" helps to make the best looking job. Drive the nails into the furring strip through the tongued section at the edge of each paneling board at an angle. Countersink the nails with a nail-set. When the tongue fits into the groove of the next panel being installed, the nail is hidden.

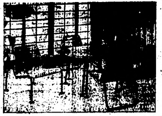
DESIGN M-497-A AND B. This little duplex can provide retired couples with a source of income that will not stretch their investment too far.

M-497-A is basementless. A central heating unit, washer-dryer and water heater have been placed in a compact area between the two units. Cubage is 13,002 cubic feet.

M-497-B has a full basement. The stairway accessible from each unit has replaced the utility area. A central or individual heating units can be the choice of the owner. Cubage is 21,867 cubic feet.

The exterior design remains the same. Exposed rafter ends, wide horizontal or shingle siding and home-made shutters are all worked in shades of rustic brown. Floor area is 1182 square feet.

For further information about DESIGN M-497 A AND B, write the Small House Planning Bureau, St. Cloud, Minn.



Long-lasting and easily-maintained, tubular steel furniture is popular both in patio, as above and for indoor room groupings. This group boasts "self-cooling" woven fibre seats.

Critics Applaud 'Prefab' By Frank Lloyd Wright

Prefabricated house in Madison, Wisc., designed by Frank Lloyd Wright has brick red roof of asphalt shingles designed with special battens to add distinct shadow lines. Awning windows of ponderosa pine occupy most of entire front wall. Closeup, below, show how roof lines and battens on walls accentuate length and width.

The first prefabricated house designed by Frank Lloyd Wright has been praised by critics as being comparable to many homes the great architect has designed for individuals at costs of $100,000 and more.

Wright's "prefab," manufactured by Marshall Erdman & Associates, of Madison, Wis., is a 3 or 4-bedroom, 2½-bath home that sells for $35,000 to $50,000.

In exterior appearance, the house is long and low, stretching 80 feet. Its length is accentuated by the unique horizontal battens used on the roof and sidewalls. The roof, of brick-red asphalt shingles, has a distinctive double pitch, with ridge off center.

Wright specified asphalt shingles, Erdman says, because they are economical, yet provide a quality roof in keeping with the price range of the house.

Windows — more than 40 of them in awning-styles of ponderosa pine—are grouped in long, horizontal bands and in large geometric patterns. Installed in this manner, they give a distinctive appearance to the house, yet go along with one of Wright's musts—that his houses be located on scenic sites, and that the view be unobstructed from inside the house.

Comfort has been provided with complete insulation—3 inches of mineral wool in walls, 4 inches in the ceiling, and 2 inches of special perimeter insulation around the edges of the foundation slab. Air conditioned models have 6 inches of mineral wool in the ceiling.

The living room is 20 by 34 feet, and has a huge fireplace. The kitchen, 12 by 28 feet, is lighted by rows of windows and a skylight, and is adjacent to a family room and dining room.

Other features are wood paneled walls throughout, a separate entry with powder room nearby, and a two-car carport with a storage wall.

Erdman says he hopes to distribute the house nationally before the end of 1958. "We're looking for 50 dealers across the country who will build the house and exhibit it to the public."

Observes Birthday

Mr. and Mrs. Axel Sund, Ricky and Ronnie, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Klasow, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Einarson and Mrs. Carl Hanson were Wednesday evening visitors at the Lynn Hanson home in observance of Mr. Hanson's birthday. A social evening was spent followed by lunch featuring two birthday cakes.

Big Kitchens Are Back

The big kitchen which doubles as a family living room is back in style with the food preparation center close by a spacious round-the-clock dining center, and provision for music and games.

In many of these kitchens a change in flooring defines the various areas. In others, such games as shuffle board and checkers are laid in the flooring or counter top space. In the room pictured, the flooring defines the end of the kitchen and the beginning of the recreation area. The chord organ, played by all members of the family, provides music for singing and dancing.

Insulation Pays Own Way

INSULATION Where and How Much	Installation Cost (Approx.)	ANNUAL FUEL SAVINGS
		Zone 1	Zone 2	Zone 3	Zone 4

4 in.	145	23	51	88	106
2 in.	90	19	45	78	80

Minimum of 3 in.	$225	$11	$25	$43	$51
2 in.	150	10	23	39	46
1 in.	125	8	18	32	37

How much money does insulation save home-owners in reduced heating fuel consumption?

The table and map show the results of a study on the effects of varied thicknesses of mineral wool in three average small house types in four heating zones.

The study was conducted by the Minneapolis-Honeywell Research Center, with portions based on the American Society of Heating and Air Conditioning Engineers Guide.

Although all costs are approximate, the table shows, for example, that in Zone 3 the sample house with 6 inches of mineral wool in the ceiling and a minimum of 3 inches in walls could be heated annually at a total savings of $136 on fuel. This means that the cost of wall and ceiling insulation, installed—$420—would be compensated for in three heating seasons.

Paul Gilbertson Celebrates Birthday

Helping Paul Gilbertson celebrate his birthday anniversary at his home on Sunday were the following, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lappegaard and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Olson Rollie and Lorrie, all of Thief Thief River Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Skauren and family.

Other visitors at the Gilbertson home the past week were Mr. and Mrs. Bud Olson and Karen of Baudette, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Borgie and Bernard of Thief River Falls and Mr. and Mrs. John Larson.

Carl Alberg attended funeral services for Albin Arveson at the Nazareth Lutheran church near Trail on Saturday.

Melvin Rodman, who has spent several weeks at the home of Henry and Ulrick Erickson left Tuesday for his home in Aurora.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Olson and Karen of Baudette spent the weekend visiting at the Bil Gilbertson home.

Visitors always make us happy; some when they come and some when they go.

Flower-Bordered Driveway Makes a Pleasant Approach

Many driveways could be made much more delightful by the simple expedient of a few perennials or shrubs as a border. Visitors get their first impression of a home as they come up the driveway, whether a long drive or a short one, and as for the home owner himself, it puts him in a good humor after a day's work to see the borders of his drive in full bloom.

There are 2 solutions in achieving the effect desired.

The first is to make two long narrow beds and plant permanent shrubs, both evergreen and flowering. Roses make a splendid border for a drive as do numerous other flowering shrubs, such as azaleas, spirea, forsythia, or anyone of probably a hundred or more shrubs that do well in your neighborhood climate. Consult with your nurseryman and try to obtain a succession of bloom so that one plant or another will be in bloom at practically all times from spring thru summer. By using low-growing coniferous evergreens intermingled with flowering shrubs, the borders will be attractive in winter as well.

Another solution to making the drive more attractive is to plant the beds with perennials. Thus you can have the early-flowering perennials followed by those that flower in the summer, such as delphiniums and phlox, followed by the ever-popular fall chrysanthemums. Other perennials can be mingled with them, such as daylilies, to give pleasing effect, while evergreens can supply winter color.

Many home drives can be made far more attractive at very small cost. And it pays off as the lovely plants put both visiting friends and family in a happier frame of mind as they enter the drive.

State [illegible]rea Music Fest Here [illegible]iday, Saturday

Over 2000 young musicians are expected in Thief River Fall on Friday and Saturday, May 2nd and 3rd for the state area high school music festival. Bands, choruses, orchestras, glee clubs, and vocal and instrumental soloists and ensembles will play for music judges in order to receive their criticisms and ratings.

Paul E. "Anderson" festival manager, stated that arrangements for the event have been completed. He stated that the contestants will come from over fifty schools in the area. The festival, he added, will draw a record number of participants and schools, as the schools of District 22 will participate for the first time.

The festival begins at 9:30 a. m. on Friday, May 2nd, in Lincoln high school, with vocal and instrumental ensembles and soloists performing before seven adjudicators. These judges who are well known throughout the country for their outstanding work in music education are Paul A. Knowles, Arnold Caswell, Paul Ivory, all of the University of Minnesota; John Thut, Augsburg College, Minneapolis; Maurice Callahan, Duluth Branch, 'U' of Minnesota; Erwin Hertz, Technical high school, St. Cloud; and Leif Christianson, Concordia College, Moorhead.

On Saturday, May 3rd the large vocal and instrumental groups—bands, orchestras, choruses and glee clubs—will perform before the same group of judges. Anderson stated that the vocal events will be held Saturday in the Lincoln high school gymnasium while the instrumental groups will be presented in the school auditorium.

Anderson said that the public is invited to attend any and all of the contest events without any admission charge.

The visiting judges, music directors, and school administrators will be luncheon guests of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce Saturday noon at the Rex Cafe.

Merle Lindberg to Head Lincoln PTA Unit Coming Year

Group Enjoys Excellent Vocal Music Concert, and Views Student Exhibits

With an excellent concert by Lincoln high school vocal groups as an added attraction, the Lincoln PTA unit drew an unusually large attendance at its final meeting of the school year Tuesday evening.

In the annual election of officers, Merle Lindberg was named unit president, succeeding Mrs. Robert Bredeson, with Steve Austin being elected vice president and Paul E. Anderson secretary-treasurer.

At the close of the program, those in attendance inspected an interesting exhibit of student projects of various kinds carried out during the school year.

The concert, under the direction of Bryant Ubeth included well-rendered selections by the senior choir, girls' glee club, freshman chorus, senior girls' [illegible] and boys' quartet, in addition to solos by Donna Hesse.

Plans for 1958 NW Dairy Day Made Tuesday

County Agents Will Accept Calf Entries Until May 21st

Nearly all of the ten counties sharing in the sponsorship of Northwest Dairy were represented at a well-attended meeting in Thief River Falls Tuesday evening, when plans were developed for the Ninth annual Dairy Day to be held in Thief River Falls Tuesday, June 10.

Stuart McLeod, president of the Northwest Dairy Improvement association, sponsoring group, conducted the session, and the principal speaker was Lew Conlon, manager of the Minnesota dairy industry committee and Dairy Day master of ceremonies.

Conlon briefly outlined the rules for the Northwest Dairy Princess contest, a popular feature of Dairy Day, and said few changes have been made since last year's event.

He added that the Andy Erickson family of Badger, which had won top awards at several past dairy calf shows, and most of whose outstanding Holstein herd was destroyed in a disastrous fire early this year, will nevertheless be represented in the 1958 show.

Conlon praised the various county agents for their cooperation in the dairy calf show, which he said is the oldest event of its kind in Minnesota and boasts the highest quality animals.

Wednesday, May 21, has been set as the deadline for entries in the calf exhibit to be made in the county agents' offices, and entrants are asked to fill out the entry blanks completely so that the proper class can be determined. The calves are to be unloaded and ready for exhibition by 9:30 on the morning of Dairy Day June 10.

Ralph Wayne of the "U" of M. extension service will again serve as a calf judge, along with Stanley [illegible] of [illegible] Minn., an outstanding Guernsey breeder. W. [illegible], noted cattle authority, will make the selection of the grand championship animal.

The calf judging will be completed early in the afternoon, and as in past years, will be followed by the award of prizes to championship winners in the grade and purebred divisions. The exhibitor of the top grade animal will receive a purebred calf of outstanding quality, while the youth showing the grand championship purebred calf will be given a free trip to the Waterloo, Iowa, Dairy Cattle Congress.

Minnesota Attorney General Miles K. Lord was the main speaker at the banquet held at the Legion clubrooms in the evening. The title of his address was "Your Job and Mine," and in general dealt with with the work of the peace officers in relation to the office of attorney general.

To Evacuate TRF Schools May 6 in National CD Test

The Thief River Falls civil defense organization will join with state and federal agencies in "Operation Alert 1958", scheduled nationally for next Tuesday and Wednesday, May 6 and 7, Bruce Beski, county civil defense director, announced today.

The exercise in this city, he stated, will be restricted to Tuesday afternoon, and the local CD officials and agencies, including the police, fire and rescue squads will be prepared for action when the alert, consisting of a long steady note on the fire siren, is sounded around the noon hour, when the warning of an impending air raid is received from the Bemidji center.

The principal feature of the exercise here, said Beski, will be the evacuation of the 2,100 pupils in the local schools, which will start when a second alert is sounded shortly after 2 p.m.

The pupils will be led out of the various buildings by their teachers, and school buses will immediately take the rural pupils to their homes, while those living in the city will be instructed to go home.

The control center in the county agent's office in the court house will be fully manned and functioning from the time the first alert is received at noon until about 8 p.m.

The federal Civil Defense administration announced that the purpose of the exercise is to test the readiness of the nation at the local, state and national levels to meet a direct nuclear attack on the United States.

Phyllis Evenstad Married To Norman Kragseth Mar. 29

Miss Phyllis M. Evenstad, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Evenstad of this city and Norman Kragseth, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Kragseth of Duluth, Minn., were united in marriage Saturday evening, March 29 at the Zion Lutheran church. Rev. Walter Pedersen performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of 150 friends and relatives. The altar was graced with baskets of red roses, white gladioli and Easter palms.

Mrs. Reuben Lockrem presided at the organ for the traditional nuptial music and also accompanied Mrs. Walter Pedersen who sang in Norwegian "Jeg Elsker Dag", "Bless This Day" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father the bride was attired in a ballerina length sheath gown of white satin, fashioned with a bouffant overskirt. The fitted bodice featured a rounded neckline with tiny buttons extending down the back and long sleeves which came to a point over the wrists. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a seed pearl headband and her jewelry consisted of a single strand pearl necklace and earring set. She carried a bouquet of longstemmed presentation red roses.

Attending the bride as maid of honor, was her sister, Miss Joan Evenstad of South Bend, Indiana. Bridesmaids were Miss Sunny Sundal and Mrs. John Viren both of Minneapolis and junior bridesmaid was Miss Nancy Dicken of this city. They wore identical ballerina length sheath gowns fashioned identical to the brides with the maid of honor in turquoise and bridesmaids in beige. To complement their attire they wore matching slippers and headbands and carried bouquets of pink roses.

The groom was attended by Paul Holtan of Minneapolis as bestman. Groomsmen were John Viren and Virgil Evenstad, both of Minneapolis and John Dicken of this city was junior groomsman. Serving as ushers were Larry Evenstad of this city, and Ralph Nouses of Duluth. They all wore midnight blue tuxedos with white carnation boutonnieres.

Mrs. Evenstad, mother of the bride, chose a light blue dress with white accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Kragseth, mother of the groom, also wore a blue dress with white accessories. Their identical corsages were of red roses and white carnations. Mrs. Oliver Thompson of Badger, Minn., grandmother of the bride, was attired in a navy blue dress with matching accessories. Her corsage was also of pink roses and white carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was given in the church parlors with Mrs. Arthur Dicken of this city acting as hostess. The bridal table was adorned with bouquets of red roses, white gladioli and white candles and was centered with a five-tiered wedding cake topped with red roses. Mrs. O. B. Evanstad of Fargo, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Carrol Koepplinger of Whitebear Lake, cousin of the groom, cut and served the cake while aunts of the bride, Mrs. John Ellianson of Minneapolis and Mrs. Anthony Gress of West Fargo, poured. Serving as waitresses were Misses Bonny Dicken of this city, Eleanor Kragseth of Duluth and Cheryl Gress of West Fargo.

Miss Marlyn Johnson of this city, registered the guests and the gifts were arranged by Mrs. P. J. Anderson of Newfolden, aunt of th bride, and Mrs. Robert Ellanson of Minneapolis.

For their honeymoon to Canada, Mrs. Kragseth chose a blue chantung sheath dress with black accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Lincoln high school and from the University of Minnesota. She is presently teaching English at the Minneapolis-Marshall high school in Minneapolis. Mr. Kragseth is a graduate of Northwestern University and is a football coach at the Minneapolis Marshall high school. Mr. and Mrs. Kragseth are now at home at 2031 Yorkshire, St. Paul, Minn.

Out of town guests were from Duluth, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Hayward and Wausau, Wis., Strathcona, Fargo, West Fargo, Newfolden and Greenbush.

Barbara Hanson and Gordon Bring Wed April 19

Wedding vows were spoken by Miss Barbara Hanson, daughter of Mrs. Oscar Johnson of St. Paul and Gordon Bring, son of Mrs. Nels Iverson of Grand Forks at a ceremony performed Saturday, April 19 at the Iverson home in Spruce Valley township. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Theo Myhrer of Newfolden before a large picture window which was filled with house plants, ivy and baskets of pink and white carnations.

Miss Darlene Johnson presided at the piano for the traditional nuptial music and also accompanied Mrs. Donald Stengrim of Stephen, sister of the groom, who sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Miss Hanson chose a light blue suit with white accessories for her wedding. Her corsage was of baby pink roses and white carnations and her jewelry consisted of a pearl necklace and earing set, a gift from the groom. She also carried out the tradition of 'something old, new, borrowed and blue."

Attending the bride as matron of honor was her sister-in-law, Mrs. Glendon McKeever and she was also attired in a light blue suit with white accessories. Her corsage was of pink and white carnations and her pearl necklace and earring set was a gift from the bride.

Serving as flower girl was Karyl June Johnson, sister of the bride. She was attired in a light blue dress and carried a bouquet of white mums and pink roses.

Hjalmer Hanson, brother of the bride, attended the groom as bestman. They both wore business suits with white carnation boutonnieres.

Mrs. Johnson, mother of the bride, chose an aqua dress with white accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Iverson, mother of the groom, wore a navy blue dress with white accessories. Their identical corsages were of white carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was given by the bride's mother, with Mrs. Emma Letran, Mrs. Jerry Johnson and Mrs Pauline Dahl in charge. There were approximately 100 guests present

The bridal table was centered with a three tiered wedding cake which was topped with a miniature bride and groom. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Andrew Hanson of Stephen, aunt of the bride, while Mrs. Arthur Swanson, also an aunt of the bride, poured.

Miss Margaret Hanson, sister of the bride, registered the guests and the gifts were arranged by Mrs. Virgil Sorenson of Gatzke and Mrs. Helvin Heste of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Bring left on a short wedding trip and are now at home on the groom's farm near Newfolden.

Out of town guests were from Nekoma, Grand Forks, Stephen, Strandquist, Donaldson, Kennedy, Alvarado, St. Paul, Gatzke and this city.

95 Boys and Girls Are Examined in Two Days at Orthopedic Clinic

A total of 95 boys and girls in this area, who need orthopedic attention were examined at the field clinic conducted by the crippled children services of the state department of welfare at Trinity parish house in Thief River Falls Tuesday and Wednesday.

Patients included 42 from Pennington county, according to local chairman, Mrs. Fred Monroe.

The children, all of whom have or may be developing crippling disabilities, were examined by an orthopedist. The younger patients were also examined by a pediatrician. The doctors recommended surgery or medical care to improve or correct some of the children's conditions. Public health nurses, as well as a consultant from the Crippled Children Services, assisted the doctors, and aided the parents in arranging for needed hospitalization or home care.

Public health nurses from this area who were at the clinic are: Mrs. Vivian Anderson, school nurse, Roseau; Mrs. Eunice Ellefson, county nurse, Kittson Co.; Mrs. Lilja Synder, county nurse, Polk co.; and Mrs. Margaret Race school nurse, Thief River Falls.

Volunteer workers included: Mrs. Roy Oen, Co-chairman; Mrs. H. G. Halverson, Mrs. Harold Buck, Mrs. L. B. Hartz, Mrs. Glenna Welfald, Mrs. W. R. Anderson, Mrs. Art Burke, Mrs. T. Aasland, Mrs. J. M. Roche, Mrs. C Forsberg, Mrs. J. Walker, Mrs. L. Hanson.

Miss Mary Margaret McLaughlin and Mrs. LaVerne Rambeck, with the following student pratical nurses; Miss Gladys Meyer, Clara Riveness, Evelyn Burke, and Mrs. Myrtle Andeen.

The following affiliate student nurses from Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls, Ruth Hanson, Loraine Simon, Joyce Oslundson, Connie Lohde, Marilyn Severson and Faith Carlson.

The two registered nurses from this city were Mrs. R. Noper and Mrs. Otis Wold. "We appreciated the unlimited courtesies of the Trinity Lutheran church for the use of their parish house," said Mrs. Monroe.

9th District VFW Convention Opens In City Saturday

Concluding event Saturday will be a dance in the VFW club rooms, starting at 8:30.

Sunday activities will open at 9:30 a.m. with a short memorial service in Greenwood cemetery, followed at 10:30 by a business session of the VFW in the Odd Fellows hall, with the auxiliary meeting in the city Auditorium.

A banquet will be held at 12:15 in the Eagles auditorium, with Ollie Mossestad, local VFW post commander, as master of ceremonies. Speakers will include Mayor O. D. Belch; Harold M. Johnson, Ninth district Legion vice commander; Robert Bredeson, commander of the TRF Legion post; Arnold Ringstad of East Grand Forks, department chief of staff of the Minnesota VFW and endorsed candidate for department judge advocate; Estelle Hess of Minneapolis, chief of staff of the state VFW auxiliary; and Mrs. Naomi Bredeson, local auxiliary unit president.

Following the banquet, the posts and units will resume their business sessions with the presentation of awards and the election of district officers to serve during the coming year. At the close of the afternoon, lunch will be served at the VFW club rooms.

will be the coronation of the 1958 Northwest Dairy Princess, who in August will compete for statewide honors at the Minnesota state fair; and the Parade of Champions thru the Thief River Falls business district. Those taking part in the show will be treated to box lunches before returning to their homes.

The Dairy Day board at Tuesday's meeting authorized the executive committee to appoint a new treasurer to succeed Elmer Bratsch, who resigned recently on moving to Golden Valley.

The board also authorized the expenditure of up to $500 to secure television coverage of the 1958 Dairy Day, the opinion being expressed that the move would have great publicity value for the dairy industry.

Cancer Crusade Nets $1,455 up to Date in Pennington County

Reporting on the progress of the Cancer Crusade now drawing to a close, Mrs. Ormond Johnson, local chairman stated today that all areas of the city of Thief River Falls had now been covered and all but six townships reported. Contributions from those not solicited may be mailed to the Pennington county Cancer Crusade in care of Mrs. Ormond Johnson.

A total of $1,455 was reported as collected in the drive to date. Of this, the city of Thief River Falls accounted for $915, and the township areas, with six still left to report, turned in a total of $540. Mrs. Johnson praised the women and other workers who have helped to make this a successful drive.

Money raised in the county crusade will be turned over to the American Cancer Society to be used in its work to further cancer research. A goal of $1,750 was established for this county. Mrs. Johnson says that she is confident that the remaining areas to report will put the county over the top.

She stated that several memorials amounting to nearly $80, had been given in memory of loved ones who had succumbed to Cancer. These memorials will count towards the Pennington county crusade totals. Memorials may be sent directly to the American Cancer Society or can be turned in to the local drive. In all cases they should be definitely designated as a memorial to a specific person. Such memorials are sent directly to the state association and are handled separately from the general Cancer Crusade fund.

Mrs. Tom Fuller Zone Chairman of Missionary Unit

At the annual spring rally of the Red River Valley zone of the Lutheran Women's Missionary league in Warren Tuesday Mrs. Tom Fuller of St. John's Lutheran church in Thief River Falls was elected zone leader and chairman. As such she will be in charge of guiding the missionary league's activities in the northwestern area of the state, together with Mrs. Ed Reitmeyer of Crookston, regional vice-president, and the Rev. E. Bentrup of Fisher, pastoral counselor of the zone.

Mrs. Albert Ruebke of Ada was elected assistant leader. The league has thirty-three societies in this zone and 1085 individual members.

Mrs. Fuller will also represent this zone at the state convention of the missionary league to be held at Concordia in St. Paul June 24 and 25.

5 Cars Involved in Alvarado Crash

Icy Roads and Blowing Snow Cause Mishap Monday

One person was taken to a hospital with serious injuries Monday afternoon after slippery roads and poor visibility caused by blowing snow set off a chain reaction accident involving five cars on a highway near Alvarado.

Hospitalized at Warren was Milton M. Bystrom of Warren. He was reported suffering from severe chest injuries and facial lacerations. Six other persons involved in the highway mishap escaped with minor scratches and bruises. All were treated at the hospital and released.

Minnesota highway patrol officers said the accident occurred when cars driven by Casper Anderson, Donaldson, and Bystrom skidded on icy pavement and collided. Mrs. Anderson and a Mrs. Jordon were passengers in the Anderson car.

Soon after, a vehicle driven by Ralph C. Klockman, Goodridge was involved in a head on collision with one driven by Elmer Anderson, Alvarado. Both these vehicles then crashed into the autos involved in the first mishap.

A fifth car driven by Marvin D. Lundeen, Warren, then crashed into the pileup.

Authorities said all the autos were badly damaged.

Laymen's League of North Valley Zone Meets Here

The Red River Valley North zone of the Lutheran Laymen's League met Sunday at St. John's Lutheran church. William Yuergens of Crookston was elected president of the zone and Marvin Koop vice president. Chief project of the Lutheran Laymen's League on a national basis is support and promotion of the International Lutheran Hour. St. John's ladies aid served about 150 guests at the banquet at 6:30, the first banquet to be served in the new church basement. All were highly pleased with the spacious facilities at the new church.

Goodridge Arranges State Centennial Celebration June 1

The Goodridge Centennial committee met at the Goodridge school on Friday evening, April 25 to develop definite plans for the statehood centennial celebration to be held in Goodridge Sunday, June 1. Representatives from a wide area surrounding Goodridge are serving on the committee with members from the village.

A tentative schedule of events was set up including joint "open air" services of area churches at 10:30 followed by dinners served by several ladies aids at various places in Goodridge. A parade composed of entries from 4-H clubs, Goodridge school, village businesses, REA, surrounding high school bands, Thief River Falls and Grygla business firms services and other organizations will form at 1:30. The "Queen of the parade" will be the winner of a current search for a pioneer resident at least 75 years old. A teen-age queen will share the spotlight.

Lt. Gov. Karl Rolvaag will be the main speaker at the program scheduled to get under way at 2:30. Other program highlights will be music by old timers and by the Goodridge high school band, and presentation of several area pioneers.

At four o'clock bicycle and horse races will offer the opportunity to earn prize money.

The high school gymnasium will be the setting for pioneer exhibits which have been the object of diligent searching by school students all year.

The next meeting of the committee will be May 6 at 8:00 in the 6th grade room of the Goodridge school.

Minnesota Youth Council Proposed

Gov. Freeman Advocates Group to Promote Safety

Organization of a youth safety council on a statewide basis was urged by Gov. Freeman Monday as a means for Minnesota's young people to protect their own driving privileges.

Pressure to raise the minimum driver's age from 15 to 17 is increasing, Freeman said. He added there also is some support for a plan to limit the hours in which young people may drive.

Speaking at the governor's conference on children and youth in Minneapolis, Freeman told some 1,500 delegates they could help organize a statewide safety council to serve as a clearing-house for programs suggested by Minnesota youth.

As evidence that the state's young people are capable of running such an organization, he cited numerous teen-age driving clubs that have been set up around the state.

These clubs prove, Freeman said, "that Minnesota youth is both ready and able to assume a larger share of responsibility for their own driving conduct."

4-H Club to Plant Trees at Valhall

Rocksbury Club to Set out Evergreens Sunday

The Rocksbury 4-H club has undertaken a worthy community project. The members and leaders have decided to plant evergreen trees around Valhall hall which serves as the club meeting place.

Each 4-H member of the club is to plant a tree. The trees will be purchased by the members, and the leaders will help in securing them. A general club meeting will be held Sunday, May 4. Each member will then plant the tree and have the responsibility of caring for it.

The project is fitting in this centennial year where 4-H'ers are seeking to carry out community project to commemorate the state's one-hundredth birthday. This is also a good conservation project which 4-H'ers will enjoy, said County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk. Other 4-H clubs that may want to plant trees around town halls or other meeting places are encouraged to consider a similar project. If the planning starts soon, it may still be done this spring.

Mill City Pastor to Dedicate New St. John's Church

The speakers at the dedication of St. John's Lutheran church on June 15 were selected this week. The Rev. William A. Buege, pastor of Christ Lutheran church in Minneapolis and the third vice president of the Minnesota district of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, well-know speaker and lecturer, will speak in the afternoon dedication service at 3:00 o'clock.

The Rev. Alfred C. Seltz, pastor of St. John's church and first vice president of the Minnesota District, will speak in the morning dedication service at 10:30 a.m. At noon the ladies of the church will serve a buffet luncheon. Further dedication festivities will be announced later.

St. John's congregation has been using its new church for worship since Febeuary, even though some of the appointments were not yet ready at that time. Since then various facilities have been completed. Final inspection of the new church by architect and building committee is scheduled for Monday, May 5.

All persons interested in extension classes for college credit during the summer sessions of 1958 are invited to attend.

The purpose of the meeting will be to discuss what courses are in greatest demand and to set up a schedule of classes for the sessions.

Tuition for extension courses, as recently established by the state college board is $7.50 per quarter credit hour and all extension courses will carry four credits. Classes will meet daily on the same basis as on-campus classes.

Light Session of Municipal Court

Several Speeders Fined at Court Session Monday

A very light session of municipal court was held here Monday, before Judge H. O. Chommie, with all appearing before the court charged with traffic offenses.

City police brought only two cases. Warren Stone, city, pleaded guilty to a speeding charge and was fined $15 plus $3.50 costs, while a plea of guilty to a careless driving charge cost Howard L. Langlie, city, the same amount in fine and costs.

Irwin Haugen, Newfolden, was one of two violators brought before the court by the highway patrol. Haugen, and John E. McCully, Chathan, Ill., both pleaded guilty to driving without a valid drivers' license in possession. Haugen was fined $10 plus $3.50 while McCully's fine was $15 plus $3.50. Their cases were not related.

Metro Bodner, Winnipeg, forfeited $17 bond on a speeding charge, while Leonard A. Brekke, rt. 3, city, forfeited $20 for the same offense. Both were arrested by the patrol.

Arnold Kelly Elected City Bowling League Head at '58 Banquet

The Men's City Bowling Association concluded their 1957-58 season by holding their annual meeting and awards banquet at the Eagles club rooms on Wednesday night.

Following the turkey dinner which was prepared and served by the Eagles auxiliary, a short business meeting was held. Arnold Kelly was elected president for the 1958-59 season, with Ambrose Wysoski being re-named secretary-treasurer, and Jerry Super of Mentor and Cliff Stromberg of Thief River Falls being elected to the board of directors.

For the presentation of the trophies and awards, John McGinley presided in an able manner as the master of ceremonies.

The championship trophies were awarded to the following four teams: Service League — Groslie's Pure Oil (Mel Scholin, Kermit Finstad, Einar Scholin, Mauritz Scholin, Irwin Johnson, Arlo Scholin, and Warren Modbeck); Business League—V.F.W. (Del and Eldon Harbott, Gordy Dunham, Chuck Krause, Norm Wennberg, Roy Jorgenson, and Cliff Stromberg); Commercial League — Post Office (LeRoy Nabben, Irv Wilson, Del and Eldon Harbott, John Jaranson, Ray Kiland, and Jim Dryden); and the City League — Argyle State Bank (Bill Conway, Omer Deschene, Gerald Egan, Vic Loranger, Orrin Skunes, Harold Smith, and Bernard Tracy).

The Wangenstein trophy, emblematic of the city handicap tournament championship, was won by the Viking Tavern team, composed of the following bowlers: Dean Anderson, Fred Jensen, Mike and Pat Poole, Gene Leslie, Elmer Poole, and Don Haugen.

Individual high average trophies, presented to the bowlers who recorded the highest averages for their respective teams in each league, were presented to the following: Service League — Arlo Scholin, Doug Tegtmeier, Jerry Super, Cliff Stromberg, Ken Onken, Ward Votava, John Holzinger, and Larry Thorstenson; Business League—Chuck Krause, Gordy Relerson, Dean Anderson, Roger Krats, Oscar Bakke, Jerry Carriere, Dean Bergland, and Bernard Borgie; Commercial League — Del Harbott, Am Wysoski, Einar Scholin, Chuck Krause, Dean Anderson, Ray Hartley, Sid Bruggeman, and Dale Magner; and City League—Bill Conway, Am Wysoski, Roger Nyland, Orv. Gillespie, Duane Noel, Andy Nesland, Don Lokken, and Clayton Carlson.

Special merit badges were awarded to the following: for the high three-game total, Ken Rustad, for a 610 aggregate; for the high single game, Leonard Boyum, a 252; for a triplicate score, Truman Hemmestvedt and Fred Jensen; and to the bowler showing the most improvement in their bowling during the season, Dick Kelly, Harlan Huseth, Dean Anderson, and Clayton Carlson.

Mercury Drops to 7 Above Tuesday

Sets Long-time Low Reading for Late April

Weather records in the northwest Minnesota area tumbled and fell again this week as the mercury dropped to all-time lows for late April. The low temperature this week, mighty cold for April 29, was a chilly 7 above zero. Monday's low, also a record, was 9 above. High temperature this week was 48 Wednesday.

Precipitation recorded during the week was .19 inch. Other unrecorded amounts fell at intervals through the week to date.

The forecast, according to KTRF, is for more chilly temperatures and occasional cloudiness today with highs in the forties, increasing cloudiness with little temperature change tonight with lows 25-32. Skies will be mostly cloudy Friday with little temperature change and winds light, variable.

Greetings from George

In a long distance to the Times from Dallas, Texas, on Tuesday, George Lee, coach of the 1938 state champion basketball Prowlers, expressed his deep-felt appreciation and thanks to the many individuals and civic organizations who contributed to making the 20th reunion of that squad a success. The reunion was held in Minneapolis last month, on March 20th, 21st, and 22nd.

George especially wished to acknowledge the efforts expended by Glenn Carlson, the student manager of the 1938 squad, Roy Lee and Wally Tunberg for handling the arrangements here, and to Jim Roche and the Chamber of Commerce. The reunion was an event that George, and the team members, will not forget.

He stated that plans are already being put into operation for a reunion to be held in 1968. A 30th reunion that will be, and another happy one, we hope.

We don't know how the conversation moved off on a tangent, but Lee gave us the information that Al Holzknecht, who professes to be an expert on baseball and things athletic, doesn't know anything about baseball, very little about football, and nothing but standing guard stuff in basketball.

Incidentally, if you have the occasion ask Lenny Hellquist to explain the personal plaque which he received the other day from George Lee.

Cal Marvin

Cal Marvin of Warroad was a welcome visitor in town on Monday, and he gave a very interesting talk to the Rotarians at their noon day luncheon at the Elks club.

Cal, you will recall, was the coach of the United States National hockey squad that participated in the world amateur hockey tournament in Oslo. The tournament, which was won by the powerful Whitby Dunlops, the Canadian entry, found the United States team posting a creditable three wins, three losses, and one tie, mark.

According to Marvin, there was no question but that the Canadian squad, bolstered by the presence of three bona fide professional players, were the strongest team in the tourney. In spite of their acknowledged strength, the Whitby's were hard-pressed to defeat the Russian team, winning by a 4 to 2 score in the championship finals.

The American team, it was admitted by Cal, was not the strongest club that the United States could produce, for he stated that the team would have been benefited greatly by the presence of such players as Ken Yackel, Joey Poole, and others. But until there is a revision in the procedure of organizing the American team, the United States squad will be at a handicap when playing the Canadians and the Russians.

The Minnesota contingent on the United States team—such players as John Mayasich, Gordy and Bill and Roger Christian, Dan McKinnon, Willard Ikola, Oscar Mahle, and others—were very impressive, and, according to Cal, Mayasich, the former Eveleth and Minnesota star, was one of the tournament's outstanding players. Mayasich was hampered considerably in his play by an injury.

Following the tournament at Oslo, the American squad moved into Russia for four days and a two-game series with the Russians at Moscow, Marvin enlarged on his experiences in the Russian capital.

It was Marvin's opinion, as we learned from a few words of after-dinner conversation, that Warroad's Billy Christian, who was the team's high scorer, and International Falls' Oscar Mahle will be playing their college hockey at Minnesota.

Softball Notes

Robert (Bob) Carlson, pitcher, manager and coach of the city champion Bridgeman's softball team, announced that Wayne Paul Gothe has been given his release so that he, Wayne, can sign with the newly-organized Vets club. Now if Lowell (Mukkett) Collins of the Bjorkman's will only pension off several of his players, such as Jimmy Anderson, Dennis (Spanky) Sullivan, and Phil LeGault to the Vets, this club may prove entertaining this season. Anderson, Sullivan, and LeGault are continuing to take up more and more room on the Bjorkman's bench, and less and less room on the base paths.

And let us be the first to nominate Bob Carlson to the city's softball "hall of fame." [illegible] knowledge the fact that Bob is possessed of considerable talent as a softball player, both on offense and defense; but it is his durability that makes him particularly valuable to the Bridgeman's. He's often down, but never out.

Prowler Baseball Club to Play Oslo, Alvarado Friday

Coach Ralph Skay's baseball Prowlers, if the weather and playing conditions improve sufficiently, will play a pair of district conference games on Friday afternoon. In a game called for 2:00 p.m., the Prowlers will meet the Alvarado Indians on the Alvarado diamond; and after making a short jaunt to Oslo, the Prowlers will meet the Oslo nine in a game slated to start at 5:00 p.m.

According to the schedule, the Prowlers will play their first night game of the season on Monday, May 5th, when, under the lights on Emery Johnson field at Warren, the locals will meet the Ponies in a district conference tilt.

State Boat and Water Safety Unit Reports

A preliminary report on water safety and boating regulations prepared by the state boat and water safety committee was released today by George A. Selke, commissioner of conservation. Regular meetings of this committee have been held for the past six months to study water safety and boating regulation.

In making public these recommendations Dr. Selke said: "I am proud of the progress indicated in the report of the boat and water safety committee. I am happy to transmit its recommendations to Governor Orville L. Freeman for his information." Recommendations as submitted to Selke were as follows:

1. In the absence of the opportunity for legislative action it is recommended that the volunteer water patrol system employed so successfully at Lake Minnetonka be adopted as needed on a county and local basis for boat regulation and water safety this summer.

2. It is recommended that federal boating legislation (H.R. 11078, the new Bonner Bill) not be approved. If, however, it appears that pending legislation will be passed, it is recommended that it be amended to definite navigable waters to protect the jurisdiction of the state.

3. It is recommended that a system of state-wide registration or licensing of motorboats be provided for boat identification and proper enforcement. It is also recommended that the department of conservation be designated the license issuing agency.

4. It is recommended that proposed boat and water safety legislation designate the sheriff's office as the primary enforcement agency including the responsibility for search, rescue and patrol.

5. It is further recommended that a sub-committee be appointed to prepare a preliminary draft of proposed boat and water safety legislation for subsequent consideration and action. Public reaction and suggestion is invited. Send letters to Boat and Water Safety Committee, Room 633 State Office Building, Saint Paul 1, Minnesota.

Marshall Co. Road Bids Due May 20th

Five Projects Included in Request for Bids

Seven counties will receive more than 100 miles of county road improvements, the Minnesota Highway department revealed yesterday in a call for bids. The 15 projects have an estimated total cost of $1,410,000, to be paid with matched county and federal aid secondary road funds. The bids will be received May 20.

The projects include:

Marshall County, CSAH 4 — Grading and gravel surfacing of 8.4 miles between Jct. CSAH 10 and Jct. T.H. 75 in Argyle.

CSAH 5 — Grading and gravel surfacing of 10.8 miles between Jct. T.H. 220 and Jct. T.H. 75 at Stephen.

CSAH 7 — Grading and gravel surfacing of 6.1 miles between Jct. CSAH 8 and Jct. T. H. 32 in Holt.

CSAH 6—Sand-gravel subbase, gravel base and road-mixed bituminous surfacing of 10.1 miles between Jct. T.H. 32 at Middle River and Jct. County Road 128.

CSAH 3—Sand-gravel subbase, gravel base and road-mixed bituminous surfacing of eight miles between Jct. T.H. 75 at Warren and Jct. CSAH 14. Bids to be received May 20 at Warren by County Auditor Levi G. Johnson.

Fake Licenses Are Cause of Downfall of 'U' M. Student

Possession of four forged, one cancelled and one changed military drivers licenses proved the downfall of a University of Minnesota law student in St. Paul recently. Appearing before Judge Jerome Plunkett, the student received a 20-day workhouse sentence, a 90-day suspension of his drivers license and probation for one year on a portion of the workhouse sentence after conviction of possession of the fraudulent licenses.

Police officers were suspicious of a car parked in an unusual area and questioned the driver, who produced the expired license. He was brought to court where investigation of his driving record showed a long list of actions against his license.

The student had just passed his 20th birthday, yet his driving record showed four convictions for speeding, one for driving after revocation and two reported accidents.

His latest valid license had been issued in May 1957, following filing of proof of financial responsibility; yet within three months he had involved in an accident and had been fined for driving 85 miles an hour in a 30 mile an hour zone.

Passenger cars were involved in over 78 percent of all U. S. traffic fatalities in 1957 and in 86 percent of traffic injuries.

'Shootin' the Breeze

BY Mack Draper

Centennial celebration time is getting closer and closer. The Centennial train has already started its rounds of the state while the big parade in St. Paul is just two weeks off.

The planners are at work here too, but the only mark of the centennial that shows in Thief River Falls for the time being is the increasing number of what appears to be relatives of the Smith Bros., Trade and Mark, on city streets. I understand there has been no great drop in razor blade sales in the city, however.

During our most recent cold spell the robins in the post office vicinity kept up their cheery singing, just as if it were 70 in the shade.

The wind was raw and blustery from the north one day when, going along E. Second st. near Rube Lockrem's TV and washing machine emporium, I spied a robin sitting on the top ledge of the Dobner-Meehan building ledge chirruping for all he was worth — while huddled down in the windbreak provided by the corner block.

April will go down as a month of temperature contrasts in the extreme. From the warmest weather on record one week, to the coldest weather on record for the month the next. Just what the April high temperature record is we don't know, but it dropped to 17 Thursday for a new low.

To quote the robin again, cheer up — it's still early to be having spring in these parts.

Speaking of our fine feathered friends, did anyone besides yours truly notice a fairly big flock of ducks flying north of town Saturday morning? I just wondered if there have been any unusually large concentrations of ducks in the area recently.

Several local citizens have ventured to Crow Lake north of the border the past week but so far no reports of luck have filtered down via the grapevine that I've heard.

Tell us, fellows, are the lake trout hitting very well these days? We know for sure that the cold wind is biting, even if the fish aren't. The fellows who took part in the first league trap shoot Thursday found that out the hard way.

There'd be fewer frayed nerves and dented fenders if people in town didn't drive the way this column is written.

Book on Fishing in Minnesota Due Saturday, May 3d

Announced for publication on May 3 is a new book, "Minnesota Fish and Fishing", written by a well-known outdoor writer, Kit Bergh.

Mr. Bergh, who was born in Baudette and was raised in northwestern Minnesota, has fished from coast to coast, north and south. He is nationally known for his stories in Outdoor Life and as fishing editor for Sports and Recreation magazine. He is outdoor sports editor for the Bloomington Sun, one of the largest weeklies in Minnesota.

Maintenance Job Bids Are Sought in This District

The Minnesota highway department will receive bids May 9 in St. Paul on seven highway maintenance projects located in six of its maintenance districts. The work includes production and stockpiling of 80,000 tons of mineral aggregate and improvements on more than 43 miles of trunk highways.

The projects in this area include:

T.H. 1—Sand-gravel subbase, gravel base and road-mixed bituminous surfacing of 8.6 miles easterly from a point 1.0 miles east of Redby.

Bemidji Maintenance District. T.H. 1— Sand-gravel subbase, gravel base and road-mixed bituminous surfacing of 0.4 miles between a point 14.8 miles east of Northome and Jct. T.H. 6.

Bemidji and Crookston Maintenance Districts. T.H. 89 — Sand-gravel subbase, gravel base and road-mixed bituminous surfacing of 9.1 miles easterly from Grygla.

Revise Veterans Pension Law as to Reservists

A new law permits a reservist, drawing nondisability retired pay for military service, to receive Veterans Administration compensation or pension if he waives an equal amount of his retired pay.

W. B. Carroll, Manager, Fargo VA Center, said the new act as Public Law 85-376 and it becomes effective May 1, 1958.

Under previous laws, the waiver privilege was open to all retired members of the regular armed forces, but to reservists only if they were retired for physical disability.

The new law now gives equal waiver privileges to all veterans receiving retired pay for either regular or reserve military service.

Caroll said reservists must be otherwise eligible for compensation or pension to take advantage of the waiver.

Editorials . . .

"All higher motives, ideals, conceptions, sentiments in a man are of no account if they do not come forward to strengthen him for the better discharge of the duties which devolve upon him in the ordinary affairs of life."

—Henry Ward Beecher

Position Sound

When President Eisenhower vetoed the $1,700,000,000 water projects bill he stated that 28 of the 150 projects included could not be justified. He urged that the other 122 good projects be provided for in a new bill. The cost of the 28 which he objected to totalled about $350 million.

He now has repeated his appeal for action that would authorize what he calls the "sound" projects. That means the projects he now disapproves of would be delayed. There is the possibility that the President may be wrong about some of them. His objections however are no doubt proper in most instances and he is doing the right thing in referring them back to Congress for further study.

There is no good reason why this particular measure should become an issue in the coming campaign. While the President has been criticized severely for his veto by some of our politicians, most of the rank- and-filers of the country will recognize the fact that his position has been and is fair and in the best interests of good government.

Encouraging Prospect

If what has happened in the past is a safe guide to the future then we may look forward hopefully to a steadily increasing need for the production of beef cattle. In 1938 there were 30,475,000 beef cattle on our farms. By 1957 the total had doubled, the official figure being 60,708,000. The number slaughtered had also doubled, increasing from 14,822,000 in 1938 to 27,754,000 in 1956.

The encouraging thing about these figures, from the standpoint of the long range interests of agriculture is the fact that our present big production is being absorbed by the market at favorable prices. It is reasonable to assume that this trend toward increased production and consumption will continue.

The market for beef will no doubt have its ups and downs in the future as it has in the past. The series of price cycles will no doubt continue over the years. But the general prospect certainly is encouraging.

"Magnificent" Gains

Referring to a statement made by Dr. Howard E. Wilson, Dean of Education at U.C.L.A., described as "a strong indictment against 'sloppiness' in both education and in our society as a whole", the New York Times reports that "while he made a plea for what he called 'precision', he made a striking and optimistic forecast. He called this a period of 'controversy and creativity' in education and said that it might last for another twenty years, but that in that time 'magnificent' gains might well be made."

Then came this comment from the Times:

This is an approach to the problem that many thoughtful persons will share. In spite of the acrimony of some of the disputation, its real purpose is to help bring about those magnificent gains. The severest critics of our educational structure are eager for its improvement, not its demolition. Coming to grips with the problems, in a better realization of their extent and significance, is the first stage in what ought to be the campaign to which all will subscribe.

As matters stand there is no reason to be complacent. There is like-wise no reason to be bitter. We need, rather, to be intelligent, sympathetic and resolute.

We like the comment. There is no reason to be either complacent or bitter. But there is justification for "coming to grips" with the problems, and that means examining them carefully, inside and out, in an effort to improve and make better. But what we have should not be regarded as a sacred cow that should not be questioned.

Things Looking Up

Orgood Caruthers, writing in the New York Times, sees indications of less pro-Communism in the recent acts of President Nasser of Egypt, and a tendency toward neutrality in his approach to the problems which divide the East and West. He attributes this more moderate approach to the needs of the Suez Canal operation, now firmly established as a property owned by Egypt and in the control of which neutrality has decided advantages.

Our government consequently is taking a more conciliatory attitued toward Nasser, and so another explosive situation seems to be in the cooling-off process. The danger of war in the Middle East now seems to be lessening.

It appears, too, that out of the present French political crisis will come a government that will have a more conciliatory attitude toward the hot issue of colonialism in North Africa. At any rate an attempt to organize a government dedicated to a firmer stand has failed and the next try will be in support of a more conciliatory leadership. French colonies in North Africa are getting closer to freedom and so another trouble spot is becoming less troublesome.

More cheerful reading comes from Yugoslavia, where President Tito and his followers have been making it plain to comrade Krushchev that they are not taking orders for the Kremlin.

Tomorrow the news may be all bad again. Generally, as one hot spot has cooled off another has threatened to erupt. But cheerful news is always welcome, and much of the recent news has been cheerful.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

An oldster stomped home from the courthouse domino game much disturbed, saying to his wife, "Maybelle, let me see that letter from our boy telling of jumping a mile into the ocean from an airplane."

After reading with painstaking care, he grumbled, "This'll teach me never to take your word for what's in a letter, because you've let me make a bragging nitwit of myself. Why didn't you tell me the boy used a parachute?"

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans' benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA Contact Representative at the Grand Forks VA office.

Q—I have a non-participating Korean GI term insurance policy. Do I have the right to add the total disability income provision to my policy?

A—No. The total disability income provision may not be added to non-participating Korean GI policies.

Q—I am getting a VA pension, and I hold a small part-time job that doesn't interfere with my disability. In reporting my income for pension purposes, do I include my gross salary or my net salary after income tax deductions?

A—You must report your gross income, before any deductions have been made.

Q—Must a veteran's blindness be service-connected in order for him to get VA's special aids for the blind?

A—Blindness itself need not be service-connected, so long as the veteran has some other disability which has been determined as service-connected.

Q—I have just paid off my GI loan in full. Does this automatically entitle me to another GI loan?

A—No. Repayment in full would not automatically entitle you to another loan.

MAKERS OF MINNESOTA
Cass Gilbert
(1859-1934) American architect and designer, resident of St. Paul for 30 years.
Among his many designs were the U.S. Supreme Court building in Washington D.C. Others were the Ninth Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis, the New York and Endicott buildings in St. Paul. The "Cass Gilbert Plan" was followed in constructing and arranging many of the University of Minnesota buildings to care for the increasing number of students.
Known as the "father of the modern skyscraper" he designed the 57-story Woolworth building in New York, the 792 ft. structure and the tallest building in the world at the time of its erection in 1913.

Sen. Humphrey's Newsletter

Health Most Precious Gift

Most of us would agree that there is nothing more precious than good health and nothing more desperately needed than adequate medical care, hospitalization, and nutrition. One of the striking achievements of American society has been the steady improvement of health standards, better nutrition, better medicines, advances in surgery and nursing care, and better hospitals. By comparison with most of the world our people are wealthy beyond measure in that most precious of possessions—good health.

Gaps To Be Filled

But we must not be complacent, for as our population grows older and as we continue to grow in total population by leaps and bounds, great gaps are beginning to show in our over-all program of good health. There are still far too many chronically ill and far too many mental patients for whom we do not have adequate hospitalization and care. Our small towns suffer from shortages of doctors. Severe illnesses still become financial catastrophes for millions of American families. And there is so much yet to be done in research on the great killers—cancer and heart disease—and on that most tragic of all plagues of the human race—mental illness.

Constructive Legislation

During this 85th Congress I have advanced legislation and appropriation requests along five major lines: (1) medical research grants, (2) medical and dental research and teaching facilities, (3) hospital and nursing home construction, (4) assistance for hospital care, and (5) the use of our food abundance to raise the nutritional standards of our very young and our needy.

Hospitalization

Among my most recent efforts to fill some of the existing gaps in adequate care has been introduction of an amendment to the Social Security Act which would provide for insurance against the costs of hospital and nursing home service for persons eligible for benefits under the old age, survivor's insurance, and disability program now in existance. Persons certified by their own physician as needing the care would choose any hospital that admits them and that had contracted with the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare to furnish the services. If effective and economical administration of hospital insurance can be achieved through private non-profit insurance organizations, the Secretary is authorized to contract with them to provide it. It is estimated that eventually 12 to 13 million persons would be eligible for such coverage.

How to add $90.00 a month to Your Retirement Income

When you retire, an extra $90 a month may mean the difference between skimping along, or living very comfortably.

Most people do not realize how little it takes to increase their retirement income with a Lutheran Brotherhood insurance plan.

For example, suppose you are 33 years old. A Lutheran Brotherhood Endowment at 65 contract for $10,000 would give you a monthly income of $91.20* for the rest of your life.

Yet you get this contract for only $6.08 a week on an annual basis.

And all this time, your family would have their future protected too. If you should die, they would receive at least $10,000. This death benefit increases up to a maximum of $14,480 at age 65.*

Payments waived in case of disability. If you should become totally disabled from sickness or accident before the age of 60, Lutheran Brotherhood would send you a receipt instead of a premium notice. That is, you would retain the full insurance benefits without ever paying another payment. (Standard Risks only.)

Cash Reserve for Emergencies. Like all Lutheran Brotherhood insurance plans, the Endowment at 65 contract is designed so that you can borrow against the cash value in time of need. And at the end of 10 years, for example, you could quit and receive a paid-up contract for $4,260 which will mature at 65.

The Younger you are, the Lower your payments. Of course the same kind of protection is available to people of almost any age, with the payments varying by age at time the plan is issued. On the Endowment at 65, which we have been discussing, the payments on a $10,000 plan would be about $4.80 a week at age 25, and about $10.75 a week at age 45 —on an annual basis.

You can see how your income during retirement can be greatly increased by setting aside just a few dollars a week now on a Lutheran Brotherhood plan. And all during the years while you are accumulating money for retirement, the same Lutheran Brotherhood plan is protecting your family. Why not start right away, while payments for you are still low?

Kratka . . .

Visiting at the Hemmestvedt home on Saturday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Knute Knutson and Gayle.

We have to have a short winter sometime here in Minnesota. A person hates to see it arrive this late, but certainly it can't last long. The spring birds were singing quite cheerfully this cold morning and nothing has diminished the brilliance of the spring sun. Day ght savings time seemed doubly unattractive this morning. There's no reason to be out so early on a wintry day.

Despite the popular notion, the best man usually doesn't win, except in sports.

THE balance sheet of crime never gets so heavy as during times of recession or depression, a fact which might seem to underscore the announcement that the Department of Justice is setting out on an intensified, long range program against organized crime in the nation.

As announced by Attorney General William P. Rogers, the plan reflects the thinking of experts such as J. Edgar Hoover, Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation; Harry J. Anslinger, Commissioner of Narcotics; and Lt. Gen. Joseph M. Swing, Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization.

The plan calls for the concentration of information and investigative effort on the racketeers and hoodlums in this country with the highest priority given to a hundred of the top racketeers. Information will be gathered from each of the cooperating investigating agencies and will be analyzed by lawyers of the criminal division. Malcolm Anderson, recently appointed Assistant Attorney General for the Criminal Division, Department of Justice, will direct this combined effort.

The organized Crime and Racketeering Section of the Criminal Division will be expanded and strengthened. To give initial impetus to the program, a special group, including several former Assistant United States Attorneys, headed by Milton Wessel of New York, will be added to the Division.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation will investigate the federal crimes within its jurisdiction, the principal statutes being Hobbs Anti-racketeering Act, Obstruction of Justice, Extortion, and Interstate Fraud by Wire. Also the liaison with local police that the FBI has established through the National Police Academy and the FBI laboratory is expected to be of aid in cooperation in this field.

The Treasury, with its various investigative agencies, will give full cooperation. Many offenses committed by racketeers fall within the investigative authority of the Bureau of Narcotics, the Internal Revenue Service, and the Secret Service.

The special group will first analyze the pool of information on the 100 top hoodlums now available from all the investigative agencies. Thereafter they will request additional investigation along lines suggested by the examination and they are authorized to request the convening of an investigatory grand jury. This is not planned to supplant the work now being done by the United States Attorneys in the field or the work of any investigative agency or their techniques, but rather to implement that work.

THE BIGGEST SHOW-OFF

By F. L. Rowley

ART FISHER was the biggest show-off in the world. I wouldn't have minded too much if he wasn't also my best friend. Art was the flashiest man on the ball field, the best swimmer, even at the head of our class at school.

That was before Miss Baker visited our school. Miss Baker was some kind of inspector for the Board of Education. When we heard that she was coming we got the shakes.

Art Fisher was overjoyed. We had been told that each student must prepare a one sheet essay for Miss Baker's approval. Since Art also excelled in English this was just another chance for him to show off.

I felt sorry for Miss Simpson when class started. She was trying so hard to conceal her nervousness. She placed the sheaf of papers reflecting our best efforts on the window ledge. The window was open so she laid a glass paper weight on top of the pile.

Charlie Bates sat near the window. Charlie had never won world acclaim for his brilliance. He studied the papers thoughtfully.

Soon we heard the sharp click of a woman's heel at the end of the corridor. We faced the door expectantly.

A rustling sound broke the silence.

"The papers!" Miss Simpson cried frantically.

It was too late! A strong wind had carried the precious papers to the ceiling where they hung for a moment before fluttering downward in every direction.

We forgot about Miss Baker. We went after the papers. Some stood on seats to catch the papers as they came down.

"Jiggers!" cried Charlie Bates.

We faced the door and froze. Miss Simpson was pale.

The silence that followed was one of despair. Miss Baker walked across to the big desk, pulled out the chair, and seated herself.

Miss Baker studied us for a long moment.

"When I was a little girl," she began suddenly in a voice free of emotion, "I wanted a new dress to go to a party."

Miss Simpson blinked. Not a word about the uproar.

"We were poor," Miss Baker went on, "but my mother managed to buy some pretty material. She made a dress. It took her almost two weeks, but it was the loveliest thing I had ever seen. But just when I was ready to go to the party my brother accidentally spilled a cup of cocoa over the front of my dress. It was ruined.

"The little girl next door was rich. She had a beautiful new store dress to wear to the same party. When she heard me crying she came over and gave me her new dress to wear to the party.

"So don't feel bad about what happened here this morning. The finest plans often go awry; something good may even come of it."

A sigh rolled across the room. Miss Simpson smiled.

"Now I should like to see one of your flying papers."

"Here's a good one!" cried Art Fisher.

We all groaned inwardly. The show-off was at it again.

Miss Baker reached for the paper. It had a heel mark on it. As she read it we began to laugh. Before she had finished it we were all howling. It was the funniest thing I had ever heard. But it was the end that made us gasp.

"—and this student's signature," said Miss Baker wiping her eyes, "is 'Charlie Bates'. Well done, Charlie!"

We turned, not to look at Charlie, but at Art. He was grinning as if he'd done something wonderful. And he had. Not only had he given credit to someone else for the first time in his life — he'd made himself a room full of friends.

And I've never heard anyone call him 'show-off' since.

CONCRETE STREETS—
An Extra Measure of Protection

Pedestrians and motorists both have an extra measure of protection on concrete streets. Concrete's gritty texture is highly skid-resistant, wet or dry, so a driver can stop quickly and safely in emergencies.

Concrete streets offer an extra measure of protection at night, too. Their light-colored surface reflects more light than any other pavement. You can see farther and better on concrete, whether you're walking or driving. Remember, if you can't see, you can't be safe!

So put safety first—for yourself, your family, your friends and your neighbors. Insist upon concrete, the safety pavement, for your streets. You'll get an extra measure of protection, night and day, rain and shine.

Thief River Falls shares in annual state-aid funds for street modernization. Concrete streets are rugged, smooth-riding and clean. Ask for concrete on your arterial streets.

Crops

The weather man threw us a curve. All winter we got by with the finest of weather and now this. Well did you know that reports from Crookston Experiment Station show there have been killing frosts 37 years out of 50 years after April 30. This may not be the end of it yet.

* * *

The extent of crops damage will vary with the depth of seeding, root development, type of soil and the length of exposure to frost. Deeper seeded crops will have a better chance. If the roots were firmly established, the crops like wheat and oats recover well. Crops on peat soils don't withstand frost damage as well as crops on heavier soil. The depth of frost penetration will also effect the possibility of regrowth. Field will vary, then, in extent of damage.

If you plan to raise soybeans this year, choose a variety developed for this zone. They are Acme and Flambean. Also inoculate the soybeans before planting. Seed that has been badly weathered or damaged may need treatment with a fungicide.

Pastures

By adding 30-40 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre after each grazing, you can make your grass pastures remain productive throughout this summer's grazing season.

Alfalfa-grass or alfalfa-clover-grass pasture mixtures will require intensive grazing this year to get the most yield per acre and still preserve the legume stand. But grazing should not start until the alfalfa is 8-10 inches tall.

Now there's evidence that fertilizing helps get more mileage from pastures for dairy heifers. At the University of Minnesota's Northeast experiment station, Duluth, fertilized pastures produced 436 pounds of heifer gain per acre in 1957. The average was 148 pounds per unfertilized acre.

Sheep

There was little or no difference in rate of gain or feed consumption between native lambs and labs from Western ranges, in recent research at the University of Minnesota's West Central Experiment station, Morris. Native lambs graded slightly higher, however.

Here's a point for sheep men to keep in mind. Prospects are that ewe lambs will bring $2 to $3 more per hundred pounds than wethers this year. This is because many sheep men are looking for ewes to expand their flocks. However, farmers will cash in on this premium only where lambs are marketed in large numbers.

* * *

It's wise to point-brand each ewe and her day-old lambs with the same number. Then, the lambs can easily be identified, when they become separated from their mothers.

Dairy

Average output of dry milk per hour of labor in Minnesota milk drying plants is about 120 pounds. This compares with about 90 pounds per labor hour in 1948, showing that these plants have made important gains in efficiency.

Dairy products research workers at the University of Minnesota have learned that level of tyrosine, and amino acid, in process cheese gives an indication of its melting quality. This finding could eventually lead to better melting quality in process cheese.

Production per cow in Minnesota dairy herds will continue to increase in the future, according to Ralph Wayne extension dairyman at the University of Minnesota. Better herds will continue to get bigger, and most herds averaging less than 300 pounds of butterfat per cow will operate at a loss. An average of 400 pounds butterfat or more annually will be necessary to really make money in the dairy business in the future.

Hospitality Book Is Published for State Residents

W. J. Madden, Brainerd, chairman Centennial hospitality committee, announced that the committee had created a hospitality manual designed for use by key personnel coming in contact with the public.

Madden said "The eight page booklet was created for use during Centennial year because we want our personnel, such as doormen, bellmen, desk clerks, elevator operators, maids, assistants and waitresses to be familiar with the basic fundamentals of hospitality which include good grooming, a pleasant personality and most of all, a sincere and earnest desire to be of service to the public.

"I hope everyone comprising the "hosts" of the state, namely, hotels, restaurants, resorts and motels, will avail themselves of the booklet which is obtainable from the Hospitality Committee office, 112 North Seventh Street, Minneapolis 3, at a cost of five cents each."

Tickets on Sale for Centennial Dinner May 8th

Banquet in Leamington Hotel Planned to Honor Scandinavian Royalty

Governor Orville L. Freeman today announced that tickets to the Minnesota Centennial dinner in honor of the Scandinavian delegation are still available to people throughout the state who have not as yet received invitations. The dinner will be held at the Leamington Hotel in Minneapolis at 6:30 p.m. on Thursday, May 8th.

"Because I have received so many inquiries from outside the Twin Cities metropolitan area," the Governor said, "I have asked the Centennial Commission to set aside a certain number of tickets to be held in reserve to meet requests from out-state Minnesotans.

"This gala event is one at which we hope all parts of our state will be well represented, and I am therefore taking this means to cordially invite all who are interested to join me at this occasion in extending the welcome and hospitality of our state to Princess Astrid of Norway, Prince Bertil of Sweden, and representatives of the governments of all the Scandinavian countries."

Tickets for the dinner are $8.00 each, and can be obtained by sending that amount to Minnesota Statehood Centennial Commission, c/o Mrs. Eugenie Anderson, Room 239 State Capitol, St. Paul, Minnesota. Requests will be filled in the order in which they are received. "Because the number available is limited," Freeman said, "such requests must be made by May 5th."

Too many pressing responsibilities in the Lord's work. The congregation couldn't afford to have its church painted.

But painted it was!

That was a glorious Saturday—no picnic or ball games, just hours of hard work. And what with the paint supplied at cost by a local dealer, and the brushes loaned by the very painter who might have hoped for the contract—nobody made a nickel!

But the remarkable thing is that nobody in town thought all this remarkable . . .

You know Christianity has had a deep influence on the life of a community when we begin to take for granted the zeal and sacrifice of Christian neighbors. The next step is to add our strength and faith to theirs in the worship and work of the Church.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Michael Wayne, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Jarshaw was baptized at the services at Rindal church Sunday. Sponsors were the child's aunt Mrs. Harry Knutson and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Holmstrom.

Rindal Sunday school will start on May 11 announces Supt. Melvin Saugen. The tentative date of May 4 had been set but because it conflicts with the Luther League Rally at Our Saviors church in Thief River Falls to which our young people are urged to go May 11 will be opening day. All children are invited to come. There is a need for more teachers.

Hot Springs is 'America's Own Spa'

BATH HOUSE ROW—HOT SPRINGS, ARK.

Nestled in the Ouachitas, where lakes and mountains, forests and streams unite to form a vacation wonderland, is Hot Springs, Arkansas—"America's Own Spa."

Hot Springs is truly America's own, for it belongs to the people. It is the only health resort in the nation where the natural hot waters which flow from the earth are owned, controlled and endorsed by the United States Government.

Located in the Ouachita Mountains of Southwestern Arkansas, Hot Springs is actually four resorts in one. It is a spa, a national park, a lakeside playground, and a mountain retreat.

Historically, the Hot Springs region was visited by Hernando De Soto in 1541; the area was included in land claimed for France by La Salle, 1682; included in region given Spain by France, 1762; became part of the United States with the Louisiana Purchase. The first spa treatment institution was erected in 1830 (previously hillside pools were used) and in 1832 President Andrew Jackson signed the bill that set aside the famous thermal springs. The city and park are named for natural hot springs, from which flow one million gallons of steaming water each day at average temperature of 143 degrees Fahrenheit.

The National Park Service of the United States Department of the Interior regulates the park and bath houses. There are hydrotherapy facilities in 19 pay bath houses. Eight are in the park at the base of Hot Springs Mountain, constituting what is known as "Bath House Row," and ten are located at various points in the city.

Population-wise, the Chamber of Commerce says that Hot Springs has 45,811 in its resident area; but over three million visitors annually flock into the area.

Contrary to some opinion, Hot Springs National Park is not in the foothills of the Ozarks; it is in the Ouachita region. Arkansas has two major resort areas—the Ouachitas and the Ozarks and the Arkansas River divides the two. The Ouachita range is unique in being one of two major ranges in America with ridges running east and west. All others run north and south. Highest range between the Rockies and Alleghanies.

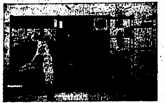
Leisure Center Aids Spacious Look



A new concept of furniture, the leisure center is a flexible storage wall consisting of four free-standing, walnut finished units with molded plastic drawers and space for Hi-Fi and TV.

It's not the lack of space but the undisciplined use of it that is crowding American living rooms.

By the time today's homemaker has juggled the TV set, the record player, the desk, the china cupboard, the buffet, the bookshelves, the living room sofa and dad's easy chair, she is ready to admit that four walls are just not enough.

This is the stage when she might well take a tip from the newest design in furniture and consolidate her storage along one wall. There's a place for everything and everything is in place in the new leisure center that in four well planned units can replace up to seven separate pieces of furniture, including the desk and buffet. The seven-foot-high units line up to fill a 12-foot wall, or in pairs, flank fireplace or doorway.

All of the base units have molded styrene plastic drawers that never warp or stick, never snag. Their smooth-as-silk surfaces may be washed or wiped clean with a damp cloth. Three of the base units have pull out shelves finished in marproof, white melamine plastic laminate, pretty for buffet suppers and just as practical for hobbies and games. Tambour and cane door sections have removable back panels to simplify installation of Hi-Fi speakers, connections for TV antenna, or electrical outlets.

"Overture Eroica" by Beethoven arr. by Skornicka, was the band selection which was also good for second place in the contest.

Junior Class Play Set May 2

The Junior class of the Newfolden High School will present a three-act comedy "Tish" in the Newfolden Community School Auditorium Friday evening, May 2, 1958, at 8 p. m.

The play centers around Tish, an outspoken but loveable spinster. With her good friends, Lizzie and Aggie, she takes off in a used car and ends up in a wrecked airplane; she had her eye on three romances and even manages to mix in a little robbery and murder.

The following make up the cast: Connie Olson as Tish, Deanna Davis and Bonnie Peters as Lizzie and Aggie, Barbara Granstrand, LuAnn Smith, James Jacobson, JoAnn Doran, Dennis Bakken, Marilyn Rokke, Erwin Melvie, Gordon Everson, Delmore Lofstrom, Beverly Skadsem.

School matinees will be given Thursday morning and afternoon. Ticket prices for the Friday performance are 65c for reserved seats and 50c general admission.

Written by Alice Chadwick and based on stories by Mary Robert Rhinehart, Tish is produced by special arrangement with Samuel French of New York. The play is under the direction of Mrs. Dennis Borman.

ALWAYS THE GAMBLER

By Lyle Pace

THE town of Cedar Gulch was sleeping when Matt Latham rode his mare down the main street. It wasn't much of a town, he thought, but it would do until he got a stake again. He noticed a sign in the moonlight, the biggest sign in town, advertising the Half Crown Saloon. Matt knew there'd be a saloon, there always was. But supposing there hadn't been one?

He felt grimy after his long ride and was anxious to sleep again on a bed. He'd been four days on the trail. Four days too long.

He registered at the small desk and arranged for the care of his mare. He found his room, washed up and collapsed on the bed, almost asleep before he hit the blanket.

He slept until eleven. When he'd dressed in his change of suit, he left the hotel and headed for the Half Crown.

It wasn't much, as bars went, he told himself. Probably not more than a hundred dollars among the lot. He took his glass and wandered over to the poker table.

"A quarter better," one of the men said, tossing in a coin. "I got you licked, Jake, and you know it." He smiled good naturedly, and fingered his cards.

"Beats me," Sam said, throwing in his cards.

"King high straight," the bettor said.

Jake threw down his hand. "Three aces: Can you tie that, Sam? Three aces for the first time in weeks, and he pulls a straight on me." He stood up and walked to the bar.

"I guess that breaks up the game, Tom," Sam said. "Two playin' is no fun." He paused and looked at Matt. "Say, how about you, young fella? Know how to play poker?"

Matt smiled and sat down. It was almost too easy.

Matt soon got the stakes higher and now there were tens and twenties in the pot. But that had been all he'd succeeded in doing. Although Matt had lost steadily in the past hour, as was his usual procedure, both Tom and Sam were not raising to the bait.

"Well, guess I'll get back to work," Tom said. "Comin', Sam?"

"Yep." He turned to Matt. "Thanks, stranger. Thanks for the contribution."

The two men sauntered to the door and disappeared into the street. Matt slumped in his chair, not quite believing what had just happened.

"Welcome to the Half Crown, mister," a friendly voice said behind Matt. He whirled in his chair, looked up at a tall, heavy set man who was grinning widely. The big man extended his hand. "Name's Morgan. Jeffery P. Morgan, owner and manager. At your service, Mr.—Mr.—?"

Matt got to his feet and took the hand. "Latham," he said. "Call me Matt."

"All right, Matt. How about a drink on the house." He guided Matt to the bar.

When the drinks were brought, Morgan lifted his glass. "To your health, Mr. Latham. I mean Matt."

Morgan downed his glass and set it on the bar. "How was the game?" He nodded to the table. "Get your money's worth?"

Matt shrugged. "Live and learn," he said. "They nearly cleaned me."

Morgan chuckled. "Sure. I could have told you that. Nobody in their right mind will play poker with Sam and Tom Brewster." Morgan's eyes narrowed slightly. "No professional gambler will, anyway."

"And what does that mean?" Matt said.

"It means," Morgan went on, "that you just got took by the sharpest pair of poker players ever to put boots under a table. Why, those guys don't even travel around any more. Just stay here and wait for suckers like you."

NOTICE

How many people know that there are no less than 10 coaches in our school system? I venture a guess that their combined salaries is right around $60,000 per year for the 9 or 10 months. Some of these teach other subjects besides their coaching jobs.

Some of the important courses are golf and tennis. Believe there are very few expecting to take these lines up at their life work, but look at the fun they are having!

The meaning of the three R's has been changed to Rest, Recreation and Romance.

Fine Parade Features VFW Convention

Arthur Bakken of Fergus Falls Named 9th District Chief

Featured by an outstanding parade Saturday evening that comprised more than 50 units, the successful Ninth district convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and its auxiliary came to a close Sunday afternoon with the election of officers to serve the two groups during the coming year.

More than 200 delegates from a large area attended the convention and a banquet Sunday noon in the Eagles hall, according to Roy Jorgenson, retiring commander and chairman of the convention committee.

VFW district officers elected include Arthur Bakken, Fergus Falls, commander; Roy Rawley of Crookston and Arnold Monsrud of Roseau, senior and junior vice commander; Roy Jorgenson, judge advocate; Roy V. Hanson, Breckenridge, chaplain; Floyd Hovland, Ada, surgeon; Quentin Werpy, Ada, trustee; and Wallace Robertson, Fergus Falls, club committee man.

Among auxiliary officers named were Ida Werpy of Ada, president; Myrtle Lovejoy of East Grand Forks and Gladys Klubberud of Breckenridge, senior and junior vice presidents; Mrs. Agnes Israelson, TRF, trustee; Mildred Regimbal, Crookston, treasurer; Eudora Havel, TRF, conductress; and Naomi Bredeson, historian.

In the business session, retiring Commander Jorgenson was presented with a diamond pin in recognition of the Ninth district going over the top in the 1958 membership drive by March 31.

Many favorable comments were heard from the large gallery of spectators that witnessed the convention parade, which got under way promptly at 6:30 p. m. Saturday, with Alex Cloutier as marshal. Heading the procession were the massed colors, followed by officials of Thief River Falls and VFW dignitaries.

Participating bands included the Legion municipal and Lincoln high school bands of this city; Greenbush, Mahnomen, Fosston and Plummer high school bands; Bridgeman Halfpints of TRF; and a German band from Ada; in addition to numerous drill teams.

Outstanding entries among the many floats in the parade were two from the local VFW post, one showing a midget hockey team in action, and the other depicting George Washington crossing the Delaware. Other entries included mounted horsemen, a covered wagon and old and new automobiles.

More than 200 persons attended the banquet Sunday noon in the Eagles hall, with Ollie Mossestad, commander of the local VFW post, presiding. In addition to the speakers listed in Thursday's issue of the Times, the program also included greetings extended by Carl Hokhe of Fargo, commander of the North Dakota department of the VFW.

Plan for Purebred Ram Sale Sept. 22

Sale Again to Be Held in Thief River Falls

Plans for the 1958 sale and show were made when the committee held a meeting at the Rex Cafe in Thief River Falls April 21. Date for the sale was set at September 22 in this city.

Consignors will again give away a free ram at the show. Mail entries for the sale will have to be in by August 13, the committee decided, with all purebred breeders invited to participate in the event. Information concerning the sale may be secured from the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce or by writing Box 708 in Thief River Falls.

Attending were Earl Dickenson, Bemidji; Verll Harden, Hawley; Elwood and Paul Billberg, Wannaska; Emory Clow, Hallock; Paul Wagner, Bemidji; Carl Spong, Fargo; Paul Stelmachuk, county agent of Thief River Falls; and J. M. Roche, secretary.

VFW 9th District Officials Elected Sunday

Girl Scout Court of Awards to Be Held in Auditorium Tonight

The annual Girl Scout Court of Awards will be held this evening, Monday, at 7:30 o'clock in the city Auditorium, and parents and friends are invited. The Court of Awards is the end towards which intermediate and senior Girl Scouts work all year, and is the public recognition of work done and services rendered.

The awards of merit badges will be made by the troop leaders and the class awards will be made by men friends of Scouting.

Dr. J. W. Ewing will present the second class awards; R. J. Dryden the first class awards; Stephen Abstin, the 5 and 10 year pins; Gunder Legvold, the five-point pins; Ted Mills, the Aide Bars for at least 30 hours of service; Warren Nelson the Midshipmite; Thomas Gilligan the Jack Tar, and Morris Owen the curved bars, the highest award given in the intermediate program.

The Senior Troop 19 with Nan Peterson as mistress of ceremonies will have charge of introductions; the Junior troops 10 and 11 will have charge of seating; the Sophomore troop 110 will be in charge of the flag ceremony; and the freshman troop 33 has charge of the programs.

Only 121 Canines Here Are Licensed up to Last Friday

While the dog population of Thief River Falls is believed to total several hundred, only 121 licenses had been issued up to Friday afternoon from police headquarters, the issuing agency. It was announced that numerous canines without licenses have been picked up and confined by the city poundmaster. Owners also are reminded that dogs must be kept on their home premises or on leash from April 15 to September 15.

Pres. G. Peterson Lists Jr. Chamber Committee Heads

Centennial Button Sale to Be Completed on West Side of River Wednesday

Glenn Peterson, new president of the JayCees, took over his duties at the regular meeting Thursday, May 1, with 27 members in attendance, John Eisbrener, secretary, announced.

Some of the new committee chairmen were announced. They were: Water ski show, Bruce Hall, general chairman; Stan Gibson, show chairman. Profit making, Peter Jepsen and John Eisbrener, co-chairmen. Membership, Stan Gibson, Bob Gramstad, John Hamilton and Jim Kriegl. Trade promotion, Walt Kavanaugh. Religious activities, Rueben Lockrem. Agricul[illegible] Charles Samuelson. Program, Dr. George Martin. Publicity, N. H. Kortuem.

Three guests were introduced, Warren McIntosh, Ed [illegible] and Earl Strinden.

John Eisbrener reported on the Centennial button sale, which he said is progressing [illegible]. There are still some streets which have not been canvassed and the JayCees plan to finish the west side of the city on Wednesday, May 7.

Pete Jepsen gave a report on a meeting with the board of directors of the Thieves baseball organization. The JayCees have agreed to run the concession stand at all baseball games this summer.

Chuck Meister, chairman of the Whisker club committee, reported that the plans are progressing very well.

Glenn Peterson and Ormond Johnson were announced as delegates to the state convention at Albert Lea, May 2 and 3.

Walt Kavalangh, chairman of the queen committee, reported that the JayCees would have a float in the V.F.W. parade on Saturday, May 3.

The next meeting was set for May 15 at the Rex Cafe.

The Pennington county statehood centennial committee will meet this evening, Monday, at 7:30 in the probate court room in the court house to develop further plans for the local observance of the event, Judge Herman A. Kjos, chairman, announced today.

Orville M. Hanson Named Cashier of Northern State

Former Asst. Cashier Promoted to Succeed Cliff Zaffke, Resigned

Orville M. Hanson, who has served as assistant cashier of the Northern State bank since 1951, has been promoted to cashier, succeeding Cliff Zaffke, recently resigned, Geo. A. Beito, president, announced today.

Mr. Hanson is from the Oklee community, having graduated as valedictorian of the high school class of 1947. Following his graduation he was employed at the Security State bank of Oklee, serving with that organization in various capacities and finally as assistant cashier.

His bank service was interrupted by 21 months of duty in the army with overseas service as a message center chief in Korea to his credit. Mr. Hanson is married, has one daughter, and has been active in local organizations since coming to Thief River Falls.

He is replacing Zaffke as treasurer of the Pennington County Sportsmen's club.

No. Central Line Gains in Traffic

North Central Airlines today announced its Northliners carried 60,628 revenue passengers during April, a 28 per cent increase over April of last year. The figures topped all 12 of the nation's other local airlines.

Hal N. Carr, president, also pointed out that the Twin Cities-based airline operated 99 per cent of its 858,308 scheduled miles last month, compared with 92 per cent for the same month last year.

Judge Lundgren Disposes of Two Red Lake Co. Cases

Court Holds for W. A. Webskowski of TRF in Auto Accident Action

Two court trials were resolved last week at the Red Lake county court house in cases heard before Judge Paul Lundgren of Thief River Falls and county juries, the Red Lake Falls Gazette reports.

In a case heard Monday, Emmett Morinville of Brooks was plaintiff in an action against Clarence Offerdahl resulting from an auto accident near Brooks in August of 1956. The case did not go to the jury since it was settled in court chambers during the trials.

The second case heard Tuesday went to the jury but not in the usual sense. Judge Lundgren directed the jury to find for the defendant, W. A. Webskowski of Thief River Falls in an action brought by Ben Johanson of Red Lake Falls.

The trial was the outcome of an auto mishap November 10, 1956 when Webskowski's car was driven into the front of Vogue building in Red Lake Falls. A woman friend of Webskowski's was at the wheel at the time while the owner was in the Jewel Tavern.

According to Judge Lundgren, the case did not involve a determination of fact, for the jury to make but a point of law in which the jury had to find in the defendant's favor. Lundgren gave a stay of 30 days in which the case may be appealed.

Smith and Melroy of Bemidji were attorneys for the plaintiff while Rulien [illegible] of Thief River Falls represented Webskowski.

Both of the above actions were actually between insurance companies to determine liability in the accident.

Legion Election Set for Tuesday

500,000 Bu. of County Grain Are Resealed

ASC Office to Take More Applications as Late as May 25

Patrick W. Culkins, manager of the Pennington county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office, reports that as of the close of business April 30, farmers in Pennington county have resealed for another year approximately 500,000 bushels of oats, barley, and wheat on their farms under the government reseal program.

The county office will continue to accept reseal applications up to May 25, he stated. Commodity Credit Corporation loan inspectors will make an on-the-farm inspection to determine quantity and acceptability of the storage structure shortly after June 1.

Conservation reserve contracts are being processed at the county office, and producers' copies are being mailed to all Pennington county soil bank participants. The office received word on May 2 that ample funds would be made available to the county to cover all applications filed by producers in Pennington County under the 1958 soil bank program.

Due to a last minute rush, said Culkins, the office is not in a position at this time to give an accurate account of the acreage and dollars involved under the soil bank program. However this information will be released to the Times as soon as acreages are determined.

Rain Predicted in This Locality

Mercury Mounted to High of 74 Here Friday

The predominant note in today's KTRF [illegible] is "possible showers," with [illegible] Wednesday [illegible] would do well to keep rain gear handy.

[illegible] the Fanning [illegible] late last week [illegible] temperatures, with the [illegible] since Thursday [illegible] that day, [illegible] a low, a cool 24, in [illegible] place for low honors.

[illegible] high for the period was a balmy 74 Friday. The only precipitation for the period, .13 inch, was registered that day also.

The forecast is for considerable cloudiness and scattered showers today, with partly cloudy skies tonight and Tuesday, along with a chance of widely scattered showers tonight.

Dates and locations of each of the nine District Republican conventions have been scheduled, State GOP Chairman Archer Nelsen announced. He stated that the Ninth district convention will be held Saturday, [illegible] 24, in the Fredrick Martin Hotel in Moorhead.

Schools to Be Evacuated in C.D. Test Here Tuesday

Young Mayor Gets Key to City

Robert Jorstad, an outstanding Lincoln high school senior was elected by classmates to serve as mayor of Thief River Falls for a day and is shown here as he is handed the key to the city by Mayor O. D. Belch at a short ceremony during the Youth Night festivities at the Elks Club Friday evening.

Operation Alert 1958 to Test Civil Defense Agencies

The Pennington county, Minnesota, federal and Canadian civil defense organizations will all join forces Tuesday in "Operation Alert 1958", designed to test the operational readiness of the agencies, it was announced today by Bruce Reski, Pennington county CD director.

The purpose of the test is to determine the readiness of the nation to meet a direct nuclear attack. Reski stated that while this area is not in the target area, it nevertheless might be affected, by fall-out, adding that the alert will reveal whether or not the CD agency is prepared to give warning of impending danger and to care for evacuees from other areas.

Civil defense workers here will be called into action around the noon hour when the fire siren sounds the alert, consisting of a prolonged sustained note, after a warning is received from state headquarters thru the Bemidji CD center.

Principal feature of the exercise here will be the evacuation of the 2,400 pupils in the Thief River Falls schools, as well as of the St. Hilaire and Goodridge schools when a second alert is sounded sometime after 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

The pupils will be led out of the various buildings by their teachers, and school buses will immediately take the rural pupils to their homes, while those living in the city will be instructed to go home.

The control center in the county agent's office in the court house will be fully manned and functioning from the time the first alert is received at noon until about 8 p. m.

Following a noon lunch, a general staff meeting will be conducted by Reski at 12:30, including a review of Alert Day procedure, reports on a radiological school by Lawrence Brown and Chas. Samuelson, Lincoln school science instructors; and reports by Roy Langevin, fire chief, and Quentin Jones, rescue chief.

The day's activities will close with a staff meeting at 7 o'clock, at which the success of the exercise will be discussed, and recommendations made to the local and state civil defense staffs.

Dick Biddick New Manager Grafton, ND, Radio Station

Son of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Biddick Was Previously with Faribault Station

Richard G. (Dick) Biddick, news director of Radio Station KDHL in Faribault and a graduate of Lincoln high school here, has taken over the duties of manager of Station KOPC in Grafton, N. D. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Biddick of Thief River Falls.

During his association with station KDHL, he was given the award for the "most outstanding news room" in the 1,000-watt class in the United States by the National Association of Radio and Television News Directors.

Biddick formerly served as news director of WBT-TV in Charlotte, N. C., and WTMJ-TV in Milwaukee, Wis. He had his first experience on the staff of KTRF in Thief River Falls.

While in Faribault, he was active in the Chamber of Commerce, served as a member of the board of directors of the Faribault United Fund, was a member of the board of directors of the Shattuck School Centennial, and served as Rice county deputy sheriff. He was recently awarded the civic service award by the Faribault Eagles lodge.

Lincoln High Wins Eight 'A' Ratings in Music Festival

Band and Mixed Chorus Among Top Groups in State Area Contest

Eight out of ten Lincoln high school entries in the state area music festival held in Thief River Falls Friday and Saturday received top ratings of "A" from the critic judges.

Fully 2,500 students representing more than 30 schools in this section of the state participated in the festival, according to Paul E. Anderson, chairman in charge of local arrangements for the event. As many as 200 students came from one school, he added.

Lincoln groups winning "A" ratings include the band, mixed chorus, woodwind quartet and quintet, saxophone sextet and girls' vocal trio. Vocal soloists receiving "A"s include Janet Torgerson, Frank Conklin and David Thorstad. The brass sextet earned a "B" rating.

The competing schools were divided into various classifications in accordance with their student population.

Lincoln Students Enjoy Elks Youth Night Activities

Honorary City Officials Seated at Sixth Annual Party Friday Evening

A near-capacity gathering of Lincoln junior-senior high school students assembled Friday evening in the Elks club rooms for the sixth annual Youth Day observance sponsored by the local Elks lodge.

Alvin Christofferson, youth committee chairman, presided, and called on Dr. E. L. Gilbert, head of the lodge, who welcomed the young people and told them of some of the activities in behalf of youth conducted by the Elks.

Featuring the program was the induction of four students as honorary city officials. Mayor O. D. Belch inducted Robert Jorstad as mayor; Stan Mortenson, special municipal judge, installed Janet Torgerson as judge; Police Chief Elton Cummings turned over an honorary badge to Clifton VeVea; and Fire Chief Roy Langevin presented a badge to Dean Bergland.

Christofferson presented $25 savings bonds to Kenneth Jones and Janet Torgerson, local winners in the Elks scholarship contest; and to David Rasmussen and Ruby Waale, who won the leadership contest.

Preceding the program, which was broadcast over Station KTRF, the students enjoyed roller skating in the arena, and the evening closed with dancing and the serving of wieners and soft drinks.

Receives Bonds for Scholarship and Leadership

Four young people, members of the Lincoln high school class of 1958 were awarded $25 savings bonds Friday evening at the Elks Club, as a part of the youth night activities at the club. Shown here after the awards for leadership and scholarship were presented are Dr. E. L. Gilbert, exalted ruler of the local Elks; David Rasmussen, Ruby Waale, and Janet Torgerson, award winners, and Al Christofferson, master of ceremonies. Not shown here is Kenneth Jones. Jones and Janet Torgerson were winners of the local Elks scholarship contest, while Ruby Waale and Rasmussen won the leadership contests.

Edna Hasby and Ernest Thune Married April 27

Miss Edna May Hasby, daughter of Mrs. Oliver Carpenter of Rainy River Ontario, Canada and Ernest Thune, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Thune of this city, were united in marriage Sunday, April 27 at the St. Pauli Lutheran church. Rev. Augustine performed the 4 o'clock ceremony in the presence of 80 friends and relatives.

Jerry Joringdal presided at the organ for the traditional nuptial music and also accompanied the soloist, Harold Anderson who sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her brother, Obie Carpenter of Rainy River Ontario, Canada the bride was attired in a yellow sheath dress fashioned with a matching net overskirt that extended into a bow in the back. She wore an orchid corsage.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was her sister, Mrs. Walter Wicklander of this city and bridesmaid was Miss Arlene Thune, also of this city, sister of the groom. Their dresses were fashioned identical to the bride's with the matron of honor in orchid and bridesmaid in pink. They carried colonial bouquets of pink rosebuds and white carnations. The brides gown and the attendants gowns were made and designed by Mrs. Wicklander.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors with approximately 80 guests present.

Mr. and Mrs. Thune are now at home on Oak Avenue in this city. Mr. Thune is the owner of Dahlberg Hearing Center.

Out of town guests were Mrs. Olive Carpenter, Mrs. Minnie Hurst of Roseau, Mr. and Mrs. Obie Carpenter and family of Rainy River, Ontario, Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Thune, Mrs. Ed Laveen, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Manilla all of Hibbing and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Thune of Twin Valley, Minn.

REV. ROBERT H. HARPER

LAID OFF

RECENTLY, a friend with whom I was driving picked up a man who was going with us about thirty miles to an island off the Gulf coast. The man got out at a floating oil rig which the man called a ship. When we returned, the man was waiting for us with his bag of belongings. A number of other men were leaving the ship. "They've laid me off," the man told us. Thus I had the first look at the recession we have been hearing and reading about.

If I could write anything useful about the recession, I would. In spite of all the wise statements made about it, what to do about it does not seem crystal clear.

This much we can learn—there need never be a recession in the work of God. You will never be laid off, there will always be a place for you if you would continue in the Lord's service. And short of unconsciousness, a good person can accomplish something for his fellows. A young veteran has survived the trip from the Orient, a number of operations and hospital sojourns, but is still confined to a wheel chair. He will never be able to walk. Yet he is about the most cheerful fellow I ever knew. In five years of acquaintance with him, I have never heard him complain. He will never be laid off as long as life shall last. He teaches patience and cheerfulness to all who know him.

Put off Pennington Co. Achievement Day until Tuesday, May 27

"Todays Home Builds Tomorrows World" is the theme of National Home Demonstration Week which is being observed May 4-10. Pennington county homemakers have made plans to postpone their Achievement Day until Tuesday, May 27, 2:00 p. m. in the city Auditorium, said Miss Wanda Warnes, home agent.

Home demonstration work—or the extension home economics program, as it is known in Minnesota—is a national educational movement for better homemaking. It is planned by the homemakers themselves and is open to all rural women. In Minnesota, home agents, assisted by University home economics specialists, provide professional guidance for the program.

The 225 members of the 16 Pennington county's home demonstration groups are among a million and a half home makers who are learning the newest reliable information on various phases of homemaking and family living. Subjects to be studied are based on the needs and interest of the members. This past year, the Pennington county groups studied the following subjects: Family Life, Dental Health, First Aid and Nutrition.

Local women are trained by the home agent or a specialist, who in turn serve as volunteer leaders and present the lesson to their local units. This is a unique system of training and leadership.

Each club in Pennington county elected a chairman and a councilor and this group was the organizing body of the county home program.

This years homemakers council members were: Mrs. Hans Drotts, president; Mrs. Ray Maxson, secretary; Mrs. Emmett Mousley, treasurer; Mrs. Theo. Belswenger, Route 3, City; Mrs. Elvin Peterson, Plummer; Mrs. Earl Peterson, St. Hilaire; Mrs. Oscar Houske, St. Hilaire; Mrs. Alton Carlson, Route 3, City; Mrs. Herbert Safford, 421 Red Lake Blvd., City; Mrs. Mayer Holen, Goodridge; Mrs. Walter Sorter, Goodridge; Mrs. W. A. Corbet, St. Hilaire, Mrs. Wallace Tieman, Goodridge; Mrs. Ted Lendobeja, Goodridge; Mrs. Olga Konickson, Route 3, City; Mrs. Melvin Molden, Route 4, City; Mrs. Steve Jaennette, Route 2, City; Mrs. Hansford Bjerke, Route 4, City; Louise Anderson, 101½ S., city; Mrs. Frank Heinze, Route 3, City; Mrs. Charles Svendsgaard, Goodridge; Mrs. Sullivan Troska, Goodridge; Mrs. Norval Johnson, Route 1, City; Mrs. Dick Marquis, Goodridge; Mrs. Harry Solberg, Goodridge; Mrs. Douglas Steiger, Route 3, Red Lake Falls.

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Institute of Child Welfare
University of Minnesota

"It Felt so Good, Mom"

Linda is thirteen. Dot next door, invited Linda to her party to celebrate her ninth birthday. Now the difference between nine and thirteen is a big one. Linda, in junior high, ordinarily finds it hard to resolve the age difference sufficiently to enjoy spending long periods of time with fourth-grader Dot. Linda at first resisted the idea of going to the party with "those little kids." However, when Dot asked her to judge contests and help to keep order Linda agreed to go. Her parting shot as she left for the party was, "I won't be gone long. I'll escape as soon as I can."

At the end of three hours Linda had not yet come home. The party ended and still she lingered. After another half-hour, in she came, her face flushed and happy. "Gee, it felt so good, Mom. Those kids just idolized me. I guess they must feel about me like I feel about seniors at school. I helped so much and they made me feel so important. Why, I don't believe Dot could have had that party without me."

Linda illustrates an important point. It does indeed feel good to be needed and to be idolized. Too much adoration, of course, can have its drawbacks, but Linda must have, for some reason or other, at that moment, needed some ego-support and "it felt so good."

It is hard for parents and teachers to sense always when these times of need come to boys and girls. It is hard to judge just how much of being the center of attention is good for optimum development. But it is not hard to see the effects upon children when they never have such uplifts of the spirit as can come from having a great day once in a while. And it takes one back when a seemingly poised and independent youngster shows such great pleasure from a pat on the back, especially when the youngster has not given any evidence at all of needing that part so badly.

"Child Shall Lead Them"

Adults become discouraged about integrating all races, creeds, and ideas into workable and peaceful ways of life. Yet that is exactly what must be accomplished in a world grown progressively smaller with scientific advances. It may be that outer space seems more attractive to us because we are squirming uncomfortably trying to accept and understand all of the unfamiliar beings and strange lands which are being brought into closer contact. Ironically, though, conquering outer space will increase rather than lessen the need to get along with everyone everywhere.

It can be done. Children find it easy before they see adult prejudices in action. They take to each other, work, talk, and play together on the basis of common interests. There are no color lines. There are curiosities about both likenesses and differences. When these curiosities are satisfied race is no more a factor than size or shape.

They may have conflicts of interest or property. They may not like one child as well as another. They may share readily a toy toward which they are indifferent, but not a favorite one. But these things are true of all children. As Stella replied when her mother asked how her first day in a German first grade had been: "Fine, mamma. They talk in German and dress in German, but they play in English!"

There is no race or creed in the really important things human beings do to help each other. A news story recently told of an American doctor performing heart surgery on a little French girl while being observed by a doctor from India, one from Belgium, one from Spain, and one from Israel. The Swedish nurse described the common rejoicing and readily communicated relief they shared as the operation was pronounced a success. Yvonne's company, potentially at play in Paris will be an unbeatable international team.

Children can do it; doctors can do it; we can do it. We may need to follow for a time the lead of children at play where everyone who shares and tries to follow group rules is "a good guy." Because, as a matter of fact, that is the way it is.

More than one in every six families owning automobiles has two or more cars—only ten years ago in 1948 the ratio was less than one in 20.

Encouragement of Forest Industry Urged by Freeman

Governor Addresses Keep Minnesota Green, Inc., at Minneapolis

Gov. Orville L. Freeman, in his annual forestry message to Minnesotans Wednesday, called for more intensive timber management on both private and public lands, stepped-up tree-planting and forest protection programs, and an expansion of research to develop new products and uses for the state's expanding forest resources.

Addressing the yearly dinner of Keep Minnesota Green, Inc., in Normandy hotel, Freeman also recommended greater efforts to encourage new wood-using industries and to provide every assistance for the "ongoing industry."

"The material resources of our land are of value only as they contribute to the well-being of the people," Freeman said. Research and planning for the human needs, he added, are basic to the development of "the tremendous potential" of the state's woodlands.

The Governor observed that the value of the Minnesota tree harvest has more than doubled since 1945 and that today the production and processing of timber are the state's third largest industry, providing 50,000 jobs and pouring almost 200 million dollars into the economy each year.

Improved forest protection is as vital as increased tree planting, Freeman noted. He said Minnesota expects to produce 34 million tree seedlings a year by 1960 and that the output will reach 50 million a year shortly afterward. He praised the Tree Farm project and complimented the KMG on its voluntary, cooperative effort to conserve and expand the state's natural resources.

Final Rites Are Conducted For Mrs. F. Arlington

Funeral services for Mrs. Felix Arlington of Medicine Hat, Canada were conducted Tuesday April 29 in Medicine Hat with Rev. R. Melaness officiating. Interment was made in the Hillside cemetery. Mrs. Arlington passed away April 25 at the age of 78 years.

Mrs. Arlington was born September 30, 1880 in Rannomure, Norway and emigrated with her parents to Minnesota in 1887.

She was united in marriage to Felix Arlington in Warren in 1909 and they moved to Canada in 1910. They lived on a homestead in the Chappice Lake district until retiring to Medicine Hat in 1951. She was a member of the Grace Lutheran church.

Survivors include her husband Felix; one sister, Josie (Mrs. Bakken) of Burlingham, Calif.; and three brothers, Matt Rafteseth of Flint, Mich.; Hjalmer Rafteseth of this city and Alfred Rafteseth of Rosewood, Minn.

County 4-H'ers to Note 4-H Sunday

Annual Observance to Be Conducted May 11

Pennington County 4-H members will be observing 4-H Sunday on May 11, Wanda Warnes, home agent, stated today. However, because of a few conflicts, some of the clubs held special program last Sunday, May 4.

The amount and kind of activity differs with each club. Some clubs are holding special services while others are taking part in the regular church service.

Four-H Sunday emphasizes the spiritual values and character-building qualities of 4-H club work, said Miss Warnes. Observance of 4-H Sunday aids in the spiritual development of the individual so essential to a full, well rounded life of service. It helps 4-H members realize their responsibilities to the church of their own choice, and enables them to learn the place of church activities in everyday living.

Four-H club Sunday is an outgrowth of Rural Life Sunday. It is associated with the ancient practice of blessing the land and seed at planting time. It is always observed the fifth Sunday after Easter.

Red Lake Co. GOP Endorses Langen

Proposes Kennedy Man Enter Congress Race

Rep. Odin Langen of Kennedy, the guest speaker at the Red Lake County GOP convention held April 24 in Red Lake Falls, was endorsed by the county organization for Ninth district congressman in the election next fall.

Langen addressed the GOP assembly and advocated a balanced budget in government management in preference to deficit spending, and also the need for less centralization.

D. E. Ostby of Plummer and Neil R. Prenevost, acted as convention chairman and secretary respectively at the conclave.

In the county election to the county committee for the ensuing two-year term were named: D. E. Ostby, chairman; Bernice Orr, county chairwoman; Oscar Lovaas, vice-chairman; Mrs. Joy Shetterly, vice chairwoman; A. W. Nyquist, treasurer; and Neil Prenevost, secretary.

Stephen Alnes Is Telegraph Editor of St. Paul Paper

Stephen Alnes has been named telegraph editor of the St. Paul Pioneer Press, it was announced recently. He is the son of Mrs. Shirley Anderson Alnes of Thief River Falls.

Alnes, born in 1926 in Thief River Falls, was graduated from high school in 1944, when he joined the Navy, serving two years. In 1949 he was graduated from the University of Minnesota school of journalism. He was editor of the Minnesota Daily his senior year.

He was employed by the United Press from 1949 to 1954, and was bureau manager at Bismarck when he joined the Pioneer Press copy desk early in 1954.

Alvarado Takes Turn in Music Festival

That men aren't the only ones who can direct band is shown in this photo of the Alvarado band being put through its paces by Mrs. Elizabeth Clark, director. Many area bands participated in the state area music contest and the local high school was a beehive of activity during both Friday and Saturday.

Bearded Director at Festival

Beards seem to pop up everywhere lately, and even the state area music festival held here Friday and Saturday showed a fair number of the hairy displays, and some were even worn by youthful high school band members! Shown here as he discusses the choral numbers they will sing during their turn on the platform Saturday afternoon is Director Zane Grey and members of his McIntosh high school chorus. Local men needn't be discouraged if Gray is somewhat ahead on beard length — he hasn't shaved since late January, he says.

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Mrs. E. V. Archer, Hamilton, Kansas: I remember when children wore asafetida bags as a deterrent to contagious disease germs.

Many, too young to have shared in this old bit of witchcraft, have escaped the worst smell known to "preventive medicine."

To make an asafetida bag, you sewed several lumps of the evil-smelling stuff into a small sack, attached it to a cloth band, and secured the band around the victim's neck with stout stitches. There it swung from frost until corn planting time, when germs presumably went away for the su[illegible].

[illegible] in place, the asafetida bag never [illegible] changed, never removed. By winter's end, it had taken on quite a patina. And if the passing of time thinned or diluted the richness of its aroma, memory denies it.

Mercifully, not all kids were obliged to wear these germ repellants. But even a contaminated minority created a fearsome stench in a one-room school housing a hot stove and fifteen or twenty children.

Did the asafetida bag safeguard the wearer? Well, yes. But only because no germ with any other alternative would approach him for any reason, good or bad. Neither anybody else.

Isolated as he was, what disease could he get? He breezed through the winter, sleek and healthy, while the unprotected exchanged germs freely and "came down" with everything.

Ah, me, thank heaven, times have changed!

Shootin' the Breeze

BY Mack Draper

Well, the old town was a beehive of activity over the weekend but from the way things look we'll have most of the conventions behind us before summer's arrival.

Between the influx of students attending the music festival and those who came to take in the VFW convention local restaurants were kept busy serving our visitors.

We didn't see a lot of the VFW crowd and they were a well-behaved bunch from what we hear. We also hear from several sources that the kids at the music festival were the most orderly in years.

Generally speaking, conventions are somewhat tamer than they were a couple or three decades ago. The most rip-snortin' convention nowadays would probably seem like a Sunday school picnic compared with an old-time Legion convention!

The ruffed grouse must really be on the way up again. I saw grouse Sunday where I'd never seen 'em before.

I also saw more common old house cats hunting in the field yesterday than I've seen in a long time, too. It would be interesting to know just how many song and game birds are taken each year by a marauding 'tame' cat.

Some hunters consider cats they see hunting birds as fair game and shoot on sight. A pretty radical thing perhaps — but, on the other hand, that's no worse than shooting stray dogs that have taken up deer chasing.

Got your boat all set for spring? I haven't. And, about the most disgusting and time-consuming work one can tackle is cleaning the mess from previous years from the inside of a boat.

One finds candy bar wrappers, leaves, old chewing gum wads, old (and I DO mean OLD) minnows, grease and what-not, along with the residue from bilge-water accumulated on the bottom and getting this mess cleaned up in preparation for painting is certainly no picnic.

A fiberglass boat is the only answer, or any boat without floorboards for that matter. Any kind of boat is easier to clean and keep painted if it doesn't have a separate floorboard for things to fall under. Our boat is particularly bad this way.

An ironical note concerning last week's weather is that a lot of tulips, which are supposed to be able to take cold weather, got pretty badly nipped, while the trees in bud seem to be making very satisfactory progress toward leafing despite the freeze.

The price of progress: one of the prettiest little hill country communities I know of back home in Virginny is being uprooted to make way for a traffic cloverleaf. It isn't a village or town but just a group of homes, a general store, and gas station combined, and a church in a grove. But, it's pretty, quiet, and peaceful — but not for long.

The old neighborhood won't be the same after this summer, when the new road is built. Progress?

See you next Monday, I hope!

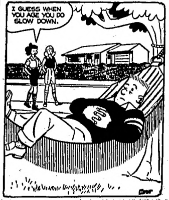
HALF-PAST TEEN



I GUESS WHEN YOU AGE YOU DO SLOW DOWN.

WHAT about the popular sport of fishing? Is it REALLY a "lazy man's" game?

It has long been the habit of the cartoonist to picture the fisherman dozing on the bank, his fishing line tied to his toe with an outsized bow or with his bell-equipped fishing rod propped on a fork stick.

An untrue picture? Well, let's be realistic about it. There is such a fisherman. To him, fishing and relaxation are one and the same word. The solitude of the river bank, the warmth of the sun, the blue of the sky, and the sweet pleasure of doing absolutely nothing: this is all a part of "fishing" as far as he is concerned.

Yet, this type of fisherman is in the decided minority. The modern, fish-seeking angler will think nothing of travelling four or five hundred miles by car, half as many miles by water, with land portages of 50 or 60 miles thrown in; all before he even wets his fishing line.

The short-trip angler, who is probably going to drive 50 or 60 miles to his favorite lake or stream, will stay up half the night to get his "bait."

And what about the fisherman who uses artificial lures? No work, you say, since all he must do is tie on his lure and begin fishing? Another lazy man? If you think so, consider the fact that in an average day's fishing, the artificial fisherman makes hundreds and hundreds of casts. Try the same motion in your own living room and see how long your arm can stand it without going limp.

Fishing is like everything else, the individual sets his own pace. But, regardless, fishing is fun—and anyone who has read this far is either a fisherman or the type that is curious enough to go out and give it a whirl.

Middle River Band Wins "A" Rating in District

The Middle River High School Band won an A rating at the District music festival held at Roseau last Friday and Saturday. The band won the rating by playing themes from Tschaikowsky's Symphony No. 6. The A rating makes the band eligible [illegible] festival to be held in Thief River Falls.

Rena Griffin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Griffin also received an A rating and will proceed to the state area festival. Rena played the number Willow Echoes by Frank Simon, the first chair cornetist of John Philip Sousa.

Diane Schenky, Sharon Luoto, Jeneve Anderson and Jeanette Knutson received an A rating for their clarinet quartet playing Caprice. These girls also will play in the state area festival.

Gary Overvold, Jean Berg, Judy Stardig and Arlene Prosser received a B plus for their rendition of the extremely difficult Procession of the Sordar. If illness had not struck this group they would have probably received an A rating also.

The cornet trio, Maxine Anderson, Judy Berg and James Kezar received a B plus, Adrienne Johnson and Marjorie Engevik received B ratings. Freddie Biskup, Adrienne Johnson and Marjorie Engevik received B ratings. Freddie Biskup received a B plus rating for his tenor saxophone solo. Since only A ratings go to the state area festival these people will not advance, however their performances were good and deserve praise for their fine efforts. This fine band and selection are under the direction of Mr. H. E. Weir.

Thieves Nip Erskine 6-4 In Game Sunday

Arlan Hjelle's perfect "squeeze play" bunt down the third base line, scoring Jack Junker easily from third base, provided the Thieves with the winning run in the 7th inning as the locals defeated the Erskine Merchants 6-4 in a seven-inning exhibition game played on the Fair Grounds diamond Sunday afternoon.

The Thieves will begin play on their 1958 Northern Minny league schedule next Sunday when, under the lights on the Riverside Park diamond in Red Lake Falls, they meet manager Howie Johnson's Lakers.

In Sunday's exhibition here, the Thieves, off righthander Clark (Corky) Johnson, picked up a run in the 2nd inning when Junker reached first base on an error, stole second and advanced to third base when catcher Lyle Westrum uncorked a poor throw to second. A wild pitch permitted Junker to tally.

A walk to Roger Bagne, a passed ball, and Westrum's single to left field evened the score at 1-all in the 3rd inning.

With Jim Christianson on the mound for Erskine in the 4th inning (Westrum banged the little finger of his throwing hand on the foul tip and retired from the game, with Johnson coming off the mound to assume the catching duties in the 4th inning) the Thieves, on five walks and a single scored a pair of runs.

Erskine in the top half of the 7th inning, put together singles by Bagnes, Ed Kroeger, and Sherm Oftedahl, plus a walk, to score three runs and take a four to three lead.

The Thieves, in the last half of the 7th inning opened with a walk to Frank Gunderman, Junker doubled to short right field, Glenn Carlson walked to load the bases, Gene Leslie was given first base on catcher's interference, scoring Gunderman. Mickey Hanson struck out, but Hjelle shoved out a perfect bunt, scoring Junker. Walks to Cal Vraa and Larry Gilbertson added a final marker.

While the Thieves were able to garner but two hits, both by Junker, off the slants of Johnson, Christianson, and Kroeger, the locals took advantage of numerous free passes to first. The Merchants tagged the offerings of Gene Leslie for nine blase hits, several being bloopers over the infield, but he was given fine support by the Thieves infield, which clicked off three double plays.

Prowlers to Play Warren Tonight, RLF Wednesday

Coach Ralph Skay's Prowlers, after having their scheduled doubleheader of last Friday against Alvarado and Oslo postponed because of rain and threatening weather, will resume play tonight when they meet the Warren Ponies under the lights on the Warren diamond. Game time is slated for 8:00 p. m.

On Wednesday night, on the Riverside Park diamond at Red Lake Falls, the Prowlers will meet the Eagles of Red Lake Falls in a district conference tilt. Game time for Wednesday night's game is also set for 8:00 p.m.

One Minor Mishap During Week-end

A minor accident in the Red Owl parking lot spoiled an otherwise perfect record on the part of local drivers the past week.

The mishap occurred Thursday when Andrew M. Peterson, city, in swinging wide to enter a stall on the lot clipped a pickup truck belonging to Albert Hinden, rt. 5, city, parked on the opposite side of the lot.

Damage to the Hinden truck was estimated at $22.50 and that to the Peterson car at $5.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Sid's Progress

We are grateful to Dick Seal of the Moorhead State Teachers College athletic department, and who is sports editor of the school's paper, for relaying to us several press clippings relating the progress of righthander Sid Vraa.

Vraa, one of the finest all-round athletes to come out of the Prowler ranks, being a stellar performer in football, hockey, and baseball, is in his sophomore year at the Moorhead school. Last fall, in their traditional game against the Concordia Cobbers, the Dragons won a 10 to 9 decision in football, and it was Sid's field goal and conversion point that provided the Dragons with their winning margin. And this spring, Sid is apparently a bulwark on the Moorhead hurling staff.

Playing a doubleheader at Winona last week against the powerful Winona State Teachers College team, in conference competition, the Dragons lost the opener, 2 to 1, but won the nightcap when Vraa pitched a five-hit shutout to win, 1 to 0. Says the clipping: "Sid Vraa, the Thief River Falls sophomore, was at top form in the second game, throwing a five-hit 1 to 0 shutout over the usual hard-hitting Warrior team."

And not only did Sid do a fine job of pitching, but he scored the lone and winning run. Vraa singled in the 3rd inning, moved to second base on an infield out, and scored on a single by John Thompson.

Added Moorhead Info

Moorhead State's five-man golf team—Lyle Hornbacher, Dick Lasch, Shorty Perkins, Guy Varty, and Dave Felcyn—won the invitational meet played over the Moorhead Country Club course last Friday. The Dragons posted a fine 393 stroke aggregate to gain a fifteen-stroke lead over the runner-up North Dakota State squad. Other schools competing were North Dakota U, Bemidji State Teachers, and Concordia.

The Dragon scoring found Hornbacher carding a 75, Lasch and Perkins 77's, Varty 81, and Felcyn a 83.

Mister Zitzow

The air of easy familiarity that has permeated the Times' backroom has been evaporated somewhat since the trapshot of last week, and solely for the reason that Mel Zitzow, Mister Zitzow, that is, shot a fine 21, which with a handicap of four gave him a "25" as the Times defeated the T & S Implement 112 to 97.

That Mister Zitzow relishes his "25" is not denying, for he moves around the shop wearing a gloating expression and a patronizing attitude. He offers up crumbs of advice to the other members of the squad, mentioning such things as deflection shooting, wind judgment, binocular sighting, etc.

There'll come a day, we hope, when Mister Zitzow shoots a 12 or 13 or 14, and it will be a day worth the awaiting.

Retraction

Last week we made the profound observation that it would probably be to the benefit of the Vets newly-organized softball team if Lowell Collins of the Bjorkman's would release veterans Jim Anderson, Spanky Sullivan, and Phil LeGault to the Vets. The idea being to strengthen the Vets.

This week we have been waylaid by delegations of Vets softball enthusiasts asking whether we are for the Vets softball team or against the Vets softball team. The gist of their argument is that they, the Vets, aren't too anxious to accept these "bundles from Bjorkman's", and it's debatable whether Jim and Spanky and Phil would be of aid to the Vets.

It is admitted by all that these three "boys" have passed their peak, and it wasn't very sharp in the first place, quite awhile ago. Maybe it would be better if the trio remained with Bjorkman's, and remained the problem of manager Collins. Even if the problem spoils Collins' whole summer!

Trap Shoot League Matches Thursday

Champion Nor. Chevrolet and Times Teams Compete

League Standings

	W	L	T	Pts
Northern Chevrolet	1	0	0	2
Times	1	0	0	2
Oen's Appliance	1	0	0	2
Wilson Bros.	0	1	0	0
The Pharmacy	0	1	0	0
T. & S. Implement	0	1	0	0

Results of the April 24th Matches:
Northern Chevrolet, 110, vs. Wilson Bros., 101.
Oen's Appliance, 106, vs. The Pharmacy, 83.
Times, 112, vs. T & S Implement, 97.

The schedule, Thursday, May 8th
Wilson Bros., vs. Oen's Appliance.
Northern Chevrolet vs. Times.
The Pharmacy vs. T. & S. Implement.

The Thief River Trap Shoot league will reach an early-season climax on Thursday evening when the league champion Northern Chevrolet, winners in their first round match on April 24th, meets the high-scoring Times team. The Times, posting a 112 score, defeated the T & S Implement squad in a first round match last week and share the top rung in the league standings with the Chevies and Oen's Appliance.

The Oen's Appliance defeated a short-handed Pharmacy team, 106 to 83, in a first round match.

Inclement weather which prevailed on the April 24th proved a handicap to the shooters, with the result that only two "25's" were recorded, and only one of these "perfect" scores were counted in the team total. Mel Zitzow of the Times banged out a 21, and with a handicap of four, posted a "25".

Young Don Stewart, who, unfortunately was listed as the ninth man on the Wilson Bros. roster, scored a fine 22, and with a handicap of eight, easily posted a "25". According to the league rules, the team captain, prior to the league shooting, must designate the seven men on his squad whose score will be eligible for the team totals.

Robert Harrison Buys M. R. Record from H. V. Nelson

Robert J. Harrison of Badger, who purchased the Badger Enterprise August 1st, 1957, from Harold V. Nelson, has purchased the Middle River Record from him as of May 1st.

The Harrisons came to Badger from Texas where Mr. Harrison was associated with a large weekly newspaper on the editorial staff.

Mr. Harrison announces no changes will be make in operating the newspaper or employment of the staff. Charles B. Josephson will continue as managing editor, a position which he has held since the Nelsons moved from Middle River in 1953, after purchasing the Valley Journal at Halstad.

Mothers' Day Set for Next Sunday

Observance Dates Back to 50 Years Ago in 1908

Days have been set aside and festivals designated in honor of mother and motherhood since ancient times. Mother's Day as celebrated annually the second Sunday in May is of American origin and based on a real tribute to an actual mother.

In 1908 Miss Anna M. Jarvis arranged a memorial service to her mother in her own church. It proved to be such a fitting recognition of the common debt all owe to their mothers that the suggestion was set in motion to establish a day on which each year tribute would be paid to "Mother". Miss Jarvis' idea was presented through the church people of her small home town. When her pastor moved he tried it in Philadelphia.

The mere suggestion met with widespread and immediate acclaim. Miss Jarvis was asked to suggest a day and she named the second Sunday in May as her mother had been born on that day. She also chose the carnation, her mother's favorite flower, as the Mother's Day emblem.

Oklee High School Will Graduate 44 Seniors This Year

The largest graduating class in the history of Oklee high school, numbering 44 was introduced to the more than 300 people who attended the final meeting of the Oklee Parent-Teachers association last Monday night.

Also introduced to the group were 41 sixth-graders who will enter junior high school next fall. The seniors and the sixth graders were presented gifts from the PTA, the boys receiving necktie clasps and the girls medallions.

LOCAL GIRL GRADUATING FROM NEBRASKA COLLEGE

Library Meeting Held in Newfolden

Map Campaign to Secure Multi-county Library

Approximately 25 persons from Marshall, Roseau and Pennington counties attended a meeting of the area multi-county library committee Friday evening in the Newfolden school. Guest speakers were Miss Emily Wayne, representing the library division of the state department of education in St. Paul, and Mr. Hebrink, field worker with the division.

Arrangements were made to hold further meetings in the individual counties and to confer with members of the various county boards to solicit their support of the multi-county library and bookmobile project.

Representing Pennington county at the meeting were Supt. David Brown, committee chairman, and C. R. Appelman of Goodridge; and Miss Frances Shanahan, librarian, and Mrs. L. B. Hartz and Mrs. A. E. Jacobson, library board members, of Thief River Falls.

Car Accident at Marcoux Tuesday

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Violette of Brooks were involved in a car crash near Marcoux Corner Tuesday when they were returning home from Fargo. Another vehicle caused the mishap and although they escaped without injury, their car was badly wrecked when it turned over.

It has been estimated that the oil industry will have to spend more than $57 billion in the next 10 years just to find new supplies of petroleum.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Shades of Tom Sawyer

Everybody knew Community Hall couldn't go another season without a paint job. So Judge Cunningham asked for volunteers—and about a dozen people raised their hands.

Trouble was most of the volunteers never got around to working. Weeks went by. Last Thursday the Judge got an idea.

He painted the name of each delinquent volunteer—in big letters—across the part of the building the man had agreed to paint. That did it—we'll have a fresh-painted Hall by the weekend!

From where I sit, sometimes we have to be reminded of our obligations. Like every so often, I try and point out how important "neighborly respect" is in a community. You may prefer soda pop. I like an occasional cold glass of beer. We ought to respect each other's choice. Excuse me now, I've got to go help paint Community Hall.

Home Demonstration Week Being Observed

THIEF RIVER FALLS TIMES
SECOND SECTION
Pages 1 thru 6
Volume Forty-seven
Thief River Falls, Pennington County Minnesota
Monday, May 5, 1958
Number Thirty-six

Achievement Day programs featuring the improvements made in home life over the last 100 years will highlight National Home Demonstration week May 4-10 for nearly 50,000 rural women in Minnesota.

They are members of 3,437 local groups enrolled in the University of Minnesota's extension home economics program, part of a national movement for better homemaking in which more than 6½ million women take part throughout the country.

Many of the county-wide achievement programs this year will carry out the Minnesota Centennial theme, with emphasis on the part women have played in making their homes more convenient and attractive and life on the farm more satisfying since the extension program for better homemaking was begun. Exhibits illustrating activities of local extension home groups will be on display in store windows in many communities.

Open to all rural women, the extension home program—or home demonstration work, as it is also called—is an educational program with the goal of strengthening home and family life by helping women become more efficient homemakers and more effective citizens. It is carried into rural Minnesota communities by 65 home agents and a small group of state home economics specialists as a cooperative undertaking of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the University of Minnesota and the local counties.

Special recognition will be given at many Achievement Day programs during the week to the 21,177 Minnesota women who have served as volunteer, unpaid leaders this past year. After being trained by the home agent or state home economics specialists, these women act as teachers, bringing the latest information on homemaking to their own groups. During the past year these leaders have conducted more than 10,000 meetings with a total attendance of 119,708. Through this leader-training plan, it is possible for only 65 home agents and a small staff of state home economics specialists to teach a varied program in homemaking to thousands of women in every county in the state.

Heart Assn. Offers 25 Fellowships

Grants Cover Two-month Study at Mayo Clinic

The Minnesota Heart Association has allocated a $5,000 grant to enable both high school and college students to work in the famed medical research facilities at the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, for two months this summer.

The new community service program is financed by public contributions to the Heart Fund. Training will begin July 1 under direction of Drs. Robert O. Brandenberg and Edgar V. Allen, the latter past president of the American Heart Association.

Officials hope many of the 25 students and high school biology teachers who win fellowships will later on enter full time work in the medical research field, particularly heart and blood vessel research.

Interested students and teachers should write to Dr. Brandenberg, c/o Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., with two letters of recommendation from their science instructors.

Those selected will work in the various laboratories of the Mayo Clinic on problems in physiology, chemistry, biophysics, bacteriology, and roentgenology. Close supervision will be given by the Clinic's noted medical authorities.

'U' Farm Bulletins Date Back to 1888

Corn Silage 70 Years Ago Was Innovation

How to make corn silage is old stuff to farmers now, but is was a mighty new idea in April, 1888—the first time it was mentioned in a University of Minnesota agricultural bulletin.

This was only the second agricultural bulletin ever to be published by the University.

As part of the Minnesota Centennial celebration, Clyde H. Bailey, retired dean of the University's Institute of Agriculture, this week reported a summary of topics covered in the first 25 agricultural bulletins.

These publications were written by St. Paul campus staff members between 1888 and 1892. They were the forerunners of some 1,500 farm and home bulletins—many of which have had several revisions—published since the St. Paul campus was "born" in 1882.

Titles of the first bulletins show agricultural researchers were attacking farming problems of the day. Bulletin No. 1 reported experiments on wheat and potato culture and—of all things—Russian apples. Silage, a major farming innovation then, was covered in three of these first 25 bulletins.

Wheat, a major source of farm income in Minnesota's early history, also received thorough treatment in bulletins 15 and 23. The first of these two compared seed from foreign lands with native seed. The second reported milling and baking tests and insect problems in this crop.

Dr. James Conant to Speak at 'U' M. Tuesday, May 20

Education for our future will be discussed by Dr. James B. Conant, president emeritus of Harvard University and former United States ambassador to Germany, at Coffman Memorial Union, Minneapolis, on Tuesday, May 20.

Dr. Conant is now engaged in a survey of secondary education in the United States. He will speak here on "Goals of Education in Today's Free World" at a dinner set for 6:30 p.m.

The meeting is under the sponsorship of the Minneapolis and Minnesota Citizens Committees on Public Education and Minnesota School Board association.

The dinner is open to the general public with tickets at $3.50 each available through the office of the Minneapolis Citizens Committee, 247 Foshay Tower, Minneapolis.

Our Neighbors Will Vote

Our good neighbors to the east of us, the members of the Red Lake Band of Chippewa Indians, are in the campaign stages of an important election. Later this month, May 22, they will elect seven of their members to serve as a Tribal Constitution committee, charged with the responsibility for bringing in recommendations for a new constitution, or for amendments to the present document, which was adopted in 1918. Out of this election may come important changes in the form of government as well as in the membership of the governing body.

In the background of this campaign, as we understand it, is the conflict of interests between those who prefer the old way of life and those who advocate a change to a more modern social order. Basically it is the struggle between those who look backward with those who look forward. The division is not necessarily representative of the age of the members. Among those who are advanced in years are some of the most stalwart advocates of the new approach.

The Red Lake reservation is one of the few remaining "closed" reservations in the country. As residents of a closed reservation the members of the Red Lake band are, for all practical purposes, living under a self-imposed segregation. That question does not appear to be an issue in the present election. The forward looking, however, generally favor a greater utilization of the natural resources, toward the end that the earning power of the members may be increased. A great potential in tourist traffic is generally recognized.

Under their present status these are matters for the members of the band to decide among themselves. While we are properly concerned about their welfare and the future of their young people, they still retain an independence which we must respect. Over a period of time we are sure they will come up with the right answers.

In the meantime it will be interesting to watch the developments.

Another New Nation

Considering all the publicity that is given any little incident that points up the evils of colonialism, maybe the establishment of a new government in the West Indies a couple of weeks ago, providing independence for a vast island empire that had been ruled for many generations by Britain, did not get the attention it deserved. On April 22, in the city of Port of Spain, on the island of Trinidad, Princess Margaret of England, inaugurated the new parliament that will form the new government.

This, it seems to us, was a rather important occasion, and especially so in its significance as additional evidence of a trend. It is a very effective answer to the subversives who use the mistakes of a century ago to prove that we of the western nations seek to enslave the world.

The creation of this new government is an interesting example of present enlightened British colonial policy in contrast with that of France.

The British, recognizing the inevitable decline and fall of the empire, have succeeded in replacing it with the Commonwealth, a loosely organized confederation of independent nations that seems to be gaining strength. It is an interesting association, bringing together people of all colors and creeds and nations in various stages of development. This Commonwealth organization could be an important factor in maintaining world peace through an exchange of information and services and goods.

The Commonwealth serves as an effective bulwark against the spread of communism and, under present conditions, that is a very worth while contribution.

As It Should Be

Minnesota's state gas tax was 83 years old last week, which is another reminder that our 100-year-old state is still young. Fifty years ago the automobile was being recognized as a practical means of transportation. Our trunk highway system is nearly 40 years old, and is recognized as one of the best state road systems in the nation. Much of this progress can be attributed to the tax on motor fuels.

The first year's tax, a two-cents-per-gallon levy, produced less than $5 million. Last year motorists contributed an estimated $83 million on the combined state and federal levy of eight cents a gallon. It has been an effective revenue producer and, as a sales tax, it has been collected quite painlessly. It now is an important source of revenue not only for our trunk highways but for our local roads and streets as well.

Our roads are being paid for by the people who use them, and that is as it should be.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

The preacher was finishing admonishing his flock on the evils of avarice: "And remember, my friends," he said "there will be no buying or selling in Heaven."

Whereupon a man who sat in the back seat grumbled: "That's not where my business has gone anyway!"

This fishing business is simple—all you have to do is get there yesterday when the fish were biting.

At a wedding reception in Charlotte, N. C., a friend of the groom decided to find out whether anyone in the receiving line knew what the hundreds of people filing past were saying. As he moved along, he purred, "My grandmother just died today."

"How nice!" "Thank you so much!" "How sweet of you to say so!" were the responses to his announcement. No one had the slightest idea what he said, least of all the groom, who exclaimed jovially, "It's about time you took the same step, old man!"

THE DANGEROUS AGE

(Lakefield, Connecticut, Journal)

The facts are in, boys, and you just don't make the grade. You, as a group between the ages of 16 and 25 think you're the world's best drivers; but the lowdown is this . . . you're the country's worst. The facts are in and your insurance rate has gone up anywhere from 20 to 50 per cent.

Think it over, lads . . . and dads. The insurance people are no dopes. They don't care whether you're handsome and have the females in a dither, they don't care whether you have a piece of junk lovingly turned to a raceway song; they don't care if you can name every part of every motor ever built, or that you can rebuild one with your eyes closed. All they care about is poor performance on the road.

Frankly, sons, your performance stinks. You as a group are a menace to society . . . and to yourselves. Who says so? Not us. The insurance companies say so and they know; they don't know your name and address. They don't know if you own a Ferrari or a Ford. All they care about is facts and the facts are you have the worst road record of any age group in the country. And getting worse!

And getting worse! Think that over fathers and mothers. Proof? Car insurance costs have gone up sharply this year only for boys in this age group. You are still boys, boys.

You aren't a man unless you can handle cars, among other things, and you aren't handling them properly, though you have plenty of know-how to do so. So, obviously, you aren't handling yourselves. That's the real answer.

Don't blame this on the insurance companies. They just go by the number of accidents, the number of arrests, the number of maimed and killed which you have strewn over the roads of this and other states.

So you as a group are experts, eh? You're suckers for your own buildup. That wouldn't matter so much if only you took the rap. It isn't only you who gets killed or hurt . . . it's the girl with you, it's the guy down the street, or the lady in the next county who trusted you to act like a man. Or even like a boy who still knows he's a boy and doesn't pretend any different. Sure, you never meant that accident, and don't mean the one you're going to have. And of course it never was your fault. You have a heart of gold and are kind to your mother . . . you go out on the highways and act like a damn fool. A real fool!

That's the truth and the insurance figures bear it out.

Maybe the fifty extra bucks this year will give you pause. Of course you may be the exception that proves the rule. Certainly every one of you isn't that bad.

But as a group you are, and what are you going to do about it? Are you going to be one of the gang that pays homage to the hot rod artist who ought to be in jail and will be soon, or dead? Are you going to go along for the ride so as not to appear chicken, and let some bragging twirp at the wheel gamble with your future? Are you going to encourage these "buddies" of yours to keep on boosting your own cost of driving a car. What's the percentage in acting like that?

You wouldn't let this guy hit you over the head with a hammer; why let him drive you into a post? You wouldn't let him steal fifty bucks out of your pocket. Yet he's already done that this year.

And you, the worst offenders . . . you spoiled brats thinking you can handle 130 horsepower when you can't handle one boypower, what are you going to do about it Brother, get the lowdown . . . the girls in your age group have it all over you. Not only in looks, but in intelligence, in self-control, in fair play, and in their ability to handle those 130 horsepower you can't handle.

That's not our opinion: it's the considered opinion of the insurance companies. The rates for girls in your own age group have gone down not up. They are getting to be better drivers, not worse. How does that make you feel?

For all your boasting and all your showing off and all your flouting of the rules of the road, and all your reckless bravado, and all your skill (oh, yes, we know you are skillful) you just haven't got what it takes . . . and that is judgment.

You haven't yet learned that the champs are not chumps. And if you don't believe the insurance companies about what lousy drivers you are, ask a champ someday . . . if you can face it. Don't fool yourself about the cheap adulation of the kids around you who don't know any better. And don't think your girl is impressed by your hot shot antics the next time you take her out. She, and most of your buddies have you tabbed for just what you are, a chump. They're just too polite or too scared or disgusted to tell you.

Nobody else will tell you, so we're telling you. We'll take it back when the insurance rates go back down.

THIS WEEK

—In Washington

With Clinton Davidson

All of the evidence in Washington this week adds up to the conclusion that the big farm battle between Congress and Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson is, for all practical purposes, over for this year.

Washington rates the battle as a draw. Both sides have shown themselves to be strong on defense and weak on offense. It is unlikely that there will be another major [illegible] before Congress adjourns.

Obviously, neither Benson nor Congress is satisfied with the outcome of efforts to [illegible] new farm legislation. Each, [illegible], blames the other for the [illegible]. There are bitter [illegible] in Congress, and Benson is unhappy.

Both the Farm [illegible] began the battle with a [illegible] agreement [illegible]. Unless [illegible] farm laws were [illegible] farm depression would [illegible] deepen.

Then, in January, President Eisenhower sent Benson's blueprint for farm law revisions to Congress and urged prompt passage. Instead, Congress tossed them into the wastebasket without so much as a second reading.

Congress then set out to keep Benson from doing what it told him two years ago he could do if he wanted to—lower farm price supports to 75% of parity. It passed a price support freeze bill aimed at voiding reductions Benson had made, and which economists estimated would lower farm income by half a billion dollars this year.

President Eisenhower sent the bill back to the hill with a veto message that left no doubt about whose side he was on in the farm law battle. That was Benson's greatest hour of triumph.

The official record of the Cabinet meeting at which the veto was finally decided on may never be made public. But an off-the-record version is being accepted in Congress as having some resemblance to the facts.

Vice President Richard Nixon, credited by some with being a behind-the-scenes leader of "dump Benson" forces, is said to have opened the Cabinet meeting with an appeal to the President to sign the price freeze bill.

The report goes on to relate that Mr. Eisenhower put the question to a sort of informal vote, and that a majority supported Mr. Nixon. A veto, it was argued, would be bad economics and worse politics.

The President is said to have indicated he might agree if Benson would withdraw his recommendation that the bill be vetoed. As Congress gets the story, Benson replied he could not tell the President what to do, but that if the bill were signed he would feel compelled to resign.

Mr. Eisenhower is reported to have replied to the effect that his mind was made up, he would veto, and to have added "Ezra, you are my Secretary of Agriculture for as long as I am President."

The story, whether or not accurate, has made a profound impression on many congressmen who formerly were among Benson's most severe critics. It convinced them that it probably is useless to pass a farm bill that does not have the prior approval of Secretary Benson.

And that is how and why the big farm battle fizzled out like a wet firecracker.

Instead of being merely "sorted" into a relatively few products by simple distillation or "cooking," the molecules of petroleum today are literally taken apart and put back together in an endless variety of new and different chemical forms.

The number of exploratory oil wells drilled over the past 10 years has increased almost 2 and one-half times, as did total investment in oil and gas producing facilities.

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

Last week two events in Minnesota pointed up the need for increased emphasis on safety. The first occurred at the Governor's Conference on Youth, and the second at the Safety Award Dinner of the Minnesota Safety Council.

The Cornell Study

For many years a study has been made under the auspices of Cornell University to discover what factors determine the extent of serious injury resulting from automobile accidents. This study indicates that, in the event of accident, there are fifty per cent fewer injuries in cars that are equipped with such safety devices as strong door locks, padded dashes, recessed steering wheels, and safety belts.

The evidence from this study is too conclusive to be ignored. Therefore I strongly urged the Safety Council to consider recommending legislation that would require the installation of such safety devices on all automobiles sold in Minnesota. I know that this recommendation is controversial, but if lives can be saved and crippling injuries prevented, it is worthy of our most serious consideration.

Other Recommendations

The Safety Council has already adopted several recommendations for additional safety legislation. Among these, I regard the following as of special importance:

1. The adoption of legislation to establish that, in applying for his license a driver gives implied consent to the use of a chemical test for intoxication.
2. Periodic motor vehicle inspection to remove unsafe vehicles from the road.
3. Law to permit officers to make arrests in accident cases they did not see when there is reasonable cause.
4. State licensing of private training schools.
5. More absolute, minimum, uniform, and severe penalties for driving after loss of driver's license.

The Safety Council has approved these measures after careful study. Some of them are also controversial, and when they are proposed at the next session of the legislature they will meet with some opposition.

I believe that they are important enough to all of us so that each citizen should study their merit, and indicate to his representatives his opinion on such action.

Youth Safety Councils

I was greatly encouraged when the young people of Minnesota who attended the Youth Conference last week adopted a two-year safety program as their major project. They plan to work for the organization of youth safety councils in every county. And they voted unanimously to develop a Youth Safety Code, which they hope will meet with as much interest and approval as was received by the Teen Age Code which they launched two years ago.

Safety in Five Areas

The young people will work on a code for safety in five areas: traffic, water, home, farm, and job. In each of these, youth can make contributions of major importance. At their meetings these representatives young people of our state showed a spirit of leadership and a sense of responsibility of which we can be proud. I expect their efforts will meet with real success, and I am sure the citizens of Minnesota will give them sincere and enthusiastic cooperation.

Governor Urges Safety Features

Makes Recommendations to State Safety Council

The Minnesota Safety Council has been urged by Governor Orville Freeman to consider that safety features be made mandatory on all cars sold in the state. In a speech at the Council's annual award dinner he told members that they would further strengthen Minnesota's traffic safety program by helping these measures as well as supporting existing legislative recommendations.

He singled out five recommendations for immediate action:

Adoption of an implied consent chemical test for intoxication.

Periodic motor vehicle inspections to remove unsafe vehicles from the road.

Permit, upon reasonable cause, officers to make arrests in accident cases they did not see.

State licensing of private driver training schools.

More absolute minimum, uniform and severe penalties for driving.

Freeman said, "I strongly urge that you consider recommending legislation to establish mandatory requirements for installing safety devices on all automobiles sold in the state. Reports now available from the Cornell University crash injury study indicate a 50 percent reduction in injuries for persons having accidents in 1956-57 cars equipped with such safety features as door locks, padded dashes, recessed steering wheels and safety belts."

Rockasbury 4-H

The Rockasbury 4-H club met at Valhall on Wednesday, April 14. The music and play contest were discussed. Also the Share-the-Fun and Good Grooming contest and the VFW parade on May 3. We discussed the changes in the Home Assistance project and clothing project records. As every 4-H member in Minnesota has been asked to plant a tree during the Centennial year, the club discussed it and it was decided to have our next meeting May 4. Each member is to plant a tree at the hall for a wind-break. At this time we will also have a picnic open to the public.

Don Wald was in charge of the program and the play "The Old Grouch," was presented with the following cast: Mr. Maxwell, Bob Wald; Mrs. Maxwell, Irene Morris; Betty Lou, Virginia Finstad; Connie, Carol Wald; Wilbur, Billy Grundhaus; Hercules, Norris Thune; Uncle Tom, Tommy Braaten; Mr. Parker, Alvin Chapman; Mrs. Parker, Bonnie Dicken.

Lunch was served by the Chapman and Braaten families.

Steiner 4-H

The Steiner 4-H club held their monthly meeting April 18, 1958. The meeting was called to order by President, Carol Jacnnette. During the business meeting it was decided to observe Rural Life Sunday, May 4. Stanley Turgerson, John Anderson, JoAnn Vatsaas and Patsy Hornseth are on the committee to plan the program for Rural Life Sunday. Robert Rausch, Bruce Russell, Patsy Vatsaas and Ellen Jorde are on a committee to see about a roller skating party. The following are to participate in the county good-grooming contest May 16: Janet Torgerson, Elton Hornseth, Karen Moe, and Kenneth Larson.

The program consisted of a film on driving safety and a talk by Cliff Mattson, a local officer of the highway patrol. Carol Jacnnette gave an illustrated project talk on "First Aid." A demonstration by Richard Jorde. The play "Mother Walks Out" was given; two songs by a group of girls. The program closed by community singing led by Mrs. Eddie Anderson.

Lunch was served and games were played.

Smiley 4-H

The Smiley 4-H club members held two project meetings at the Adam Lendobeja home April 12. 14 girls enrolled in Home Assistance gathered for instructions from the adult leaders. Topics covered were: records, fair exhibits, and information on making and selecting useful articles for the home. Gloria Phillipp gave a project talk on "Making Toys for Baby Sitting" and Nelda Lea Nelson gave one on "Selection Useful articles for the Kitchen!" Several fringed place mats were made by the beginners group.

At 4:30, 10 members enrolled in bread met for a second lesson on home baking. Mrs. Lendobeja showed a film and narrated the story of biscuit making. Group discussion and writing receipts followed. Lunch was served by all members present.

Silverton 4-H

The Silverton 4-H held its monthly meeting Friday, April 11, at the Silverton Hall.

We discussed the play and music contest and also the good grooming and Share-the-Fun-Festival.

Candidates were chosen to represent our club at the good grooming contest. The meeting was adjourned.

The program opened with two songs sung by the girls sextet. Diana Bjerke and Dianne Leiran sang "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands". A demonstration was given by Duane Iverson and Corinne Nabben gave a project talk. A project talk was also given by Melrene on Health. The 4-H play entitled "Magnolia Blooms," was given. Those who took part in the play were: Diana Bjerke, Milton Leiran, Dianne Leiran, Kenny Leiran, Wayne Harder, Sharon Anderson and Jeanette Nelson. Paul Stelmaschuk gave a very interesting talk on 4-H records and the clean grain clinic.

Lunch was served by the Seymore Nelson and Art Joppru families.

Smiley 4-H

A good attendance was noted when the Smiley 4-H club met Friday, April 18. During the business meeting it was decided to start the May meeting at 8:00 p.m. instead of 7:30 p.m. Plans were made for the program for 4-H Sunday which will be held at the Bethany Church, May 11. Fire prevention bulletins were distributed and plans for a tour and fire hazard check-up were suggested.

Faye Torkelson led the singing of "Hail Minnesota" before Sharon Knutson presented a varied program of demonstrations, music and the club play. Donna Helgeland demonstrated threading a needle while Dianne Helgeland showed how to make a wrist-pan cushion. Joan Kraemer gave hints on clothing care and told how to properly care for an iron. Pamela Torkelson demonstrated washing windows. Adding a bit of safety to his Farm and Home Shop demonstration on useful knots in rope work, Bobby McCrum stated that a "right knot in the right place" can save a life. Ivette Torkelson, Nancy Newton, Gloria Helgeland, Carolyn Torkelson, Carol Stenseth and Gloria Phillipp sang. The play "In Doubt About Daisy" was presented, followed by recreation.

Lunch was served by the Melvin Torkelson and Melvin Stenseth families.

Mavie 4-H

The Mavie 4-H club met April 11 at the Joe Skibicki home.

As a queen candidate on the Goodridge Centennial, we selected Marie Breznay to represent our club. The contest will be held May 17. A gift was given to the Geving children, members of our club, who have now left our community. The good grooming participants will be chosen by the leaders and announced at our next meeting. Each family was presented with a cream antiseptic for their First Aid Kit. We then gathered, with our first aid kits, to take a picture of the group.

Included in the program was a song by the Oski girls, the play for county play contest was given by the members of the cast, and the girls singing for the music contest gave two selections.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Skibicki and Mrs. Nelson.

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Institute of Child Welfare
University of Minnesota

Children have a disconcerting way of bearing straight down upon an object or straight to a point without the sugar-coated camouflage of the adult. This directness is often mistaken for impudence, with the result that the child is reprimanded for something wholly unintentional, leaving confusion and resentment. The best single bulwark against a child's blunt way of seeing and saying things is a sense of humor. But it is not always easy to see the funny side immediately.

For example, college coed Kay was sitting before an open fireplace with her new boy friend Toby, whom she was trying hard to impress. As the firelight shone on her face and beautiful, auburn hair, Toby remarked, "Don't move, Kay. Sit just like that and let me get a good look. I'd like always to remember how pretty you are right now."

At that charmed moment Kay's five year old brother Dickie, who overheard Toby's compliment added, "You mean the way it makes the gold in her false front tooth sparkle?" Obviously Dickie burst the romantic bubble, and Kay's composure at once fell swoop. Yet his sole offense was to notice and to mention with directness the fascinating glow on the bit of gold in the front of his sister's mouth. It will be some time and much experience later before Dickie understands why he was spirited out of that room so abruptly.

Questions like "What's that thing on the end of your nose?" or "Why do you have such big feet?" may seem to differ from "What makes the clock run?" or "How does the thermometer go up?", but actually they are all part of the highly desirable traits of imagination and curiosity. They give young children clues as to the nature of things and people.

Directness is a universal characteristic of the young, and reflects and eagerness to learn and to share what they see and wonder about. A spot of humor can relieve embarrassments until young children live long enough to learn to "pull their punches."

Sales of petroleum products amounted to $12 billion last year at wholesale, not counting federal and states taxes.

THE MINNESOTA STORY

Prepared by the

Minnesota Historical Society

A DAILY IS BORN

Beginning a daily newspaper in a small frontier town was indeed an adventurous undertaking. To make matters worse, the nation was just entering a depression when the "Falls Evening News," the first daily newspaper published at Minneapolis, made its appearance on September 28, 1857.

The paper proclaimed that it was "published at St. Anthony and Minneapolis," and from the first devoted itself to the interests of both towns at the Falls of St. Anthony.

As a matter of fact, the editor felt the two towns would join forces and combine. But in this hope he was ahead of his time. Not until 1872 did the village of St. Anthony, on the east side of the river, become a part of Minneapolis.

In his editorial, the editor said: "Here we are! St. Anthony and Minneapolis — the one only three years old, the other having scarcely crossed the threshold of eight summers — have started a Daily paper! . . . It would be surprising indeed, if a town which has hardly crept out of the oaken cradle of its infancy, a town . . . in whose $5,000 corner lots are anchored the gnarled stumps of a native forest, beneath whose shade the savage pitched his tepee a dozen years ago — it would be a wonder if such a town were able to lay a daily paper in the counting-rooms of the nation every day."

But the "Falls Evening News" struggled bravely along until 1861, and though it occasionally missed an issue or two, Minneapolis has not since been without a daily paper.

FIX IT

"Filthy, fetid, and fathomless" were the words which an angry Minneapolis newspaper editor used in 1857 to describe a mudhole in one of the city's main streets. In the issue of September 28, the editor of the "Falls Evening News" called upon "some of the street commissioners in this city to put on their specs and investigate the merits of a dangerous quagmire in Washington Avenue . . . which has been an eye-sore and a break-neck for weeks, and is getting no better, very fast."

"We have heard of several teams getting swamped there," the editor declared, "and being dragged out with split thills, bulged eyes, and broken legs."

Although the editorial was eloquent, it accomplished no more than most such cries for public improvements. Through the 1860s and 1870s, Minneapolis streets became a sea of mud whenever it rained, and they were full of flying dust when it did not. It was not until the turn of the century that any appreciable amount of paving was done.

ST. PAUL CHURCHES

As the year 1850 came to an end, a St. Paul newspaper editor noted with satisfaction and pride that the town already had five churches. He described them in the December 10, 1850, issue of the "Minnesota Democrat."

He said that the first church "erected in the present white settlements" was the Catholic church, built in 1841. "Though a rude log chapel, it occupied a most commanding situation," but "it is soon to be removed, we understand, to give place to an architectural pile, worthy of that branch of the church which has produced an architect, painter and sculptor, like Michael Angelo."

The "first Protestant house of worship" in St. Paul was a Presbyterian church, completed in 1849 and destroyed by fire in May of the following year. The foundation of a new Presbyterian church "was laid in August," the paper reported. "It is after the Doric model, and built of brick and in dimension about 40 by 60 feet. It is at present the largest edifice in the territory." St. Paul also had an Episcopal church, built of wood in the "early pointed style," and a Baptist church almost completed. The editor noted too that the Methodists 'commenced worshipping in their neat brick edifice in December, 1849."

The article names the pastors of each church and lists the schedule of services. Most of the Protestant churches had both morning and evening worship on Sundays, while the Catholic church had two masses and an afternoon vesper service.

The Reverend Edward D. Neill, the Presbyterian minister, who was much interested in a variety of cultural subjects, also gave lectures in his church on Wednesday nights. They were among St. Paul's most popular social diversions that winter.

HOLE-IN-THE-DAY'S SPEECH

The famous Chippewa chief Hole-in-the-Day, impelled by the sufferings of his people at Sandy Lake and Fond du Lac, traveled to St. Paul and gave a speech at the Presbyterian church on January 8, 1851. He described conditions among the Indians of his tribe and asked the citizens of St. Paul to help them.

Hole-in-the-Day spoke in the Chippewa language and his words were translated for the audience by William W. Warren, mixed-blood son of a famous fur trader and later well known in his own right as the author of a "History of the Ojibway Nation."

The chief told the audience that spoiled provisions had been distributed to the Chippewa at their annual payment the previous fall at Sandy Lake. The cash annuity payment had not been given them at all, and the people were starving.

The chief spoke at length upon the previous friendship between the Chippewa and the whites, but, he said, many warriors of the tribe were becoming difficult to control. In their hunger and desperation, they wished to make war upon the whites. "Death is on every side," said Hole-in-the-Day, "and in the minds of our young men, one death is as good as another. They wish to throw themselves away."

At the conclusion of the speech the assembled group discussed the situation, and a committee was appointed to take up a collection for the relief of the Chippewa. Hole-in-the-Day's speech was printed in the "Minnesota Democrat" for January 21, 1851.

Air Conditioning Popularity Grows

Americans will be so used to a custom-made climate in another five years that they will have little interest in weather reports, if we may judge by the rate at which air-conditioning systems of various types are being installed in both new and existing homes.

Basically there are four different ways in which air conditioning can be installed in older homes:

(1) Central air conditioning; (2) Units that become parts of existing warm-air heating systems; (3) Units that become parts of hot water heating systems; (4) individual room air conditioners.

A central air-conditioning system consists of a basic unit, containing a compressor, condenser, cooling coil, air filter and blower along with a duct system to rooms and room registers.

Dual Purpose System

In homes where forced warm air heating systems already exist, air-conditioning can be added at relatively low cost, since the same furnace, blowers, duct work and registers are used for both heating and cooling.

A year-round air-conditioning system takes over the job of indoor climate control, for both summer and winter. In the summer the system conditions and cools the air and in winter keeps the house warm. "Nerve center" of the system is a room thermostat that will call for the delivery of cooled air to warm rooms and shut off the flow when the room has been cooled. There is a special thermostat (by Minneapolis Honeywell) which regulates both summer cooling and winter heating.

Just as forced air ducts can carry either warm or cool air, hot water pipes can carry chilled water to specially equipped radiator units for cooling purposes during the summer.

Chilled Water System

A chilled water cooling system may readily be added to the hot-water heating plant of an existing dwelling. The present boiler is retained. The supply and return pipes can also be used if they are accessible for insulation. Dual-purpose room units replace the existing radiators or convectors.

Room air-conditioners can be installed in rooms where most needed. Depending on the size and layout of the home, two, or three or possibly four room air-conditioners can be strategically located where each will be able to cool a predetermined zone.

Despite the talk, this younger generation shows promise of great achievement.

Checkup Now Way to Avoid Roofing Ills

The roof on your home needs a routine "medical checkup" at least once a year for the same reason you and your family do: To find minor ailments and correct them before they can cause serious trouble.

Symptoms of a "sick" roof are:

1. Aging, weather-worn roofing material. If you see this on your home, chances are you have, or soon will have, leaks. In addition, an old, worn-out roof spreads its shabbiness over the entire exterior appearance of the house.

2. Damp spots along rafters and decking boards. These indicate leaks that are an open invitation to water and expensive interior damage.

If your inspection reveals either of these symptoms, the sure cure is a new roof. Drastic surgery? Not when you realize that a roof wears out uniformly. An attempt to make repairs usually is a waste of money because the old roofing probably will develop new leaks before long.

Another thing to keep in mind is that a new roof of asphalt shingles probably will cost a lot less than you think, yet is a good investment. It will add to the value of your home by insuring years of trouble-free protection, and will make the entire house look better from the outside.

Early spring is the best checkup time for a roof. It's been taking weather's hardest punches all winter and needs to be tight and secure for dependable protection against summer storms.

County Home Agent's Column

By Wanda Warnes

"Wash and Wear" suits are now available for all members of the family. This includes everyone from father to the little "Junior Miss." They represent the ultimate in the new "automatic wash and wear" apparel.

Garments which are labeled "automatic wash and wear" may be worn, washed either by hand or machine and then either drip dried or dried in a tumble dryer to a smooth wearable condition. Little pressing should be required.

Hot water and strenuous washing action must be avoided. Any heavily soiled areas should be treated by rubbing with a paste of detergent and warm water. A spot removing agent should be used to remove grease stains.

Smooth the collar, lapels and seams with your fingers if you plan to let the garment drip-dry. The low heat setting must be used if you dry the garment in the tumble dryer. For better results, turn off the heat and keep the garment tumbling until it is cooled.

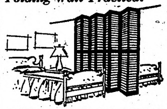
Some areas of the garment may need careful pressing - such as the creases of men's trousers. Here it might be necessary to use a light weight pressing cloth to prevent the fabric from glazing. A piece of muslin or a doubled layer of cheese cloth would be fine.

An automatic wash and wear garments must contain a high percentage of Dacron, Orlon or nylon. The thread, bindings and trimmings must be able to be cared for in the same manner as the garment itself.

Any alterations must be done with care. The stretching of seams during stitching will be relaxed in laundering and may result in a punckered or buckled seam. A smaller needle, a shorter stitch and also a lighter thread tension will help to ensure a flat smooth seam.

Louvers Add Beauty

Folding Wall Practical



New designs in sliding and folding door hardware available today have "opened the door" for dozens of new ways to improve the home with room dividers and space-saving partitions.

The drawing shows an example—a room divider that is both attractive and practical. Eight narrow louver doors of ponderosa pine were hinged together like a screen and suspended from a sliding track attached to the ceiling.

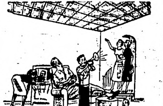
In this case, two beds in a bedroom are separated without cutting off circulation of air, since the wood louvers let air pass through. When privacy isn't needed, the screen folds back against the wall.

A similar screen also would be ideal between a dining area and living room, to close off a laundry from a basement playroom, or for any number of uses throughout the house.

The louvers also add the distinction of neat texture to rooms, and the clear ponderosa pine is easy to paint or stain.

Sliding and folding louver doors are equally ideal for closets and doors between rooms —anywhere it is desirable to have free circulation of air.

Ear Soothers Can Be Eye Openers



Now you can soothe those ringing ears and jangled nerves garnered from today's buzzing world, and add to the attractiveness of your home at the same time.

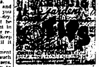
Most of us have run into the noise problem. Add the rumble of a washing machine and the blaring of a television set to traffic noises and then spice with a little racket from the kids, and you have a nice recipe for a king size headache.

The remedy? Aspirin? That may provide a temporary respite. But the best remedy for permanent alleviation of home noise is sound conditioning through the installation of acoustical tiles.

And here's the bonus in today's acoustical materials — many are so attractive and colorful that you can accomplish sound conditioning and some nifty interior decorating at the same time.

About 20 different, smartly designed sound-absorbing tiles are on the market. For example, certain tiles have colored plastic surfaces, others look like veined marble or stone, and some will even seem to change their patterns when lighting angles are changed. Still others have embossed effects with swirls, clover leaves, circles, etc. A trip to your local contractor will reveal all the attractive styles available and which are best suited for your home.

Your contractor will handle the installation quickly for you, or you may make it a do-it-yourself project. If you like, you may paint the materials any color, taking care not to plug up those all-important, sound-absorbing surface openings.



Spring Lawn Care

Spring lawn care begins as soon as the snow is gone in the spring. The first job is to remove all trash and debris that may have accumulated over winter. It's not necessary to remove all the dead grass. In fact, the gardener must take precautions not to disturb the root system of the turf.

* * *

If you haven't fertilized and seeded your lawn this spring, it's not too late to do so. Early spring fertilization is recommended. Usually, a commercial fertilizer is applied at the rate of 1 pound of actual nitrogen per 1,000 square feet. It's a good idea to divide the fertilizer and cover the lawn with two applications rather than one. This is to avoid any wheel tracks or void spots of fertilization to cause uneven greenness of the lawn later in the season. To be sure of applying the right amount of nitrogen, multiply the first number of the fertilizer formula by the weight of the package. This will give you the number of pounds of actual nitrogen in the bag. When you have ascertained the number of pounds of nitrogen, then you know how many square feet the amount of fertilizer you have will cover.

If your lawn has been a problem, contact a county agent about having a soil test made. A soil test will tell you whether your lawn needs nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium or limestone.

* * *

When you seed, use a lawn grass similar to the grass that is already growing. If a different variety or different species of grass is used, the results will be spot marks in the lawn.

HOME OWNERS QUESTION BOX

Q—I did a patching job on a plastered ceiling recently, but the new plaster crumbled and fell out after a few hours. I followed mixing directions carefully. What did I do wrong?

A—One of the commonest pitfalls of the do-it-yourself plasterer is a mix that dries too quickly. If you plan to do the job again, stir in 1/2 teaspoonful of cream of tartar to each gallon of mix. This retards the drying action, and gives the new plaster a chance to cure properly.

Q—We plan to install central air conditioning in our house soon. Is it true that installing louver doors between rooms will make the system more efficient?

A—Absolutely true. The louvers permit constant circulation of air throughout the house—important to the efficiency and economy of most cooling systems. This means doors to individual rooms can be kept closed without causing any "hot spots" or "too-cool" corners in the house. You can get louver doors in stock from building material dealers in sizes to fit all standard door openings.

Q—Can I use an adhesive to attach wood panels to a plaster wall?

A—Adhesive is fine if the plaster is smooth and sound. However, horizontal furring strips of 1 by 2 lumber nailed to studs through plaster will provide a more secure base for the panels, and won't cost as much as the adhesive.

Our LAND

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture.

A Look at the Next hundred years in soil conservation was taken recently by Milton F. Maxwell, LeSueur, president of the Minnesota association of Soil Conservation districts. He said "Soil and water conservation, the art and science of good water and land use, will be intensified to include every parcel of tillable land and every pond of water. This land and water usage will be developed on a scientifically-planned and democratically administered individual watershed basis. Top priority for the conservation of these two vital resources will become imperative if we are to feed and clothe a population the size of which will be beyond our present comprehension."

Oats put into a trench silo produced more feed per acre than when harvested for grain on one Beltrami county farm. Albert Swenson, Bemidji, has been putting his entire grain crop on top of his first crop hay, as silage, for several years, says Kenneth Hallback, Beltrami county agent. Swenson's silage turns out well; it scored 93 out of a possible 100 points at the 1957 Hay and Silage show at the University of Minnesota.

To use hay produced in regular rotations, and to feed weathered grain, many farmers are turning to cattle. Marvin Such, Hallock, is one. But first, he needed water. So he asked for and received help from C. J. Treumer, U. S. Soil Conservation Service technician. Treumer helped design and supervise construction of a pit for water. The ASC cost-sharing plan helped Such finance the operation.

* * *

"Contouring is more effective when the rotation leaves soil 'loose and open on the surface.'" Jacob Van Lingen, Renville, supervisor of the Renville soil conservation district, recently made that statement to Wilmer Baumann, U. S. Soil Conservationist, Olivia. Van Lingen said his contoured areas held up well under last summer's heavy rain fall.

Reserve Bank Sees No Depression in Area

Business conditions in the Northwest cannot be called depressed, the Minneapolis Federal Reserve Bank said Thursday in its monthly survey.

It acknowledged that the area's economy is "not as buoyant" in some aspects as it has been and that the normal season upswing in nonfarm employment is less than in recent years.

But on the plus side it listed:

A continued climb in bank debits.

An increase of overall department sales above levels of a year ago.

Higher agricultural prices.

An early start of the crop season in most farming areas.

The lag in seasonal employment increases was laid to cutbacks in mining and a slowdown in construction work. The survey noted, however, that March nonfarm employment in the area—including Minnesota, the Dakotas, Montana and western Wisconsin—was only 22,000 below March of 1957.

Bank economists repeated their belief that the business slump has had less effect on the Northwest than the rest of the country. It said the percentage increase in insured unemployment during the last year was twice as large nationally as for the Ninth district.

Looking ahead to the 1958 crop season, described by the survey as a significant factor in the area's economy at the present time, the bank found moisture conditions to be good except in some northern sections of North Dakota and some parts of eastern Montana.

Males Age 15 to 24 Prone to Mishaps

Die in Accidents Five Times as Fast as Women

More males than females are born each year in the United States.

Just why, then, are there more women than men later on in life? Why the female superiority—numerically, that is—when it comes time to find a husband?

"One reason," the National Safety Council says, "is because males 15-24 years of age—the age when they're either thinking of getting married someday or counting the days till the big event—are being killed in accidents almost five times as fast as females."

The Council isn't necessarily trying to promote matches between the sexes. It is concerned, though, with keeping people alive.

A recent estimate put the U. S. population at about 81,858,000 males and 80,371,000 females—about one and a half million more gals than guys.

"Men have always died at a faster rate than women, perhaps largely because of the more hazardous tasks they undertake and their chance-taking nature," the Council said.

"But men, especially those in the 1-24 age group, are dying far, far too rapidly."

Statistics for a recent year turned up these facts on the 15-24 age group:

More than eight out of 10 persons killed in motor vehicle mishaps are males.

The young people are seven times as likely to die in an accident as from cancer, the No. 2 cause of death to persons in the category.

Another reason suggested by the Council: They have been more careful working and playing than men, and technological and social changes have made women's work easier and safer.

"Regardless of what stage of life you're at—the marriageable stage, the married stage or the aging stage—it's smart to keep your men alive," the Council said.

"Don't let your boyfriend or hubby overdo things, whether it's a minor repair job around the house or a long vacation drive.

"Make sure he keeps a light foot on the accelerator, and that he's not distracted into a collision by annoyances in the car or angered into an accident by a family spat.

"Keep the men alive, gals—because the supply isn't keeping up with the demand."

LeRoy Man Named Winner of Spring Butter Contest

Adolph Sanderson Makes Perfect Score of 100 in State-Wide Contest

With a perfect score of 100, Adolph C. Sanderson, LeRoy, Minn., today was named winner of the state-wide spring butter contest, one of four highly-competitive events conducted annually in Minnesota to determine the state's champion buttermaker.

Manager of the LeRoy Cooperative Creamery Association for the past 13 years, Sanderson's perfect score is remarkable because of the exacting tests and rigid standards set by Minnesota, the leading butter state in the nation.

Second-place with a score of 99.90, was Darrell W. Hesse, Blooming Prairie, with third place going to E. L. Johnson, Ashby, with 99.67. The out-state winner was Helge Quist, Kansasville, Wisconsin, with 99.50.

The champion buttermaker of Minnesota is determined by averaging individual scores in four state-wide contest sponsored by the Minnesota department of agriculture, the Minnesota state fair, the Minnesota Dairy Industry committee and the Minnesota Creamery Operators' and Managers' association. The Minnesota participant who has the highest average after having entered all four of the contests is accorded the title.

Sanderson has taken the lead in this race by posting the highest score in the first contest, but he must now enter the three remaining contests, to be held between now and October 1, and maintain his lead, if he is to win. Quist is not eligible to become Minnesota State champion buttermaker because he lives outside the state.

Bloomington Boy Wins Elks Award

Marc Kolden of Bemidji Wins $500 Scholarship

Bruce Leroy Miller, a Bloomington high school student, Thursday won a $1,000 Minnesota Elks lodge scholarship to train as a teacher.

Miller received his award at an Elks dinner honoring student participants in the Elks scholarship program.

Minnesota State Elks association also presented $900 in scholarships to four other students. Marc Kolden, Bemidji, received $500. Marjorie Edelman, Minneapolis, won $200.

Awards of $100 each went to Kenneth Faacks, New Brighton, and Lee King, St. Paul.

Karen Louise Fischer, Dodge Center, Minn., a University of Minnesota junior, won a $200 scholarship from the association in an award for students already in college.

Why is it that the truth is so painful sometimes?

The hundred-odd companies owning and operating an estimated 198,100 miles of crude oil and products pipe lines transport over one-sixth of the nation's freight-ton miles.

Outside of the military, the use of helicopters for offshore oil and gas development comprises the biggest whirlybird operation in the world.

Dairy Princ Aspirants A Invited to Fi

Local Firms, Lodges and Clubs Are Asked to Sponsor Girls

Stuart McLeod, president of the Northwest Dairy Improvement Association this week announced names of a Pennington county dairy princess committee who will arrange the selection of a dairy princess to represent Pennington county in the regional Dairy Princess judging to be held here on Northwest Dairy Day, Tuesday, June 10.

Named to the committee were Charles Meister, Miss Wanda Warnes, Fred Franklin, and V. M. Draper, chairman.

Draper said a preliminary meeting will be held at the Rex Cafe at 3 p.m. Thursday to discuss plans and set a date for the county judging. Other Dairy Day officials will meet with the committee to coordinate the princess contest with other Dairy Day plans.

Business firms, cooperatives, 4-H clubs and fraternal organizations are urged to sponsor entries in the county contest. Less than 10 girls were in the county contest in 1957, while over 30 were entered the year before, when princess entries were sponsored by various city and county firms and organizations.

The county entry will be judged on the entrants' appearance, personality, poise, natural beauty; photogenic qualities, quality of speaking voice and speaking ability, with the latter of considerable importance in winning the county, regional or state Dairy Princess contest. The girls must be between the ages of 16 and 21, and be a high school graduate this year or earlier.

Entrants must be residents of the state for at least one year, and have a dairy farm background. All candidates' families must reside on a dairy farm and be active producers at the present time, according to the rules.

Details concerning the county princess contest will be publicized after Thursday's meeting, Draper said. Any firms, lodges or other organizations interested in sponsoring a county dairy princess candidate may contact any member of the committee for further information, if necessary.

N.W. Hospital to Host H. S. Students in Hospital Week

Students from TRF and Neighboring Towns Are Invited Monday, Tuesday

National Hospital Week this year is to be celebrated during the week of May 12th and Northwestern Hospital is planning on playing host to the senior high school students of this area to acquaint them with the various hospital careers and professions, said Norman Peterson, acting administrator.

Peterson explained, "We have extended an invitation to the local school and the high schools at Goodridge, Middle River, Newfolden, Plummer and Oklee to bring their students in here on Monday, May 12th and Tuesday, May 13th. We plan to divide the students up in various groups depending on their interest in hospital careers and have qualified persons on our staff speak to them giving them a brief explanation of the various jobs and telling them about the educational requirements, length of study, etc.

"The sessions on Monday and Tuesday will also include brief tours of the various departments of the hospital that these students may be interested in seeing. We plan on serving lunch to the students at the completion of each session.

"We are not conducting a general open house and tour of inspection of the hospital as we have done in years past. We do encourage anyone who is interested in hospital careers to get in touch with us during this week and we will be glad to supply them with what information we may have available.

"It has been planned that dur-

Husband Asks Coya Not to Run This Year for Family Reasons

Heads TRF Legion

ORMOND JOHNSON

Who Tuesday evening was elected commander of Ecklund-Holmstrom post of the American Legion to succeed Robert Bredeson.

Rep. Coya Knutson of Oklee was urged this week by her husband, Andrew, not to seek re-election to congress for a third term.

The congresswoman could not be reached for comment, since she was apparently en route from Minnesota to Washington.

In a statement delivered to newspapers in the ninth congressional district, Knutson, who operates a hotel and works for an implement company in Oklee, said the most important reason he was asking her not to run is that "since her election four years ago our home life has deteriorated to the extent that it is practically nonexistent."

"I want to have the happy home that we enjoyed for many years prior to her election," Knutson stated. "Coya hasn't been home for Christmas for two years and for Easter the past three. I have seen our son but a few times, and for only brief visits."

Knutson asserted also that "it is useless for her to be elected, as the decisions that are made are not hers." He charged that policy decisions are made by Bill Kjeldahl, her executive secretary, "who assumes no responsibility yet dictates the policy of her office."

The Fargo Forum reported Wednesday that Knutson had said he asked State Rep. Harvey Wilder, Polk county, chairman of the ninth district DFL convention, to read the statement on the convention floor Sunday, but that Wilder had refused.

Lincoln Choir to Stage 'Car Wash' All Day Saturday

Members of the Lincoln high school concert choir will stage a "car wash" Saturday, May 10, at Vern's Super Service south of the court house to help raise funds to finance a trip to Duluth, where the group will present an exchange concert Tuesday. A bake sale also will be held Saturday at the Hartz Super Market.

Milton Hanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Hanson, returned Tuesday from Brookley Air Force Base in Alabama, where he had been stationed the past year. He also spent a year in Greenland working with Radar.

Junior Chamber Asks Entries for May 24 Teen-age Road-E-O

Safe driving teen-agers from Thief River Falls and the surrounding area will take to the road on Saturday, May 24, to prove their driving skills. Boys and girls from the Thief River Falls, Warren, Middle River, Newfolden, Goodridge, Red Lake Falls and Plummer area will compete for the best teen-age driver title and an expense paid trip to the State Road-E-O.

The best boy and girl driver will represent the Thief River Falls Jaycee's in Bloomington this June, and both will get a chance to win a free trip to Washington, D. C. to appear in the National finals.

Contestants will be tested and a point system will be used to determine each drivers' knowledge, courtesy, skill and accuracy behind the wheel. Members of the local law enforcement agencies and other citizens will judge all drivers, and each winner will receive a $25.00 savings bond from the Thief River Falls Auto Dealers association.

The rules and regulations require that each entry must have a valid drivers license or permit, and no moving traffic violations within the past six months. The only age requirement is that each entry will not reach his or her twentieth birthday before August 16, 1958.

All eligible teen-agers are requested to complete an entry form on or before Friday, May 16th. Entry forms are obtainable from any Jaycee or by writing to Teen-Age Road-E-O, P. O. Box 386, Thief River Falls. A representative of the Junior Chamber of Commerce will be at each high school during the next week to show a film about the Road-E-O and explain the rules and regulations in detail.

All entries will meet at the driving course on the corner of First and LaBree at 8:45 a.m. May 24. This is a good chance for every boy and girl to really show mom and dad that they are capable of driving the family car.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kjensrud and family spent Sunday in Mayville, North Dakota where they visited at the home of Mrs. Laura Arnegaard.

Dr. J. Disse Files for School Board; Filings End Today

With filings closing this afternoon for the Thief River Falls school district election Tuesday, May 20, four aspirants are in the field for two positions to be filled on the board of education. Dr. J. O. Disse, local optometrist, is the latest to file, other candidates including Arnold Pearson and James Parkins (incumbents); and Curtis T. Harris.

8 Jury Cases Set for Trial at May Term

Calendar to Be Set by Judge Sylvestre Monday Morning

Nine civil actions, including eight jury cases, are on the calendar for the May term of Pennington county district court, it was announced today by Henry Storhaug, clerk of court.

The term is scheduled to open next Monday morning, May 12, when Judge J. H. Sylvestre of Crookston, presiding judge, will set the order in which the cases will be tried, following conferences with the interested attorneys. It is anticipated that the panel of petit jurors will not be summoned to report for duty before May 26.

Included in the cases which will be heard by a jury unless settled out of court in the meantime are those of Alex J. Clouttier vs. the Soo Line; Aetna Insurance Co. vs. William Reese; Dora Wolf vs. Albert Ulshafer and Elida Melin; Thorstein Tweeten vs. John Wade Knutson and Leslie T. Knutson; Picariello & Singer, Inc. vs. Clifford D. Bjorkman; Curtiss Candy Co., Inc. vs. Elvin A. Torkelson; Clark Oil & Refining Corp vs. Ed Domarski; and Sieb's Hatchery Inc. vs. Morris Odegaard, formerly doing business as Thief River Hatchery.

The only court case on the calendar is that of Casper and Ellen Bondley vs. Pennington county. County Attorney L. W. Rulien stated Tuesday he had no criminal cases to bring up for trial, and there are no continued cases left from the fall term.

Soo Line Seeks to Operate Glenwood Trains Tri-weekly

Hearing at Detroit Lakes Set for May 22 on Plea to Halt Passenger Service

The Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission will conduct a hearing in the Detroit Lakes city hall Thursday, May 22, at 9:30 a.m. on the application of the Soo Line to discontinue passenger service on its trains 73 and 74 operating between Glenwood and Thief River Falls.

In its application the Soo Line states that trains Nos. 73 and 74 are mixed passenger and freight trains that operate daily except Sunday; that little use is made of the passenger service; that adequate passenger service can be provided by Trains Nos. 9 and 10, which operate between Minneapolis, and Winnipeg; that with the discontinuance of the passenger service, Train No. 71 will operate southbound on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and Train No. 73 northbound on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday; and that the rescheduling of the trains to a tri-weekly service will result in a savings in excess of $95,000 annually in operating expenses.

Evacuate School During Practice Alert Here

Lincoln high school students are shown here as they quickly but orderly evacuated the school Tuesday during the nation-wide practice attack on this country. The city proper was not attacked but Winnipeg was theoretically "hit" and there was danger of radio-activity here from the Fargo-Moorhead bombing. The city also played host to 2,500 Winnipeg "refugees."

Staff of Hospital Here Has Set up Scholarship Plan

[illegible] to encourage young people to enter on careers in nursing or other phases of hospital work, the staff of Northwestern Hospital in Thief River Falls during the past week set up a scholarship plan designed to provide more than $100 a year for needy students.

Norman Peterson, acting hospital administrator, stated that funds will be raised in a novel manner. Each of the 125 or more full and part time employes would contribute one cent to the fund for each of the approximately 400 babies born each year in the institution.

The employes would nominate candidates for the award, which the recently established Thief River Falls Foundation will be asked to administer.

21 Girl Scouts Win Top Award

Twenty-one local Girl Scouts were presented with the coveted curved-bar award at the annual court of awards held in the city Auditorium Monday evening. Nan Peterson presided.

The evening's program was opened by an impressive flag ceremony by members of Troop 110 immediately followed by the pledge of allegiance to the flag by all present. The assembly then sang "America" and the scouts then recited the girl scout promise and laws.

Mrs. [illegible] Holland gave the welcoming address to those present, after which troop leaders and assistants presented merit badges.

Morris Owen presented Curved Bar awards to the following: Troop 11, Virginia Flattum. Troop 15; Mary Anderson, Mary Bergquist, Sharon Bruggeman, Sandra Christianson, Faye Fuller, Diane Haugen, Ellen Larson and Judy Ramberk.

Troop 33, Mary Poolman. Troop 40; Rebecca Ferber, Marlene Gustafson, Jane Mickelson, Joan Peterson, Bonnie Schenke, Galleene Solheim and Diane Wilson.

Troop 110 Curved Bar awards went to Angie Gustafson, Barbara Brosseau, Mary Kay Looker, Mary Lee Rustad, and Judy Thorstenson.

Other special awards were made as follows:

Second class, Dr. J. W. Ewing; first class, R. J. Dryden; 5 and 10 year pins, Stephen Austin; five-point pins, Gunder Legvold; aide bars, Ted Mills; midshipmite, Warren Nelson and jack tar, Thomas Gilligan.

At the close of the program, singing of "The Golden Sun" by the scouts was followed by retiring of the colors, and taps, a cornet duet by Rosie Thorkelson and Sandra Jensen.

Curved Bar Award Winners at Girl Scout Court of Honor Monday

Twenty-two girls from the various local troops were presented Curved Bar awards by Morris Owen at the girl scout court of honor held Monday evening at the city Auditorium. The award winners are shown at the court and are, left to right, front: Diane Wilson, Barbara Brosseau, Marlene Gustafson, Joan Peterson, Ellen Larson, Galleene Solheim, Diane Haugen, Mary Anderson and Faye Fuller. In the back row are Mary Lee Rustad, Judy Thorstenson, Angie Gustafson, Mary Poolman, Mary Kay Looker, Bonnie Schenke, Judy Ramberk, Rebecca Ferber, Jane Mickelson, Sandra Christianson, Mary Bergquist, and Sharon Bruggeman.

Gravel Job at Highlanding Is Given Ness Co.

County Board Votes to Ask Bids Again on River Valley Grading

A quiet meeting of the Pennington county board of commissioners was held here Tuesday, with delegations being heard, but no action taken.

The delegations were in to inquire about various ditching and road projects under consideration in the county. However, none of the problems warranted special action by the board in their solution.

Bids were opened on gravel surfacing of 6 miles of the Highlanding road between Goodridge and Highlanding. Two firms submitted bids, with one amounting to $17,942.17 submitted by Oscar Schenkey, Middle River being rejected, while the successful bidder was Ness Construction Co., Mahnomen with a bid of $16,814.43.

Only one bid was received on grading of 7.6 mi. on the River Valley road (SAR 3) but was rejected because it was 11 per cent over the county engineer's estimate. The project will be readvertised in the near future.

The board also accepted delivery of, and authorized payment for a bituminous circulator bought some two months ago.

The last item of business was the voting of $1250 for the Carnegie public library here, which is an annual appropriation.

The pastors of the Thief River Falls and Crookston circuits of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod are holding their monthly conference, Monday, at St John's church in Thief River Falls beginning with a communion service at 10:30 A.M. The Rev. E. Bentrup of Fisher is the chairman of the group.

Civil Defense Test Proceeds Smoothly Here

Schools Evacuated in 30 Minutes; 2,500 Canadians 'Arrive'

The staff of the Pennington county civil defense agency experienced valuable training Tuesday afternoon, when it shared in the nation-wide "Operation Alert 1958", which offered many realistic aspects. The local staff went on duty at noon, when the alert was sounded, and functioned until 8 p.m., altho the "All clear" was sounded at 4 p.m.

Highlight of the local observance was the evacuation of the schools in this city, as well as St. Hilaire and Goodridge, following receipt of a message at 2 o'clock stating that the Fargo-Moorhead area had been hit by an atomic bomb, and that the wind was blowing from the south at 7 miles per hour, indicating that the fall-out might extend to this city.

After much deliberation, it was concluded that it would not be necessary to evacuate the entire city population, altho residents were asked to stay inside their homes for 48 hours. Evacuation of the schools, however, proceeded smoothly, starting at 2:08, and continuing until 2:40 when the last buses left with their loads of rural pupils.

In the meantime, word was received from the Bemidji control center, telling the local staff to be prepared to accommodate 2,500 evacuees from Winnipeg. On their theoretical arrival they were placed in the schools and other public buildings, the hospital was alerted and arrangements made with L. B. Hartz Stores Wholesale for a two-days supply of food.

Lose ends in the CD setup were studied Tuesday evening by the staff in a review session at headquarters in the county

Eleanor Harstad and Andrew Olson Wed Recently

Miss Eleanor Carol Harstad, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Harstad of Fertile and Andrew M. Olson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Olson also of Fertile, were united in marriage, Sunday, March 30 at the Faaberg Lutheran church. Rev. H. M. Engh performed the ceremony before an altar graced with palms and lighted candelabra.

Miss Dorothy Engh presided at the organ for the traditional nuptial music and also accompanied Allen Harstad, brother of the bride, who sang "O Perfect Love" and "Crown With Thy Benediction."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a ballerina length gown of white lace. A pearl cornet held her fingertip veil and she carried a bouquet of Easter lilies.

Miss Elaine Harstad, sister of the bride, was maid of honor while Miss Sylvia Harstad, also a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. They wore identical street length dresses of lavender fashioned with purple cummerbunds. They carried cascade bouquets of lavender mums.

Floyd Olson was his brother's bestman and groomsmen was William Harstad, Jr., brother of the bride. Harold Olson, brother of the groom, and Lloyd Olson, cousin of the groom, served as ushers.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors with Mrs. Martin Pederson, aunt of the bride, acting as hostess. There were approximately 80 guests in attendance.

The four tiered wedding cake, decorated with lavender mums, was baked and decorated by Mrs. Cliff Messell. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Knute Olson, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Clarence Maltrud, godmother of the bride. Miss Olga Hatstad, aunt of the bride, poured. Assisting with the serving were Miss Anette Pederson, Miss Glenda Messell, Mrs. Arnold Turnbom and Mrs. Marvin Ofstedal.

The bride is a graduate of Fertile high schol and of Concordia College in Moorhead and is presently teaching music in the Newfolden public school. The groom is also a graduate of Fertile high school and is engaged in farming. Mr. and Mrs. Olson are making their home on a farm near Fertile.

Ormond Johnson New Commander of Legion

The local American Legion post conducted its annual election of officers at its regular May meeting Tuesday evening. Elected were: Ormond Johnson, commander succeeding Robert Bredeson; Jarvis Prichard, first vice commander; John Holzinger, second vice; Claire Larson, third vice; and Don Josselyn, fourth vice.

Other offices filled were chaplain, Alvin Anderson; finance officer, John McGinley; and directors to serve two-year terms, Kenneth Halldin, and Stan Pladson.

The post voted unanimously to sponsor a local Legionnaire for first vice commander of the Ninth District Legion. The candidate to be sponsored is Harold M. Johnson, currently second vice commander. Election will be held at the district convention scheduled at Roseau in June.

A motion was adopted to sponsor an honorary dinner for guests of the Pennington county Centennial committee on August 2nd in connection with the celebration scheduled for August 1, 2 and 3rd. Guests to be honored will be selected by the Pennington County Centennial committee as having contributed in a substantial way to the history of Pennington county.

A discussion centered about the inadequacy of present hockey facilities in particular the present hockey arena. It was noted by Past Commander Harold Johnson that the present facilities had been an early project of the American Legion in this city and that a further interest in this sport by our American Legion should be in order.

Following the discussion, the membership adopted a resolution to the City Council deploring the condition of present facilities and asking that a program to improve them be started as early as possible.

Oscar L. Monson Succumbs; Rites To Be Held Today

Funeral services for Oscar L. Monson, local resident 44 years, will be conducted today (Thursday) at 1:00 p.m. in the Trinity Lutheran church with Rev. Otto Dale officiating. Interment will be made in the Greenwood cemetery. Mr. Monson passed away May 6 at the age of [illegible] years.

Oscar Monson was born October 10, 1881 in Grafton, North Dakota where he was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran faith and grew to manhood. He moved to Canada where he homesteaded for 12 years, and came to Thief River Falls in 1914 and purchased a confectionary store in this city. He operated the store until 19[illegible] after which he was employed by H. B. Hartz for several years and retired in 1949.

March 26, 1918 he was united in marriage to Miss Inanda Fosholm and they since had made their home in this city. He was a member of the local garden club.

Survivors include his wife, Inanda; one son, Archie of Tulsa, Oklahoma; one daughter, Mrs. Odell McWhorter (Cleo) of Detroit, Mich.; two grandchildren; three sisters, Miss Myrtle Monson of this city; Mrs. Ove Voght (Laura) of Fergus Falls and Mrs. Martin Stenberg (Cora) of Gonvick. He was preceded in death by his parents, one sister and one brother.

Final Services Held Saturday for Mrs. Peter Dyrud

Funeral services for Mrs. Peter Dyrud of Newfolden were conducted Saturday, May 3 at the Bethlehem Lutheran church in Newfolden with Rev. Gordon Berntson officiating. Interment was made in the Oak Grove cemetery. Mrs. Dyrud passed away April 30 at Northwestern Hospital at the age of 81 years.

Mrs. Dyrud was born March 25, 1877 near Waseca, Minn. She moved with her parents to New Solum township where she attended school and grew to womanhood.

On December 11, 1899, she was united in marriage to Peter Dyrud and they since had made their home in the Newfolden community.

Survivors include three daughters, Mrs. Ole Bjornrud (Myrtle) of Newfolden; Mrs. Clarence Gast (Ethel) of Argyle; Mrs. Roy Rasmussen (Beatrice) of McHenry, North Dakota; four sons, Chester of this city; Harvey of Newfolden; Clemmence of Pelican Rapids; and Amos of Betioky-Sud., Madagascar. Sheldon Mortrud, a grandson, has also been reared in the Dyrud home since infancy. There are also 33 other grandchildren and 14 great grandchildren. She was preceded in death by her husband and two daughters, Mrs. Swan Mortrud and Lorraine Dyrud.

Students at Bible College Coming to Local Tabernacle

Grace Hagenbeck of TRF Included in Group to Appear Here on Sunday

A team of six students from North Central Bible College in Minneapolis will appear on Sunday in services at the Assemblies of God Tabernacle.

Included in the group is Miss Grace Hagenbeck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Golfred Hagenbeck of Thief River Falls, who sings in a ladies trio. Other members of the trio are Misses Lila Duerkson of Mountain Lake, Minn., and Zona McLaughlin of Wenatchee, Wash. In addition to the trio, the group will contain Lynden Robinson of Regina, Sask., pianist; Larry Hallblade of Owatonna, Minn., trombonist; and Marvin Ripinski of Stevens Point, Wisc., speaker.

Rev. Robert Abbott, pastor, announces that the young people will provide music for the morning services at 11:00 a.m., on the broadcast of "Gospel Echoes" at 1:00 p.m., and will be in complete charge of services at 6:30 and 7:45 p.m. The 7:45 service will feature a variety of musical numbers and a message of interest to young and old alike. The public is invited to attend.

Last Rites Are Conducted For Baby Morrison

Funeral services for Denise Renae Morrison, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Morrison, were conducted Wednesday morning, May 7, at the Green Funeral Home Chapel with Rev. Otto Dale officiating. Interment was made in the Greenwood cemetery.

Survivors include her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morrison; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Mordy Morrison and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pierce. She is also survived by three great-grandmothers, Mrs. Bertha Morrison, Mrs. Hilda DeRoche and Mrs. Johanna Pierce.

Civil Defense Is Given Workout in County Tuesday

agent's office. Bruce Reski, county director, indicated it is planned to appoint a railroad coordinator for assisting in evacuating the city in the event such action became necessary. It also was suggested that block captains be appointed to check up on the status of local citizens in time of emergency.

In addition to Fargo-Moorhead, cities hit by hypothetical bombs included Minneapolis and St. Paul and Bismarck and Jamestown, N. D., with heavy theoretical loss of lives resulting. Thruout the nation, nearly 300 mock bombs dropped, giving the civil defense agencies a real workout.

Robert J. Lund Names Aids for Centennial Train Due July 11-12

The Pennington county statehood centennial committee, at a meeting in the court house Monday evening, heard a progress report by Robert J. Lund, chairman of the committee arranging for the appearance of the Centennial train in Thief River Falls July 11 and 12.

Lund was notified Tuesday by John A. Young, train coordinator, that the Centennial train will be delivered in Thief River Falls by the Soo Line, and that it will be stationed while here on the track adjoining the Soo depot.

Lund announced that his aides will include Stanton R. Dahlen, publicity; Al Bacon, arrangements; Ivan Bundy and Police Chief Elton Cummings, parking; Miles Nelson and Kermit Eastman, transportation; and Cliff Bjorkman, special events.

The committee, Lund said, will meet shortly to work out detailed plans for the reception of the train, which is scheduled to be open to view here Friday, July 11 from 1:30 to 10 p.m., and Saturday morning, July 12, from 9 to 11 o'clock.

The general committee Monday endorsed a suggestion by Chairman Herman A. Kjos that application be filed with state headquarters in St. Paul to secure the official Centennial float, if possible, for the parade at Goodridge Sunday, June 1, and if not available then, to try to get it for the August 2 parade tentatively scheduled in Thief River Falls.

The meeting closed with a general discussion of arrangements for the parade here, as well as the projected old-time dance and a banquet honoring pioneer residents of the community.

Human Relations Course Finished by Local People

Certificates of attendance for the course, "Human Relations for Supervisory Personnel" were given this week to Stephen A. Austin, Edward G. DeLap, Vic Kalinoski, Anthony Madunich, John A. Wolff, Don M. Olson, Monty Sheffer, T. P. Scanlon, Harold I. Nelson, and Robert Bredeson. (The meetings were held in the area vocational school building. Case problems offered by class members were discussed and a four step method for solving problems was developed. Several movies added interest to the course, which was conducted by James H. Levang, itinerant instructor in merchandising with the state vocational division.

Two County Men to Leave for Africa

Dr. Norquist and Rev. Augustine to Serve There

Dr. Joseph Norquist and Rev. D. J. Augustine of St. Hilaire told the Lions club Wednesday noon of their plans to leave later this year for Tanganyika, British East Africa, where Dr. Norquist will serve as a medical missionary and Mr. Augustine will teach in a teachers college.

Dr. Norquist will leave in August for England, where he will devote five months to the study of tropical medicine before going on to Africa. Mr. Augustine said that religion in Tanganyika is largely in the hands of native pastors, and he cited examples of technological progress that make life in the tropics more liveable for white people.

Bryant Ulseth, director of the Lincoln high schol chorus, stated that members of the group are staging a car-washing bee Saturday at Vern's service station, Main av. at First st., to raise funds to help finance a trip to Duluth next Monday, May 12.

Northrop School Pupils Note State Centennial Friday

The Northrop school student council will hold a Centennial Day observance at the Northrop School on Friday, May 9. Children have been asked to dress in costumes such as were worn during the early days in the state.

A program for the pupils will be held in the auditorium in the afternoon. Mrs. Gaston Ward, longtime resident of this city, will speak, and a group of girls will give a square dance demonstration. Some of the sixth grade pupils will present facts of early Minnesota, and there will be singing by the fifth grades.

They Learn Sucessful Retail Selling

Members of a class in "Successful Retail Selling," sponsored locally by the Chamber of Commerce and the area vocational school, are pictured above as they attended the eighth and last of a series of weekly meetings in the Rex Cafe.

The course was taught by James H. Levang, itinerant instructor in merchandising with the vocational division of the state department of education, the object being to provide better customer service. Certificates of attendance were presented by J. M. Roche, C. of C. Secretary.

Standing: Mrs. Herman Anderson, Ernest Thune, Arnold Nordahl, Leonard Spaeth, Jr., Mrs. Cleman Teal, Miss Helen Halvorson, Mrs. Edna Johnson, and Miss Viola Pearson.

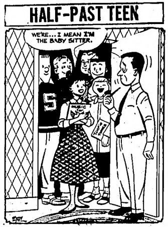
Those receiving Certificates of Attendance but not pictured include Neal Fox and Miss Mary Ann Welch.

Girl Scouts Asked to Attend Course Monday, 5-9 p.m

Girl Scouts 8th thru the 12th grades are urged to attend the program aide training course to be held in the church parlors at Trinity Lutheran church Monday, May 12th, from 5 to 9 o'clock. Each girl is asked to bring her own nosebag lunch. The course is designed to train the girls for the service they will give in Vacation Bible Schools, Brownie day camp, established camp and in troops next year.

Former T. R. Falls People to Picnic in Calif. May 25

Former Thief River Falls residents now living in Southern California will hold their annual picnic Sunday, May 25, starting at 11 a.m., in Miles av. Park, Huntington Park, Calif. Nearly 200 notices are being sent out to former residents, according to Al Fredrickson, president, and Al Vistaunet, secretary.



Northrop PTA Is Busy Rehearsing 'I Remember When'

Scenes and Dances from 1800s Down to Date to Be Presented May 19th

Northrop PTA production "I Remember When", scheduled for Monday, May 19, is well under way with both costuming and rehearsals. The Flora-dora girls will be outfitted in shocking pink and black, while the Bathing Beauties of the gay '90's will be wearing black and white suits.

Both these numbers will appear as part of the memories of the 1800's, being backed up musically by the Lions quartette. A quintette of lovely ladies of this era will also be a part, and they will sing familiar numbers of the times. Costumes of grandmothers' day will be shown.

The dances from 1900 to the present day will be worked out in square dance, Charleston, waltz and rock and roll. Songs of the times—World War I, roaring 20's, World War II, and present day style will be presented, with instrumental background, solo numbers and appropriate costume bringing memories to the audience.

Parents and teachers alike of Northrop PTA are busy preparing for the showing of "I Remember When". Several participants other than PTA members are also taking part, and the public is invited to attend.

Light Calendar in Municipal Court

North Dakota Man Fined $100 for Drunken Driving

Another light session of municipal court was recorded here Monday, with the majority of cases heard by Judge H. O. Chommie being traffic violations.

One case, that of John R. Erickson, Newtown, N. Dak., was heard Tuesday. Erickson pleaded guilty to driving under the influence of liquor, and was fined $100 plus $4 costs. He was arrested by city police.

There were four city police cases Monday. Richard A. Odegaard, city, pleaded guilty to careless driving and was fined $10.

Mrs. Vernice Nelson, city, pleaded guilty to failure to yield the right of way, leading to an accident, and was fined $10 plus $3.50 costs. David E. Bruggeman, rt. 3, pleaded guilty to going through a stop sign and drew a $5 fine and $3.50 costs.

The only non-traffic violation hearing Monday was that of Richard R. Langevin, city, who pleaded guilty to furnishing strong beer to a minor. His sentence was 30 days in jail, was suspended on various conditions.

There were two highway patrol cases, only one of which appeared in court Monday. Manuel Hanson, St. Hilaire, pleaded guilty to allowing an unlicensed minor to operate his motor vehicle and was fined $5 plus $3.50 costs.

Myron G. Franzen, Sioux City, Iowa, forfeited $15 bond on a speeding charge.

Two Local Men at State Fire School

Roy Langevin and Richard O'Hara at St. Paul Event

Fire Chief Roy Langevin and Richard O'Hara of the local fire department last week attended the seventh annual Minnesota state fire school held Monday thru Friday on the St. Paul campus of the University of Minnesota. A total of 275 men were registered at the event.

Numerous speakers appeared on the program, including the chiefs of the Minneapolis and St. Paul fire departments; Walter P. Halstead, director of the Minneapolis office of civil defense; and others.

Special features included instructions at the Minneapolis airport on fighting aircraft fires and rescue operations; and demonstrations in St. Paul on putting out fires in a huge tank of oil and in a large dwelling, which was finally allowed to burn down.

Lincoln Bands to Present Concert Thursday, May 15

The Lincoln high school concert band, the Prowler band and the junior high school band will present their annual spring concert next Thursday evening, May 15, at 8 o'clock in the school auditorium. John Moum will direct the young musicians, assisted by Jon Larson, student conductor. Further details on the program will appear in the Times in Monday's issue.

Bemidji College Off-campus Course Here This Summer

To Teach Three Subjects; Moorhead College Also to Offer Course in TRF

At an organization meeting held in the Washington school Friday evening, Dr. Flemming of Bemidji state college, stated the following courses will be offered for the summer workshop to be held in Lincoln high school this summer:

1. Understanding Literature (prose) No. 241.
2. Art—four different courses will be offered.
3. Geography of North America.

Each of these courses will give four quarter-hours of credit.

Moorhead state college is offering a course in "The Exceptional Child" which will begin June 2. Mr. Flemming stated that they will arrange their courses so that there will be no conflict in time so that any teacher wishing to take all four courses may do so.

For further information teachers may contact Co.-Supt. Martha Matheson at the courthouse here.

Neal Fox Photos Are Displayed at N.D. Convention

Mr. and Mrs. Neal Fox of this city attended the annual convention of the North Dakota Professional Photographers association in Fargo Monday and Tuesday. Three prints from the Fox Studio were included in the 20 per cent of entries that were hung in the convention salon, and a fourth received an honorable mention.

In December 1941 when the Japanese attacked and captured Guam, five Navy nurses were taken prisoner and sent to a military prison in Japan. In August 1942 they were returned to the U.S. aboard the exchange ship, Gripsholm.

Trees Planted at Valhall Grounds as Centennial Event

150 Persons Attended Impressive Ceremony Last Sunday Afternoon

The Rocksbury community turned out in full force for the 4-H centennial tree planting program on Sunday. One hundred fifty people attended the program. The evergreen trees were planted on the north and east sides of the 5½ acre grounds belonging to Valhall. 4-H'ers, parents and leaders, prepared the soil for tree planting, planted trees, and cleaned up the grounds of old grass and rubbish for safety purposes.

The tree planting was a memorial to the organization of the Rocksbury club by Mrs. Martin Finstad, thirty years ago. Henry Oen then served for many years as 4-H club leader and along with Axel Engelstad. In the first year the club had eleven 4-H members. It now has 40 with Mr. and Mrs. Martin Finstad and Mr. and Mrs. Art Dicken serving as leaders.

The town hall property once owned by the pioneer Peter Engelstad family was passed on to the township. The family included sons Mons, Paul, Axel, Lars, Ole, Christ and Melvin Engelstad, and daughters Mrs. Louise Anderson, Mrs. Ed Hanson and nephew of Mons Engelstad, Perry Borgie.

The evergreens were purchased near Middle River and were dug up and brought to Valhall by 4-H leaders and members on Saturday. The planting was done on Sunday as part of a centennial and Rural Youth Sunday observances which could not be held on May 11 due to various conflicting events.

Community members assisted the 4-H'ers with their project and one-hundred trees were planted for past and present 4-H members. Lunch was served during the program.

Social Security Man Here Tuesday

A representative of the Grand Forks district office of the Social Security Administration will be in Thief River Falls at the city Auditorium on Tuesday, May 13, at 10:00 a.m. Individuals who have questions regarding social security may contact him on that date.

Larson FINEST IN FIBERGLASS

BOATS for 58

They're modern as the minute, but backed by nearly 50 years of boat-building leadership. Larson boats are beautifully styled, superbly molded in super-strong fiberglass. No boats in America have so many great features—lifetime colors, light-weight toughness, lap-line bottoms, spacious seating, high-speed safety. Come in and see them . . . compare them . . . you'll pick a LARSON!

The Larson PLAYBOY is a smart, sleek 14-foot runabout, youthful in spirit but big enough and safe enough for family fun. Completely equipped with windshield, steering, lights, hardware, drain, upholstery, etc. Takes 60 h.p. motor.

The Larson SURFMASTER has the space of a cruiser, the lively performance of a speedster. Built for heavy-duty, it's 19 feet long, with an 84-inch beam. Three models—hardtop, convertible, or fishing bridge cruiser. Deluxe appointments, with many optional "extras."

The Larson GAME WARDEN brings the popular fishing-boat right up to date! 14-foot and 12-foot models smoothly molded in lifetime fiberglass. Molded-in seats with flotation chambers beneath. Won't ever leak; needs no maintenance, no painting. Today's finest auto-top or trailer boat.

THERE'S A WONDERFUL LARSON BOAT FOR EVERY PREFERENCE, FROM CRUISERS TO CANOES. As authorized dealers, we're proud to show them to you. Their prices will please you, too!

Student Housing Needed for Local Vocational School

Stan Nelson, Director, Tells Rotary of Outlook for 150 from Wide Area

Housing will be a serious problem for the Area Vocational school this coming year, Stan Nelson, director, told Rotarians at their luncheon meeting Monday. During the months of peak enrollment this year there have been about 75 out-of-town students living here. Present enrollment trends indicate that this number will more than double in the next school year, he reported.

There will be a number of Indian students enrolled under the direction of the department of Indian Affairs in their relocation program, he said. Several families probably will be included in this group, adding to the problem of providing furnished homes.

A weather department movie told the story of that organization's efforts to provide a more effective weather forecasting service, particularly in the field of storm warning.

Badger Man Heads N.W. Bankers Unit

Annual Election Held in T. R. Falls Last Saturday

The Northwest division of the Minnesota Bankers association held its annual spring meeting and banquet at the Thief River Falls Elks club Saturday.

Principal business was the election of officers. N. B. Gustafson of Badger was named president; R. J. Splide of Karlstad, vice president; and Alton Carlson of Holt, secretary-treasurer. The three officers also will serve as directors from their respective counties.

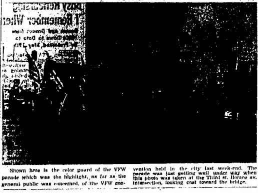
Other directors elected include Ken Onken, Pennington county; and C. O. Stone, Baudette, Lake of the Woods county. It was voted to hold the annual summer outing as usual at Wheelers Point on Lake of the Woods.

Warren Hospital to Be Dedicated Sunday, May 11th

Dedication of Warren's modern, completely equipped 31-bed hospital will be held Sunday afternoon. A special dedication program will be held at the Warren high school auditorium at 3 p.m. followed by a brief rite of dedication at the hospital at 4:15 p.m. Following this event an open house of the hospital premises will be held with guided tours of the institution.

Speaking at the dedication will be Rev. Dr. Oscar A. Benson of Minneapolis, president of the Augustana Lutheran church of America. Several anthems will be sung by the combined choirs of First and Our Savior's Lutheran churches.

VFW Convention Highlighted by Big Parade



Shown here is the color guard of the VFW parade which was the highlight, as far as the general public was concerned, of the VFW convention held in the city last week-end. The parade was just getting well under way when this photo was taken at the Third st. Horace av. intersection, looking east toward the bridge.

7 Strandquist Men Have 43,700 Poults

Area Is Developing Big Turkey Business

Rural Strandquist has developed into one of the highest volume producers of finished turkeys in Northwestern Minnesota.

Seven farmers in the community have a total of 43,000 turkey poults, which they hope to develop into approximately one million pounds of finished turkeys within six or eight months. At 25c per pound this crop of birds should bring $250,000 to the seven turkey raisers.

John Vagle is starting with 14,000 poults, Glen Rasmussen 8,500, Clarence Lundstrom 7,800, Peter E. Thompson 7,000, Otto & Edw. Carlson 2,300, Alfred Carlson 2,100 and Gilman Stennes 2,000.

These men are specialists in a highly specialized field of farming and they must be in order to make a profit. The expense for equipment, housing, insurance, feed, medicine and loss caused by predatory animals, heavy rains or wind can raise havoc with their prospective gains. A low flying aeroplane has on some occasions caused the young birds to pile up in a corner of the yard, resulting with a loss of dozens of birds.

Feed costs run high as these farmers do not talk about bushels of grain but express their feed consumption in terms of tons, truck loads and car loads.

LEOLA DYRUD TO TOUR WITH AUGSBURG GROUP

Leola Dyrud, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Dyrud of Thief River Falls, is on tour May 9, 10 and 11 with the Augsburg College Canticlans, an all girl chorus. They will appear in several Minnesota cities during their tour. Mayo Savold, conductor of the renowned Augsburg College band, is director of this choral group.

Bemidji First in Conference Track Meet in Crookston

Crookston Pirates Win Second Honors, E. G. Forks Third, and Prowlers Fourth

The powerful Bemidji Lumberjack squad, scoring in each event on the 14-event program, and winning eight first places, rolled up a total of 78½ points to win the Northwest conference track and field championship in the conference meet held at Crookston on Tuesday.

The Crookston Pirates, also scoring in every event and with five first place wins, racked up 71 1/6 points for a solid second place. East Grand Forks earned third place with 34 1/3 points; while the Prowlers picked up eighteen points for fourth place.

The first place winners for the Prowlers were Krohn, with a time of 4:45.0 in the mile; and Bjerken, with a 2:15.9 in the half-mile. Other prowler point winners were Ramstad with a fifth place in the mile; Nicholson a fifth place in the 440-yard dash; Krohn a fifth place in the low hurdles; Nelson a fifth place in the 220-yard dash; and Leiran a fourth place in the broad jump.

Bemidji's Larry Rybak was the tournament's lone double winner, the stocky Lumberjack winning the hurdle events.

Prowlers Trounce RLF Eagles 17-6

Local Team Racks up Third Straight Victory

The baseball Prowlers racked up their third straight victory of the young season on Wednesday afternoon when, in a district conference game played at Red Lake Falls, the locals trounced the Eagles, 17 to 6.

The Prowlers moved away to an early lead by scoring four runs in the 1st inning, and added a five-run cluster in the 2nd inning off of the Eagles' starting pitcher, righthander Dick Demarais. In the 1st inning, a pair of Eagle errors, a walk, four hits, including a triple by Tony Wald, accounted for the four tallies. Six hits and an error plated five Prowler runs in the 2nd inning. Righthander Chuck Kankel relieved Demarais in the 3rd, and the rangy hurler was touched for ten hits and 8 runs in the five innings that he was on the mound.

Leading the Prowler attack on the Eagle hurling was Jerry Jorgenson, who banged out five safeties in six trips to the plate. Dean Bergland had four hits in six sorties to the plate.

Harlie Drees, although tagged for ten hits, including a pair of extra-base blows, was never in serious difficulty as he posted his secunded win of the season. Drees whiffed eleven batsmen.

Celebrate 30 Years 4-H Club Work With Tree Planting

The Rocksbury 4-H club celebrated their 30 years of 4-H club work Sunday at Valhall by planting 150 spruce trees on the grounds at Valhall. Mrs. Martin Finstad 4-H adult leader who also organized Rocksbury 4-H club planted the first tree. Then they planted one in memory of the late Henry Oen who was assistant 4-H leader when they organized the club. The next tree was planted for Mrs. Axel Engelstad of Jamestown, N. D. who was 4-H adult leader along with Henry Oen for many years. Then, the current adult leaders Mr. and Mrs. Art Dicken and Martin Finstad planted their trees.

Mrs. Paul Engelstad Notes Birthday

Helping Mrs. Paul Engelstad celebrate her birthday Saturday were Mrs. Dennis Hanson, Kathy and David, Mrs. S. T. Hetland, Mr. and Mrs. Mons Engelstad, Gina Gunderson, Mr. and Mrs. James Engelstad, Kim and Kristi, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Engelstad, Mark, Mike and Mitch and Paul Engelstad.

Prowlers Shut out Warren Monday 9 to 0

Lanky righthander Mickey Hanson spun a fine four-hit shutout as coach Ralph Skay's Prowlers defeated coach Irv St. John's Warren Ponies 9-0 in a district conference baseball game played under the lights on the Warren diamond on Monday night.

This week's busy schedule will find the Prowlers meeting a strong Climax Vikings team at Climax on Friday afternoon, with game-time at 3:00 p.m. On Saturday afternoon, with game-time at 3:00 p.m., the Prowlers will meet the Crookston Pirates on Crookston's Highland Park diamond. Monday night, under the lights at the Fair Grounds, with game-time at 8:00 p.m., the Warren Ponies will play a return game against the Prowlers.

Except for the 7th inning, when the Prowlers bunched seven hits to score five runs, Warren's stocky righthander Gary Strunk pitched a creditable brand of ball for the Ponies. He whiffed eight Prowler batsmen, one less than the number of strikeout victims that Mickey Hanson collected for the locals.

In the seventh-inning uprising, the "power" blow of the rally was a triple to deep-center-field by Dean Bergland. Bergland, in the 5th inning, rapped out a double to left-center.

The Prowlers, in the 2nd inning, picked up three runs, all earned. Tony Wald struck out, but when the pitch bounced away from the catcher, the Prowler was enabled to reach first base. Wald stole second as Hanson whiffed; Arlan Hjelle drew a walk; Paul Saurdiff singled to left, scoring Wald. Gene Weckworth hit a looper into right-field, scoring Hjelle. Strunk made a bad throw to first base after fielding Jim Wegge's trickler, and Saurdiff sprinted home with the inning's third run.

The Prowlers added a run in the 5th inning, and then closed out the scoring with their five-run flurry in the 7th.

Only in the 2nd inning were the Ponies able to move a man around to third base. Brian Black walked, advanced to second on a wild pitch, and to third base on a passed ball, but Hanson struck out Yeado and Monroe, and Boatman bounced to first baseman Bergland.

8 Sports Leaders from Pennington at State Banquet

State Junior Chamber Shares in Sponsorship of Centennial Event

Sponsored by the Minnesota statehood centennial commission and the state Junior Chamber of Commerce, the centennial banquet to honor present and former outstanding sports figures attracted more than 1,500 persons from thruout the state Monday evening in the Leamington Hotel in Minneapolis.

In attendance at the banquet were eight of the Pennington county men who had been singled out for recognition by a local committee, each of the group being presented with a banquet ticket by the Thief River Falls Jaycees.

Those present from here included Bill LaFave, Roy J. Oen, Paul Bedard, Carl Wennberg, Dennis Rolle and Quentin Jones, all of Thief River Falls; Woodrow Almquist of St. Hilaire, and Albert Wilkins of Goodridge.

Guest speakers included Jack Dempsey, former world champion heavyweight boxer; Bud Wilkinson, coach of the University of Oklahoma football team; and Rev. Bob Richards, former Olympics champion pole vaulter, currently engaged in youth work.

Mercury Hits 71 Here Wednesday

Low Reading of 27 Was Recorded Here Monday

Spring weather returned to northwest Minnesota this week but the mercury dipped below the freezing mark Monday to remind area residents that Ol' Man Winter isn't too far in the background and that he could have one last fling before summer sets in.

Temperatures ranged from a high of 71 Wednesday to a low of 27 Monday. Other lows have been above freezing later during the week. No precipitation beyond a trace was recorded during the period since Monday.

The KTRF forecast: mostly fair today and tonight, cooler today with partly cloudy skies and little temperature change Friday.

Partly cloudy skies and mild temperatures are also prominent in the Saturday weather picture. Winds today will be northerly, 10-15 m.p.h. today, becoming southeasterly Friday.

Today's high temperatures will be in the 58-65 bracket and the low tonight from 35-40.

Postponement

That the Red Lake Falls team is having difficulty in organizing for the 1958 season must be a fact for this week manager Howie Johnston asked for, and received, a postponement of the Thieves vs. Lakers Northern Minny league game that was scheduled to have been played at Red Lake Falls on Sunday night. The result is that the Thieves will be idle on Sunday, while the other six teams in the league will be playing their schedule-openers.

The Lakers, apparently, will be relying on several players who are attending college, and that the club will not be up to Northern Minny league caliber until these players become available.

Judging from the early-season reports, the league will provide some of the finest baseball local fans have witnessed for a number of years. And it's doubtful if the league has ever had as solid a group of strong-armed catchers as will be on view this season. That was evident from the Erskine vs. Thieves exhibition game played here last Sunday.

Catching for the Thieves was Jack Junker, the former University of Denver all-conference player, now a coach at Newfolden. Junker, a product of the Stillwater Junior Legion baseball program, has an arm that is reminiscent of Herman Bauer. And Bauer, the older brother of the New York Yankee's Hank Bauer, was a major league prospect until he was killed in action in France in World War II.

And sharing the backstopping duties for the Erskine Merchants were Lyle Westrum, the former New York Yankee farm-hand, and Corky Johnson, the former Bemidji all-round athlete, and a highly-regarded University of Minnesota prospect.

It was a fact that the base-runners, after having a look at the throwing prowess of Jack and Lyle and Corky, didn't take any liberties on the base paths, or engage in conversation with the side-line fans.

Very Representative

There cannot be any valid arguments raised against the naming of anyone of the seventeen athletes that were named to Minnesota Sports Hall of Fame. The roster was announced at a banquet held in the Leamington hotel in Minneapolis on Monday night.

From the various categories of sports, the following were named: golf—Patty Berg and Harrison (Jimmy) Johnston; football—Bronko Nagurski, Bernie Bierman, Walter (Pudge) Heffelfinger, John McGovern, and Dr. Henry Williams; baseball—Albert (Chief) Bender; hockey—Frank (Moose) Goheen; basketball—George Mikan; curling—Robert Dunbar; boxing—Mike and Tommy Gibbons, and Mike O'Dowd; track and field—Fortune Gordien; auto-racing—Tommy Milton; and sculling—Walter Hoover.

Except for the fact that Bronko Nagurski gained a measure of fame as a wrestler, it's strange that the committee could not find a Minnesota wrestler to be named to this select group. In the early days, prior to advent of legalized boxing, wrestling was a major sport of the pioneers.

The Minneapolis Star and Tribune organization is to be complimented for sponsoring this promotion, and we hope that it will be a continuing process so that famed Minnesota athletes, as they develop, may gain admittance to this Hall of Fame.

A Big Project

That's quite an earth-moving project that is now under way on the golf course north of town. Two bulldozers are in operation remodeling the fairways of the fourth and fifth holes of the course, with the major work being done in the vicinity of the number four green.

This picturesque green, the fourth, is one of the finest golf holes in the northwest, but in later years it has developed into somewhat of a "sunken garden", and at times, due to heavy rainfall and a rise in the river, the hole has been unplayable. This will be remedied when the "fill" from the fifth fairway is in place around the lagoon.

And, too, a new tee-off for the fifth hole will be built. This tee will be just off the fourth green, and will make the fifth hole a par five. Which it should be.

Softball League to Meet Tonight

Softball league president Cliff Bjorkman announced that an important league meeting will be held in the city Auditorium tonight, Thursday, at 7:30. All team managers and team members are requested to be present at this meeting as final details for the 1958 season will be completed and a tentative schedule arranged.

Walt Kavanaughs at Fargo Meeting

Mr. and Mrs. Walt Kavanaugh of Kavanaugh Studio attended the North Dakota Photographers assn. convention at the Garver Hotel in Fargo on May 5 and 6. A portrait titled "Diane," a portrait of Diane Storhaug, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Storhaug, was accepted for hanging in the photographic exhibit in the lobby of the convention hotel.

Northern Minny Loop Opens Season Sunday

Three games, all afternoon tilts, will inaugurate the 1958 Northern Minnesota baseball league season on Sunday. The games slated for Sunday will find Erskine playing at Cass Lake, Winger at Fosston, and the league champion Bagley Merchants playing at Bemidji. The remaining scheduled league opener, that between the Thieves and Red Lake Falls, and which was to have been played at Red Lake Falls, has been postponed at the request of the Lakers.

Interest in the league openers will probably be centered on the Erskine vs. Cass Lake, and the Bagley vs. Bemidji games. Erskine, with a top-flight battery in righthander Corky Johnson and catcher Lyle Westrum, is rated as a league championship contender this season.

The Bagley vs. Bemidji contest will find a pair of traditional rivals in combat, and the league champion Merchants, with a veteran lineup, should be given a slight edge to defeat the Bemidji Chiefs, who are under the direction of Fred Cronkhite of International Falls this season.

The Thieves will play their league opener on Sunday, May 18th, with Cass Lake meeting the locals on the Fair Grounds diamond in an afternoon game.

Sportsmen's Club Plans Membership Campaign in Fall

Votes Unanimously to Change Time of Drive from Spring as Before

Several important measures were passed at the last meeting of the Pennington County Sportsmans club of the current year, held Tuesday evening in the Auditorium.

A motion to hold the club's annual membership drive in the fall in future years was passed unanimously, and the motion is also to be written into the club by-laws by the by-laws committee.

In the future the membership drives will be held after the first meeting which opens the fiscal year. This falls in September. Meetings are not scheduled in the three summer months. Thus, the club's annual meeting would be held in September, instead of February as has been the rule.

President Robert Larson also appointed a committee to look into the possibility of dredging a fishing pool below the city dam, and the committee was given authority to proceed with the project provided costs are not excessive and permission can be secured from proper authorities.

A request by the park board that the club furnish a picnic table for local parks was tabled for further study after considerable discussion of the matter. A proposal, to change monthly meeting nights was also referred to committee for study.

The meeting was opened with the showing of a film on propagation of brown trout by the state of Minnesota. Following adjournment, lunch was served.

The first Navy nurses to serve outside the U.S., reported to the Philippines in 1910, and shortly after to Guam, Honolulu, Yokohama, Samoa, Virgin Islands, and Cuba.

'Parade of Century' in St. Paul Saturday

The "Parade of the Century"—perhaps the largest procession the Upper Midwest has ever seen—will move along Snelling avenue in St. Paul Saturday and through the Minnesota State fairgrounds.

Expected to take nearly three hours to pass a given point, the parade will be 2.3 miles long and will have more than 7,000 persons in the line of march. It will start at 2 p.m.

The marchers will include 4,500 members of 72 musical groups, more than 1,000 military men, and the occupants of 73 floats.

Fifty-nine of Minnesota's 87 counties will be represented. Royalty and government officials from 23 foreign countries will ride near the front.

About 600 policemen will help along the parade route and 100 parade officials will work under the guidance of the parade's grand marshal, Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and a former Red Wing youth.

The 290 units in the parade will include floats, bands, drum and bugle corps, marching groups, clown organizations and riding clubs. All are scheduled so no similar units are together.

Ray P. Speer, parade director, estimated at least 300,000 persons would watch the procession, including 23,500 occupants of reserved seats in the fairgrounds grandstand.

Speer said flatly it will be the largest parade ever staged in the Upper Midwest.

It will begin at the intersection of Thomas and Snelling avenues, four blocks north of University avenue, and proceed north on Snelling to the fairgrounds.

A reviewing stand on the infield stage will hold distinguished guests.

The parade units will be nearly all Minnesota-grown except for the air force drum and bugle corps from Washington, an air force Bomarc guided missile from Dayton, Ohio, and the police bagpipe band from Winnipeg, Canada, escorted by royal Canadian mounted police.

Minnesota Heart Assn. Honors Wm. Watzke & Bennes

A Certificate of Appreciation from the Minnesota Heart Association has been received by William H. Watzke in recognition of distinguished service in the fight against heart diseases. Watzke served as Heart Fund drive chairman for Thief River Falls this year, being among 150 volunteer leaders honored recently by the Heart Association. Lloyd Bennes, who served as Pennington county chairman, was also cited.

Byron Allen Names Seed Potato Man

Dr. Donald M. Coe Will Handle Certification

Commissioner of Agriculture Byron G. Allen today announced the appointment of Doctor Donald M. Coe as supervisor of the seed potato certification section of the Minnesota department of agriculture. He succeeds A. G. Tolaas, a long time, nationally recognized figure in the industry who recently retired from state service.

The new supervisor comes from the Florida extension division, where he held the position of plant pathologist. Previous to his Florida work he was engaged in certified seed potato work with the United States Department of Agriculture, California Department of Agriculture and Iowa State College, Ames.

Dr. Coe received his doctorate at Washington State College after taking advanced work in plant pathology at the University of Wisconsin.

18.6 Million Trees Set out During 1958

With an unusually early start on the 1958 tree planting program, about half of the 18,600,000 trees were planted by Arbor Day, which this year was on May 2.

Digging, bundling and shipping from the three state-owned forest tree nurseries started about 10 days ahead of a normal year and trees for southern Minnesota planting on farms and other private lands was completed in April.

A total of 8,230,000 trees will be planted on public lands and 10,370,000 on private lands. Because the large bulk of private lands are in the southern half of the state, these are completed first, and public lands are planted after the demands for private projects are fulfilled.

About 125 tree planting machines, owned by county and state banker association, Soil Conservation Service, railroads and individuals, are available for hire to plant trees. The state division of forestry, Iron Range Rehabilitation and other public agencies owns and operates 30 to 35 machines for planting on state forest, park, school lands, highway rights-of-way and public sites.

About 16,000,000 trees were planted last year and as the nurseries are enlarged, more trees can be produced. Under the Soil Bank Program the production capacity of state nurseries has been increased.

Trees for planting on public lands are transferred without cost from the state nurseries to the various state agencies. Trees are sold for planting on private lands at the rate of $8 and $10 per thousand. This year almost $104,000 was collected by the division of forestry and remitted to the state treasurer for the general revenue fund.

Editorials . . .

"The moral man, while honoring the greatness and power of his moral nature, yet does not neglect inquiry and pursuit of knowledge. While broadening the scope of his knowledge, he yet seeks to exhaust the mystery of small things. Going over what he has already learned, he gains some new knowledge. Earnest and simple, he respects and obeys the laws and usages of social life. Therefore, when in a position of authority, he is not proud; in a subordinate position, he is not insubordinate. When there is moral social order in the country, what he speaks will bring prosperity to the nation; and when there is no moral social order in the country, his silence will ensure forbearance for himself."

—Confucius

Let's Have A New Look

We could be wrong—that is a remote possibility of course—but we do think it is fortunate that few of our people take the civil defense program seriously. As a result of the lack of interest in the present unrealistic approach to a really serious problem, a more realistic program may be developed.

The weakness of the present program may be attributed mainly to the fact that it is organized at the state level. Civil defense, if the need for it does occur, will be a regional problem, not limited by state or even national boundaries. Our guess is that our best defense in an emergency will be to remain calm, and to try our best to continue doing the things we normally do.

Citizens of the city of St. Paul were instructed recently how the city should be evacuated in an orderly way if an attack alarm sounded. Each citizen is now informed how to get out of town if there is a danger signal. If there is danger, persumably we are all supposed move hastily from one place to another.

It appears to us that the civil defense administration, in its efforts to save us, is actually creating a condition, and a state of mind, that will result in chaos and panic. The most important contribution that could be made in the interests of civil defense by the people of St. Paul, we think, would be to keep St. Paul functioning normally and performing the services that the state and the nation will need more than ever in an emergency.

Let's back up and start over again in our thinking about what we should do if they start tossing atom bombs at us.

Highway department officials say that more than $28 million will be paid to road construction workers in Minnesota this year. State, county and municipal projects totaling more than $160 million will be placed under contract during the construction season, plus a big carry-over of jobs let last year and not completed. Commissioner L. P. Zimmerman predicts that "the current construction season will be one of the largest in the history of the state". This is bad news for the prophets of doom who have enjoyed the gloomy prospects of recent months.

From 1935 to 1956 there was a decline of about 10 million people in the farm population, and that could be a discouraging figure. But we have survived that loss and when we consider that during those years farm production increased we get a more cheerful slant on what is happening down on the farm. If the present trend continues, and it probably will, the nation's cost of food and fibre is going to be shared by fewer farmers and each will get more. Our guess is that in another ten years the fellows who now are leaving the farm are going to be wishing they were back.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

"She heard that modern appliances would cut her work in half—so she bought two of each."

Two men were talking. The first man said, "These shoes are so tight, they're killing me." The second man said, "Well, if they're so tight, why don't you take them off?" "Listen," answered the first man, "when I get home tonight, supper won't be ready; and if it is, it won't be fit to eat. It isn't bad enough I gotta look at my mother-in-law, but I've got to listen to her, too. My daughter married a man I can't stand, and they've got four of the meanest kids that ever walked. The only pleasure I have when I get home is taking off these tight shoes."—Weekly Bulletin, Saranac Lake, New York.

They tell of one cute little extra who bubbled to her girl friend: "I know he's a cad, but so's his convertible."

—Kroolite News.

It Is Our Problem

During the boom years our railroads boomed right along with the rest of the economy. Now, with the decreased volume of business that has come with the return to more normal conditions, the railroads are up to their ears in normal troubles again. Various proposals for government assistance are being considered.

Probably the most effective assistance the government could give to railroad management would be greater freedom in dealing with the problems of management. Railroad management now has great responsibility but little authority. Loans or tax cuts or other forms of subsidies would provide temporary relief, but they would not correct what is basically wrong.

In seeking solutions for the problems of this important industry the shortcomings of management itself must not be overlooked. Not all of the troubles are due to government-imposed rules and regulations. And organized labor too must share in the responsibility for the industry's decline and its inability to hold its own in the steadily increasing competition with other forms of transportation.

One of the obstacles to a solution is the indifference of the public to the problems of the industry. Neither management nor labor has put forth much effort in building good will, and too often both management and labor have given the impression that they were little concerned about the public interest. As a result the industry is not now getting the sympathetic consideration it deserves as the most important segment of our transportation system.

Thief River Falls is a railroad town. We have a special interest in the problems of the industry that is the source of our largest payroll. We have a very selfish interest in the welfare and progress of both the industry as such and in the many employees who are such an important part of our community.

Looking at it as a community operation, a three-way partnership in which, as management, labor and the public, we all have a common interest, maybe this would be a good time for all of us to back away and get a little broader view of the entire problem. Too many of us are now too close to the trees to see the forest.

Sense in Trade

(New York Herald Tribune)

If the free world would mobilize its economic resources on the basis of enlightened, genuinely reciprocal trade, it could, at the same time build up areas of economic good health resistant to Communist infection, and reduce the dangerous temptations to trade with the Communist bloc under the pressure of sheer necessity.

The United States should lead such a movement, not as a crusade but as a measure of downright good sense.

Looking Backward

1898—SIXTY YEARS AGO

AGSCOGRAM

My Dear Friends,

For more milk and more beef, I say there is nothing like silage from Agsco Livestock Smorgasbord. It's really rich!

And, for picking, the Boss sure likes those new early Agsco Hybrids. He never worries about wet corn anymore. And, besides, he isn't taking the back seat on yield either. In fact, when he considers how dry his Agsco corn is, he's ahead on bushels too.

So, take my advice, plant Agsco corn this year. Bess

Swift, Sure Penalty Sought for Traffic Violators in State

More absolute minimum, uniform and severe penalties for traffic violations were urged by Governor Orville L. Freeman. "Swift, sure penalties that are uniform seem to be the only kind of language that a small minority of our drivers understand," the Governor told the annual Awards Dinner of the Minnesota Safety Council in St. Paul Thursday.

"Careful, honest, law-abiding drivers need have no fear of severe penalties," the governor said, "but a revision of our penalties may be necessary as another tool to implement a well rounded accident prevention program for Minnesota."

The governor singled out a number of recommendations made by the Safety Council which should have immediate action, and promised that he would support them vigorously. These included:

*Adoption of an implied consent chemical test for intoxication.

*Periodic motor vehicle inspections to remove unsafe vehicles from the road.

*Increased arrest powers for officers after investigations and reasonable cause.

*State licensing of private driver training schools.

*More absolute minimum, uniform and severe penalties.

In addition the governor reviewed 1957 legislative action on the increase in the Minnesota Highway Patrol. He pointed out that 75 additional officers were authorized at that time; which was much below the number recommended in an annual inventory analysis done by the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

"Following the report of a subsequent inventory of the state's needs, the governor said, "I am recommending that an additional 128 officers be authorized for the patrol thus bringing the total number up to the minimum recommended national standards."

Governor Freeman reminded his audience that the Minnesota Safety Council's recommendations which he was supporting required legislative action. He urged everyone to begin working in their home areas to develop and rally support among prospective legislators behind the program.

Offer Assistance to Small Business

Minneapolis Agency Puts out Explanatory Leaflet

Free management assistance services can be obtained by the small marketer from large companies according to a new leaflet announced today by the Small Business Administration office in Minneapolis.

The leaflet, "How Big Companies Help Small Marketers," is No. 31 in the Small Business Administration's series of marketers aids. R. C. Alm, Regional director of the agency for this area, said:

"Many big companies in the manufacturing construction, transportation, communication, utilities and financial fields sell to, or through, over 3 million U.S. small business wholesalers, retailers and service enterprises. Large businesses try to increase the volume and efficiency with which their goods moves to the customer. This requires various kinds of investigation ranging from reading salesmens' letters to psychological studies of customer motivations. However many small marketers are unaware of the extent of the work their suppliers do in this field—they see only results."

The leaflet says that the small business owner must develop his capital, his organization and his methods, while he is developing volume, in order to stay competitive today. "To meet this need," the Aid says, "large business has begun to offer accounting aid, guidance in supervision, and advice on credit and collections."

More than 150 services of assistance available to small firms from big companies are listed in the leaflet. These include consumer, planning, record-keeping, financial, recruiting, training managers, operating educational, promotional, and advisory services.

Field Day at Lake Bronson Park Set

H. S. Students Will Hear Conservationists May 14

Additional conservation field days, sponsored by the Minnesota department of conservation were announced today by Nat Johnson, department education advisor. Lake Bronson state park, in Kittson county, May 14 and Buffalo River state park, in Clay county, May 15 will share the conservation spotlight when resource demonstrations and lectures for the benefit of local high school students will be presented by conservation authorities.

At Lake Bronson state park, May 14, high school students from Lake Bronson, Greenbush, Strandquist, Newfolden and Middle River will be in attendance. Lecturers will be: Roger Harris, soil extension service, University of Minnesota, Herbert H. Dill, U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service; and Conrad Larson, Bob Farmes, Merlyn Wesloh and Paul Hilde of the department of conservation.

Johnson said the lectures and demonstrations will cover such topics as soil and water, forestry, game, fish, waterfowl and conservation law enforcement. Conservation Field Days are open to anyone wishing to attend.

Rep. McCarthy to Speak at Perham

Senatorial candidate, Eugene McCarthy, Congressman 4th District, will appear Monday, May 12, 8:30 P.M. at the city hall in Perham, his only appearance in the 9th district prior to the state Democratic-Farmer-Labor Convention, it was announced by Elmer Busch, chairman of the Ottertail county DFL.

"All delegates to the state convention are invited," "Spot" Reierson, Fosston, Minnesota a McCarthy supporter on the state committee stated.

Conservation Essay Winners Announced

Colleen Anderson, 17, Mechanic Arts high school junior, St. Paul was named top winner today in the 15th annual conservation essay contest, Mrs. Ole Aune, Underwood, Minnesota, conservation chairman of the Minnesota Federation of Woman's Clubs, sponsors of the competition, announced today.

Released also were the names of the 30 district winners, a boy and a girl from each of the Federation's ten districts. District nine winners are Robert Charron, Crookston, high school senior and Ellen Reed, Moorhead sophomore.

The state winner and district winners will receive an all expense paid vacation in June at Douglas Lodge Itasca state park as their reward. The panel of judges, selecting the state winner, were Alfred Nelson, editor, Conservation Volunteer, Jim Lee, assistant director of game and fish, and H. Nat Johnson, education advisor, department of conservation.

Theme of the essay contest open to all Minnesota high school students was "Conservation and You". More than 9,000 papers in 180 high schools were entered in the competition Mrs. Aune said. The contest started Nov. 20, 1957 and closed April 4, 1958.

State Residents Generous In CARE Gifts Since 1946

Minnesotans Have Given Almost $2,000,000 to the Program in Twelve Years

Residents of Minnesota contributed $1,932,784.00 to the support of various Care programs throughout the world in the past twelve years.

Figures made public by the non-profit overseas aid agency in connection with the twelfth anniversary of the first Care delivery in LeHavre, France, on May 11, 1946, show that contributions from all parts of the country amounted to $135,158,742.00 over the twelve years.

During the same period Care distributions in more than fifty overseas countries totalled 22 million food, textile and self-help tool packages at a total value of $275,000,000. This included more than 260,000 tons of powdered milk, butter, cheese, flour and other U. S. surplus farm foods, valued at $140,000,000, and made available to Care by the Government without charge for distribution in especially needy regions of the world.

For the year 1957 only, totals for Minnesota came to $101,657, which ranked the state 17th in the nation.

The Midwest Regional Office for Care, at 125 E. Wells St., Milwaukee, Wisconsin, said that the average contribution was $1.45 and the most numerous were for the $1 surplus food units. Clubs, organizations, school rooms, church groups, youth organizations and business firms as well as individuals shared in the totals.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

"The Best Corn We Ever Had"
say Farmers in Northern Minnesota and 85-90 day zone in North Dakota and FUNK'S G-188

The big swing over to this great hybrid gets bigger every year! After farmers try this hybrid once, they stick to it and they tell their friends. You can see why Funk's G-188 is a top favorite in this area when you watch it go through a corn growing season. Here's what G-188 does: Starts fast in the spring—and keeps right on going, fast. Dries down fast in the fall, with long, girthy deep-kerneled ears, carried close to the stalk. Husks open up and ears dry out fast. Slightly white-capped kernels (resulting from a fast-drying inbred line) shell out golden yellow. G-188 husks out easily, and handles well in mechanical pickers. This hybrid is widely adapted to soils and climate; has done exceptionally well in the 90 to 95 day zone and has matured satisfactorily in the 85 day zone.

WILDLIFE in Minnesota
by JIM KIMBALL

Fish hatcheries and fish stocking started eighty-two years ago in Minnesota, in 1878 to be exact. For many years after that, sportsmen and fish managers thought stocking was absolutely essential. They hthg uc zeotgnWT tial. They thought of it much as veet, you must sow."

Then about 25 years ago some observant managers, as well as some researchers, began to question the value of artificial propagation and stocking of fish. Studies were conducted which proved that, compared to natural reproduction, the stocking didn't amount to peanuts.

For a period of 15 years, more proof was gathered, and many of the best fish men in the country contended that, except for trout, all fish hatcheries should be abandoned.

Now, after another ten years fish hatcheries are operating at full tilt in most states. In fact, right now in Minnesota we have the almost unbelievable sum of 350 million walleye eggs bubbling and hatching in our eleven fish hatcheries.

Is this wasteful and wrong, or were the researchers of 20 years ago mistaken? Strangely enough, neither is the case.

The researchers learned the truth, but not quite the whole truth. However, what they learned, combined with what has been discovered since, has made fish stocking a practical and productive, as well as a scientific business.

The early studies of stocking were made in large lakes with a history of good natural reproduction, and the fact remains that dumping a few million hatchery fish in with the many millions produced naturally is poor business. However, the many lakes in the southern third of Minnesota which produce relatively good fishing for thousands of people would have few, if any walleyes, and in many cases, few game fish at all were it not for the hatcheries and other management techniques.

During the winter of 1955-56 over 350 lakes in southern and western Minnesota winter killed, leaving them with little or no fish life in the spring. Over 100 of these were immediately stocked with walleyes and there has been almost no winter mortality during the past two mild winters. For this reason, we are "predicting" — not promising, but "predicting" — good walleye fishing this year in southern and western Minnesota. They won't be "whoppers" yet, but good pan size. And you should catch all you can (within the law, of course) because no one knows when the next winter kill may strike again in these shallow lakes. While you're catching them, remember to give a kind thought to the fish hatcheries, and the hard-working Bureau of Fisheries men who operate them. You will know these fish came from the hatchery because there is little or no natural reproduction of walleyes in our southern lakes.

Of course, fish are stocked in all parts of Minnesota, but thru careful observation and research, we have learned not to waste them in lakes which have good natural reproduction. Each spring many lakes are tested for natural reproduction by seining the shoreline.

In 1953, 62,300 walleye fingerlings were planted in Moose Lake, Itasca county, at a time when natural reproduction was known to be good. All of these fish had one fin clipped so they could be recognized later when caught. The fish taken from this lake were checked for the next three years. Not a single stocked fish was taken by an angler, proving that stocking a lake at a time when it has good natural production is of no value.

We have learned that the fish hatchery, like other management measures, is a valuable tool, but not a cure-all. Good fishing is dependent upon good natural reproduction in preceding years. Conditions do not allow good reproduction each and every year — hence, fishing will have its ups and downs. Enjoy the good years, but learn to expect some poor ones too.

SENATOR THYE Reports TO YOU

from the UNITED STATES SENATE

A New Landmark

A new chapter in Minnesota's development may have been written within the past few days. The Senate has just passed funds for a new minerals research laboratory under the administration of the Bureau of Mines. Shortly before this, the Senate Appropriations Committee, of which I am a member, approved the appropriation. Facts and figures were brought before the full Committee which demonstrated that Minnesota has vast deposits of low-grade ore in the form of taconite and that further research is needed. We have other important raw minerals in the northern region. Senate action now opens the door in the search for ways to develop strategic materials. It will prove invaluable for exploiting our vast mineral potential.

Additional Funds Voted

The Senate also allowed $200,000 for the construction of an office and laboratory at the Lake States Experiment Station at Grand Rapids, Minnesota. An additional $60,000 was granted for forestry research there. My recommendations concerning $300,000 for purchase of lands within the Superior National Forest were also accepted.

A Salute to the REA

No one can better appreciate the value of the rural electrification program than the person who has actually experienced the hazards and discomforts of farm life without electricity. Many of us have had that experience. It was not so long ago when the chores had to be done by the light of a kerosene lantern. There are few farms in Minnesota still in that area. Our State has been among the most progressive in this respect. Now the Rural Electrification Administration has passed the 5,000,000 mark as to the total number of consumers. The REA, to date, approved a total of $3.6 billion in loans to more than 1,080 borrowers. REA—which I have long supported — operates electrical facilities in 2600 counties in 45 states. A salute and warmest good wishes to one of the finest and most progressive of our government agencies.

Funds For Development

Late information from the Senate also indicates that they passed other requested funds which should make Minnesota a better place in which to live: $3500 for grading and planting at Pipestone National Monument, $140,000 through the Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wildlife for the Upper Mississippi wildlife refuge and $30,000 for the Red Lake Agency water system.

Long-Term Credit

Additional long-term credit and equity capital for private business has been proposed in the Thye Small Business Capital Act of 1958. The aims of this bill are to foster the growth, independence and the stability of small business in this country and to provide additional sources of equity capital for such concerns. The Small Business Capital Act will help correct a very difficult situation which is facing the small businessman today—the lack of ready access business.

CROSSROADS FOR BONNIE

By Ethel Ellertson

IN the midst of stifling heat, the Mexican Bus slowly wound its way along the serpentine Pan-American Highway. With a great staggering and a final 'pouf,' it breathed its last in front of a 'restaurante' at the Crossroads.

Out poured its occupants, glad to be released from the furnace-like interior. Like bees, they swarmed and buzzed . . . some going directly for cold 'cerveza', while other sought rest rooms.

Among the passengers came Bonnie Martin, her Mother and Father.

"Why are they letting us off here?" asked Bonnie.

Dad anxious to be on his way to New York said abruptly: "I'll find out." He headed in the direction of the dapper mechanics who suddenly popped out from the nearby building.

Bonnie and her Mother watched Mr. Martin as he talked to the mechanics . . . all using their hands most of the time.

When he came back, he told them: "Make yourself comfortable, while they're repairing the engine. They don't answer when I ask 'How long?'"

Bonnie and her Mother settled themselves on the flat stone wall under the catalpa trees. They were entertained by buzzing flies, the low hum of the Inn-Keeper's voice calling out orders, the bus drivers arguing about assignments.

Can it be possible, reminisced Mrs. Martin, that only a few weeks ago we had wanted so much to get away from noisy New York . . . away to a restful vacation in Mexico?

Mr. Martin interrupted the daydream. He sauntered up to his wife, saying, "Better keep t'a camera with you. These mechanics are likely to take the bus away anywhere."

A fountain nearby was small comfort in this heat, as it trickled only drop by drop. A burro, clacking on the cobble stones, awakened Bonnie.

Watching the animal with an amused expression, she said, "That on its back?" to which her father answered, "Yes, sugarcane!"

Then they noticed a small, undernourished girl passing by, carrying her baby sister in a shawl slung from one shoulder to the opposite one.

As Mr. Martin saw the bus being hauled away, he exclaimed, "Will I make that New York appointment on time?"

A partially blind boy shuffling past turned the family's attention to him. Bonnie ran to him, and laid a coin in his hand. A slight feeling of guilt came over her Daddy. He realized he'd been crabbing about things going wrong . . . when nothing was the real matter that a cool shower couldn't fix.

Suddenly, everyone came from everywhere! A huge Pan-American bus came thundering along. It stopped short.

Urchins running out to meet it, called, "Dulces!" and held out sticky sweets to the passengers. When the bus driver said "Scram!" the children scattered in all directions.

The Martins settled down once again to waiting. There was the same buzzing of flies, the hum of the Inn-Keeper's voice.

"Hurrah, hurrah!" broke the silence. "Here comes the bus!" Passengers darted out of the rest rooms.

"Another day," said Mr. Martin hopefully, "and we'll make Laredo. Swell!" and he settled down on the narrow seat. "Then," he continued, "straight as an arrow we'll go . . . to good old New York . . . to our own CROSSROADS.

Bonnie offered no revealing desire to either stay or go on. She seemed curiously akin to all peoples of all CROSSROADS . . . everywhere.

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture.

A new cooperative in Cook county has been formed to boost the maple sugar business, reports Gerald Eisler, Cook county agent. The co-op, formed by members of the Chippewa tribal council and other residents of the Grand Portage Indian Reservation, with assistance from the Iron Range Resources Commission and State Department of Agriculture, will seek answers to these questions: First, is a large scale maple industry practical in northeastern Minnesota? Second, can top grade Minnesota syrup compete successfully? And third, is it practical for the state to sponsor additional maple operations?

A stock water pit answered the "good land but no water" problem for Ray Schnell, Mahnomen. He constructed the pit in 1957. It now provides fresh water for livestock as well as giving him better use of the land. Bob Kloubec, U. S. Soil Conservation Service technician, helped plan and engineer the pit's construction. Schnell cooperates with the Mahnomen soil conservation district.

Marshall County's new soil conservation district is going "full speed ahead," according to John Polley, SCS conservationist and Fred Heck, Marshall county extension soils agent. Latest count shows nearly 100 cooperators in the district. These farmers have signed up more than 40,000 acres.

Some 150,000 trees are being planted by Kanabec county farmers this year, reports Fred Wahlstrom, SCS aid at Mora. Main species among the trees are Norway pine and white spruce. Most of the trees will be on land that has been cropped, but which is actually best suited to trees. Farmers will use soil survey to guide them in selecting suitable areas and the best tree species.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans' benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA Contact Representative at the Grand Forks VA office.

Q—I'm a World War Two veteran and I understand that a new law now gives me until July 25, 1960, to get a GI loan. Has the deadline also been extended for direct VA loans?

A—Yes. The direct loan program, which was to have ended June 30, 1958, also was extended to July 25, 1960.

Q—I lost the discharge I received when I came out of service. Where do I get another and is there any charge for the replacement?

A—To replace a lost discharge, write to the Personnel Records Center of the Armed Forces, 9700 Page Boulevard, St. Louis, Missouri. Give your service number and include your branch of service. There is no charge for replacement.

Q—I'm a Korea veteran, figuring on starting school this fall under the GI Bill. Is it too early to apply now?

A—It is not too early to apply. Many schools are crowded, so early application gives you a better chance of gaining admittance to the school of your choice.

Q—I'm a veteran with a service-connected disability rated 50 percent, and with two dependents, my wife and our three-months old son. However, I have only recently notified VA of my new dependent. Will the additional compensation to which I am entitled be made retroactive to the child's birth?

A—No. The increase will be effective only from the date VA receives your application.

NOTICE

In research work I was conducting at my old school house I found an old register which listed me as 4 years old. I attended 5 days that first year, then graduated from 8th grade at 16, skipped high school and entered college where I was 47 years ahead of my time.

I took military drill, bookkeeping and basket ball. I was first string substitute on the team and in a game with Minnesota U. I was rushed in to save the game, but under terrific pressure and excitement I heaved the ball in the wrong basket and was promptly lost to the team.

They accused me of selling the team down the river, accepting bribes and what not.

Thot it right to state my educational background.

I wish to clear up a statement I made about our coaches at the High School.

I know that nearly all of them have teaching assignments along with their work as coaches, and if I implied that just a few of them are teachers I wish to correct that.

Place of Retarded Child in Community Is Topic at Parley

3 Local People Attend Conference Last Week on University Campus

Group meetings of parents who have retarded children tend to make each parent less tense and to feel more comfortable with psychologists, social workers, and teachers, said Dr. Harriet E. Blodgett, program director, The Sheltering Arms Day School, Minneapolis, at meetings Friday and Saturday in Minneapolis.

"Parents need to understand their child's limitations to plan for his future . . . at home, in school, on a job, or in society," she said. They also need to know what community resources are available to them."

Dr. Blodgett spoke at the concluding session of the 1958 annual conference of The Woods Schools, Langhorne, Pa. held in cooperation with the University of Minnesota at Mayo Memorial auditorium on the university campus.

The speaker pointed out that, while general principles of counseling apply to all, differences in parents and in their children make each case an individual one.

Those attending from the Northwest Association for Retarded Children were Mrs. Wilhelm Hempel of Hallock and Mrs. Ted Booth and Mrs. Stan Cockrell of Thief River Falls.

Let Wildlife Alone, Public Is Warned

Chief Game Warden Says Not to Disturb Young

Killing with kindness is a phrase which seems out of keeping in our troubled world today, yet this spring and summer the Minnesota game and fish division will receive many reports of wildlife being "killed with kindness".

To the residents and visitors to Minnesota during this great centennial year comes a plea and a warning from Francis W. Johnson, chief game warden, "to leave young wildlife alone".

"Many folks will soon be enjoying our great outdoors", said Johnson, "and it is not uncommon for them to find the young of various wild animals and birds. Very often the person finding a young deer, for example, thinks it has been abandoned by its mother and decides to rescue it. This well-meaning individual is not helping the fawn at all. Usually the mother is nearby and anxiously watching the youngster."

"Please leave young animals and birds alone," pleads warden Johnson.

Since Minnesota game laws do not provide for the capturing and retaining of game animals and birds by individuals, this practice is illegal. Persons who take such animals from the wild are subject to prosecution.

MAJESTIC MINNESOTA

A Centennial Supplement to the Minnesota Newspapers Named Below, Week of May 5, 1958

Busy Beginnings, Proud Progress Recorded in MHS Newspaper Files

By Robert C. Wheeler
Assistant Director
Minnesota Historical Society

Minnesota Centennial year affords occasion to proudly honor the pioneers and founding fathers of our state—none more zealous, adventurous, and influential than the frontier newspapermen.

The newspapermen all along the westward moving frontier used the pages of their newspapers to call for improvements, to warn of dangers, and to satisfy the hunger for news, reading material, and diversion from the daily hardships. And here in Minnesota was Goodhue, who at mid-nineteenth century, could look from his newspaper establishment in St. Paul across the Mississippi into a camp of the Sioux. This and other pioneer papers were part of the vanguard of expansion, and were as much an instrument in conquering the wilderness as the axe, the rifle, and the plow.

Gopher journalism was born in an exciting period, almost a full decade before statehood. Minnesota Territory was organized by Congress March 3, 1849, yet not until the 9th of April, when the first boat of the season steamed up to St. Paul, did the people get the long-awaited news. Scarcely had the ice cleared from the river when Minnesota's first newspaperman arrived to set up his press. James Goodhue stepped to the St. Paul landing on April 18. Ten days later he issued the first number of the first Minnesota newspaper, the Minnesota Pioneer. He had planned to call his paper The Epistle of St. Paul, but objections from St. Anthony must have overruled!

What was it like here when the founder of the Minnesota fourth estate unpacked his type? What did he see as he stepped over piles of cargo and jostled his way through Indians, trappers, and ox cart drivers on his way up from the river? Before him, along a white bluff overlooking the Mississippi, was the village of St. Paul — some thirty frame shanties and log cabins. Dirt trails criss-crossed back and forth, with no rhyme, but plenty of reason.

Voice of Confidence

But the scene changed, and fast. With each steamer there came scores of immigrants from "the states." In the words of Goodhue, "A description of the village now would not answer for a month hence — such is the rapidity of building." Goodhue paints the scene at St. Paul as one of "admirable confusion — with piles of lumber and building materials scattered everywhere."

On May 28th, 1849, he reports more than seventy buildings erected during the past three weeks. He wrote that "the town is so changed and has so multiplied its

Ten Centuries of "Daily Doings"

Of the ten Minnesota Newspapers pictured above, now a century old or more, four are Dailies; six are Hometown Weekly Newspapers included in the list below, which will carry this Centennial Supplement into 600,000 Minnesota homes, reaching more than 2,000,000 readers. These 366 Newspapers have been serving their respective communities from only 1 to 103 years, averaging well over 60 years. Six are more than 100, 80 are more than 75, 285 are more than 50 years old. Eighty-one of them were born within the last half century, only 30 within the last quarter century. Most prolific single journalistic year seems to have been 1900, when 17 of our present-day Newspapers were born; 1901 saw 15 launched, while 1890 and 1897 each brought forth 13; biggest year more than 75 years ago was 1882, when 11 of our weekly Newspapers first appeared; '83 and '87 each produced another 11. After a high of around 700 newspapers about the turn of the century, our field has pretty well leveled off at 425 newspapers, much larger and more widely circulated than their forebears.

Reserve Bank Sees No Depression in Area

Business conditions in the Northwest cannot be called depressed, the Minneapolis Federal Reserve Bank said Thursday in its monthly survey.

It acknowledged that the area's economy is "not as buoyant" in some aspects as it has been and that the normal season upswing in nonfarm employment is less than in recent years.

But on the plus side it listed:

A continued climb in bank debits.

An increase of overall department sales above levels of a year ago.

Higher agricultural prices.

An early start of the crop season in most farming areas.

The lag in seasonal employment increases was laid to cutbacks in mining and a slowdown in construction work. The survey noted, however, that March nonfarm employment in the area—including Minnesota, the Dakotas, Montana and western Wisconsin—was only 22,000 below March of 1957.

Bank economists repeated their belief that the business slump has had less effect on the Northwest than the rest of the country. It said the percentage increase in insured unemployment during the last year was twice as large nationally as for the Ninth district.

Looking ahead to the 1958 crop season, described by the survey as a significant factor in the area's economy at the present time, the bank found moisture conditions to be good except in some northern sections of North Dakota and some parts of eastern Montana.

Males Age 15 to 24 Prone to Mishaps

Die in Accidents Five Times as Fast as Women

More males than females are born each year in the United States.

Just why, then, are there more women than men later on in life? Why the female superiority—numerically, that is—when it comes time to find a husband?

"One reason," the National Safety Council says, "is because males 15-24 years of age—the age when they're either thinking of getting married someday or counting the days till the big event—are being killed in accidents almost five times as fast as females."

The Council isn't necessarily trying to promote matches between the sexes. It is concerned, though, with keeping people alive.

A recent estimate put the U. S. population at about 81,858,000 males and 86,371,000 females—about one and a half million more gals than guys.

"Men have always died at a faster rate than women, perhaps largely because of the more hazardous tasks they undertake and their chance-taking nature," the Council said.

"But men, especially those in the 1-24 age group, are dying far, far too rapidly."

Statistics for a recent year turned up these facts on the 15-24 age group:

More than eight out of 10 persons killed in motor vehicle mishaps are males.

The young people are seven times as likely to die in an accident as from cancer, the No. 2 cause of death to persons in the category.

Another reason suggested by the Council: They have been more careful working and playing than men, and technological and social changes have made women's work easier and safer.

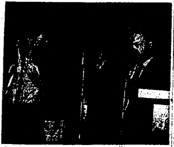
"Regardless of what stage of life you're at—the marriageable stage, the married stage or the aging stage—it's smart to keep your men alive," the Council said.

"Don't let your boyfriend or hubby overdo things, whether it's a minor repair job around the house or a long vacation drive.

"Make sure he keeps a light foot on the accelerator, and that he's not distracted into a collision by annoyances in the car or angered into an accident by a family spat.

"Keep the men alive, gals—because the supply isn't keeping up with the demand."

Girl Judge Sworn Into Office



Careful boys — just because the judge is a girl, and a very personable one at that, don't expect to get off too easy. Shown here is Janet Torgerson, municipal judge for a day, as she is sworn in by Stanley N. Mortenson, special municipal judge, at the Elks youth party held Friday evening. Janet sat in municipal court today alongside Judge H .O. Chommie, as he tried real-life cases in municipal court.

SGT. ROBERT BURSTAD STATIONED IN GERMANY

Army Sgt. Robert Burstad, whose wife, Lois, lives on Route 4, Goodridge, recently made a tactical training parachute jump near Augsburg, Germany, with the 11th Airborne Division's 502d Infantry. Burstad, a section chief in the infantry's Heavy Mortar Battery, entered the Army in May 1953 and arrived in Germany in January 1956.

LeRoy Man Named Winner of Spring Butter Contest

Adolph Sanderson Makes Perfect Score of 100 in State-Wide Contest

With a perfect score of 100, Adolph C. Sanderson, LeRoy, Minn., today was named winner of the state-wide spring butter contest, one of four highly-competitive events conducted annually in Minnesota to determine the state's champion buttermaker.

Manager of the LeRoy Cooperative Creamery Association for the past 13 years, Sanderson's perfect score is remarkable because of the exacting tests and rigid standards set by Minnesota, the leading butter state in the nation.

Second-place with a score of 99.99, was Darrell W. Hesse, Blooming Prairie, with third place going to E. L. Johnson, Ashby, with 99.67. The out-state winner was Helge Quist, Kansasville, Wisconsin, with 99.50.

The champion buttermaker of Minnesota is determined by averaging individual scores in four state-wide contest sponsored by the Minnesota department of agriculture, the Minnesota state fair, the Minnesota Dairy Industry committee and the Minnesota Creamery Operators' and Managers' association. The Minnesota participant who has the highest average after having entered all four of the contests is accorded the title.

Sanderson has taken the lead in this race by posting the highest score in the first contest, but he must now enter the three remaining contests, to be held between now and October 1, and maintain his lead, if he is to win. Quist is not eligible to become Minnesota State champion buttermaker because he lives outside the state.

Bloomington Boy Wins Elks Award

Marc Kolden of Bemidji Wins $500 Scholarship

Bruce Leroy Miller, a Bloomington high school student, Thursday won a $1,000 Minnesota Elks lodge scholarship to train as a teacher.

Miller received his award at an Elks dinner honoring student participants in the Elks scholarship program.

Minnesota State Elks association also presented $900 in scholarships to four other students. Marc Kolden, Bemidji, received $500. Marjorie Edelman, Minneapolis, won $200.

Awards of $100 each went to Kenneth Faacks, New Brighton, and Lee King, St. Paul.

Karen Louise Fischer, Dodge Center, Minn., a University of Minnesota junior, won a $200 scholarship from the association in an award for students already in college.

Why is it that the truth is so painful sometimes?

The hundred-odd companies owning and operating an estimated 198,100 miles of crude oil and products pipe lines transport over one-sixth of the nation's freight-ton miles.

Outside of the military, the use of helicopters for offshore oil and gas development comprises the biggest whirlybird operation in the world.

Eleanor Harstad and Andrew Olson Wed Recently

Miss Eleanor Carol Harstad, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Harstad of Fertile and Andrew M. Olson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Olson also of Fertile, were united in marriage, Sunday, March 30 at the Faaberg Lutheran church. Rev. H. M. Engh performed the ceremony before an altar graced with palms and lighted candelabra.

Miss Dorothy Engh presided at the organ for the traditional nuptial music and also accompanied Allen Harstad, brother of the bride, who sang "O Perfect Love" and "Crown With Thy Benediction."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a ballerina length gown of white lace. A pearl cornet held her fingertip veil and she carried a bouquet of Easter lilies.

Miss Elaine Harstad, sister of the bride, was maid of honor while Miss Sylvia Harstad, also a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. They wore identical street length dresses of lavender fashioned with purple cummerbunds. They carried cascade bouquets of lavender mums.

Floyd Olson was his brother's bestman and groomsmen was William Harstad, Jr., brother of the bride. Harold Olson, brother of the groom, and Lloyd Olson, cousin of the groom, served as ushers.

Immediately folowing the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors with Mrs. Martin Pederson, aunt of the bride, acting as hostess. There were approximately 80 guests in attendance.

The four tiered wedding cake decorated with lavender ribbons was baked and decorated by Mrs. Cliff Messelt. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Kenie Olson, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Clarence Maltrud, godmother of the bride. Miss Olga Harstad, aunt of the bride, poured. Assisting with the serving were Miss Anette Pederson, Miss Glenda Messelt, Mrs. Arnold Turnbom and Mrs. Marvin Olstedal.

The bride is a graduate of Fertile high school and of Concordia College in Moorhead and is presently teaching music in the Newfolden public school. The groom is also a graduate of Fertile high school and is engaged in farming. Mr. and Mrs. Olson are making their home on a farm near Fertile.

Reserve Bank Sees No Depression in Area

Business conditions in the Northwest cannot be called depressed, the Minneapolis Federal Reserve Bank said Thursday in its monthly survey.

It acknowledged that the area's economy is "not as buoyant" in some aspects as it has been and that the normal season upswing in nonfarm employment is less than in recent years.

But on the plus side it listed:

A continued climb in bank debits.

An increase of overall department sales above levels of a year ago.

Higher agricultural prices.

An early start of the crop season in most farming areas.

The lag in seasonal employment increases was laid to cutbacks in mining and a slowdown in construction work. The survey noted, however, that March nonfarm employment in the area—including Minnesota, the Dakotas, Montana and western Wisconsin—was only 22,000 below March of 1957.

Bank economists repeated their belief that the business slump has had less effect on the Northwest than the rest of the country. It said the percentage increase in insured unemployment during the last year was twice as large nationally as for the Ninth district.

Looking ahead to the 1958 crop season, described by the survey as a significant factor in the area's economy at the present time, the bank found moisture conditions to be good except in some northern sections of North Dakota and some parts of eastern Montana.

Males Age 15 to 24 Prone to Mishaps

Die in Accidents Five Times as Fast as Women

More males than females are born each year in the United States.

Just why, then, are there more women than men later on in life? Why the female superiority—numerically, that is—when it comes time to find a husband?

"One reason," the National Safety Council says, "is because males 15-24 years of age—the age when they're either thinking of getting married someday or counting the days till the big event—are being killed in accidents almost five times as fast as females."

The Council isn't necessarily trying to promote matches between the sexes. It is concerned, though, with keeping people alive.

A recent estimate put the U. S. population at about 81,858,000 males and 80,371,000 females—about one and a half million more gals than guys.

"Men have always died at a faster rate than women, perhaps largely because of the more hazardous tasks they undertake and their chance-taking nature," the Council said.

"But men, especially those in the 1-24 age group, are dying far, far too rapidly."

Statistics for a recent year turned up these facts on the 15-24 age group:

More than eight out of 10 persons killed in motor vehicle mishaps are males.

The young people are seven times as likely to die in an accident as from cancer, the No. 2 cause of death to persons in the category.

Another reason suggested by the Council: They have been more careful working and playing than men, and technological and social changes have made women's work easier and safer.

"Regardless of what stage of life you're at—the marriageable stage, the married stage or the aging stage—it's smart to keep your men alive," the Council said.

"Don't let your boyfriend or hubby overdo things, whether it's a minor repair job around the house or a long vacation drive.

"Make sure he keeps a light foot on the accelerator, and that he's not distracted into a collision by annoyances in the car or angered into an accident by a family spat.

"Keep the men alive, gals—because the supply isn't keeping up with the demand."

Girl Judge Sworn Into Office

Careful boys — just because the judge is a girl, and a very personable one at that, don't expect to get off too easy. Shown here is Janet Torgerson, municipal judge for a day, as she is sworn in by Stanley N. Mortenson, special municipal judge, at the Elks youth party held Friday evening. Janet sat in municipal court today alongside Judge H. O. Chommie, as he tried real-life cases in municipal court.

SGT. ROBERT BURSTAD STATIONED IN GERMANY

Army Sgt. Robert Burstad, whose wife, Lola, lives on Route 4, Goodridge, recently made a tactical training parachute jump near Augsburg, Germany, with the 11th Airborne Division's 502d Infantry. Burstad, a section chief in the Infantry's Heavy Mortar Battery, entered the Army in May 1953 and arrived in Germany in January 1956.

Petroleum chemicals, the wonder children of the oil industry, will need $850 million to "grow" on this year. This amount represents the money needed for petro chemical expansion.

LeRoy Man Named Winner of Spring Butter Contest

Adolph Sanderson Makes Perfect Score of 100 in State-Wide Contest

With a perfect score of 100, Adolph C. Sanderson, LeRoy, Minn., today was named winner of the state-wide spring butter contest, one of four highly-competitive events conducted annually in Minnesota to determine the state's champion buttermaker.

Manager of the LeRoy Cooperative Creamery Association for the past 13 years, Sanderson's perfect score is remarkable because of the exacting tests and rigid standards set by Minnesota, the leading butter state in the nation.

Second-place with a score of 99.99, was Darrell W. Hesse, Blooming Prairie, with third place going to E. L. Johnson, Ashby, with 99.67. The out-state winner was Helge Quist, Kansasville, Wisconsin, with 99.50.

The champion buttermaker of Minnesota is determined by averaging individual scores in four state-wide contest sponsored by the Minnesota department of agriculture, the Minnesota state fair, the Minnesota Dairy Industry committee and the Minnesota Creamery Operators' and Managers' association. The Minnesota participant who has the highest average after having entered all four of the contests is accorded the title.

Sanderson has taken the lead in this race by posting the highest score in the first contest, but he must now enter the three remaining contests, to be held between now and October 1, and maintain his lead, if he is to win. Quist is not eligible to become Minnesota State champion buttermaker because he lives outside the state.

Bloomington Boy Wins Elks Award

Marc Kolden of Bemidji Wins $500 Scholarship

Bruce Leroy Miller, a Bloomington high school student, Thursday won a $1,000 Minnesota Elks lodge scholarship to train as a teacher.

Miller received his award at an Elks dinner honoring student participants in the Elks scholarship program.

Minnesota State Elks association also presented $900 in scholarships to four other students. Marc Kolden, Bemidji, received $500. Marjorie Edelman, Minneapolis, won $200.

Awards of $100 each went to Kenneth Faacks, New Brighton, and Lee King, St. Paul.

Karen Louise Fischer, Dodge Center, Minn., a University of Minnesota junior, won a $200 scholarship from the association in an award for students already in college.

Why is it that the truth is so painful sometimes?

The hundred-odd companies owning and operating an estimated 198,100 miles of crude oil and products pipe lines transport over one-sixth of the nation's freight-ton miles.

Outside of the military, the use of helicopters for offshore oil and gas development comprises the biggest whirlybird operation in the world.
